NEW MOVE TO ANNEX.

San Pedro Fight Is Not Yet Ended.

Railroad Politicians Now Have a Scheme to Side-Track City Charter.

Senator Savage Expected to Introduce Bill as Edited by Boss Parker.

City Attorney Frowns on the Measure—Would Promote Trolley Extensions.

IT DEVELOPED yesterday that the proposition for the annexation of San Pedro to Los Angeles will bob up again at Sacramento in a new form, and in a way to stir up some more excitement.

The railroad politicians have executed a flank movement.

Senator Savage of Los Angeles and San Pedro is custodian of a compromise bill, which provides that, as a reward to Los Angeles for the surrender of its freeholders' charter, the State Legislature will pass the necessary enabling act for the incorporation of the two cities.

It was this proposed compromise that caused Walter Parker and his faithful mastiff, Benny Cohn, to make a hurried visit to Los Angeles last week to look after their corporation fences. Under its terms Los Angeles and San Pedro would be governed jointly during the next two years by a charter provided by the State Legislature. They would compose a single city under the State municipal corporations act.

A delegation came down Friday from Sacramento to sound business and commercial interests on the proposed compromise. [illegible] they sought to induce City Attorney Hewitt to father the measure. But after giving it a careful consideration Mr. Hewitt declined.

A draft of the proposed bill has been forwarded to Senator Savage. If a satisfactory deal can be made at Sacramento it will be introduced in the Legislature Tuesday.

Advocates of the proposed compromise say that it amounts only to a temporary withdrawal of our freeholders' charter, that the consolidated cities could adopt a new freeholders' charter, and present it to the next Legislature. They point to the fact that Los Angeles needs a new city charter, that the State Constitution was amended last November so as to permit Los Angeles to surrender its present shelf-worn garment, and adopt a new one.

THE NEW PROPOSITION.

The interests that opposed the enabling act for consolidation under our freeholders' charter have offered to accept the charter of Los Angeles as the model for the municipal corporations' act charter, with these important amendments:

There must be no twenty-one-year time limit on franchises.

The initiative, referendum and recall must be discarded.

Expenditures of the Board of Public Works must be made subject to the approval of the Council.

Senator Savage is holding out against the Civil Service Commission, but on this there is a marked division of opinion.

In agreeing to father this compromise Savage thinks he can "square" himself with the Los Angeles constituency that he has outraged. Although commonly referred to as the "San Pedro Senator," Savage owes his election to the vote of nineteen precincts in Los Angeles. More of his constituents live here than in San Pedro.

Savage fought bitterly against civil service when the consolidation amendment was offered to him by the Los Angeles committee. "Three G.A.R. veterans, comrades of mine, were thrown out of their positions in Los Angeles by the civil service," said Savage, "and their places were filled by incompetent sycophants. I'll never stand for extending civil service to San Pedro."

It is the appendages of our present city charter that stand as a barrier to consolidation. Representatives of the Southern Pacific have agreed to the compromise—some say they invented it—to show the people that it is not because the Southern Pacific desires to secure a corner on the harbor that the consolidation bill failed to pass the Senate. They say that the Senate balked at the freak provisions of our freeholder's charter.

Conferences were held by the compromise delegation and the Consolidation Commission in Sacramento last week. The committee representing the commission declined to take any part officially in the compromise. During the last two days conferences have been held with Mayor Harper and with City Attorney Hewitt.

Yesterday these conferences progressed to the extent that there was a lively discussion over the salaries for elective officials in the charter to be provided by the Legislature.

THE PROGRAMME.

According to the programme arranged last night the Senate may pass the enabling bill with or without the consent of the two affected municipalities.

"There is no compulsion about the bill," said an attorney, who favors the compromise, "the Legislature would only pass a statute permitting two incorporated cities to consolidate under a new municipal corporations act. An election would have to be held in each city and each would have to vote in its favor before such compromise could be effected. It would extend an opportunity for the two cities to get together.

"The sentiment freely expressed in Sacramento is that if Los Angeles and San Pedro do not consolidate this time they will not get together for at least fifty years to come. Both are growing to the extent that their interests must either consolidate or become antagonistic. There is no middle course.

"The majority of the State Senators believe that if the people of Los Angeles were to return for two years to a safe and sane charter such as the State Legislature proposes to provide, they would never again wander off after the false gods of socialistic legislation that now adorn our statute books."

Chairman Butler of the Consolidated Commission said yesterday afternoon that the risk of surrendering our freeholders' charter would be greater than the corresponding benefit to be gained by consolidation with San Pedro. Mr. Butler did not enjoy his sojourn among the politicians at Sacramento and he professes little faith in any charter that they could provide.

"Our commission has decided to recommend that the city go ahead with the consolidation election called for March 11," said Mr. Butler. "If the State law is not constitutional let some one else find the flaw. To give up our freeholders' charter now and become a creature of the State Legislature for the sake of consolidation would be too much like surrendering our birthright for—well, say without adequate compensation."

THE FRANCHISE QUESTION.

Suspension of the twenty-one-year time limit on franchises meets with the approval of many business men here. During the last two years there has been no railroad building in Los Angeles. In 1904 we led the large cities of the West in the number of miles of electric street railway built. For the years 1905 and 1906 we were at the foot of the list.

"This feature appeals to me more strongly than any of the others," said a business man, who is classed among the advisors of Mayor Harper. "We have been reaching out during the last two years, and we need a number of additional railway lines, need them badly. I think it might work well if the twenty-one-year time limit were to be abolished, with the understanding that it would be likely to be re-adopted at the end of two years. We might get a number of new lines and the railway companies might pay well for the franchises. I think that would be worth trying."

But the consensus of opinion at the City Hall is apparently against the Savage-S. P. compromise. City Attorney Hewitt has expressed a grave doubt whether the State Constitution would permit Los Angeles to surrender its freeholders' charter and return to a place among the cities governed by the municipal corporations' act.

Attorneys favoring the compromise assert that this can be arranged by acts of the Legislature. They say that opinions of the leading constitutional attorneys of the State all are to the effect that Los Angeles can legally make use of the compromise measure proposed by the State Legislature.

These attorneys assert that, on the other hand, if Los Angeles and San Pedro attempt to incorporate under the present State law they will only succeed in involving the affairs of both in litigation that of itself will prevent the sale of the water bonds which consolidation is supposed to assist.

DEALS DOOM TO HARRISON.

Democratic National Committeeman Decides to Support Dunne for Chicago's Mayor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Apparently the political doom of Carter H. Harrison was sounded this afternoon when National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan and his chief aids at a secret conference decided to give their aid to Mayor Dunne as against the former Mayor. An attempt will be made, however, to have the Democrats unite upon a third man who it is thought can gain the support of a solid Democracy, such as neither Dunne nor Harrison could expect to get in case of nomination.

The conference was held in Sullivan's private office a few hours after his return from New York. Immediately after his arrival Sullivan issued a statement declaring that he would remain neutral until after the primaries and then would ask for the nomination of a man who could hold "the respect of the people and represent all classes fittingly and for the best interests of the party."

FIRE CYCLONES SWEEP SUN.

Pygmy Man Observes Flaming Gas Belching One Hundred Thousand Miles from Orb's Edge.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There are raging cyclones of fire on the surface of the sun. The spots there, which have been visible from the earth for several days, are behaving badly. Great eruptions of glowing gases have been observed by Edwin B. Frost of the Yerkes Observatory at Lake Geneva.

Prof. Frost describes conditions on the sun during the last week as abnormally active. Last Tuesday the large sun spot was of 30,000 miles diameter and the umbra or dark central portion of this spot had a diameter of 15,000 miles. On that day there were six groups of spots visible.

The professor further announces that during the last few days many prominences were observed around the edge of the sun through the spectroscopes of the observatory. From these came the gases. One prominence shot out a distance of nearly 100,000 miles from the edge of the sun, one of the spots wholly disappeared yesterday noon in thirty minutes.

DEATH IN COLLISION.

HELENA (Mont.) Feb. 16.—In a head-on collision this morning at Holkers Spur, thirty-nine miles east of here, on the Northern Pacific, two firemen were killed and their bodies incinerated; an engineer was severely injured and nine other trainmen and passengers hurt.

SCANDALS THREATEN IN RELIEF ACCOUNTS.

Mayor Schmitz, Army Officers and Minor Agents Are Involved.

Taft Recommends Repayment of Value of Liquors Destroyed in Policing Fire-Stricken City — Quartermaster-General Wants to Know What Became of Trainloads of Supplies.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Another scandal is developing in relation to the relief measures taken by the United States government under the authorization of Congress, and the supervision of the War Department, in connection with the earthquake and the succeeding fire at San Francisco last April.

For months there have been charges in circulation of vast discrepancies between the relief funds as authorized and the possible accounting that could be made to counterbalance them. These charges have involved not only the army officials in charge of policing the city and the protection of life and property, but also of city officials, including Mayor Schmitz and other accessory agents.

No accounting has thus far been made of the disposition of the $2,500,000 appropriated for relief work in the time of San Francisco's horror.

ACCOUNTS ARE TANGLED.

It is known that the quartermaster-general's department sent relief trains from various points to the stricken city alleged to have been laden with supplies, medical stores and other necessaries.

There is a persistent rumor in Washington that the accounts are in a bad tangle and that certain discrepancies must be met in some way before the final accounting can be made public.

Secretary Taft, as the head of the War Department, charged officially both with the maintenance of order and safeguarding of lives and property in San Francisco, naturally is in the forefront of this comment and circulation.

It is regarded as remarkable that he should send to Congress at this session an official letter recommending that the loss entailed by saloons and groceries by the destruction of indeterminable amounts of whisky should be repaid out of the relief which he was directed to expend.

TAFT'S RECOMMENDATIONS.

Secretary Taft's letter addressed to Speaker Cannon says in part: "A case was presented to the department which is believed to be worthy of legislative consideration. While efforts were being put forth in the city of San Francisco with a view to check the spread of the fire, the contents of certain saloons and liquor stores, which were located in the path of the conflagration were destroyed as a measure of necessary police precaution.

"The suggestion was approved by the civil and military authorities, and as a result intoxicating liquors to the value of about $30,000 was destroyed by the troops.

"Claims have been submitted by the owners for reimbursement of the value of the property destroyed. I am unable to see, in the view of the circumstances of the case, that the government of the United States is chargeable with any legal responsibility in connection with the destruction of any property, real or personal, under the condition of emergency which existed.

"There remains on hand an unexpended balance of appropriation of which claims can be paid, and it is recommended that authority be granted to allow such claims above referred to as appear to be meritorious."

Secretary Taft's recommendation is now before the Committee on Claims of the House, and it is understood they are contemplating a favorable report.

Rate Discrimination on Cotton Goods to Orient Through Ports of Pacific Slope Is Alleged—Plaintiff Sues Southern and Middle Western Lines for Extortionate Tariffs.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ANGUSTA (Ga.) Feb. 16.—Claims for excess transportation charges aggregating more than a million dollars will be filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission at Washington on Monday by R. J. Southwell of Augusta, who represents five big trading companies of New York as follows: [illegible] Trading Company, Limited; American Trading Company, A. Nordep & Co., Karbering & Co. and Fearon, Daniel & Co. The defendant companies include the Illinois Central, Louisville and Nashville, Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway, Texas and Pacific, Mobile and Ohio, M. K. and T., Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, Oregon Short Line, Canadian Pacific, Great Northern Steamship Company and Occidental and Oriental Steamship Company, besides roads in this section.

The main purpose of the claim is a fight against rate discrimination on cotton goods. The petition shows that from points in eight Southern States to Chinese and Japanese ports the rate is $1.25 per hundred, while from New England cotton manufacturing centers it is 65 cents per hundred. The plaintiffs hope to have these rates equalized, as well as to recover money already paid. Cotton manufacturers here say that if favorable the decision will mean millions of dollars to the South. The South now has three-fourths of the Oriental trade in cotton goods and this is one of the series of moves to bring about uniform conditions.

The ports mentioned in the petition through which it is alleged the rates are excessive are:

Arizona Towns in Grasp of Union Vampire—Employers Resist Invasion of Western Federation—Douglas Smelters May Close.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Whether the great copper camps of the Southwest are to be unionized or not, is the question to be decided in a struggle, which started this week between Bisbee mine owners and the Western Federation of Labor.

Within three days of the announcement of the organization of a branch of the Western Federation in Bisbee—a camp which heretofore has been non-union—eight hundred men were laid off by three big companies of the district, and it is rumored more are to follow.

The Copper Queen let out 500 men, the Calumet and Arizona 200, and the Shattuck 100.

This united action is taken to mean that there is an understanding among the big companies.

Although non-union, Bisbee has always paid wages above the union scale, with an eight-hour day, and no trouble has ever been experienced, except on one occasion, when a similar attempt was made to organize the camp. This was unsuccessful.

Mine owners have said they would rather shut down than allow the federation a foothold there.

Douglas, where Bisbee ores are smelted, is almost in a panic, because of the prospect of shutting down the big smelters there. Four thousand men are affected at Bisbee and 2000 more at Douglas.

Great anxiety is felt in mining circles as to the next move. Federation men are quoted as saying that they intended to proceed with a peaceable, but thorough organization of the camp.

BOYHOOD SIN HAUNTS SLAYER ACROSS SEAS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Ministry of Justice is trying hard to extradite Olinto Riccioni, reputed a millionaire, now in California, accused of murders committed in this country nearly thirty years ago.

The charges against Riccioni are, briefly stated, thus: He was born near Lucca, and when a young man, joined a band of robbers and assassins. He and five of his companions supped together on September 24, 1877, and that night, it is alleged, he killed two carrabinieri in cold-blood, simply to celebrate the occasion. Riccioni fled and was sentenced in contumacy to thirty years banishment, and the galleys.

Recently an Italian who knew Riccioni well as a boy, visited San Francisco, and saw him there. He learned that his former playmate had turned over a new leaf and, by dint of hard, honest work, had amassed a fortune and become one of the commercial magnates of the city.

Nevertheless his former friend informed the authorities of Riccioni's presence in the United States, and they say they confirmed the fact and identified the wealthy merchant and the assassin as one.

Under the Italian law Riccioni will be immune from punishment after his sentence has expired. Hence the feverish haste to extradite him.

OFFICERS PLAY MAD PRANK.

Three of Kaiser Wilhelm's Hussars Galloped Into Ballroom and Terrify Masqueraders.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Three officers of the Kaiser Wilhelm Hussars played a mad and dangerous prank at a masked ball the other night.

When the ballroom was most crowded, the officers, in full uniform, and wearing masks, appeared on horseback at the foot of the stairs and rode up them and among the dancers.

Yelling like Indians, the trio galloped thrice around the great ballroom, while terrified women shrieked and infuriated men cursed. Then they departed as they came. But they challenged to duels three men who tried to stop their wild career, on the ground that they had used insulting language to officers of the Imperial Cavalry.

AMBASSADOR IS LAW AUTHORITY.

BRITAIN'S NEW ENVOY HAS LONG LIST OF HONORS.

James Bryce Times His Coming to Reach Washington Before Adjournment of Congress—Will Be Welcomed at White House and Serve as Valuable Aid to President.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Rt. Hon. James Bryce, D.C.L. The action of the Irish Council in opening the door to home rule undoubtedly will tend to increase his influence.

The Ambassador is accompanied by his wife, and has timed his arrival at Washington so as to be able to attend Congress before its adjournment on March 4. The Hon. James Bryce is recognized as the European authority on the American Constitution.

TO STUDY FOREIGN LIFE.

Japanese Women's College Will Build Dormitory Modeled on European Style.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The University for Women in this city has recently received from friends contributions amounting in the aggregate to 500,000 yen ($250,000.) Two dormitories have been completed and five more are contemplated, one of which is to be in foreign style so as to enable the young women to understand foreign home life. It will be in charge of a foreign woman.

Two laboratories are planned and the curriculum is to be improved. The University, which was founded in 1901, already has an enterprising Alumni Association and the prospects of the institution are promising and encouraging.

TELLS OREGON CAMPAIGN.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The campaign for female suffrage in the State of Oregon was the chief topic of discussion today at the session of the National Women Suffrage Association. Fire Adds Horror to Catastrophe—High Speed Given As Cause.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Sixteen passengers were killed outright, six others had died of their injuries up to midnight, and at least fifty more were more or less seriously injured in the wreck of the White Plains and Brewster Express on the Harlem division of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad near Woodlawn road in the Bronx borough of Greater New York today.

The train left the Grand Central Station at 6:13 o'clock, drawn by two heavy electric motors and loaded with a matinée crowd and commuters on their way home from business in the city. It consisted of a combination baggage and smoking car and five coaches. Stopping at One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street, the train was scheduled to run express to White Plains.

At Woodlawn road the four tracks run through a rocky cut and take a sharp curve. When the train reached the curve it was running at a speed estimated by some at sixty miles an hour.

Both motors and the smoking car swung safely around the curve, but the other cars left the rails and plunged over on their sides with a terrific crash, tearing up the tracks for a hundred yards before they collapsed.

Of those instantly killed by far the greater number were women. Many were mangled beyond recognition.

Those most seriously injured were hurried to hospitals, while coroner's deputies took charge of the dead as fast as bodies were recovered.

FIRE ADDS ITS HORROR.

Fire started in the overturned cars, but the flames were quickly extinguished and the firemen lent their aid to the injured.

Special trains carried many of the injured to White Plains and Mt. Vernon, while others were brought to hospitals in this city.

The rear car, containing more women than the others, suffered the greatest, as it overturned and the breaking of the coupling released it from the cars ahead, and it was literally torn to pieces and scattered for a hundred feet across the Woodlawn avenue. Many passengers, practically uninjured, tumbled from the cars and hurried to telephone, thus summoning aid.

SENATE ADOPTS JAP EXCLUSION REPORT.

President Is Criticised for "Club" Policy—Schmitz Manifesto Now to Be Issued—State's Rights Not Bartered, Says Bassoon Mayor.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After an afternoon of debate in which the President was caustically criticised by Messrs. Culberson, Carmack and Newlands, the Senate this afternoon adopted the conference report on the Immigration Bill, carrying the Japanese exclusion amendment. It remains for the House to agree to the report, which will probably be done Monday; then Mayor Schmitz will issue his "manifesto" on the school question.

A conference was held this evening between Schmitz and his advisers and the members of the California delegation, at which the delegation practically pledged itself to support the action of the School Board.

It was charged in the Senate today by Culberson that the Japanese amendment was part of a deal between the President and California. He declared that the President had all the best of the bargain. The State of California, he declared, had bartered away its sovereign rights for the sake of obtaining the exclusion of the Japanese, and it could not be sure of this exclusion so long as the enforcement of the law was left to the President's discretion.

The President, he added, was being supplied by Congress with a club to hold over the California authorities. If they did not yield their control over the schools, the President would not indorse exclusion.

Senator Carmack denounced the exclusion amendment as part of an iniquitous and unwise bargain between the President and the Californians by which the State was surrendering part of its sovereign rights.

The President's famous axiom, "Speak softly and carry a big stick" was applied in this case so that the soft words were all for the Japanese and the big stick was laid upon the backs of Californians.

He said the President's attitude toward the Japanese was subservient and almost pusillanimous.

Senator Newlands spoke in the same vein, asserting that the President arraigned the sentiment of the Pacific Slope, arraigned the local authorities for exercising the power which was theirs as a local sovereignty, and added fuel to the flame by insisting upon it that the Japanese people should not only be permitted to come here practically without restriction, but that they should be admitted to citizenship in the United States. He has thus created a movement upon the Pacific Coast that will not rest until it ends in Japanese exclusion.

After declaring that the "closed door" in the Philippines was the real cause of friction with Japan, Senator Newlands said:

"I do not intend to enlarge upon the difficulties of the situation, though a vast field of discussion is opened as to the future regarding the relations between Japan and this country, particularly if we retain our possessions in the Orient. Friendship with Japan, if we retain them, is essential, and we never shall be able to retain them if Japan says 'No.' We shall not be able to retain them because they are a thousand miles away from our base of operations; we shall not be able to retain them because to fortify them would invoke a greater expenditure than would be involved in the fortification of the entire country of the United States; we shall not be able to retain them because our transports carrying our men there to defend them will be cut down in mid-ocean.

"I suggest to the President of the United States, if a suggestion can reach him from this chamber, that he address himself to the real cause of the future trouble between Japan and this country."

As a result of the President's action, ignoring the California delegation in the school conferences, both Senators were able to deny on the floor that they had participated in any deal in which the rights of the State were to be bartered away for Japanese exclusion.

After tonight's conference between the delegation and school authorities, several varying statements were given by both sides.

Mayor Schmitz declared that the Occidental school was not to be abolished, but he admitted that concessions were to be made.

He gave the impression that the board would issue a manifesto, declaring that it had not surrendered, but that, as soon as public feeling was diverted, Japanese school children would be quietly admitted into the white schools. He insisted that the State's rights had not been bartered away.

The delegation is in an embarrassing position, and is practically forced to stand by the Schmitz agreement with the President. The Californians, in other words, are glad to get the exclusion amendment through at any price, believing the people will calm down when they realize that the Japanese are to be kept out.

JAPS ARE DISPLEASED.

STATESMEN FAVOR MEASURE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOKIO, Feb. 16.—(Afternoon.) The projected amendments in the American Immigration Law involving a restriction upon Japanese labor immigration to the United States from the Hawaiian Islands, are naturally received here with great displeasure, but the well-informed fail, under existing circumstances, to find grounds for complaint at this action of the American government. The Council of Elder Statesmen and Cabinet ministers today showed no concern whatever over the diplomatic situation.

SENATE DEBATES EXCLUSION BILL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—During consideration of the Immigration Bill in the Senate today Senator Tillman interrupted to read Senator Hale's statement condemning the conferees on the Rate Bill for bringing in new matter which he concluded by saying:

"I shall be woefully, woefully disappointed if the Senator from Maine does not stand by his wise and proper decision last June."

Hale replied that the Senator had no ground to say he had changed his attitude.

Then Tillman referred to a private conversation he had had with Hale, from which he had understood that the Senator was going to vote for the report. He said that he had no suspicion that the Senator from Maine would talk one way privately, and another way publicly.

"The Senator grows more and more offensive," retorted Hale. "He has no right to intimate that I have said anything to him on this proposition in any way as indicating how I should vote."

Tillman resented being lectured. He expressed regret that he had created any unpleasantness and offered to withdraw if he could honorably, anything he had said. This Hale did not desire.

In opposing the passport clause Senator Culberson referred to the California Japanese situation.

"This situation has become acute," he said, "because the President in his message to Congress has seen fit to misstate the situation in California in the interest of the Japanese. And the Japanese, taking their cue from the President, assert a claim that great injustice has been done to them on the Pacific Coast.

"In each of his messages the President has misstated the situation to the effect that the Japanese had been denied the privilege of education when the truth is that they had only been denied the right to attend school with white children."

The situation that will arise from the adoption of the provision, Culberson said, would be this:

"The President will have authority to exclude Japanese laborers and coolies and he will hold that authority and the exercise of it in abeyance and over the heads of the California authorities and will keep out the laborers and coolies provided the civil authorities of California will admit Japanese children indiscriminately to enter the public schools of San Francisco."

When Culberson asked if that was the understanding, Senator Flint replied:

"As far as I am concerned, I know of no agreement between the California delegation and the President with reference to the adjustment of the school matter. I have not been a party to any such agreement nor attended any conference between the California delegation and the Secretary of State and the President."

Senator Perkins said he wished to make the same statement, and added that he believed the newspaper reports of an agreement had been overdrawn.

The agreement, Culberson said, seemed to be with the Mayor and the school board of San Francisco, and not with the California delegation in Congress. It was, he contended, a surrender of the sovereign rights of California. He made an appeal for the enactment of a positive provision excluding the Japanese.

Carmack stated that he agreed with Senator Culberson, and said:

"I believe that the effect is that a foreign power has brow-beaten the government of the United States, and brow-beaten a sovereign State into a surrender of rights.

"The action of this government toward California has been harsh and turbulent and offensive to the last degree. Its attitude toward Japan has been cringing, obsequious and almost pusillanimous. One of the President's aphorisms is to speak softly and carry a big stick. He seems to have interpreted that in this instance so as to speak softly to foreign nations, and carry a big stick for the backs of his own people. I object to this provision, because I believe that it will, and that it is intended, to arm the Executive with a power to coerce the people of a sovereign State into a surrender of a right to control their own affairs, and this is being done on the demand of a nation made without a shade of reason, without a shadow of right, without a shadow of foundation based on any treaty stipulation or the Constitution of the United States."

Senator Newlands declared President Roosevelt to be largely responsible for the Japanese situation. "He has created a movement on the Pacific Coast that will not rest until it ends in Japanese exclusion," he said, and predicted that the United States would not be able to retain the Philippine Islands unless "we retain the friendship of Japan."

Senator Lodge asked for a ruling on his point of order against the resolution, instructing the conferees to bring in a resolution positively excluding Japanese laborers from the country, offered yesterday by Senator Culberson.

The Vice-President sustained the point, and Senator Carmack appealed from the ruling of the chair.

A roll call was had on the motion which Lodge at once made to lay the appeal on the table. The vote was 45 to lay on the table and 24 in the negative. The chair was sustained by a practically party vote. Senator McEnery of Louisiana voted with the Republicans, and Senator La Follette with the Democrats. The conference report was then adopted without a roll call.

DENOUNCE COMPROMISE.

WARN SCHMITZ TO STAY AWAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—City Attorney Burke, denouncing the action of Mayor Schmitz, "in effecting any compromise on the Japanese school question," declares that "if the Mayor has made the agreement that he is reported to have made with the President, the dearest rights of the American people have been sold."

Labor leaders, especially those represented in that wing of local organized labor known as the Japanese and Korean Exclusion League, view with keen disaffection the generally shared belief that in helping to effect a settlement of the question Mayor Schmitz and his board of education conferees have compromised the claims of San Francisco which they went to Washington to present.

A. H. Yoell, seretary of the league, is quoted as saying in an address tonight:

"If Mayor Schmitz has made any agreement by which Japanese children are to be allowed to attend the same schools as American children it will be better for him not to come back to San Francisco. Such an agreement would be betraying the trust that people have put in him and I believe they would stone him in the streets when he returns here."

Annie Morehead is said to have belonged in Fitchburg, Mass. She died at the hospital.

SUPERINTENDENT'S STATEMENT.

General Superintendent Ira McCormick of the road said tonight:

"As far as the investigation has gone it intends to show that a segment of the third rail spread and becoming detached shot into the air like a spring, looking much like a pole which one would thrust into the ground at a slight angle.

"This segment end evidently ripped through the bottom of the second coach, the combination baggage car and smoker, thus diverting the course of the train. The car whirled about fifty yards after this accident and leaving the tracks, tumbled over, causing the disaster. We shall make further investigation and place the responsibility."

CAUSE IS UNKNOWN.

The cause of the wreck was not officially determined tonight. At the Grand Central station there was an inclination to blame the accident to spreading rails, but later it was said that it was believed that the axle of the first passenger coach broke.

Leonard B. Greene of White Plains, who occupied a seat in the smoker directly behind the second motor, told the story of the train's approach to the Woodlawn road curve. It was traveling at terrific speed, according to Mr. Greene, though railroad men estimated by the distance the overturned cars were carried, that the train was making between forty and forty-five miles an hour.

"I remarked on the speed," said Mr. Greene, "when we hit that curve and we instinctively stopped playing cards and looked back. Suddenly the car lurched to one side. In a moment we broke loose from the rest of the train, and we could see the rear cars turning over."

Stories by other survivors were similar. Dismembered bodies were strung along for a distance of 100 yards. One woman was impaled on a huge splinter from a railroad tie. Although the scene of the wreck was in the heart of a thickly populated section it was some time before near-by residents reached the scene. For a time only one physician could be secured. Later aid came without stint.

CORONER'S STATEMENT.

Shortly after midnight Coroner Schwannecker made a statement in which he said:

"I have taken possession of one of the rails and shall hold it for a technical examination. In my preliminary investigation I found a defect in this rail which indicated, in my opinion, the place where a big wheel, probably one of the drive wheels of the electric engine, hit the rail at a point almost dirctly under the Woodlawn bridge. This rail has a clearly defined indentation."

A sheet of electric flame that originated from the disaster enveloped the rear car, and for a moment threatened to roast the victims pinioned in the débris. The flames did not, however, spread, and the horror of a holocaust was averted. As the cars fell they smashed the third rail and caused much danger.

In the crash, however, there was death for many, while practically every one in the four coaches received injuries of some sort. Many were ground to pieces, and for hours identification was almost hopeless. As the cars went over many of the passengers were thrown into or through the windows, and cut and maimed.

Indentation of the track shows where some heavy object dropped on it. The theory is that the dropping of this heavy object on the rail caused it to spread. One witness says that while passing at a point almost under the bridge he felt the train rise up off the tracks, and it seemed to "fly through the air."

The Coroner ordered the arrest of Engineer Williams and his assistant, Stansfield. The engineer was held without bail and his assistant paroled.

Speculation as to the speed of the train when it struck the curve was general among the survivors of the wreck tonight, but there was little on which to base their estimate.

According to railroad men who have watched the train pass this point, the express usually reaches the curve ten minutes after drawing out of the station at 125th street. The distance between the two points is about six miles.

NOTED ENGINEER DIES.

Myron E. Evans, one of the killed, was president of the Cape Breton Railroad Limited, and one of the best-known consulting engineers in the country. He was considered the greatest expert upon Canadian railroad property in the country.

STEAMER STRANDS.

VICTORIA (B. C.) Feb. 16.—The steamer Portland, on her way from Alaska for Seattle, stranded this morning near Nanaimo. She was floated, but made water rapidly through a hole in the forepeak and was run on the beach at Gabriela Island to avoid foundering. The vessel is easy on a good beach with water reaching to her engine-room plates. The steamer has fifteen passengers and 200 tons of ore on board.

TROOPS ALL WITHDRAWN.

TOKIO, Feb. 17.—It has been learned that the Japanese government, in replying to Russia's notice of withdrawal of troops from Manchuria forthwith, called attention to the fact that Japan had effected nearly a complete withdrawal during the last year and was even now contemplating the reducing of its railway guards to a minimum.

DEFENSE MAY GIVE CASE TO HARTRIDGE.

Thaw May Drop Delmas When the Trial Resumes Monday—Bereaved Juror Will Serve to Save State Expense of Second Hearing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The Tribune tomorrow will say unusual developments in the case of Harry K. Thaw are expected tomorrow morning, when the trial will be resumed. It is learned on good authority that in all probability Delphin M. Delmas, the lawyer from San Francisco, who has been conducting the examination of witnesses, will be dropped from the defense and Clifford W. Hartridge, the attorney of record, will assume active charge. As for Henry Clay McPike, partner of Mr. Delmas, it is understood he has never been regularly retained as counsel and hereafter will have nothing to do with the case.

The dropping of Delmas, although not positively determined upon, is as certain as it can be before a conference which is scheduled for Sunday, when the other counsel and the family will discuss the question. The decision came after a conference of all the lawyers yesterday, which lasted all the afternoon and until 7 o'clock last night, and then was interrupted only for dinner, and continued until late in the day.

For some time it is understood the colleagues of Delmas have been much dissatisfied with printed interviews purporting to come from him. Counsel believed that these interviews were gross breaches of professional etiquette. The climax was reached Friday and yesterday.

McPike, supposedly one of counsel, issued a statement Friday in which he severely criticised the court and Dist.-Atty. Jerome. Later he denied the interview despite the statment of two reporters.

Yesterday Delmas followed up the interview with a typewritten statement, which he gave exclusively to one newspaper. Hartridge happened to hear of this interview and a hurried gathering of counsel resulted. They went in a body to Delmas's office to demand an explanation. The reporter who had received the interview was present. Delmas, it is understood, denied making it.

BEREAVED JUROR TO SERVE.

TRIAL TO CONTINUE MONDAY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw will be resumed before Justice Fitzgerald Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Funeral services were held today for the wife of Juror Joseph B. Bolton, and it was said afterward that the juryman had expressed his readiness to resume his place in the Thaw jury.

Bolton feels that it is a conscientious duty for him to hear the Thaw case to the end. If he had dropped out it would have meant the loss of many thousands of dollars to the State and to the Thaw family. A mistrial would have been declared, and four weeks further time would have been wasted.

Aside from the routine expenses of the jury, and without fees, the Thaw trial is costing the State a sum almost equal to that which is being spent by the defense in an attempt to prove that the young man was insane when he shot Stanford White. Dist.-Atty. Jerome has employed three of the most eminent alienists of the country, and their fees alone will make the case rival in cost the famous Molineux hearings.

Thaw was much relieved today when told that the Bolton family physician had informed Dist.-Atty. Jerome that the juryman would be able to resume. The prisoner had been apprehensive, since the first intimation of Mrs. Bolton's serious illness was received, that there might be a mistrial.

Both he and his attorneys are anxious that nothing shall prevent the case running its course. Thaw's counsel believe their case to be in excellent shape.

Jerome expressed willingness to join with the defense in asking for the appointment of a commission to determine Thaw's present state of mind, but defense will continue its endeavor to show that while Thaw was explosively insane at the time he killed White, and while the effects of the "brain storm" were apparent in him for three months, his improvement has been so great since October 1, that he is today of perfectly sound mind.

The Thaw jurors, when under examination as talesmen, were asked if they would give the defendant the benefit of the same reasonable doubt as to his sanity or insanity as they would to the question of guilt or innocence. In every case the jurors said they would.

Dr. Charles G. Warner and Dr. Britton D. Evans, the two alienists who have offered evidence as to Thaw's state of mind at the time of the homicide, have yet to be cross-examined by Jerome.

If, after the cross-examination, the reasonable doubt as to Thaw's soundness of mind on June 23 still exists, the defense will try to show that Thaw at the present time is sane and entitled to absolute freedom. This is believed by many to be the most difficult part of the task confronting the defendant's attorneys.

Graeme M. Hammond, who has been constantly beside the prisoner since the trial began, is expected to testify as to Thaw's present mental condition. He was not with Dr. Evans and Dr. Wagner during their visits. There may be additional technical testimony along this line.

While the defense apparently seems to be nearing its close, there is so much actual work yet to be done that it is difficult to forecast just when Thaw's attorneys will rest and when Jerome will begin the rebuttal testimony.

Dr. Evans was on the stand and about to relate certain conversations he had with Thaw in the Tombs during his first three visits when court adjourned Thursday. It is presumed that he will resume Monday morning. It was intimated today, however, that Dr. Evans may be withdrawn to allow Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw to conclude her evidence. The defense has the right to recall Mrs. Thaw at any time it considers it has placed before the jury sufficient testimony as to Thaw's insanity to permit of the introduction of further revelations made to him by his wife, and by his statements to her in return.

As matters stand, the principal witnesses for the defense have not finished their direct testimony. Mrs. Thaw has much to tell, and Dr. Wagner and Dr. Evans are to be called for further direct questioning. Mrs. William Thaw, the defendant's mother, also remains to be heard.

Rumors that Dist.-Atty. Jerome may yet apply for a commission to test Thaw's sanity, still prevails, in spite of the frank statement issued by the District Attorney's office yesterday. The latest report is that he will develop in the cross-examination of Drs. Wagner and Evans, the grounds for asking the court to appoint such a commission. If it should be decided that Thaw is sane, the trial would be resumed, but if he should be declared of unsound mind, he would be taken to an asylum for the criminal insane at once.

When court adjourned last Thursday Justice Fitzgerald released the jurors from custody "until Monday morning." It is not likely that the jurors will again be held in close confinement.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Announcement was made today that the Princeton Club had decided to lease the home of the late Stanford White, in Gramercy Park, as its clubhouse. The White house is a large building well adapted to the needs of a social club.

In addition to this house, the club will obtain by lease the building at No. 119 East Twenty-first street. The two buildings will be made into one.

LETTERS TO PROBE INSANITY.

JEROME MAY USE THEM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16.—J. D. Lyon, vice-president of the United National Bank, has a bundle of letters written by Harry Thaw to the bank ready to forward to William N. Penney, New York, which he promised to do at the court's discretion. It is said Dist.-Atty. Jerome hopes to be able to prove by these letters that Thaw was sane during the period in which he wrote the letters, dating back three years and covering correspondence to the present time.

MARDI GRAS A RED CARNIVAL.

MASKED RUFFIANS TERRORIZE PEOPLE OF PARIS.

Thieves and Slum-Habitues Mingle With Gay Revelers of the Boulevards and at Point of Knives Rob Helpless Victims—Rowdyism Rampant—Law Is Blamed.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Mardi Gras carnival this year was red, indeed; so red that it is not unlikely that these traditional fetes will be forbidden hereafter.

From Sunday to Wednesday innumerable murderous attacks were made all over Paris by ruffians from the city's lowest quarters, on hilarious and unsuspecting revelers.

The murderous thieves wore masks, as the law permits during carnival times. In bands they sought the boulevards, mingled with the gay crowd, cornered a victim, and, at the point of their knives, demanded money from him. If he dared to refuse, they stabbed him, or throttled and robbed him; then vanished in safety, for it was impossible to identify them.

Rowdyism, in all its phases, was rampant on the boulevards, where, only two years ago, all classes mingled in gay battle with confetti with perfect humor and mutual respect.

The police are much blamed for this scandalous end to the festivities, but Prefect of Police Sepine retorts: "The law alone is to blame, which allows crowds of masked men to assemble. The society of today has outgrown an amusement so childlike; it belongs to a golden age now past."

STATE DISPENSARY GOES.

COLUMBIA (S. C.) Feb. 16.—The House of Representatives today adopted the report of the Conference Committee on the Local Option Bill. The report was also adopted by the Senate and the act will be signed by the Governor at once, the State dispensary thus passing out of existence today.

A SUCCESSFUL WOMAN DEALS IN REALTY.

Mrs. Cooper Tells What a Business Woman Can Do in Real Estate.

It is only four years since Mrs. Aimee Cooper arrived in Los Angeles from her old home in Detroit, Mich. In that time she has developed into one of the most successful real estate experts in Southern California.

Her transactions have reached into the tens of thousands in all classes of property—city, country and beach; improved and unimproved. Her knowledge of values is accounted something marvelous, but she asserts it is only due to her persistent efforts in learning at first hand, the price of property and its advantages in each section.

Month after month she has driven her beautiful horse Robin—which she shipped here from Detroit—on every street in the city, making inquiries right and left. She has traversed the country from Santa Ana to San Fernando, from the mountains to the sea, and is as well acquainted with the large, fertile fruit-growing valleys of San Gabriel and San Fernando (in many instances being a better judge of conditions and values) as the residents thereof.

All this has been gained by persistent study and comparison, and is now being turned into profit not only to herself but her clients. Every deal that she has been interested in has been entirely satisfactory to buyer and seller. With strong and quick perspective qualities and the intensity of her mental force she readily sizes up the desirability of a piece of property and its probable future valuation.

Visiting her office, 507 Delta Building, 428 South Spring street, one meets a blue-eyed woman with dark hair, clear-cut features and a little above the average height. She impresses at once with her matchless decision, courtesy and versatile conversation, and no one would guess this young-looking, bright-eyed woman to be the mother of a grown-up son and daughter.

Mrs. Cooper has been practically a life-long business woman and has bought thousands of dollars worth of goods in the Eastern marts. She came to California to enjoy life, to live at home, for she states, "I prefer my home to business," but family adversities carried away the ample fortune after her arrival here. She bravely turned to work at her new profession in the city she loves so well—Los Angeles—and today she finds herself on a solid foundation with a bright future in front of her.

Mrs. Cooper deals largely with women. To put the statement in her own words, "I meet many women with money who do not care to give it to men to invest, but are perfectly willing to intrust it to one of their own sex if that one is a conscientious and capable buyer. With my early training, my many years experience in business and my knowledge of realty conditions in this section I know exactly what can be accomplished, and my efforts along the line I have pursued, having the best interests of my clients at heart lead me to believe I am correct. I shall continue to follow my work by doing something just a little better than my preceeding transaction. Ladies are at liberty at all times to call and make my office their headquarters. They will ever be welcome, and any business placed with me will receive my closest and most careful attention."

Enthusiasm and tact are the most potent factors in the achievement of sucess, and this lady has these qualities in a high degree and will cretainly make a high mark in any community and in any profession she enters.

This confession states that on his way home from Phillips's house, Tyler met Adams and two other men. That they took him to a cabin and kept him there over night, urging him to leave the country; that in the morning he was given no breakfast, but was taken to the top of a hill and told to walk on ahead, and that as he walked away, Adams took his rifle and shot him dead.

Mrs. Thomas, mother of the murdered man, was called as the first witness. She is expected to testify as to his taking up the claim, and as to the identification of his body.

MYSTERY IS SOLVED.

AUTOMOBILISTS CONFESS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The mystery surrounding the killing of William Dreyer, who was run down by a speeding automobile, three miles north of Kenosha, Wis., at midnight, July 24, last, was suddenly cleared yesterday when two of the three men who were in the car which struck and mangled the man told the story of the affair in the courtroom at Kenosha.

As a result of their testimony, Edward Collier, a former bicycle racer, and later noted as an automobile expert, was arrested, charged with manslaughter. He gave bond and was released.

The result of five months' persistent work by Dist.-Atty. Baker was achieved when Frank L. Jackson, son of the late Johnson A. Jackson, a member of one of the prominent families of Kenosha, and Shelley Montgomery, son of E. W. Montgomery, a wealthy Galena, Ill., lumberman, broke down and confessed.

BANDIT DEFIES RANGERS.

PREFERS DEATH TO CAPTURE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Tell the rangers I will never be taken alive, but will die fighting them."

This message was delivered to Capt. F. Fornoff of the New Mexico Mounted Police by Gabriel Romero, through Juan Gomez, a convict, cattle rustler and horse thief, who escaped three weeks ago from the prison here, but who surrendered. He said Romero, a horse thief and bad man who escaped with him, sent the message back from the mountains. Rangers are pursuing Romero, who is well armed and mounted, and who is desperate.

While serving a term in prison here he escaped and was only then retaken after being shot down by a guard and desperately wounded.

The rangers say they will kill him. Gomez is gaunt from hunger and exposure in the hills. Romero is in the hills of Guadalupe county. Capt. Fornoff has sent rangers after him with orders to take him dead or alive.

BLACKSMITHS STRIKE.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—Today ends the first week of a strike of boilermakers, blacksmiths and helpers upon the Gould system of railroads, and 1100 blacksmiths and helpers have walked out of the shops on the Iron Mountain & Missouri Pacific.

According to notices posted by the general manager, the strikers will be given until next Monday to return to work, and after that date those who have failed to do so will no longer be considered employés. The officials of the union claim they have not lost a moment and do not know of one who will weaken when the real test of "loyalty" comes, next Monday.

The strike is said by the railroad management to be the first step in a general movement for a wage increase on Western and Southwestern lines.

GIRLS GET MORE PAY.

BUTTE, Feb. 16.—The strike of the girl operators in the employ of the Rock Mountain Bell Telephone Company was settled last night and the operators resumed work this morning. Compromise was effected by the Butte Central Labor Council, at the assembly of the affiliated Blue Label unions. The girls get an increase of $6 per month and all their other demands are granted.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BUTTE (Mont.) Feb. 16.—The newspaper publishers of Butte and Anaconda, at a conference this morning with a committee from the Allied Printing Trades Council, announced their willingness to arbitrate all differences with the striking pressmen, stereotypers and printers connected with the Butte and Anaconda papers.

In a statement addressed to the unions the publishers stated their willingness for arbitration at any time, with a view to bringing about a speedy and amicable settlement of the controversy. The publishers state that all they seek is the opportunity of being able to conduct their business on a parity with newspapers in other cities, a condition which they are not now able to do because of alleged restrictions of the printing crafts.

LETTER CARRIERS QUIT.

DEMAND MORE WAGES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The letter carriers' situation in Butte, Mont., is causing serious concern to the officials of the Postoffice Department. The department is powerless to increase the pay of the twenty-nine carriers because the existing law forbids more than $850 per annum in offices of the class to which Butte belongs.

The carriers declare they cannot live on the salaries now paid them or on the salaries which are promised on the pending Postoffice Appropriation Bill, and therefore tender their resignations.

SACRAMENTO.

UP GOES THE SALARY LIST.

County Expenses Increased Hndred Thousand.

Not a Single Department Is Overlooked.

More Places Provided at the Pie Counter.

BY B. FRANK GREAVES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Something like $100,000 a year is the increase in the running expenses of Los Angeles county, approved by the delegation from that section in the County Government Bill that was introduced in the Assembly today by Thompson and in the Senate by Carter. Phenomenal increase in business, utter inadequacy of the present forces and the need of better salaries to obtain good men are given as the reasons for the rather stunning advance. Supported by the majority of the home delegation, the bill undoubtedly will pass.

No department of the county government has been overlooked. Every request for a "raise" has been considered, although each one has been trimmed to a certain extent.

At first blush the most remarkable circumstance is the fact that County Assessor Ward, elected on the Non-Partisan and Democratic tickets, has been allowed almost everything he asked of the Republican legislators. It is not so strange when it is remembered that the "machine" some time expects again to gain control of the office, and that if the Assessor be denied sufficient help, the revenue of the county will not increase as it should.

Salaries of two principals have been increased, ineffective, of course, for four years because of the law that prevents a raise in the compensation of an elective officer during his term. These two are the District Attorney and the Superintendent of Schools. After the first Monday in January, 1911, these offices will pay, respectively, $5000 and $3600 per annum, an increase of $1000 for the District Attorney and of $600 for the School Superintendent.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S PORTION.

The most important increase in salary concerns the office of the District Attorney. Yearly compensation has been fixed at a figure that is expected to attract lawyers of considerable standing to the office. At present the inducements are slight, the emoluments being on a par with those of bookkeepers and stenographers.

Dist.-Atty. Fredericks succeeded in gaining much that he sought. He did not ask for and cannot benefit by the increase in the salary of the head of the office, but he is to have an assistant at $275 a month, a chief deputy at $250, four deputies at $225, four at $200, a clerk at $150, two detectives at $135, two process servers at $100, two stenographers, one at $150 and one at $100, and a messenger at $80.

The $275 job will go to Frank Blair. Hartley Shaw will benefit by the increase from $200 to $250 a month, and, instead of six deputies at $150 a month, there will be four at $225 and four at $200. There willi be two detectives at $135 each instead of one at $100. One of the two stenographers will be raised from $100 to $150.

ALL DEPUTIES GET MORE.

Throughout the Courthouse, the salaries of chief deputies are to be increased to $175 a month, the prevailing figure being $150. There has been a general increase in the pay of other deputies, those who have received $10 a month are to have $110, those scheduled now at $115 will get $125.

The County Clerk will have a cashier and book-keeper at $150 a month, a new position. The clerk of the Board of Supervisors is to have $150 instead of $125. The deputy court clerks will receive $125 instead of $115. A number of deputies will be added to the staff at $100 a month.

The salary of the under sheriff is fixed at $200 a month, an increase of $50; the Sheriff's book-keeper gets a raise from $125 to $150; two deputies now receiving $125 will receive $135, and there are to be fourteen deputy sheriffs instead of the present ten at $100.

NO REDUCTION ANYWHERE.

The Recorder is to have a new deputy at $135. He will have seven deputies at $110 instead of four at $100; also twenty at $100, instead of ten at the same figure.

Allowances for the Auditor have been almost doubled. A number of deputies being added and increases in salary being general.

All of the salaries in the Collector's office have been raised, the minimum now being $100 instead of $90, while a large number of new places have been created. Where four clerks at present are allowed for a period of six months each year at $90 a month, there are to be eighty for the same length of time at $3.50 a day. Instead of forty-five clerks for four months at $90, there are to be sixty-five for six months at $3.50 a day.

Assessor Ward is given practically everything he has asked for, including increases in salaries and additions to his force.

CORONER GETS HIS.

An important change has been made in the Coroner's office in that the $200 position created two years ago for John W. Summerfield is hereafter to be filled by a man who shall in reality be a deputy coroner. Summerfield, who is so good a "push" man that jobs always are being created for him, was put in as stenographer at $200 a month, although he had to learn the trade after he got into the place. Now the place has been fitted to the qualifications of Clyde Sage, Dr. Lanterman's chief deputy, who cannot write shorthand. A garden variety of stenographer is to be employed at $100 a month, and the Coroner's clerk is to receive $125, the monthly increase in the office being $126.

The Public Administrator's deputy is to receive an increase from $100 to $150 a month, the only change in the office.

The County Health Officer, four years hence, will receive $1500 instead of $1200 per annum.

In addition to the future raise of the salary of the Superintendent of Schools, that official is to have two assistants at $175 a month, instead of one at $150; two deputies at $125 and two at $100.

Surveyor Noble will have a chief deputy at $250, an increase of $75, and will have fifteen deputies, who shall be draughtsmen, at salaries ranging from $90 to $150. At present he has ten deputies, who receive from $80 to $125.

Substantial increases are made in the office of the Board of Supervisors, and as fixed by the Legislature two years ago, the salaries of the supervisors after January 1, 1909, are to be increased.

Down at the bottom of the list is fixed the compensation of the township justices, who hereafter are to number four, instead of two. They are to receive $3000 each per annum, and the county is to pay the rent of their office rooms. At present the two justices retain all fees received and pay their own expenses. The Suprvisors will appoint the new justices, and will appoint a clerk for each court at $100 a month.

Constables De la Monte and Cleveland will be allowed two deputies each at $100 a month.

HEARING FOR HIGHWAYS.

Bill Framed by Los Angeles County Men to Be With Committees Tomorrow.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] For the purposes of considering the bill framed by the good roads promoters of Los Angeles county, the Senate and Assembly Committees on Rules and Highways will hold a joint meeting Monday noon. Hartley Shaw and F. W. Blanchard will appear at the meeting in support of the merits of the Los Angeles plan.

That the Broughton county division bill will cause dissension on the floor of the Senate, at least, was indicated today, when the bill came up for the second reading. Senator Walker of Santa Clara county disapproved of the bill, as amended, and moved that a number of changes be made. He desires that proposed new counties shall have a population of at least 10,000, whereas the Broughton bill fixes the minimum at 6000. Senator Leavitt of Alameda county said he also had additional amendments to offer.

No action was taken on the protests today, the matter going over until the bill shall come up for a third reading and passage, early next week.

JURY TO PROBE REIGN OF VICE.

STATE'S ATTORNEY WILL EXPOSE CHICAGO POLITICIANS.

Great Mass of Evidence Is Collected Showing Alleged Partnership of Mayor Dunne and Chief of Police Collins With Law Violators of Windy City.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mayor Dunne and Chief of Police Collins may have to answer to the next grand jury for their refusal or inability to stop gambling and close the brothels that infest Chicago. The Mayor and the Chief take great pains to deny daily rumors that gamblers or any other votaries of vice are working openly at their trades in this city, but a mass of evidence has been prepared by the State's Attorney and by a prominent Reform Association in an effort to prove that he City Hall officials are misrepresenting the facts and that dens of painted women abound, while gambling is easy.

The February grand jury will meet Monday. This grand jury will resume the inquiry into the reasons why the Mayor and the Chief of Police are unwilling or unable to fulfill their oaths of office and drive gamblers and other lawbreakers from the city, or else crowd the prisons, jail and the Bridewell with them.

Since the last grand jury adjourned after delivering its scathing denunciation of Mayor Dunne and Chief Collins for their failure to enforce the laws, investigators working for the State's Attorney have been busy collecting evidence of public wrongs of which the January grand jurors complained bitterly.

The Mayor and his Chief joined in attempting to ridicule the action of the last grand jury, stating that grand juries are becoming "mere lecturing bodies."

FLASHES FROM WIRES.

Through the windows and doors of a burning Chicago street car, charged with electricity, a score of passengers made their way Friday night, several being injured. The motor on one of the Harrison Center lines exploded. Electricity spread to several electric conductors in the car and set fire to the clothing of four of the passengers. Men struggled with women in their effort to reach the door. Others smashed the windows, and in jumping to the ground were injured. Several of the passengers were shop girls returning from work.

The private art collection of Augustus Healy of Brooklyn, consisting of ninety-five oil paintings and water colors were sold at auction Friday, at Mendelssohn Hall. The pictures brought $75,000.

The British steamer Heliopolis has been chartered to convey 2000 Spanish emigrants to Honolulu. David Bruce & Co., ship brokers of London, in a letter to Lloyds Gazette, says they arranged the charter "in behalf of the American government," but it is stated the Spaniards are being engaged by Hawaiian sugar interests to replace Japanese laborers.

The Poles in Prussian Poland, encouraged by their victory in the Reichstag elections, are planning a demonstration against the government. NEED HELP OF NEWSPAPERS.

Overstreet Not Afraid of Railroad Threats.

Second-Class Mail Laws Declared Ancient.

Small Routes Not Injured by Proposed Change.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—In the discussion of the Postoffice Appropriation Bill in the House today Representative Overstreet said the committee had reached the conclusion that a reduction in the railway mail service was absolutely necessary.

"The railroads are trying to stampede the House," he said, "yet there is not a scintilla of evidence to show that the reduction is excessive.

"The postal service will not be impaired in the slightest degree, and not a train will be cut off, notwithstanding the threats of the railroad companies.

"There has not been a telegram received by the members of this House from a business concern or a commercial body which has not been prompted by the railroads, and for one I refuse to be stampeded by their threats or deflected by their entreaties."

"A united press is more powerful than Congress," said Overstreet in discussing the report of the Postoffice Committee on second-class matter, but he added that it was with great regret that he observed an absence of fair investigation on the part of certain newspapers in criticising the findings of the commission.

"We will never be able, in my judgment, to reach any kind of satisfactory adjustment of the great problem of second-class matter of mail unless we can have the coöperation of the great press, daily and periodical. It is in the interest of those enterprises that legislation is needed. The antiquated laws of today are scarcely enforceable."

Representative Murdock of Kansas declared that the railroad mail routes could be divided into two classes, the large and the small. More than 90 per cent. of the mail, he said, is carried over the large routes. Small routes will not, he declared, be affected by the change in the divisor, in computing the average daily weight, from a seven to a six-day-per-week service.

General debate on the bill was not concluded when the House adjourned.

FIFTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

CLOSING SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—SENATE.—The administration plan to settle the California-Japanese situation was approved in the Senate today by the adoption of the Senate committee report on the Immigration Bill. This report contains a provision which authorizes the President to exclude Japanese laborers from the United States at his discretion. The report will now go to the House for its approval, which it has been stated is assured.

The entire day was devoted to debate on the report. The opposition presented as an alternative plan a resolution instructing the conferees to bring in a provision positively prohibiting the entrance of Japanese laborers.

The Rivers and Harbors Appropriation Bill was reported to the Senate today. It carries $92,720,472, an increase of $8,519,334 over the amount appropriated by the House. The appropriation immediately available is $40,081,908, and the aggregate for projects authorized $52,638,564. No appeal was made to create a deep waterway from Chicago to St. Louis.

HOUSE.—The Postoffice Appropriation Bill was taken up today by the House, but general debate was not concluded. During the morning the House passed a number of bills, among them a measure permitting the special delivery of letters carrying ordinary stamps, also a bill limiting to January 1, 1909, the operation of acts to reimburse the governors of States and Territories for expenses incurred in aiding the United States to raise troops in the war with Spain. The House at 5:30 adjourned until noon tomorrow, when eulogies will be pronounced on Robert R. Hitt, late Representative from Illinois.

FOOD QUESTION

Settled With Perfect Satisfaction By a Dyspeptic.

It's not an easy matter to satisfy all the members of the family at meal time as every housewife knows.

And when the husband has dyspepsia and can't eat the simplest ordinary food without causing trouble, the food question becomes doubly annoying.

An Ill. woman writes:

"My husband's health was poor, he had no appetite for anything I could get for him, it seemed.

"He was hardly able to work, was taking medicine continually, and as soon as he would feel better would go to work again only to give up in a few weeks. He suffered severely with stomach trouble.

"Tired of everything I had been able to get for him to eat, one day seeing an advertisement about Grape-Nuts, I got some for him to try for breakfast the next morning.

"We all thought it was pretty good although we had no idea of using it regularly. But when my husband came home at night he asked for Grape-Nuts.

"It was the same next day and I had to get it right along, because when we would get to the table the question, 'Have you any Grape-Nuts' was a regular thing. So I began to buy it by the dozen pkgs.

"My husband's health began to improve right along. I sometimes felt offended when I'd make something I thought he would like for a change, and still hear the same old question. "Have you any Grape-Nuts?"

"He got so well that for the last two years he has hardly lost a day from his work, and we are still using Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read the book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

QUEEN'S PITY IS WITH DUCHESS.

MARLBOROUGH CONSPICUOUS IN LONDON SOCIETY.

Edward, at Opening of Parliament, Singles Him Out for Personal Recognition, but Alexandra Appears to Slight Him—Latter Hopes for Reconciliation.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] While his Duchess is enjoying herself with her kin on the Riviera, the Duke of Marlborough is showing himself conspicuously here; and society is talking volubly about Queen Alexandra's manifestations of sympathy with the Duchess and of Her Majesty's evidences of disapproval of the Duke.

He was at the opening of Parliament. Some close observers say that when the Queen ascended the throne she bowed pointedly to the Duke of Argyle on one side and to Lord Londonderry on the other, while she ignored the Duke of Marlborough; but King Edward equally as pointedly singled out Marlborough for personal recognition.

At Lady Lansdowne's reception, Marlborough was a good deal of a wall flower. His cousin, Viscountess Ridley, was his only companion.

Lady Lansdowne, the Duke's aunt, a member of the Queen's household, bore a most sympathetic letter from Her Majesty to the Duchess before her departure from London for Paris.

The Queen wrote that she hoped for a complete reconciliation between the Duchess and her husband, and expressed affectionate interest in the future of their two sons, and asked for a photograph of them in which their mother should appear.

The photograph was taken, and, with the signatures of mother and boys, was sent to the Queen.

CONFERENCE CONTINUES.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—The conference between the Southern Pacific officials and the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, which has now extended for more than a week, is not yet at an end, although the matter of wages and hours has already been decided.

In some places the men demanded Sundays off, but the company could grant this only where conditions would permit. It has been found that an agreement cannot be reached on the question of admitting certain stations into the schedule of shorter hours, and the volume of business will not permit the company to grant an eight-hour day demand at certain other places. Accordingly, each side has chosen a representative to act as arbitrator.

Trains Over Burlington.

OMAHA, Feb. 16.—Five transcontinental railroads through Nebraska today are using the line of the Burlington Railroad to the west due to the flood condition of the Platte River. The Union Pacific is tied up for 200 miles west of Omaha and the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, Northwestern, Union Pacific and Burlington use the Burlington tracks between Omaha and Lincoln. No freight trains are moving.

FIGHT ON VIADUCT, ONE IS WOUNDED.

JOE SHINE, No. 329 Towne avenue, was shot and fatally wounded by T. J. Stroud of No. 1805 Michigan avenue, at 2 o'clock this morning on the East First-street viaduct over the Los Angeles River, as the result of labor-union troubles.

Stroud is the night foreman of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad boiler works here and a member of the boilermakers' union. His victim was a member of the union, but at present is not connected with a labor organization and is employed as a switchman of a switching crew of the Santa Fé Railroad.

When a shot rang out on the still air Patrolman Berchtold was at the Salt Lake route passenger station and Patrolman Hone was at the Santa Fé station. Both officers dashed towards the bridge and reached Stroud, who was fleeing at almost the same instant. They covered him with revolvers and, seeing that there was no use in resisting, he gave up.

"I never saw the man before," said Stroud, when the policemen began to quiz him. "He met me beneath the bridge and struck at me. I struck back and then he beat me up." He displayed several bruises on his face.

While lying on the stretcher in the ambulance conveying him to the Receiving Hospital Shine said: "I ate supper with that man and as we were going over the bridge together he began to call me all sorts of dirty names and a scab. Of course I resented it, but I did not endanger his life at any time. I could not stand to be called those names. Tell my baby and wife I've been shot."

The police learned that the two men ate supper together in Billy's Chop House, a few doors west of the west end of the viaduct. They also learned that the statement made by Stroud that he had been assaulted under the bridge was untrue.

Stroud admitted having shot Shine to the police.

A police surgeon examined Shine and said the bullet had pierced Shine's breast above the heart and that Shine was fatally wounded.

CABINET FACES DISMEMBERMENT.

MINISTRY STRIKES ROCK ON CATHOLIC QUESTION.

Factional Feud Parts Premier Clemenceau's Advisers — Minister Briand Is at Root of Dissension, Disagreeing With Plan of Settling Church Troubles.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—Just as an agreement regarding terms on which the churches of France could be leased to the Catholic clergy was about to be reached between representatives of M. Briand, Minister of Education, and Cardinal Richard, archbishop of Paris—an agreement involving a settlement of the most acute phase of the religious conflict—a ministerial crisis has loomed up on the horizon and it is now doubtful whether Premier Clemenceau's Cabinet will survive the coming week.

The Premier left a sick bed today to attend a Cabinet meeting. He insisted that the Cabinet alone should not assume the responsibility of authorizing the form of contracts. The Premier doubted that a preliminary majority would approve these contracts and in any event he insisted that Parliament must be given an opportunity to express its opinion before the government commits itself.

The Premier said he was fully aware of the plots of the followers of M. Combes and other groups, and as an old parliamentary fighter he argued that it was better to secure the consent of Parliament in advance than to run the risk of being outvoted later. He declared also that he was ready himself to go into the chamber Monday and submit an interpellation of confidence in the government. It is understood that M. Briand took sharp issue with his chief after the adjournment of the Cabinet. It is said that he intends to submit his views to his colleagues, and that Tuesday either he or M. Clemenceau will resign.

The situation is complicated by the fact that the power of the financial interests which bitterly oppose the income-tax scheme would join any combination to overthrow the present machinery and that the clerical right naturally would be overjoyed to dangle M. Clemenceau's scalp at its belt.

Extraneous issues aside, a majority undoubtedly would support M. Briand's conciliatory policy and if M. Clemenceau falls either M. Briand or former Postmaster Sarrien is considered most likely to succeed him.

At a late hour tonight a semi-official statement showing the seriousness of the situation was given out.

JAPANESE HAVE FEARS.

TOKIO, Feb. 17.—No official step has yet been taken regarding a solution of the San Francisco school question on the basis of the restricted admission of Japanese laborers.

Should a solution of the controversy be effected on that basis, it is believed quite generally that the government would be a target for violent attacks by the opposition. The authorities are keenly aware of the gravity of the situation and are apparently prepared to meet it calmly and resolutely. Judging from their attitude, a final solution on the basis of restricted immigration might not be entirely hopeless.

The Asahi this morning significantly calls attention to Article II of the existing treaty between Japan and the United States.

FIRE MENACES WHEEL WORKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BALTIMORE, (Md.) Feb. 17.—Fire broke out at 1:30 o'clock this morning in the foundry room of the South Baltimore Car Wheel Works, five miles from this city. The flames are threatening the lumber yards of the company. Adjoining the car works is the plant of the American Steel Car Wheel Company which is also threatened. The plant of the two companies occupies the equivalent of about fifteen city blocks.

At 3 a.m., the fire was under control. The only estimate of the damage places it at $800,000.

Payson's Appointments.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—President Payson of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Company has made the following appointments: James Agler, general manager, with offices in San Francisco; B. A. Porter, assistant general manager, in charge of lines north of Shively Tunnel, with offices at Eureka; R. X. Ryan, general passenger and freight agent at San Francisco; H. W. Ellicott, general purchasing agent, in place of H. C. Whiting, deceased, with offices at San Francisco. F. K. Zook is engineer in charge of maintenance of way, with other duties in connection with new construction.

Proposed New Line.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Rene D. Lobel, a French mining engineer, is here in the interest of a Siberian-Alaskan railway for which his father, Count De Lobel, has received a commission from the Russian government. The proposed railroad will connect with the Trans-Siberian line at Irkutsk. The main line will extend north of Lake Baikal, to East Cape in Siberia.

Receiver Is Appointed.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 16.—Judson Harmon, receiver of the Pere Marquette and Cincinnati and Hamilton and Dayton railroads, has been appointed receiver of the Toledo Terminal Company, against which foreclosure proceedings were instituted at Toledo several weeks ago by the Commonwealth Trust Company of St. Louis.

Has Used Duffy's for Fifty Years

MRS. ANNA B. DEPEW

Mrs. Anna B. Depew, o Wharton, Ohio, who has just celebrated her 101st birthday, is still hale and hearty, says that she would have been under the sod if it had not been for DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY.

Mrs. Depew has a good appetite, sleeps well and enjoys perfect health, notwithstanding that the doctors gave her up to die 14 years ago, and she says she believes that she would have died if it were not for the prompt use of the great family medicine—Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

The following are Mrs. Depew's own words, written Aug. 17th, 1906, after she had celebrated her 101st birthday.

"I wish to tell you what DUFFY'S MALT WHISKEY has done for me. Fourteen years ago the doctors gave me up to die. We had some DUFFY MALT WHISKEY in the house which I commenced to use right off, as a last resort, and I grew better, and finally became well, taking it according to directions. I have used it for fifty years, and have had it in my family for general use for that length of time. I eat heartily and sleep well. I was born in Vermont, east of the Green Mountains, in 1805, and I would now be under the sod if it were not for DUFFY'S MALT WHISKEY."—Mrs. Anna B. Depew, Wharton, Ohio, Aug. 17th, 1906.

THE BEST FRIENDS OF PE-RU-NA ARE THE MOTHERS AND CHILDREN

MR. F. BROOKMAN WIFE AND CHILD

MRS. J. C. STERLING'S CHILDREN

G.H. FARMER and SON.

Pe-ru-na Should Be Kept in Every Household

Where There Are Little Children.

Peruna should be kept in the house all the time. Don't wait until the child is sick, then send to a drug store. But, have Peruna on hand—accept no substitute.

Children are especially liable to acute catarrh. Indeed, most of the affections of childhood are catarrh.

All form of sore throat, quinsy, croup, hoarseness, laryngitis, etc., are but different phases of catarrh.

Pe-ru-na Contains No Narcotics

One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peruna, if taken according to printed directions, is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. It does not produce temporary results, but it is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of catarrh.

Mrs. F. Brockman, 813 Meade street, Appleton, Wis., writes:

"I have never had a return of the catarrh, which had made me so miserable and unhappy before I began taking Peruna.

"I would not be without it in the house now.

"I have a baby boy, two years old, to whom I give Peruna for a cold, and my husband also takes Peruna.

"I thank you and wish you well."—Mrs. F. Brockman.

No Doctor Required

Mr. Edward Otto, 927 De Soto street, St. Paul, Minn., writes:

"I cannot say enough for Peruna. It has done great work in my family, especially for my oldest boy. We had doctored with three or four different doctors and they did not seem to do him any good.

"We gave up hopes of cure, and so did they, but we pulled him through on Peruna.

"We had several doctors and they said they could do no more for him, so we tried Peruna as a last resort, and that did the work. Since then we keep it in the house all the time, and no doctor is required."—Edward Otto.

There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years.

Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any narcotics.

The Benefit Which the Children of the United States Have Received From Pe-ru-na Can Never Be Put Into Words.

The chronic ailments it has prevented, the suffering it has mitigated, will never be fully recorded.

But at least this much can be said that the coming generation owes a great debt to Peruna, for it is in the tender years of youth that slight ailments are liable to develop into lasting disease, thus blasting the whole career of the individual.

The mothers who are bringing up their children today to believe in Peruna are speaking from their experience.

These children brought up to believe in Peruna from the start, will, when they become heads of families themselves, use Peruna with unquestioning faith.

A Child's Life Saved

Mr. G. H. Farmer, New Martinsville, W. Va., writes:

"Our little son, Harry, is well and healthy now and we think if we do as you directed us, he will keep his health and grow strong.

"We know that our little son's life was saved by your wonderful medicine, Peruna, and we shall always praise Peruna and use it in our family when needed.

"Should we have any more catarrhal trouble in our family, we shall always write to you for treatment."

Mr. W. F. Doring, Mt. Vernon, Mo., writes:

"I have used Peruna to my entire satisfaction and am exceedingly well pleased with the results, having suffered greatly with catarrh of the stomach."

Mrs. J. C. Sterling, 133 Brown avenue, Norfolk, Va., writes:

"My little boy, Meredith, suffered with indigestion so badly he could not eat anything without it making him very sick, so I thought (as many others have) that I would try Peruna, and it worked like a charm.

"Now he eats anything he wishes, and I would not be without it for anything.

"My other litle boy, Alfred, two and a half years old, has taken it and received as much benefit from Peruna as his brother.

"I hope my testimonial may be of some benefit to others, as I feel as though I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. J. C. Sterling.

Mr. Howard Andrew Sterner, 424 Canal street, Reading, Pa., writes:

"I have Peruna in my house all the time and won't be without it. It is good for children when they take a cold or croup. It cured my baby boy of croup.

"I have introduced Peruna into six families since I received your last letter, and four have seen relief already.

"HOWARD ANDREW STERNER."

Pe-ru-na Protects the Entire Household

As soon as the value of Peruna is appreciated by every household, both as a preventive and remedy, many lives may be saved and thousands of chronic lingering cases of catarrh may be prevented.

When Sickness Comes to the Little Ones

It Is the Mother Who Chiefly Suffers.

She suffers even more than the child who happens to be sick.

Her sympathy is deeper than that of any other member of the family.

The mother look forward with dread to the torrid heat of summer, thinking of her children and the many liabilities to disease that are before them.

Spring and summer are sure to bring ailments, especially among the little folks.

It does not take a mother very long to discover that Peruna is the best friend she has in time of illness among the children.

A Multitude of Mothers

Have discovered that Peruna is their stand-by, and that in many of the ailments of spring and summer to which the children are subjected, Peruna is the remedy that will generally quickly relieve.

Whether it is spring fever or stomach derangement, whether it is indigestion or bowel disease, a catarrhal congestion of the mucous surfaces is the cause.

Peruna quickly relieves this condition of the mucous membranes. Its operation is prompt, the children do not dislike to take the medicine, it has no deleterious effects in any part of the body.

It simply removes the cause of the disagreeable symptoms and restores the health.

Peruna is a household remedy for all catarrhal ailments of winter and summer, acute or chronic.

The mothers all over the United States are the best friends that Peruna has.

Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, Ohio, writes:

"My daughter Allie, after taking three bottles of your Peruna, is entirely cured of catarrh of the head of two years' standing. We have used Peruna as a general tonic as well as for catarrh and are well pleased with it and recommend it to anybody who has catarrh."

The Mothers Hold Pe-ru-na in High Esteem

Not only because it has cured them of their various ailments, but because it promptly rescues the children from the throes and grasp of catarrhal diseases.

We have in our files many testimonials from mothers whose children have been cured by Peruna. However, the large majority of mothers who use Peruna, we never hear from.

But we do hear from a great number of mothers who are so overjoyed at some special good they have received from Peruna that they cannot restrain their enthusiasm. They are anxious to share these benefits with other mothers.

From the way in which the Panama bids have been drawn the interests of the government are quite closely guarded, not only as to the incidental minerals that may be dug out in excavating the canal, but as to the materials in the zone that may be of use to the contractor in the actual work of construction. There is discretionary authority that may be given by the commission to the contractor allowing him to manufacture cement on the ground. But unless this authority is specifically exercised the cement and stone will be furnished by the commission and the cement purchased by the government or manufactured on the spot, as seems most economical.

Thus the contractor is not likely to profit by anything of value discovered in the ground, but there will be a great deal of curiosity on the part of the public to know what the analyses of the sand and gravel actually show when they are received in the United States.

The value of Philippine products imported into the United States in the fiscal year 1905-6 was about $11,500,000 —a decrease of $4,000,000 or 25 per cent. Yet there are Senators who have a nightmare whenever Philippine competition in tobacco and sugar is mentioned, and who shut their eyes to the injustice of the process by which we are steadily closing our markets against a dependency entitled to our encouragement and support.—[New York Tribune.

CLOSING THE BREAK OF THE COLORADO.

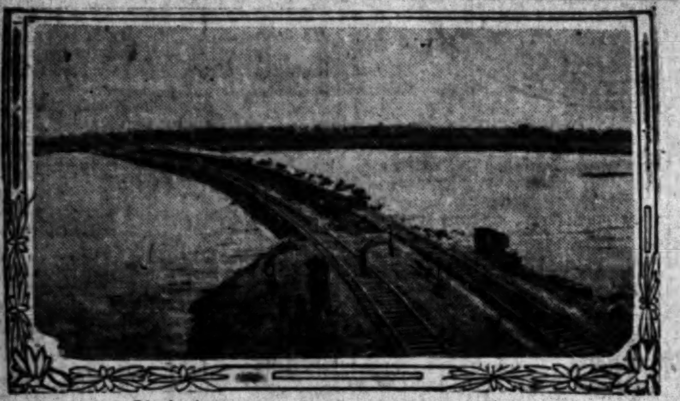
The Achievement of an Engineering Feat That Was Pronounced Impossible—The Southern Pacific's Great Battle With the Runaway River.

BY ALLEN KELLY.

CLOSING the break in the west bank of the Colorado River was an achievement without precedent in the history of engineering. It was unique in that the methods adopted were so unconventional that engineers of high standing condemned them in advance and predicted absolute failure of the attempt to turn the flood back into the old river channel.

The feat was achieved by railroad men of the western type; men in the habit of doing things with any material available, and having no reverence for fine-spun theories.

The Colorado River broke through its bank and poured a vast flood through the Imperial Valley into the Salton Sink, cutting a deep gorge and threatening ruin to more than half a million acres of the most fertile land in the West. The immense value, present and prospective, of the menaced territory, estimated by President Roosevelt at $700,000,000, justified the expenditure of a large sum on the mere chance of checking the devastation, and the Southern Pacific railroad undertook the task. The railroad was interested directly and indirectly, because the Salton Sea threatened to destroy its line between Yuma and California, and devastation of Imperial Valley would prevent the development of an immensely productive region tributary to the system.



Clark dam across the break of the Colorado.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

Impelled primarily by intelligent self interest, the Southern Pacific took hold of the problem and devoted its resources without stint to solving it. The river was discharging, at flood stage, about 40,000 second feet, or 2,000,000 miner's inches of water through the break, and the task of the railroad engineers was to throw across that torrent a barrier strong enough to hold it and force the river back into the older and higher channel.

Such expedients as by-passes and headgates, to divert the flood while a dam was being built, failed. The headgates were swept away, and the by-passes were cut into wide channels. Col. Randolph, in charge of the work, then determined upon direct attack, and assigned to Thomas J. Hind of the bridge and building department of the Los Angeles division, the task of throwing a dam across the break in the very teeth of the yellow monster.

The Hind dam was completed and the break closed on November 4, 1906. Approved methods of construction were adopted. A mat foundation was laid upon the sand. Forty miles of steel cable, 10,000 cable clips and 2200 cords of brush were used in weaving the mat, which was 100 feet wide and 800 feet long. Rock and earth were dumped upon the mat from bridge trestles, forming a dam 170 feet wide at the base, thirty feet on the crown and fifty-five feet in height at the deepest places in the break. In length, 600 feet of the dam was of rock construction and 2400 feet of earth and gravel. Earth levees extended the barrier southward.

FIRST REPULSE.

The dam proved effective, but weakness developed in the levee. The river rose early in December, and the water went under the levee through a stratum of cracked adobe, which had not been removed. There were so many holes that material for stopping them could not be rushed to the front fast enough, and two of them got away from the engineers on December 7. The flood cut away the levee, got in behind the dam, and started again toward Salton Sink through a break 2500 feet south of the rock dam and about 1100 feet wide.

Hind, who had been fighting the river day and night for weeks, was worn out, and C. K. Clarke, resident engineer of the Tucson division, was sent to the front to build the second dam. There was no time to spare, and Randolph and Clarke decided to dispense with the mat, ignore precedent, theory and the head-wagging of government engineers, and build their rock dam upon the sand. From all parts of the country came predictions of failure and messages of discouragement. Engineers visited the works, shook their heads and intimated more or less politely that Randolph was crazy and Clarke a wretched fool.

How the dam was built, how the river tore away the trestle work three times, and how the break was closed on February 10, to the confusion of theorists, the news dispatches of The Times from the heading have told briefly.

FRONTAL ATTACK.

The Clarke dam is 1200 feet long, 700 feet of rock and 500 feet of earth embankment. It was built by dumping material from two trestle bridges fifty feet apart and to bring it up to the water level more than 100,000 tons of rock, gravel and clay were dumped in thirteen days. This material was hauled from the Declez granite quarries near Colton, a distance of 200 miles; from the Tacna sandstone quarries east of Yuma, a sixty-mile haul; from the Patagonia sandstone quarries, 380 miles away; from the Mammoth gravel pit, forty miles west of the heading; from the Pilot Knob quarry at the upper heading, and from Casa Blanca on the Santa Fé line near Colton. On an average 165 carloads were dumped in a day, but at critical times more than 250 cars were unloaded from the trestles in two working shifts.

The most difficult and perilous part of the work was driving 90-foot piles in thirty feet of torrential flood across the break. The Gila brought great masses of submerged drift down into the Colorado, and when the drift lodged against the trestles the pressure was enormous, and several times the big piles were broken and several bents of the bridge went sailing down the runaway river. Working on the trestle and the pile drivers at night, when the structure trembled as if shaken by an earthquake, was dangerous, and a man needed a cat's sureness of foot. Yet only two lives were lost in all the work. Several men fell from the trestle, but only two were swept away by the torrent.

THE BATTLE WON.

The Clarke dam is an assured success and will soon be completed to a height which no flood of the Colorado can reach. Extending south and southwestward, an earth levee is building and will be completed to a distance of about fifteen miles from the upper heading, by the first of April. The foundation of the levee is in a "muck ditch" six feet wide on the bottom, with a slope of two-and-a-half to one and an average depth of five feet. The treacherous adobe is removed from the trench as a precaution against undercutting, and it is believed that the structure will prove impervious. The levee will be nine feet in height and ten feet wide on the top, and the slopes will be covered with a gravel blanket a foot thick. The elevation of the levee will be equivalent to a river height of thirty-seven feet at Yuma, which is nearly three feet higher than the flood mark of 1891.

POINTS OF DANGER.

Permanent control of the river depends upon the strength of the levee. On the east bank of the Colorado the Reclamation Service has built a levee, and for seven miles the river flows through a throat between the two systems that is only 2160 feet wide at the narrowest part. Below the throat, the levees turn away from the river and leave room for a flood to spread. If the levees withstand the next spring flood, the problem of control of the Colorado may be regarded as solved.

Much work remains to be done, however, and the railroad forces will be busy for some time to come. As a safeguard against an unforeseen break and a return of the river to the cut which it made in December behind the dam, a spur levee a mile and a quarter long will be built from the end of the Clarke dam inside the main levee and at an angle leaving a wide space of flat land between the two. Col. Randolph contemplated strengthening the main levee with steel sheet piling, driven twenty feet below the ground surface, but it is now too late in the season to do that, and consulting engineers have pronounced the work unnecessary. It would cost about $175,000 a mile.

By April 1, the Southern Pacific and the California Development Company will have built for the protection of Imperial Valley, sixteen miles of levee and 4500 feet of dam, and will have moved since December 20, 1906, more than a million cubic yards of earth and rock.

FORCES ENGAGED.

No agency other than a great railroad organization could have done the work in the time, and had the government undertaken the task, it would hardly have been begun at this date. The Southern Pacific had the organization, the appliances, the men and the material, and it was able to assemble the machinery and forces with a few clicks of the telegraph key. Steam shovels were summoned from Portland, and given the right of way over passenger trains; engines, barges, dredges, pile-drivers and track material were rushed in on emergency schedule, and engineers and foremen familiar with the work were called to the front from division headquarters. When rock trains were needed urgently, they had right of way, and sidings and yards were filled with loaded cars in preparation for the battle. When anything was required, no red tape had to be unwound. The engineers touched a key at the end of a wire, and the thing needed was sent without question or quibble, and regardless of cost. The railroad had the organization, the men and the money, and at the word all its resources were made avialable to the man on the job.

IMPERIAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The Colorado is back in its old channel, no water is flowing into Salton Sea, and if the levees stand, the Imperial Valley is protected. Engineer and General Manager H. T. Cory of the California Development Company, who was next in command to Col. Randolph in the battle with the river, goes over to Imperial Valley with Engineer Clarke to begin reconstruction of the irrigation works. New gates will be built, new main canals dug, at a cost of $1,250,000, and $500,000 more will be spent on the construction of lateral ditches. Engineer Hind will be left to finish the dam and levee, and maintain the protective works on the Colorado through the coming flood season.

TELEPHONES ON A TRAIN.

Practical Experiments Recently Conducted on a Kentucky Train on Regular Run.

Exhaustive practical experiments have recently been conducted by a Kentucky railroad with a telephone device, the complete success of which is of much importance. By means of this system, a moving train may communicate with any city having telephone connections, and, in the trial, under adverse weather conditions for the most part, conversation was held with parties in New York, while the Kentucky train was moving at a speed of from fifteen to thirty-five miles an hour.

By means of the new system, train dispatchers can at any time give orders to a train crew, thus absolutely eliminating all danger of collisions, and passengers may call up any one with whom they wish to speak just as over an ordinary long-distance wire. Trains traveling in the same or in opposite directions may also communicate with [illegible] roads officials the device is said to be second in importance as a safety appliance only to the air brake.

In the trials, the telephone was placed in the cabin of the engine, and connection with local exchanges was obtained by means of two heavy copper wires stretched alongside the track at a distance of five feet. Contact between the train and the wires was maintained by a form of trolley connected with the locomotive boiler. This trolley is made of gas pipe, and carries two small tanks filled with a chemical mixture through which steam is fed to make a chemical induction at a distance which may vary from half an inch to three feet, thus allowing for all vibrtaions and sway of the moving train.

The expense of establishing such a telephone line would not, in many instances be great, as the wires could be strung on the telegraph poles along the right of way.

ROMANS USED SAFETY PINS.

THIMBLES IN USE TWO THOUSAND YEARS AGO.

Many Other "Modern" Inventions Were Known in the Days of Caesar Who, Himself, Wore False Teeth. Latchkeys Were Worn on a Ring to Be Convenient.

Every now and then it is discovered that some extremely "modern" invention is in reality exceedingly old. For example, the safety pin, far from being a novelty or even of recent origin, is decidedly ancient—a fact made certain by the finding of a great many such pins, fashioned exactly like those of today, in old Roman and Etruscan tombs, dating back to a period a good deal earlier than the birth of Christ.

The safety pin in truth was an article of common use in Italy long before the Roman empire attained the height of its glory. Some of them were exactly like those of today, utilizing the familiar principle of coiled spring and catch, says the Scientific American, but the material of which they were made seems always to have been bronze. They took on a development, however, far more remarkable than our modern safety pins, many of them being quite large affairs, ten inches or so in length and hollow, as if designed to be attached to the gown in front and possibly to contain something or other—conceivably flowers. Not infrequently they were ornamented with gems.

Another ancient invention was the collar stud. It is true that the ancient Romans did not use buttons to fasten their garments, but for this very reason safety pins were more urgently required; and the latter seem to have been supplemented by studs of bronze, which were in shape exactly like those of today. Of course, people in those times wore no collars; but the little contrivance in question was utilized in other ways. Probably—and indeed the assumption is not a rash one—it had in that early epoch the same habit as now of rolling under a piece of furniture on slight provocation for the purpose of eluding observation and pursuit, with the usual perversity of inanimate objects.

Of all modern inventions none seems to belong more typically to the present day than the so-called McGill paper fastener—the small brass contrivance used to fasten a number of sheets of paper together. Yet, though it has been patented, it was well known more than 2000 years ago, being used by the soldiers of Rome as an incidental of their costume. The belt of thin copper worn by the ancient legionary was fastened to a strip of cloth, for lining, with a series of little bronze clamps exactly like the paper fastener in question.

The Smithsonian Institution at Washington has got together a very interesting collection of such ancient inventions. Among other objects belonging to the same category are thimbles 2500 years old. They are of bronze and their outer surfaces show the familiar indentations for engaging the head of the needle. Indeed, these thimbles are much like modern ones, barring the fact that they have no tops to cover the end of the finger. For that matter, however, many thimbles of today are topless.

The women in those days had bronze bodkins, made just like those in use now, and for toilet purposes they employed small tweezers of a pattern that has not been altered in 2000 years. To hold their hair in place they had not hit upon the notion of bending a wire double, but they used for that purpose straight bronze pins made exactly like modern hatpins, with big spherical heads. It is from this early type of hairpin, in truth, that the hatpin of today is derived. Mayhap the ancient Roman virago, when aroused to rage, plucked an improvised dagger from her backhair and employed it vigorously.

In the collection referred to are a number of fish hooks not less than 3000 years old, obtained from ancient Swiss lake dwellings. They are of bronze and in shape are exactly like the most improved modern fish hooks. They have the same curves and the same barbs, with a similar expansion at the top of the shank for the attachment of the line. Barring the metal of which they are composed, they might have been made yesterday. Other curios from the old Etruscan tombs are strainers, ladles, spoons and knives of bronze. Such articles, as well as bronze daggers and other weapons and utensils, were cast most commonly in molds that were carved out of hard stone, a pair of stones being required to produce the object, which was afterward polished and otherwise elaborated. Among the most interesting of the contrivances for the toilet is a fine-tooth comb of ivory, which in shape is precisely like the fine-tooth combs of today.

It is well known that the ancient Romans knew how to plate one metal with another. They made and some of them (like Cicero) wore false teeth. The manufacture of glass was entirely familiar to them and that they knew the modern method of mending broken pots by means of rivets has been shown by the discovery of many pieces of pottery thus restored. It seems rather surprising that they did not acquire the art of printing with movable types, inasmuch as they came very near it. They had wooden blocks carved with words in reverse, by means of which they stamped words on pottery while the latter was as yet unbaked and soft.

News has been received at Victoria, B. C., by the steamer Miowera that a hurricane has completely wiped out Cooktown in North Australia. No lives were lost. The monetary loss will amount to $2,000,000.

What's the Use

To break down your vigor

With Coffee?

Most people need all the vitality they can secure. Some have an excess and proceed to destroy it with one or more of the sedative drugs—Tobacco, Coffee, Whisky or Morphine. All belong to the same family. They could use that excess vigor to improve business or whatever pursuit they may be engaged in, but they seem to prefer to nulify it with drugs.

However, each one must make choice and pay the bill. The one who can let out coffee when it is known to be slowly setting up disease of some of the organs is worthy of praise.

The change from coffee and its aches and ails to well-made Postum with its comfort and health, is really quite easy, for the deep seal brown of Postum changes to the rich golden brown when cream is added and the flavor (when made accordin to directions) is very like the mild high grades of Java coffee. But the change drives out the coffee troubles and the old condition of comfortable health returns.

Ever read one of these genuine letters?

INSOMNIA

Leads to Madness, if Not Remedied in Time.

"Experiments satisfied me, some five years ago," writes a Topeka woman, "that coffee was the direct cause of the insomnia from which I suffered terribly, as well as the extreme nervousness and acute dyspepsia, which made life a most painful thing for me.

"I had been a coffee drinker since childhood, and did not like to think that the beverage was doing me all this harm. But it was, and the time came when I had to face the fact, and protect myself. I therefore gave it up, abruptly and absolutely, and adopted Postum Food Coffee for my hot drink at meals.

"I began to note improvement in my condition very soon after I took on Postum. The change proceeded gradually, but surely, and it was a matter of only a few weeks before I found myself entirely relieved—the nervousness passed away, my digestive apparatus was restored to normal efficiency, and I began to sleep, restfully and peacefully.

"These happy conditions have continued during all of the five years, and I am safe in saying that I owe them entirely to Postum Food Coffee, for when I began to drink it I ceased to use medicines." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason." Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

PLEADS CAUSE OF ERIN.

Many Irish Sympathizers Listen to Speech of Belfast Editor—Proposes System of Boycott.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Irish sympathizers to the number of a thousand met last night in the Grand Central Palace to have the new Sinnfein movement, the aim of which is independence for Ireland, explained to them by Julmore Hobson, editor of The Republic of Belfast. The chairman of the meeting was Col. Robert Temple Emmett. A striking feature of the gathering was that it was composed of members of the Catholic and Orange elements and they fraternized readily.

Hobson was given a rousing welcome. He argued that Ireland should free herself by her own efforts and not rely upon her Parliamentary representation to do it. The Sinnfein movement proposes a system of boycott against English products, and as a corollary a system of protection of Irish products, improvement of the Irish educational system; an anti-enlistment propaganda to reduce to a minimum the number of Irish soldiers in the British army and finally a temperance movement whereby the liquor taxes, amounting to $30,000,000 annually, which England derives from Ireland, can be diminished or perhaps entirely cut off. As to anti-enlistment Hobson said that the British government was already reduced to dire straights, being compelled to go to Irish workhouses and infirmaries for recruits. Mr. Hobson predicted a great uprising in Ireland through the Sinnfein movement.

S. L. Joshi, an Indian Social Economist, explained the "Swadscha" movement in India which has many points in common with the Sinnfein movement, the chief one being a boycott of English products. Resolutions were adopted by the meeting, one of which warns the American people that Ambassador James Bryce is coming to this country especially to effect an alliance of England with America, which has for its immediate object, war with Germany.

Work of Missionary Cause All Over the World Shows Encouraging Progress.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BOSTON, Feb. 16.—The ninety-sixth annual report of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions was made public today. In part, it says:

"One of the most important moves in the direction of self-control and self-support that has ever taken place in the world is that which was taken in the past year in Japan.

"With the federation of two missions of the board in South Africa, the East Central African Mission has become the Rhodesia branca of the American Board of Missions in South Africa. During the past year the work of the mission has been affected by such events as the completion of the great Victoria College, and the discovery of gold and diamonds within the colony.

The educational work of the European Turkish mission had been interfered with by an order of the Bulgarian government requiring each teacher in private schools to have at least the equivalent of graduation from the national gymnasium.

"Bulgaria is still in its formative state, and state contempt of religion prevails almost universally among the educated classes. The great need is for Christian leaders to guide the nation.

"In spite of the rapid increase in the number of schools in North China, founded by Chinese officials and others to give modern instruction, there is a growing demand for Christian education. Tien-Tsin abounds in schools of all grades, some requiring fees, some free and some paying a bonus, yet Christian schools are overcrowded and are refusing applicants."

PROBE TELEGRAPH LINES.

Interstate Commerce Commission Believes Special Wire Facilities Are Unfair Discrimination.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OMAHA, Feb. 16.—The Interstate Commerce Commission is to investigate the relationship between the Western Union Telegraph and the Postal Telegraph companies on one side, and the packing-houses, grain firms and other business houses throughout the country which have heretofore had special telegraph wires and special operators furnished them.

This morning all through wires of this description were discontinued here and only "pony" wires running from these offices into the main telegraph offices were left. The operators manning these wires from the packing-house ends are now employed by the packing-houses and not by the telegraph companies.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is said to have taken the position that to furnish the large customers of the telegraph companies with facilities denied the smaller customers was in fact a discrimination, and an investigation is demanded.

SEVEN KILLED IN EXPLOSION.

Accident Aboard German Steamer Valdivia Results in Death and Damage.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Seven men were killed and three injured and considerable damage was sustained to the vessel by an explosion on the German steamer Valdivia at sea last Wednesday. The accident was reported when the steamer arrived here today.

The donkey engine boiler exploded, throwing the steamer funnel over and ripping open the upper deck. The seven dead were killed instantly. The escaping steam from the bursted boiler enveloped the steamer, creating a scene of confusion. The names of the dead are: Fourth Engineer J. Steinhagen, Hoboken; Fireman Seldon, colored; Coal Passer W. Hanna; Coal Passer Salenski; Sailor W. Deitrich; Sailor Ditho; Steward William Simmons, colored.

Fear of Losing Happy Home Prompts Meeting of United States' Citizens in Paris to Protest Against Being Alienized—Proposed Law Declared Unconstitutional.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unable to obtain any definite information regarding the fate, in the United States Senate committee, of the proposed law declaring aliens all Americans who have resided abroad five years consecutively, citizens of the United States in Europe are beginning to combine with the object of preventing, if possible, the passage of such a bill.

At a meeting attended by nearly 200 Americans in Paris yesterday, the bill was denounced as unconstitutional.

Several French experts, among them M. Izoulet, professor in the College of France, said that Congress had no power to declare alien any American born man or woman, no matter how long, where or under what circumstances he or she has lived abroad.

These views will be forwarded to Washington, together with a report of the discussion. It develops here, as well as in other European capitals, that many members of the American colony, whose principal pride hitherto has seemed to be based on decreasing their resemblance to the American type, have awakened now to the fact that they are threatened with official information that they are men without a country.

POSITION IS SUSTAINED.

Court Decides Attorney-General Was Justified in Reopening Case Proceedings Dismissed.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ALBANY (N. Y.) Feb. 16.—Supreme Court Justice Fitts late today handed down decisions sustaining the position of Atty-Gen. William S. Jackson in the matter of the proceedings in the interest of William R. Hearst to oust George B. McClellan from the office of Mayor of New York City. Justice Fitts decided that the Attorney-General had authority to rehear the application of Hearst for leave to begin quo warranto proceedings against McClellan, which was denied by Jackson's predecessor, Atty.-Gen. Mayer.

Justice Fitts also denied the motion of McClellan's attorney to have the Attorney-General adjudged in contempt of court on the ground that in bringing the action upon his own initiative to oust McClellan he violated the spirit, if not the letter of a temporary injunction of Justice Fitts forbidding him, pending a hearing, to reopen the matter of Hearst's quo warranto application.

BONDS REPORTED STOLEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Redmond & Co., bankers in Pine street, announced yesterday that fourteen railroad bonds, worth about $11,000, were lost or stolen in transit to Paris. The bonds were sent by registered mail by the liner La Savoie on January 17. They were insured in a marine insurance company for their full value and they were put up in one bundle.

BURGLAR RUNS AS SHE SHOOTS.

PASADENA WOMAN DRIVES MARAUDER AWAY.

Thief Is Heard Opening Window of House and Mrs. Metcalfe and the Maid Start on Tour of Investigation Which Results in the Frightening of the Unwelcome Visitor.

Office of The Times, No. 28 S. Raymond Ave. PASADENA, Feb. 17.—The home of Mrs. A. K. Metcalfe, No. 420 West Colorado street, was the scene of a daring attempt at burglary Friday night, and but for the presence of mind of Mrs. Metcalfe and her maid, the only occupants of the house at the time, the midnight marauder would probably have succeeded in his designs. As it was he was frightened away after Mrs. Metcalfe had taken a shot at him with a revolver. All efforts of the police to secure a clew to his identity have been futile.

Late in the evening Mrs. Metcalfe had her attention attracted by the sound of some one trying to open a window. She called the maid and together the women started on a tour of investigation. They discovered that a man was working at the side of the house, and attempted to call up the police, but the line was busy. Mrs. Metcalfe then called up a neighbor, who promised to send assistance. In the meantime she decided to take matters into her own hands, however. Procuring a revolver, she took a shot at the burglar, and though she did not succeed in hitting him, she managed to frighten him away.

The sound of the shot attracted the attention of one of Freeman's Protective Patrol, and the man hurried to Mrs. Metcalfe's assistance. He made a thorough search of the grounds, but was unable to find any trace of the man. The police were at once notified and officers were dispatched to the scene, but little could be accomplished, as the man seemed to have left no trace.

There have been altogether too many attempted burglaries of late to suit the officers, and a strenuous campaign will probably be started upon to rid the city of the house thieves. The department is forced to work under difficulties, as it is a simple matter for a thief to come out from Los Angeles, completet his operations and return to town before any one knows that he has been at work. Once he reaches Los Angeles, it is practically impossible to apprehend him.

FILLS THE GUTTERS.

At 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning rain began falling and at frequent intervals throughout the day there were lively showers. For awhile the gutters were well filled with water, but the downpour was fitful and the actual precipitation was but light. In Altadena the rain was rather heavier and at the foot of the mountains it was fairly continuous throughout the day.

A heavy cloud bank obscured the mountains during the early part of the day, but in the afternoon a light wind blew the clouds back into the cañons, leaving both the base and the summit of the range exposed to view. The crest of Mt. Wilson was bathed in sunlight, while just below rolled a mass of fleecy clouds, making a picture that was exceedingly artistic. Visitors who returned from the mountains late in the evening reported that the effect from the summit was singularly beautiful.

CONCERTS SUSPENDED.

Unless the citizens of Pasadena come forward with liberal subscriptions there will be no more Sunday afternoon free concerts. It was hoped that some arrangements might be made during the past week which would insure the continuation of the concerts, but yesterday afternoon it was announced that little had been accomplished, and that for the present at least the concerts were at an end. However, a subscription list has been started and it is hoped that the necessary money may be raised before another week rolls around.

The Sunday afternoon concerts, started at first as an experiment and against the better judgment of many residents of the city, proved very successful and were generally well received. Under the influence of the encouragement furnished by the people of the city the band improved greatly and the music rendered was of a high order. It is generally admitted that the concerts were a good thing, and it is likely that a strong effort will be made to have them started up again.

WEATHERTON'S DEATH ACCIDENTAL.

At the inquest of Edward Weatherton, the negro lad killed by the kick of a mule in the stable of the Simons Brick Company Friday afternoon, a verdict of accidental death was rendered. No blame was attached to any one, as it was shown that Weatherton had been cautioned against walking behind the animal and that he had either misunderstood or disobeyed direction in standing where he did in endeavoring to place the harness on the animal.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at All Saints' Church, the Rev. William MacCormack officiating. Weatherton was formerly a member of the choir and was a communicant of the church. Interment will be at Mountain View Cemetery.

NAME LIKELY CARMELITA.

It is not improbable that the name of Vernon avenue will shortly be changed to Carmelita avenue in honor of the new pleasure park and casino which will soon occupy the northwest corner of Vernon and Colorado street. Residents of the street are desirous of having the change in name, and if the matter is presented to the Council, there is little doubt that favorable action will be taken.

The decision to name the park Carmelita will insure the perpetration of a name which is closely associated with the early days of the city, and will be a perpetual remembrance of the woman, Mrs. Genie Carr, who was one of the first to lay out handsome grounds on Orange Grove avenue. As the park will be located in one corner of the old estate, the name is considered the most fitting of any that could be chosen.

DIES IN IOWA.

A telegram has just been received announcing the death of Hon. E. S. Ellsworth at Iowa Falls, Iowa, from heart disease. He was frequently a guest in Pasadena and has many friends here.

Deceased was one of the largest owners of farm lands in Iowa and Minnesota. He was for many years president of the First National Bank of Iowa Falls and was until recently president of the Des Moines, Iowa Falls and Northern Railroad. He built a $20,000 hospital for Iowa Falls and Ellsworth College. He also paid for a part of the Carnegie Library.

PASADENA BRIEFS.

The task of flushing the down-town streets with water, lately undertaken by the street department, has been materially helped along by the rains and the workmen have thankfully retired from the field and left the work in the hands of the weather man. After trying all sorts of schemes for ridding the streets of dust it was found that the only method that proved to be even moderately satisfactory was to flood the pavements with water after nightfall and let the sewers carry away the dust and refuse.

Roy Frame, the young man who fell from the Salt Lake trestle in South Pasadena several months ago and escaped death by a miracle, is again able to be about his business although he is still somewhat lame. At first it was thought that he must be permanently crippled, but the physicians now hope that in time he will completely recover. With the exception of a stiff wrist, Frame has practically recovered from his injuries.

Since the installation of the Receiving Hospital at the Police Station the institution has been kept pretty busy. Not a week passes but that two or three cases are received and the hospital has proved a great convenience. A public ambulance is now much needed and an effort will be made to secure it. It is not always an easy matter to secure a private vehicle on the spur of the moment and furthermore the cost is often considerable. An effort will be made to secure a combination ambulance and patrol wagon and an appropriation will be asked in the near future.

WANT SUNDAY OBSERVED.

Church Folk at Ocean Park Start Movement—Forged Check Offered. Mrs. Burns's Death.

OCEAN PARK, Feb. 16.—A movement has been launched by the church folk of this city for the better observance of Sunday. They have for a long time been convinced that the day at the beach was too much devoted to amusement and too little to religious observance. The pastors of the several churches have joined in a call for a general mass meeting for Thursday evening at the Methodist Church, when ways and means will be discussed for securing an improvement in existing conditions. Those who are at the head of the movement say that they realize that this is a seaside resort and that they are willing to admit that for that reason some latitude should be given.

OFFERS FORGED CHECK.

E. D. Grandmason has an Elgin watch for which he is seeking an owner. It was brought to him to be repaired by a dapper stranger who later sought to recover the timepiece, together with a considerable amount in change, upon presentation of a check bearing the signature of H. O. Bristow.

Grandmason was suspicious and told Bristow that before he could cash the check, it would be necessary for the drawer of it to identify himself. Bristow went away but soon returned with the check, which had been indorsed in the name of T. H. Dudley.

Still Grandmason was suspicious and asked Bristow why he had not secured the cash on the check, since he had to go to the bank to get Mr. Dudley's signature. Bristow left the store and has not been seen since. Investigation disclosed the fact that the indorsement on the check was a forgery.

At that time there were represented at the French home five generations. Mrs. Burns was closely related by marriage to the late James N. Burns, who for a number of years represented the St. Joe (Mo.) district in the lower house of Congress.

BUY NEAR WILMINGTON.

Mysterious Purchases of Several Tracts Awaken a Good Deal of Curiosity.

WILMINGTON, Feb. 16.—Purchases of large tracts west of town have awakened curiosity, and at the same time have encouraged people to believe that that section is soon to be developed. The transactions have been a mystery as the real buyer is unknown either to the agent or seller.

Among the pieces sold to this unknown buyer are the Downing tract of twenty acres, at $1000 per acre. This tract lies on the bay shore at the northwest corner of the west basin and has water frontage of 616 feet. It lies directly facing the Banning claims. This is at the mouth of the slough which is the outlet of the Machado Lake and extends northwest to the "Nigger" Slough, near Gardena. North of this tract the Peck tract of eight acres was sold to the same purchasers. Then followed the Hohlbach place of twenty acres, the Rule tract of twenty acres, the Kohlkhoest tract of ten acres, the Lippman ranch of ten acres, the Jorgensen tract of ten acres, and others.

All these have sold at $700 per acre, and a queer thing about it all is that these lie along the slough which formerly was considered worthless. These purchases, taken in connection with numerous surveys of lines extending as far north as Gardena have awakened the curiosity of the people.

The sentiment in favor of consolidation is strong in Wilmington. It is evident that corporation influences are at work against it, but the people are growing tired of the dragging on to its death of the city.

EYE DOCTOR PAYS BACK.

So Prosecution at Long Beach Is to Be Dropped—Acts on Attorney's Advice.

LONG BEACH, Feb. 16.—Dr. J. W. Hymson, the Los Angeles eye doctor, who is accused of securing money from Long Beach women by means of hypnotic suggestion, securing large sums for cheap spectacles, was arraigned before Justice Brayton today and entered a plea of not guilty. The fact that Hymson had represented himself as the president of the State Board of Oculists, induced his lawyer to proffer Hymson some advice, with the result that Hymson sought an interview with Mrs. Torrey and Mrs. Crews, the two women victimized, and returned their money. Having recovered what they believe was wrongfully taken, the women will press the charges no further and the man with the hypnotic eye will be released.

STRUCK HIS VOCAL NERVE.

Singular Result of a Slight Blow on the Side of a Man's Head—Lost Power of Speech.

A St. Louis dispatch says a slight blow on the head has taken the power of speech from John Gallagher, a plumber, who is at the Central Hospital.

The external injury was so trifling that special treatment would not have been necessary if Gallagher's vocal organs had not been injured by the shock.

The blow struck his head on the particular spot occupied by a tiny nerve which communicated with the speech tube in the throat. This nerve is on the left side of the head just above the eye. The shock to the nerve and a sort of nerve hemorrhage which followed caused the tongue to swell and close the organs of speech.

Gallagher was working on a new building at Etzel avenue and the Wabash tracks, when the accident happened. A piece of iron pipe fell from the floor above. He saw it coming and dodged. His head struck a brick wall with sufficient force to cause a slight abrasion of the skin and to discolor his eye.

When he was picked up he was conscious, and apparently not seriously hurt, but when fellow workmen talked to him they found that he was unable to answer them.

Mrs. Gallagher, when told of the accident, hurried to the hospital from her home at No. 4135 Green Lea place, and has been at his bedside almost constantly.

She has endeavored to induce him to talk, but he is only able to mumble unintelligently.

The physicians say that the nerve will be restored to its original condition very slowly and that it may be many weeks before speech is restored.

Gallagher could not even swallow for some time.

Increasing Use of Glass.

Glass is being used more and more in the household—in fact, this is growing to be a "glass" age. Glass shelves are used in cabinets and china closets, glass tiles are used on the floor, glass knobs and towel racks are used in the various rooms. It is now possible to get a glass bathtub, and we often have dinner services of glass. Glass candlesticks are much in demand, and the pressed glass can be had at remarkably low prices. Cut glass candlesticks are a little higher in price, but the price is not prohibitive. The objection to the brass candlestick is that it is so much trouble to keep it clean. Glass is more desirable on this account and looks very pretty on the dining table, either with or without shades.

GOVERNMENT HAS BEEN BLED.

Employees Interested in Inventions Required.

Also in Manufacture of Material Needed.

One Army Official Evidently Became Rich.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says that scandalous conditions have been found in various government departments as a result of the investigations being made by the House Committee on Appropriations. The committee has discovered that in one branch of the public service contracts have been let at exorbitant prices for material invented by an employé who was a member of the board which made the award. In another department contracts have been awarded for material in the manufacture of which one of the officers was engaged. In still another, inventions which were developed by employés during their government service have been used by the government at a high cost.

If the members of the House are successful in the campaign they have begun thousands of dollars will be saved the government annually, and there will be a more sharply defined right of an employé to control exclusively an invention he has developed and perfected in the course of his official duty. As an example of what can be done, attention is called to the discovery made by Representative Smith of Iowa, a member of the Appropriations Committee, in connection with the contracts for hard black ink and dry coloring material awarded by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing which makes the paper money of the country.

BIG SAVING TO GOVERNMENT.

When these contracts were placed a year ago the chief of the Bureau bound the government to pay 47 cents a pound for hard black and 60 cents for dry color. It is charged that these materials were the invention of a member of the board which made the award. Since Thomas J. Sullivan became director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing it has been necessary to award new contracts, and these have been let for 12 cents a pound both for hard black and dry color. Large quantities of these materials are used annually by the bureau and the lower price now paid for ink and color permits the Appropriation Committee to make a reduction of thousands of dollars in the appropriations for maintenance of that establishment.

The committee has found also that there are a number of officials in the Postoffice Department who have inventions in use by the government; but this condition of affairs exists especially in the army and navy. Brig.-Gen. Mills is the inventor of a loom which weaves the cartridge belt used by every soldier in the service of the United States. These belts also are issued to enlisted men of the navy. In round numbers there are 100,000 men in both services. It is evident that the contract for these belts amounts to a large sum. Gen. Mills recently built what is known as the Mills building, a handsome structure opposite the War Department, which is rented by the government for a considerable sum annually for use by the navy and Isthmian Canal Commission.

TRANSFER OF POWDER PATENT.

Before the subcommittee of the Appropriation Committee, which included Representatives Smith and Graff, the latter of Peoria, testimony has been taken in regard to patents taken out by Rear-Admiral Converse, chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, and Lieutenant-Commander Bernadou, which, it has been charged, were transferred to the powder trust.

J. A. Haskell, vice-president of one of the constituent companies of the trust, declared that several of the patents taken out by the officers named were not owned by the Dupont Powder Company. He admitted that the main patent of Converse and Bernadou was offered to the Dupont Power Company, which declined to purchase it, and the patent was afterward sold to a third party, to the International Smokeless Powder Company. It is claimed the patent is of little value in its present state, because the government is not buying the kind of powder which could be made under it.

Mr. Haskell denied that the Bernadou and Converse patents would in any way interfere with the production of powder, according to the government formula, by any independent producer. He admitted that there had been an exchange of patents by Dupont and the California Powder companies, but denied that the Laflin & Rand Co. enjoyed this advantage. The Laflin & Rand Co. is now a part of the trust. Indeed, Mr. Haskell denied all charges made against his company and other concerns associated with it by Charles S. Waddell, president of the Buckeye Powder Company of Peoria.

COMPETITION ONLY SOLUTION.

Mr. Haskell admitted there were intimate relations between the principal powder companies of the country and apparently these relations exist with foreign concerns. Until a year ago there was an international agreement among the powder manufacturers as to the prices at which smokeless powder should be furnished to this and other governments. The legal advisers of the trust advised it that this agreement was unlawful and it withdrew. Nevertheless, the committee is satisfied that an agreement of some kind still maintains, and that it is possible to obtain powder for the government at a much cheaper rate if competition can be inaugurated.

The whole question of ownership by government employés of patents used by the government is to be fully investigated. At a meeting of the Committee on Patents of the House to be held tomorrow consideration will be given to a resolution introduced by Representative Smith directing the Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor to investigate and report to Congress "what existing patents have been granted to officers or employés of the government upon inventions, discoveries, or processes of manufacture or production upon articles used by the United States, and how and to what extent such patents enhance the cost or otherwise interfere with the use by the government of the articles or processes so patented." There is no doubt the committee will report favorably the resolution and that the House will adopt it.

LAWS AS TO PATENT BENEFITS.

From time to time Congress has sought to obtain for the government some benefit from an invention made in the line of his duty by one of its employés. Thirty years ago the Secretary of the Interior was authorized to grant any officer of the government a patent without payment of any fee, provided he agreed to permit the government to use the invention without cost.

There is another law which prohibits the expenditure of money at government armories in the perfection of a patentable invention in the manufacture of arms by officers of the army otherwise compensated for their service to the United States. The board of ordnance and fortifications is prohibited from having any interest, directly or indirectly, in any patents or inventions which may be useful for war purposes. But there is nothing in the law which forbids officers of the army and navy and civilian employés from patenting inventions and afterwards selling their right to their use to the government. This leads to abuse, and it is what the House committee proposes to stop.

MIGRATION OF BIRDS.

WONDERFUL DEVELOPMENT OF SENSE OF LOCALITY.

Their Movements the Result of Inherited Instinct as the Flight Is Frequently Led by the Young Birds of the Year—Same Sense Found in Snakes.

[The Spectator:] The migration of birds is a subject which is full of interesting and difficult problems, and not the least interesting nor the least difficult of comprehension is the question how they find their way. About the admirable accuracy of their movements there is no question whatever. The willow warbler will come back year after year to occupy the same position, in the same tangle of grass and undergrowth as the site for its nest. Others are no less accurate and punctual; but the exactness of this little bird is the more remarkable because of its apparently feeble powers of flight, which seem to leave it quite unprovided with the locomotive means required to bring it so unerringly to its goal. While the questions which migration presents are difficult enough of understanding, there is one which transcends all the rest in its obscurity. It is the question which is suggested by the fact, apparently quite well authenticated, that in the case of many species they are the young birds of the year that lead the migration flight.

Of course this is the kind of fact which is very difficult of proof. It is open to the objector to say: "How do you know that there are not a few old birds, perhaps the barren birds of the year, taking part in the earliest migration flights of the species, and so giving a lead to the youngsters along a line which has become familiar to them through previous travel?" It is difficult to answer this objector satisfactorily, because he at once puts his opponent into the position of one who has to prove a negative, and we all know what an uncomfortable position that it. The pros and cons of the whole argument are far too long and intricate to enter into here. All we can do is to ask the reader to accept the verdict of such observers at Gatke and many more, that the birds of the year in many cases do lead the migration flight, that some instinct acts as their compass, and that they do not avail themselves of the guidance of any old or barren birds.

No doubt to ask credence for such a statement is to ask a good deal. The explanation sometimes offered, that these birds are led by inherited instinct along the migration lines followed by their forefathers, in some cases pursuing the course of a long-since submerged river or other visible guiding line, is an explanation almost hard of acceptance as the original mystery which it is invoked to explain. Nor does the mystery become any less mysterious, though it becomes more possible of credence, even if not of comprehension, when we consider it alongside of other examples of a like kind with which natural history can furnish us. For it does not stand alone by any means. If it did, we might indeed ask credence for it in vain. The instinct, as it appears to be, which leads animals to direct their course to a certain spot without, so far as we are able to ascertain, any previous hint or indication of guidance, demonstrates itself in several remarkable ways, besides that of the migration flight, but in none perhaps more remarkably than in the case of the guanaco, a species of llama of South America, which resorts in large numbers to a certain place to die. In fact, it seems from the accounts given by Darwin and by W. H. Hudson, that all the guanacos of the southern part of Patagonia must resort, when the hour of death approaches, to a certain spot in a certain river bed which has become a perfect mausoleum of their bones. Mr. Hudson has hazarded a very ingenious hypothesis to account for this assemblage in the common mortuary. He notes, primarily, that it is only the guanaco of the southern extremity of the South American continent that has this habit; which is as much as to say that it is a habit restricted to descendants of forefathers who lived at one time in an extremely rigorous, semi-Antarctic climate. Mr. Hudson conjectures that among these forefathers the instinct grew up, when the stress of hunger and cold was very dire and they felt its chill setting upon them, of resorting to this sheltered place in the river bed, where they might find warmth in their own closely-collected numbers, and possibly food, which would enable them to outlive the days of extreme rigor.

By a continual survival of those which betook themselves to this place of refuge the race instinct would be formed of resorting thither when they felt the tide of life running low. This feeling, Mr. Hudson argues, their descendants are likely to experience now at the approach of the hour of death, and in obedience to it flock to the same resort. But now it is no longer just a passing spell of extreme cold which they can hope to survive that leads them thither. The death call has come, and they must lay their bones in the common mortuary. It is not "in order to die," as we frequently say, with a very common error in considering the ways of animals, that the guanaco seeks this place; it would be nearer the truth if we were to say it was "in order to live." But the most true account of all, no doubt (if the hypothesis is accepted,) is that it is with no conscious purpose at all, but in mere obedience to the inherited instinct, that the guanaco resorts to this refuge; and still the hypothesis, for all its ingenuity, leaves unanswered the question as it is answered by the so-called

COMMERCIAL BODIES IN SANTA ANA PASS RESOLUTION.

Condemn and Discourage in Every Way Any Opposition to Any Efforts Toward Improvement Made for Southwest Portion of County or Any Other Section of It.

SANTA ANA, Feb. 16.—The Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of this city promptly met the demand of the Huntington Beach mass meeting held Friday night by passing a resolution that reiterates the things said and done at the joint meeting of Santa Ana and Huntington Beach property holders in this city on Wednesday.

Huntington Beach wanted a resolution similar to the one passed at that meeting from the public bodies of this city. That resolution was passed this morning and forwarded to Huntington Beach, where it is reported a meeting with Assemblyman Stanton, whose bill proposes to cut off a territory from Orange county assessed for more than $1,200,000, was held. The resolution passed today follows:

"Whereas, it is to the interest of every section of Orange county that all portions of it should work together for the upbuilding of the whole county, and

"Whereas, there should be no jealousy or opposition between the several portions of the county. Now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Chamber of Commerce of the city of Santa Ana, and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of said city, that we will as organizations condemn and discourage in every possible way any interference or opposition, of which we may know or learn, to any efforts toward improvement made by or on behalf of the southwest portion of the county or any other section of the same. And be it further

"Resolved, that the said organizations and the members thereof will lend assistance whenever possible to any enterprise for the benefit of the southwest portion of the county, and all other sections thereof, and in particular will aid and assist in every possible way in obtaining control of the Santa Ana River and in the procuring of a good wagon road between the towns of Santa Ana and Huntington Beach, and will coöperate with the Board of Trade of Huntington Beach in securing an early construction of electric railway connecting the said two towns."

James McFadden returned today from Sacramento, where he went to help fight Stanton's bill. He said:

"There is no danger that Stanton's grab bill will go through. Our representatives there have the matter well in hand."

Trouble Between the Two for the Past Month Leads to the Use of Firearm in Effort to Lay Low One of the Antagonists—Bullet Glances from Bone.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OXNARD, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Edward Foldy was seriously wounded by a gunshot in the back, as the result of a quarrel in a saloon last night.

A feud has been brewing for the past month between Foldy and Will Phelan. Several times they have come to blows and have even been separated when using knives. It is said that a week ago they were heard to state that each would kill the other at sight.

The culmination of the quarrel occurred last night when Phelan, coming up to Foldy, who was facing the other way, hailed him and shot.

Foldy turned in time so that the bullet hit his shoulder blade and glanced off. He was taken at once to the hospital and it is stated will recover.

Phelan was at once arrested, but was let out on $2000 bail this morning. It is said that Will Phelan is a nephew of ex-Mayor Phelan of San Francisco.

DOG'S REMARKABLE INSTINCT.

Makes a Journey of Fifteen Hundred Miles in Search of His Missing Mistress.

A most striking example of animal instinct is furnished by the performance of a Scotch collie owned by T. G. Young, now of The Dalles, Or. D. L. Wiggins, a personal friend of Mr. Young, who lives in Vancouver, is authority for the statement that his dog traveled 1500 miles without other guidance than instinct, over a road he had never traveled.

April last Mr. Young and family, with the exception of a daughter, moved from Duluth, Minn., to The Dalles. The collie, a great pet, was turned over to the man in the baggage car and journeyed the entire distance in that manner. Upon arriving at The Dalles the dog was extremely discontented. He missed the daughter, who had been his lifetime friend. On the third day after the Youngs' arrival at The Dalles the dog disappeared. Every effort possible was made to locate him, but without avail. The daughter in the East was told of the dog's disappearance, and great was her sorrow.

Two weeks ago Miss Young was visiting at Superior, Wis., with a friend. She was strolling in a park when, with a dash, her Scotch collie, which she had supposed was lost for good, rushed upon her. For fully an hour the dog was frantic with delight.

There was no mistaking that the dog footed it all the way home from The Dalles, Or., to Superior, Wis. When he left The Dalles he was a fat, well-kept fellow, but when he arrived at Superior he was little more than skin and bones and his feet were raw from exposure and the wear of travel.

The most peculiar incident in connection with the dog's return is how he knew that his mistress was in Superior instead of Duluth, the old home of the Youngs. It is presumed that the dog went first to the former residence of the Youngs at Duluth, and finding no one there, and knowing that Miss Young was accustomed to go to Superior, often, he made his way there.

Making Use of a Rattlesnake.

The rattlesnake can be used to produce lumber in this way: Keep a rattlesnake at a starting point to bite the coupling pole and then drive slowly to the mill to give the pole time to swell, and saw when large and get as much out of the log as possible. Then take a small pole and place it in the wagon and go back to where the snake is and make it mad again. It will not take much to make it mad. Then let it bite the pole and proceed as before. If you want poplar lumber take a poplar pole; if pine, take a pine pole, and so on. By taking good care of the snake and driving fast back and slow to the mill you will be sure to have success.—[Walker County (Ga.) Messenger.

Hargrave Apartments, Corner Second and Figueroa Sts.

THE HARGRAVE, KATE B. REARDON, OWNER.

The reason why the Marshall & Stearns Co.'s Patented Wall Beds are used in all modern up-to-date apartments is because they have been thoroughly tested by the renting public and are demanded by them. Thousands of them are in use, because they save space and work, make two rooms of one, safe and sanitary. When not in use they are tilted into the light, airy closet of the room, right where it can be easily gotten at. Not shoved under the floor into a hole, where bed bugs and other vermin can breed, as are the beds which some of our competitors are offering the public.

Have you seen our Patented Fixtures in working order? You are invited to call and see them or send for a copy of "The House Ideal," which is descriptive and illustrative of our Patented Fixtures and contains much valuable information. It is mailed free upon request.

A Great Opportunity

READ CAREFULLY--As a usual thing when an investment is offered the prospective investor is asked to DONATE his money for the furtherance of some flowery scheme, generally all on paper. Note the difference. Here is a company only incorporated for $500,000 with practically all the stock still in the treasury, who have already expended about $25,000 in erecting a plant, complete in every detail, and are in every way a reliable, substantial company. The market for their product is the entire industrial field of the United States. They are manufacturing a roller bearing that runs positively WITHOUT OIL and has shown in the most exacting tests an actual saving of 60 per cent. in power. You can probably realize what this means. Factories with their hundreds of shafting bearings; laundries that are so troubled with oil getting on the linens; all kinds of rolling stock, automobiles, etc., will be able to equip with a bearing that will bring the trouble and cost of operation down to a minimum. At a recent meeting it was decided to enlarge the plant and for this purpose 10,000 shares of stock, no more, are to be placed on the market at 50c per share. See this bearing; you can see one operating in the window and at the city office, 312 South Broadway.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

Aside from the filling of local routine jobbing wants for over-Sunday requirements, there was little life in the produce market yesterday, continued stormy weather interfering with traffic in all departments.

Receipts of ranch eggs were 851 cases, the heaviest since May. The increased egg shipment caused the market to weaken. Local ranch candled dropped to 22 cents, and northern candled to 21 cents. Twenty-two cents was asked for local ranch, and 20 bid on 'change, but no sales were made. Over 500 cases of yesterday's arrivals came in by express from the San Joaquin Valley. Local receipts are increasing right along. The heavy arrivals yesterday caused no uneasiness, for great quantities will be consumed now that the retailers will sell the genuine local article at 25 cents a dozen. Egg jobbers reported the situation as steady and active at the reduced prices yesterday. The city demand now averages between 600 and 700 cases daily.

The butter market was steady.

Sales on 'change were: Eighteen sacks of garlic; 50 sacks of northern Autralian Brown onions; 10 sacks of white sweet potatoes; 75 sacks of Minnesota Early Rose seed potatoes.

Rules were adopted on 'change yesterday to facilitate business at the Produce Exchange between wholesale brokers and merchants who are members.

Cabbage is scarce at 1.50@1.60 sack. Mexican tomatoes are the only ones on the market now and sell at $2 per box.

Halibut and lobsters are still plentiful, all others are scarce.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 851 cases; butter, 12,933 lbs.; cheese, none; potatoes, 2774 sacks; onions, 600 sacks; beans, none; sweet potatoes, none.

COLUMBIA REMAINS EXCHANGE LEADER.

COLUMBIA OIL again was the feature of the market yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange. Sales amounted to 3300 shares, the price ranging from 58⅝ to 59¼. The demand, to open, seemed strong, but the stock moved sluggishly toward the end, and it was evident that buying orders had been satisfied. The close was at 58⅝@58⅞, showing but little change as compared with Friday's quotations.

Edison common made a strong advance among the miscellaneous securities. Twenty-five shares sold at 74.50, fully a point above the previous day's market. The demand remained strong, closing the stock at 74.25@75. The news of the proposed dividend on the Edison common is the direct cause of the rise.

Considerable activity ruled among the bank stocks. Trading was in First National and German-American Savings, ten shares of each selling, the former at 424 and the latter at 216. The close on the first-named was at 423.50@425, while 215@220 ruled on the other.

On the mining call, activity was divided between Eldorado Cañon and Consolidated Mines, 40,000 shares of the former selling at prices ranging from 3 to 3¼, either cash or buyer thirty days. The close quoted the stock at 3@3¼. The demand for this stock was stiffened considerably within the last two days, and many are predicting a rapid return to its recent selling level of 7½. The Consolidated Mines stock changed hands readily at 3⅛@3 cash, and at 3@3¼ buyer thirty days. Trading amounted to 19,000 shares, about evenly divided between the time and cash deals. The close was 3⅛@3¼. One trade of 1000 shares of California Hills was recorded at 9¼. Little change was apparent in the remainder of the list.

WEEK-END REVIEW OF THE ORANGE MARKET.

LOS ANGELES (Cal.) Feb. 16.—All orange shippers report much more interest on the part of the buying trade. Some lump offers for ten or fifteen cars have been made, though on too low a basis for shippers to accept them as yet. It is not probable, however, that there will be much advance in f.o.b. figures, even if the demand does increase considerably, as California must necessarily ship about all the markets can take for a little while, at least, before holding back for higher prices. There is still a shortage of refrigerator cars, and while it is possible this may become serious enough to limit the supply and force higher prices, this condition is not probable, as the Santa Fé claims to have arranged for a large number of cars from the Michigan Central, and the new cars of the Southern Pacific are coming quite freely. New York City still continues under the weather and the situation is rather depressed, and until such time as the weather is more favorable no material improvement can be looked for. Navels are giving satisfaction, the fruit is juicy and sweet with appearance all that could be desired. There has been considerable old fruit offered this past week, that has tended to keep the general average of prices lower than it would have been otherwise. This is fruit that was sent out without any particular destination and failing to find a market was finally dumped in the New York auction. Much of this fruit was spotted and showed unmistakable signs of frost damage. It is hard to give f.o.b. prices at this stage, as no two cars run alike. Good fruit of desirable sizes is worth about $1.75 for fancy, extra choice from $1.50 to $1.60, and choice $1.25 to $1.40. Large sizes will have to be discounted considerably from these figures.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Speculative sentiment was not distinctly outlined in the movement of today's stock market. It was in the last fifteen minutes that prices moved decisively upward to the high level at which the market closed. Up to that time the drift was sluggish and uncertain. The only active operations were in Anaconda, which exceeded yesterday's record level by ⅛, but closed about unchanged from last night. The cross currents in the banking operations of the week were so confusing that no clear conception could be formed of what the changes in the statement of condition would show. The improvement in the surplus item was accepted as removing a danger that the narrow margin might be encroached upon and some buying by traders followed on this account. The situation in the market is a good deal mixed. The effect of the government withdrawals of deposits from the national banks will be thrown over into next week's statement. The time money market, while nominal on Saturday, was reported stronger and money brokers expect higher rates next week. On the other hand, sterling exchange was weak and there was increased confidence that gold will be secured in London for New York next week. The market did not show any immediate response to the news of the placing abroad of $29,000,000 of New Haven Debenture bonds except that the weakness in the foreign exchange market was attributed to an exception that remittance to New York would follow on account of these subscriptions. The transactions were regarded, however, as an important indication of an improving feeling towards high-grade American securities on the part of foreigners. Sales of bonds, par value, $746,000. Bonds have, however, been in full demand, the short-term note issues still absorbing the attention of capitalists and investors. United States 2s registered have advanced ⅜ per cent., the 2s, coupon, ¼, and the old 4s, ½ per cent., and the new 4s, coupon, have declined ½ per cent. on call during the week.

TURN YOUR FACE INTO DOLLARS.

Many a Man Has Failed Because His Face Was a Picture of Calamity.

It takes sunshine to produce a rose, a perfect rose. And so man, to be successful, must have sunshine inside. The life which has it not, which has no health and no happiness, is sour, surly, pessimistic, and a failure. The world already has too many vinegar faces that breathe ill-will and strife. The world wants joy, comfort, sunshine, and will cling to the man who has it, who radiates gladness and triumph wherever he is and under all circumstances.

Some people have a genius for seeking out the disagreeable, the crooked, the bad and the ugly. These are the destroyers; they travel in schools, they herd together for they love their kind, and the cheerful part of the world will have nothing to do with them.

And why is it that so many peddle disaster, knowing at the same time that if they do, their lives will be ruined? Some people cannot help it, for pessimism usually comes from bodily disorders, and this cannot always be prevented. The stomach, for instance, is the most common cause of discontent, sour face, recklessness, disgust and lack of ambition. A bad stomach—there is the secret of many a failure. Any one can have a good stomach, a strong stomach, a stomach that can take care of anything and everything that is put into it, no matter whether it is a very bad stomach now or not. Then why not have it?

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do this very thing. One ingredient of these little tablets digests 3000 grains of food, and no matter how bad is your dyspepsia or indigestion, these tablets will digest everything in your stomach, thoroughly and completely, and better and quicker than a healthy stomach can do the same thing. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will cure quickly loss of appetite, brash, irritation, burning sensations, nausea, heartburn, eructations, loss of vim and spirit, bad memory, and dyspepsia and indigestion in their very worst forms.

No other little tablet in the world can do so much. You should carry Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets around with you wherever you go and take them after meals. Then only will you realize what it is to enjoy a meal, and perfect digestion means. Your whole body and your mind will feel the effects; your vim will increase, you will be more satisfied with what the world does, you will think happier and be happier and your face will be one of supreme contentment. That will bring you success and then more success. Your face will bring you dollars. Try it. It will cost you just 50c for a package of these wonderful Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, at any drug store on earth.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package, free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 51 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

Mexican Petroleum

Stock, bought now for exchange into two shares new preferred, with one of common, will prove from our own point of view a profitable operation as speculation or investment. It will give two shares new stock at about 68, at present market (entitled to 8 per cent. dividends on par, of preferred, on the new stock.) The new common is also expected to earn some dividends, as it is the only class of stock representing the new and valuable acquisition taken over from the Huasteca Co., asserted officially to have greater oil possibilities than even the original Mexican Petroleum. Let us explain new plan of reorganization and outlook.

SAN FRANCISCO LIST.

[Exclusive service to The Times by the Los Angeles Stock Brokerage Company, ground floor, Citizens National Bank Bldg., quotations guaranteed by the Western Union Telegraph Company.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Today's mining market showed a fair volume of business with prices firm at yesterday's quotations.

There was quite a little activity in the Goldfield's today, Black Butte Extension was traded in up to 20,700 shares on the call; St. Ives was up 5 points; Daisy 5 and Goldfield Consolidated 25, all of these stocks were heavily traded in.

Trading in the Bullfrogs was active without any special feature. There was very little trading in the Manhattans and Tonopahs.

From the character of buying in the better stocks today, a more active market may be expected next week.

The stock and exchange board will adjourn next Friday until Monday in respect to the natal day of Washington. Following are the closing quotations on the San Francisco stock and exchange, together with the regular call sales:

Regarding the conditions ruling on the San Francisco mining stock market during the week, J. H. Peters, a well informed broker of Los Angeles gave the following interesting interview to a Times reporter. "In reviewing the mining market of the past week, one cannot help but be impressed by the fact that in spite of the strong and determined bear movement of several weeks' duration, the bottom has been reached. The positive proof of this is easily at hand, as selling orders at regular limits are far more easily executed on the San Francisco Stock and Exchange Board, than buying orders. Furthermore, the market is very sensitive, and buying orders amounting to a few thousand shares on any particular stock, in almost every case, cause a perceptible flurry, and unless generous limits are given, very often fail to land the stock.

"The severe setbacks, such as strikes, the expiration of important leases on the Mohawk, which called for the complete reorganization of both the working force and methods on this leading property, as well as bad weather conditions, and shortage of timber and fuel, will from now on cease to retard the legitimate progress of actual mining in the Goldfield and other districts. The present season of the year is the logical time for a bull market."

EXPENSIVE NIGHT'S LODGING.

Buys Ticket on Ocean Liner and Merely Sleeps on Board One Night at the Wharf.

A New York dispatch to the Washington Post tells the curious story of how a man paid $110 for one night's lodging.

A large man who wore a yellow diamond and yellow spats, among other gorgeous articles of apparel, it says, paid $110 to sleep on the White Star liner Oceanic last night. He might have had a large room and breakfast at a Fifth-avenue hotel for the same money, but he chose to sleep nearer the deep blue sea. When the last official of the liner was preparing to go to bed last night to be up early for the start for Europe today, the man, whose name has not been learned, ran aboard the vessel, which lay at her pier north of Christopher street. He insisted that he should be given a cabin because he found it necessary to go to Europe at once.

"Why can't you come around in the morning?" asked the purser. "You will have time."

"No, sir, I must sleep here," he answered. "I would not miss this trip for a great deal. If I were to remain at home the alarm clock might fail me."

So after he paid $110 for a first cabin he went to bed. Early this morning, when the officers were scurrying about getting ready for the crowd that was to appear for the trip to Europe, the large man, still wearing his diamonds and his spats, appeared on the promenade deck with his little grip.

"What's the matter?" asked an officer. "Aren't you going over with us?"

"No, I guess not," he answered carelessly. "I have changed my mind."

The men of the ship's crew looked on in surprise. They had never before seen such a specimen. But some of the men in the local office of the company thought when they had heard of the affair that they had remembered the man of old. One of the clerks said that he understood that a man of the same description did the same thing some months ago, when the Baltic, another steamship of the same line, was about to sail.

CHARCOAL STOPS GAS ON YOUR STOMACH.

Wonderful Absorbing Power of Charcoal When Taken in the Form of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trial Package Sent Free.

Charcoal, pure, simple charcoal, absorbs 100 times its own volume of gas. Where does the gas go to? It is just absorbed by the charcoal—the gas disappears and there is left a pure, fresh, sweet atmosphere, free from all impurities and germs.

That's what happens in your stomach when you take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful purifiers science has yet discovered.

You belch gas in company, sometimes, by accident, greatly to your own humiliation. That is because there is a great amount of gas being formed in your stomach by fermenting food. Your stomach is not digesting your food properly. Gas is inevitable. Whenever this happens, just take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges right after eating, and you will be surprised how quickly they will act. No more belchings; no more sour risings. Eat all you want and what you want, and then if there is any gas going to be formed, one of these wonderful little absorbers, a Stuart Charcoal Lozenge, will take care of all the gas.

And it will do more than that. Every particle of impurity in your stomach and intestines is going to be carried away by the charcoal. No one seems to know why it does this, but it does, and does it wonderfully. You notice the difference in your appetite, general good feeling and in the purity of your blood right away.

You'll have no more bad taste in your mouth or bad breath, either from drinking, eating or smoking. Other people will notice your bad breath quicker than you will yourself. Make your breath pure, fresh and sweet, so when you talk to others you won't disgust them. Just one or two Stuart Charcoal Lozenges will make your breath sweet, and make you feel better all over for it. You can eat all the onions and odorous foods you want, and no one can tell the difference.

Besides, charcoal is the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

And then, too, it filters your blood—every particle of poison or impurity in your blood is destroyed, and you begin to notice the difference in your face first thing—your clear complexion.

Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges are made from pure willow charcoal and just a little honey is put in to make them palatable, but not too sweet.

They will work wonders in your stomach, and make you feel fine and fresh. Your blood and breath will be purified.

We want to prove all this to you, so just send for a free sample today. Then after you get it and use it, you will like them so well that you will go to your druggist and get a 25c box of these Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 54 Stuart Building, Marshall, Mich.

Would You

Invest $25, $50, $100 or more in a like number of shares of stock of the Delaware & Lackawana Steel Company, if you knew to an absolute certainty that each share would be worth five times what you paid for it within a year, and perhaps anywhere from $100 to $1000 a share in ten years or less time?

The officers of the Delaware & Lackawana Steel Company of Oxford, N. J., will not guarantee this big increase in the value of their stock now selling at $1 a share, because they do not have to do so, in order to sell it, but that does not necessarily mean that these shares will not in the near future each be worth a small fortune to the lucky owner. The history of other industries and inventions, some of which are of far less importance in the world today than the steel industry, that have made the STOCKHOLDERS RICH, are almost too old to be repeated. ONE SHARE of stock of the Bell Telephone Company, however, purchased at the first price offered is now worth over $2000. ONE SHARE of Calumet & Hecla stock bought at $1 is now worth $1510. ONE DOLLAR invested in Air Brake stock is worth $240 today. One dollar invested in the first chewing gum machine company formed is worth over $1000, and so on. OTHER STORIES of industries that have made the STOCKHOLDERS RICH are TOO NUMEROUS to mention. Hundreds of them are never told through the newspapers or by the lucky stockholders themselves; because they are satisfied. The industries that do not prove a success are those that you hear about usually from the man who has shut his eyes and invested his money without investigating. Nevertheless statistics composed of good hard facts show conclusively to the man who investigates that less than 10 per cent. of the commercial enterprises now doing business in the United States fail, also that the steel industry is paying as great or greater dividends to the stockholders than any other in the United States today, and this by making steel with the process now in use by the majority of plants all over the world.

Edwin Cooper Wills, president of the Delaware & Lackawana Steel Company, has a process that reduces, by eliminating all intermediatory handling of steel from the time it is made until it is cast into the object desired, which reduces the cost exactly one-fifth over methods now in use by other companies. This process for which Mr. Wills refused more than $5,000,000 from Wall Street in New York, is controlled by the Delaware & Lackawana Steel Company, who now has an immense foundry, machine shops, etc., at Oxford, N. J., almost in readiness to begin making steel. Treasury stock at $1 each is now being sold to pay for two immense $20,000 steel converters which are going to be put into the plant. The company already has enough orders for steel on hand to overtax the capacity of the mill for one year or more. The PROFITS are going to be ENORMOUS, and the best part of it all is that WE are in the position to let YOU share in these enormous earnings; that is, if you act quick. We have been given permission to take orders for this stock until it is ordered off the market. This will probably occur about March 1, at which time the plant will be running to its full capacity. Are YOU, or are YOU not going to have a share of the big profits from this new process of making steel—STEEL the product on which almost EVERYTHING in the world DEPENDS today: the erection of buildings, machinery, building of railroads and thousands of other things.

IT'S UP TO YOU.

ADDS OVER THIRD OF AN INCH.

RAIN SEEMS TO BE GENERAL IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.

Smart Shower Last Night Added Five-Hundredths to the Season's Total—Season's Precipitation About One-Half Greater Than That of Last Season at This Date.

Yesterday's rain in this city to 5 p.m. amounted to .39 inch, making a total of 13.43 inches for the season, as against 9.16 inches to the same date last season.

There was a smart shower for a little while last evening, but a reading of The Times rain gauge showed that it amounted to only .05 inch.

The rain appears to have been general over Southern California.

Pomona had .24 inch before 7 a.m. and about a half inch later in the day. Up to last evening Long Beach received .08 inch, making 10 inches for the season, which is less there than a year ago at the same date.

The precipitation for the storm in Riverside to last evening was .70 inch, making the season's total 12.22 inches. The rain will be a benefit to the grain ranchers in that county's back country, although it will temporarily delay plowing at a time when each day is precious. Orange growers will not be injured, as they are not picking the normal quantity of fruit, owing to the car shortage.

About San Jacinto early vegetation, including fruit buds, was threatened by a cold breeze Friday night. Frost was forestalled by rain, which began at 2 o'clock in the morning. There was a heavy fall of snow on San Jacinto and other high peaks.

In Santa Ana yesterday rain was falling off and on all day. The ranchers were not in need of the downfall. The most of the acreage of grain about the county has been planted and a spell of wet weather will delay the remaining acreage. About half an inch of rain fell in the course of the day.

The fall yesterday in San Diego to 5 p.m. was .16 inch.

In Kern county heavy showers fell in the early morning hours yesterday. It is the first downpour this month, and is much needed. A half inch has already fallen.

THREATENED WITH KNIFE.

Two Highwaymen Hold Up Citizen and Propose Stabbing Him Before Being Frightened Away.

Angered at not finding any money or valuables on Charles Richlin of No. 644 Banning street, last night, two highwaymen threatened to kill him, but were frightened away.

When Richlin was within a few doors of his residence, about 7:30 o'clock, a tall and a short footpad stepped in his path and told him to put up his hands. Richlin had his hands in his pockets and when he withdrew them to comply with the command, he palmed 25 cents—all the money on his person—in his left hand.

Finding, after a hasty search, that Richlin seemed to have no money, the taller of the robbers drew a long knife and said that if he could not find something after a more careful search, he would kill Richlin.

At that moment three citizens appeared, a short distance away, and the robbers fled.

GIRLS MISSING.

Believed to Have Been Enticed from Home and Police Are Asked to Search for Them.

Impelled by the fear that Florence White and Lena Germain, each 14 years old, have been enticed from their homes, M. P. Zeigler called at the Central Station last night and asked the police to do all in their power to locate the children.

Zeigler said that the girls left his home at Seventh and Crocker streets about noon on Friday and have not been seen since. Zeigler and the parents of the children have searched for them in vain.

Zeigler said that he had heard that the girls were in Pasadena, but that he had also heard that the children had been seen in the company of an older girl in this city.

TACOMANS ARE WELCOMED.

REPRESENTATIVES OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HERE.

Local Organization Gives Them a Reception at Which Interesting Addresses Are Made—Will Attend Temple Baptist Church Tonight. Two Weeks of Sightseeing.

Representatives of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, numbering over 100, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday morning and will spend two weeks in this city. The party has selected the Hotel Lankershim as its headquarters. Last night a reception arranged by the local Chamber of Commerce was tendered the visitors in the Broadway building, at which 500 persons were present.

The reception rooms and the exhibition hall of the chamber had been thrown wide open and gay decorations were displayed. Ex-Gov. N. C. Moore of Washington was the speaker of the evening. He disclaimed any preparation, but made an able address. He said that the commercial relations between the cities of Washington and Los Angeles should be strengthened and that the visit here of representatives of the Tacoma chamber was made for that purpose.

"We people of Washington are with the Californians in their stand in regard to the Japanese question," he said. "We recognize that the Pacific Coast States are peculiarly fitted to pass upon this question to the exclusion of other States. We of Washington agree with California that the Japanese should be segregated. We know that President Roosevelt, in his characteristic way, is in accord with California. There are knotty problems to be solved, but we know that California and President Roosevelt will solve them correctly and we are ready to back up any decision that may be arrived at."

In behalf of the local chamber, Gail B. Johnston, vice-president of the organization, spoke, as did also Joseph Scott. Both addresses welcomed the visitors and bade them come often.

L. W. Pratt, secretary of the Tacoma Chamber of Commerce, eulogized the Los Angeles organization and said that it was the greatest in the world of its kind. He said that the Tacoma body was proud to be considered a close second in the work of telling the world of the possibilities of the Golden West.

The visitors tonight will attend the Temple Baptist Church in a body. Tomorrow they will go to Pasadena and be the guests of the Pasadena Board of Trade. Tuesday there will be a trip to Santa Monica, Ocean Park, Venice and Long Beach and for Wednesday arrangements have been made for a trip to Catalina.

CAR VICTIM DIES.

A. H. Reed, a tourist, who was injured by a Long Beach car at Watts Friday, died at the California Hospital early yesterday morning. Reed was struck by the Long Beach flyer just after he had alighted from a San Pedro car. His wife had a narrow escape. Mr. and Mrs. Reed came to Los Angeles recently from Westmoreland, Kan.

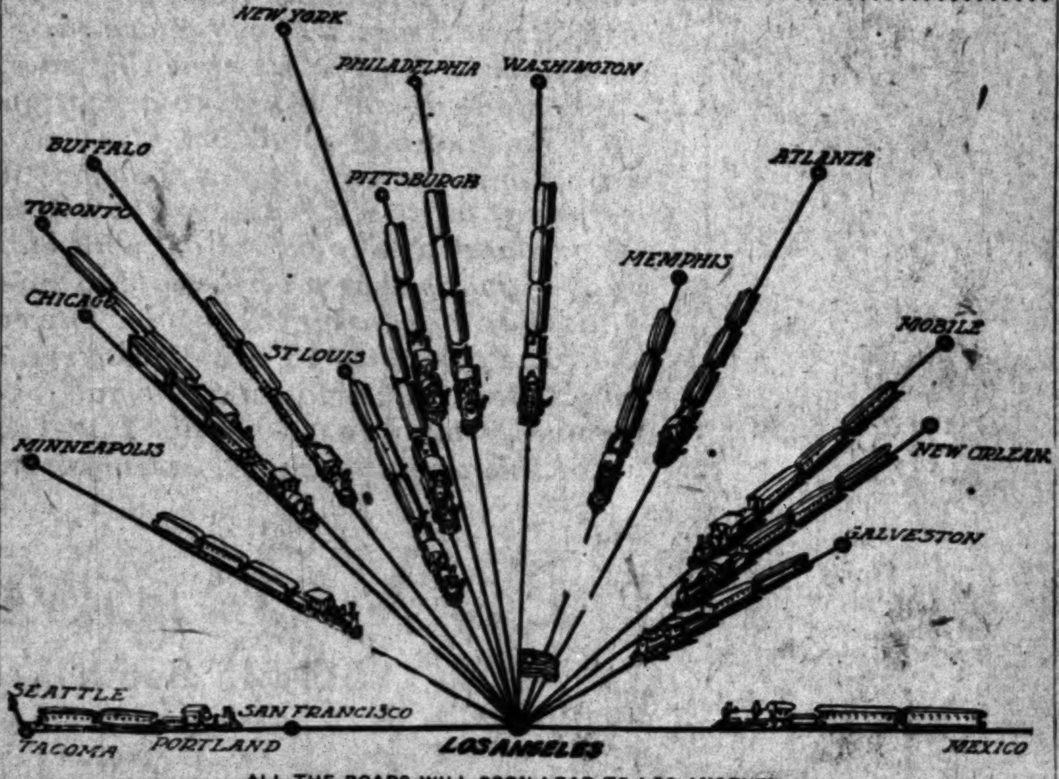
SHRINERS CHECKMATE HOPE OF SOME TO MULCT DELEGATES.

Only a Few Hotel Proprietors Proposed Exorbitant Rate for the Many Thousands Coming.

HEADING for Los Angeles from all parts of the country will soon be approximately 130,000 people, attracted here by a number of important national conventions, by the especially low railroad rates made by the three terminal lines, by the opportunity at a reasonable price to visit a city which is today the only American rival of the Rivera by the Mediterranean Sea. In climate, accommodations and points of interest no other city in the Western Hemisphere can compare with Los Angeles.

The Imperial Council, Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will meet here from May 6 to 11; the National Congress of Mothers, from May 10 to 16; the German Baptist Brethren, May 16 to 23; the National Eclectic Medical Association, June 18 to 21, and the National Educational Association, from July 8 to 12. It will be a busy time for the hotels, and any attempt upon the part of their proprietors to raise rates, or to discriminate, would be deplored as a a blow to the good name of this hospitable city, and a check upon making it the greatest convention city in the United States. Such an attempt already has been checkmated.



ALL THE ROADS WILL SOON LEAD TO LOS ANGELES.

Rapidly Los Angeles is forging to the front as a city of conventions. Every time a convention is held here it means more conventions. With every convention comes home seekers, while the beauties and advantages of Southern California as a place for homes, as a place for business opportunities, are spread to the four corners of the earth. "Get the conventions," says a railroad man well known here, "and we get the people." During May, June and July five national conventions are already scheduled for Los Angeles.

First in importance, as well as date, is the Imperial Council Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

This is the council which was to have met in this city last May, but owing to the San Francisco earthquake its cold-feet Imperial Potentate, then Collins, countermanded the session, in spite of the protests and petitions of the members of the shrines already arrived.

Yet because of this very postponement the council this year will be greater and more magnificent than ever, and for two weeks or more before its opening session the great railroads from the East will be congested with special trains bringing to the City of The Angels the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

MANY TRAINS CHARTERED.

Already many special trains have been chartered by the local shrines in the East and Canada. To date it is stated that twenty-seven special trains are booked over the Salt Lake Route. Later there will be more.

The Santa Fé and Southern Pacific traffic managers refuse to say just how many special trains they will bring, but it is expected that "between forty and fifty" would be about the right guess.

This will give some idea of the number of Shriners who will visit Los Angeles during Fiesta week to attend the Imperial Council, which will hold sessions from May 6 to 11. In special cars and in common sleepers they will also come. And with them will come thousands of their friends, relatives and strangers who are fond of good company and abnormally low railroad rates.

Never before have the three big railroads leading to Los Angeles so "spread themselves" to "make good" as for this occasion, unless it be for the other great convention to follow in July of the National Educational Association. No effort will be spared to make the service first class.

In this city the electric roads are preparing special trips, excursions, parties and rates for the Shriners. Beautiful souvenirs will also be given out by the Pacific Electric. Already away ahead bookings have been made for special trips in which whole shrines will participate.

The Pittsburgh and Cleveland Shrines will have special electric trains to San Gabriel, Pasadena and Long Beach. There will be special trains made up to Mt. Lowe to Santa Ana, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Newport Beach and to a score of other points of interest in this land of Flowers and Sunshine, and everywhere will glisten the fez of the festive Shriner and the pioneers will for once give them the right of way.

HARVEST FOR HOTELS.

With all this preparation and effort to make the distinguished visitors contented and happy, and ready to come again upon the first provocation, what are the hotels of the city doing to hold up their end of the game for prosperity?

Unfortunately there has been a spirit manifested in some quarters indicating that the hotel proprietors, or at least a few, are anxious to roast their goose and get the golden eggs too. One of the officers of Al Malaikah Temple explains that the most of the hotels have changed hands recently. It is one explanation.

For the hotel proprietors of Los Angeles there is an unprecedented era of prosperity coming, and that for a time which is usually considered here the dull season. They will be taxed to their utmost to properly take care of their guests.

Two in a room is already arranged for.

The committee is still hunting rooms.

When it was finally decided that the Imperial Council would meet in Los Angeles during Fiesta week the local Committee of Arrangements of Al Malaikah lost no time in asking every hotel keeper in Los Angeles for an estimate of the number of rooms which they could place at the disposal of the visitors and the prices at which they could be had.

FIRST PRICES—WHEW!

The first report as to the number of rooms was satisfactory. But the prices—whew!

In nearly all cases "just a slight addition" had been made for the occasion. Shriners have to have tents; they are not used to sleeping upon the hot sands. They leave that for the uninitiated.

But tent room in Los Angeles suddenly became at a premium. In one of the big downtown hotels the special rate was something frightful. It was enough to twist a camel's tail into forty dozen kinks.

The committee went into executive session with this hotel proprietor.

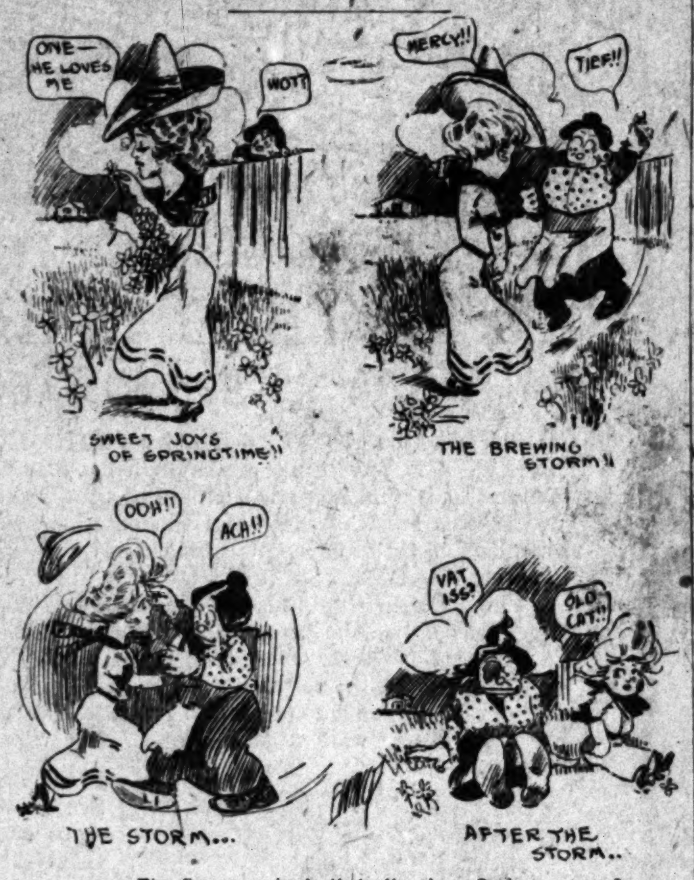
SOCIETY FISTICUFF SHOCKS THE TOWN.



ONE— HE LOVES ME
HOT!
MERCY!!
SWEET JOYS OF SPRINGTIME!!
THE BREWING STORM!!
OOH!!
ACH!!
VAT ISS?
OLD CAT!!
THE STORM...
AFTER THE STORM..

The flowery episode that stirred up Graham.

SOCIETY in the suburban town, Graham, is scandalized. Two of its leaders have had a rude fisticuff.

The battleground was a city lot over whose destinies Mrs. Emma Bartholomew presided as real estate agent. Miss Florence Keltie's "young man," however, had a mortgage on the lot.

Secure in this fact, Miss Keltie went strolling out on the lot to pick the first of this winter's wild flowers.

Mrs. Bartholomew, in her capacity as agent, leaned out of her window, and called imperiously: "Vhat iss ut you want on that lot?"

Miss Keltie merely gave her a haughty stare—her only reply.

The next events are somewhat mixed in the contemporary history of Graham society.

When Graham society arrived on the scene, the ladies were down on the ground, rolling over, tearing one another's hair, punching and scratching and hissing like agitated lady cats.

It required strong men to pull them apart.

Mrs. Bartholomew was arrested and taken to Watts for trial. The hostilities came near to being resumed in the courtroom.

The two ladies sat on opposite sides of the courtroom, glaring at one another in a most ferocious and uncomfortable manner. Whenever one would accidentally shift her position, the other would take it as a hostile move, and the court would nervously beg for peace.

"She called me a t'i-f," complained Mrs. B.

"She called me a liar," hotly retorted Miss K.

All of the gentlemen belonging to the respective families kept discreetly in the background, leaving the court to struggle with the proposition.

After the hearing of the case, Justice Kellogg decided that nothing could be found in criticism of either lady, and dismissed the case.

Justice Kellogg is a diplomat.

STOPS GUESSING CONTEST.

Bishop Cranston Announces He Will Not Preach Anywhere Today, but May Talk to Preachers.

Bishop Earl Cranston will pass today in this city as the guest of Sumner P. Hunt, but he will not preach. There has been more or less guesswork concerning what the bishop will do, but he set it all at rest yesterday.

"No sir," he said, when asked the direct question, "I kept out of all that this time; I will not preach anywhere today, but I will probably be at the preachers' meeting on Monday."

Bishop and Mrs. Cranston will leave for the North on Tuesday or Wednesday, and will sail for Japan in company with Dr. George B. Smythe and a number of representatives of other denominations, who have been gathering at San Francisco for some days past, preparatory to attending the centenary of missions in China.

LEMON IS FOR ORANGE COUNTY.

DUCK HUNTERS SEEK TO PEEL A LARGE SLICE.

Support Bill in Legislature for Confiscating Territory in Behalf of Los Angeles County—Complain That They Have Not Been Treated Fairly by Their Supervisors.

The duck clubs of Los Angeles and Orange counties, or about a dozen of them at least, have loaded up their scatter guns with all sorts of missiles, sneaked down into their respective "blinds" and propose to shoot a big hole in Orange county or bang off a slice of it at the first opportunity.

The whole trouble lies in the fact that a large bunch of the gun clubs whose members live in this city, and who shoot over the duck preserves along the northern coast line of Orange county, have become very weary over what they term the continuous neglect of the supervisors of Orange county in the matter of passable roads and occasional police protection and propose to remedy the evil by having themselves glued to Los Angeles county. They expect to do this under the provisions of a bill introduced into the Legislature by Assemblyman Stanton and Senator Carter, and there seems to be no question but that the bill will become a law in due time.

The scheme is to annex to this county a strip of the ocean front of Orange county extending from the present boundary line of the two counties, southeast for a distance of about fifteen miles and back into the country for three miles. It would take in Huntington Beach, Bay City and Sunset Beach, and would end at a point about a mile and one-half northwest of Newport Beach, and comprises one-third of the beach front of Orange county. [illegible] companies and the duck clubs interested [illegible] are the Bay City, Sunset Beach, Lomita, Blue Wing, Chico, Bolsa, Sunset, Greenwing, Surf, Goldenwest, Mills, Willow and Westminster. It is said that nine-tenths of the stockholders of the various companies are business men of this city and county and their investments have increased the taxable property of the section in question by 100 per cent.

Parties representing over 10,000 acres held a meeting yesterday morning and informally discussed the subject of annexation, and later had a conference with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce in order to get that body's recommendation for the bill. The matter was laid over and will come up tomorrow at another meeting.

The stockholders of the various companies are very much exercised over the matter. They say they have been paying taxes in Orange county for years and have never received any benefit. They say that the old Anaheim road that was opened in 1872 from Anaheim to Santa Ana has never been graded and they say it is almost impossible to travel over any of the roads in their part of the county because the supervisors will not fix them. The town of Bay City has no peace officer, and the sheriff will not appoint one, although the people there would pay his salary.

These things have made the land company people hostile and they will work hard for Stanton's bill. If they are annexed to this county, they want nothing from the county but their legal proportion of the tax money that will enable the roads to be repaired. If the county wont do that they will do it themselves and provide their own peace officer. In any event they want the present conditions changed and they expect these through annexation.

PEDDLERS ARE NERVOUS.

Fear Cost of License May Be Increased. Retail Grocers Favor Measure, Jobbers Oppose It.

Chinese, Greek and Italian vegetable and fruit peddlers of this city are greatly excited over the proposed advance in the cost of the peddling license, which goes before the City Council tomorrow for consideration.

Retail grocers are making every effort to have the license increased from $5 to $12.50 per month. The retail dealers say that the street peddlers interfere with their trade in garden truck. The peddlers say that their sales are small, and their profits meager, and that they interfere with no one.

There are now over 300 Chinese vegetable dealers in Los Angeles, who pay into the city's treasury $1500 per month. By increasing the license of all the vegetable and fruit peddlers, who now number over 500, the treasury would receive a considerable additional sum.

The retail grocers, it is claimed, would be able to ask prices for vegetables that would make it a luxury to eat them. The peddlers declare that if the cost of a license is increased, they will have to stop their wagons.

Vegetable jobbers at the market are also excited over the situation, as the street peddlers are their principal source of income.

Members of the Produce Exchange, too, met yesterday to protest against increasing the cost of the license for peddlers.

NEW ICE COMPANY.

Papers were filed in the County Clerk's office yesterday by the Consumer's Ice Company, which is capitalized at $250,000, $150 being paid up. The concern will establish a plant for the manufacture and sale of ice in this city.

TEMPERANCE WOMEN.

The Angeleño Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet on Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. Rilda M. Copeland, No. 1020 Kensington road, Angeleño Heights. Superintendents of the various departments will make their reports.

MAYOR ASKED TO REGULATE.

Japanese Fake Art Auctions Harm the City.

Cheapest Imitations Sold at Real Thing Prices.

Public Deceived and Honest Dealers Injured.

The sale of fraudulent Japanese "art" ware and curios as rare old articles direct "from the palace of the Mikado," and the foisting of imitations upon the visitor within this city's gates has, in the opinion of the larger merchants in this line, reached such an alarming extent that Mayor Harper has been asked to regulate the traffic.

The fact that fifteen red flags flaunt in the face of the visitor on Spring street or Broadway, indicating so many auction rooms, is said by these same complaining merchants to give the false impression that Los Angeles business houses have met with reverses and are compelled to sell out at auction.

HITS HONEST DEALERS.

One of the largest merchants in this line in the city, in whose storeroom over $150,000 in rare old goods was stored, and whose monthly rent is $700, or a little less than $25 a day, sold yesterday exactly $3.65 worth of goods all told. The day before he disposed of $4 in curios. This man has not one piece of imitation goods in his house. Rare old lanterns which came out of Peking during the Boxer rebellion; massive vases of genuine old Satsuma, etc., are there, but not one imitation.

Another merchant, an old resident, whose place of business is on South Broadway, has been compelled to almost abandon his Japanese art goods, and lays the entire blame for his troubles at the doors of the fake Japanese "art" auctions.

GOLDEN BUNCO.

"When a stranger in the city purchases a piece of Japanese ware from these auctions, and finds after he has returned to his eastern home that the article is a cheap imitation, he will have nothing further to do with any Japanese store," said the merchant yesterday. "The older establishments in the city have genuine Japanese works of art. They have catered to the refined taste of the eastern tourist, and sell an article for exactly what it is worth. These men have to suffer for the misrepresentation of the Japs," he continued. "There is no bunco game so flagrant as these auction rooms. The other evening I stepped into an auction on Spring street, and listened to the harangue [illegible] sale a piece of copper-bronze, which he said was genuine gold-bronze, inlaid with pure virgin gold, and straight from the best workshops of Japan. The piece was worth about $3. He sold it for $28 to a stout woman, who thought she had a bargain. In about three months when she looks at this piece again she will find the 'virgin gold' has worn off, and the piece is ordinary bronze-copper. Now, when this woman returns to Los Angeles she will have a bad impression of every art store in the city, and she will tell every friend how she was buncoed."

Another of the staunchest art merchants in the city, who has made Japanese art work a study, talked freely last night of some of the fakes worked off by the Japs upon the unsuspecting public. "An imitation cloisonne vase that is worth retail $6, and which is now sold for about $4," he said, "is offered by the Japs at their auctions as the genuine silver cloisonne, and as high as $60 is secured for the piece. The imitation is made of a copper body, covered with tinfoil and enameled. The real silver cloisonne so eagerly sought for is made of pure sterling silver body and silver covering.

"I have seen large vases or jars sold by the Japs as genuine Satsuma, and the statement made that the article dates away back to 1695. The webwork of cracks that is supposed to appear through age has been put in during the baking process. The genuine Satsuma vase is worth from $500 to $1000 apiece, and the imitation, as sold by the Japs, about $100, which leaves a good margin of profit for the merchant. Instead of selling the imitation only as an imitation, the Japs sell it as the real article, and secure sometimes $200 or $300 apiece for the vases.

CAN'T COMPETE WITH FRAUD.

"I do not ask odds from any man in business, and can compete with any man in the world in legitimate business, but I cannot compete against direct fraud. This condition has made the tourist upon whom we depend to a certain extent for our business, fearsome of all Japanese, as well as other art stores. I think there should be an ordinance passed stopping all such auctions, and permitting only legitimate business methods.

"Another instance is the Kaga ware. This is the real name, and it is the modern imitation of the ancient Eiraku ware. The Japs sell this Kaga ware as the genuine Eiraku. A small vase of Kaga is worth about 25 or 50 cents. The Japs sell it for the genuine article and secure six or seven times this amount. Eiraku is not made now and instead the old silver inlaid work that made this work so famous is copied with silver paint which soon wears off."

NEVER ANYWHERE ELSE.

A leading Japanese importer said yesterday that he had never seen in any other city such fraudulent Japanese auctions as there are in Los Angeles.

"The Japs have secured the service of a number of derelict auctioneers, who cannot secure the better class of work, and who work their way to Los Angeles to spend the winter in this mild climate. They work for little or nothing, and are thoroughly unscrupulous. The Jap instructs them in a little of the lore of Nippon, and the auctioneers proceed to attribute most astounding historical significance to every imitation that the Jap offers for sale. Prices in excess of what a bona-fide merchant secures for the genuine article are secured by the Japs, and when the deception is discovered the legitimate merchant suffers together with the defrauding Jap. There should be some ordinance passed regulating this business."

CAR CRUSHES FOOT.

Manuel Ortega, a barber living at No. 104 Belmont avenue, fell under the trucks of a First-street car at the corner of First street and Belmont avenue yesterday morning. His right foot was crushed. He was taken to the County Hospital, where the foot was amputated.

ENLARGE CITY HALF AGAIN.

What Annexation Would Do Next Thursday.

Los Angeles Not Fixed to Care for It All.

Strong Arguments Against Taking Blanket.

Wakening at the eleventh hour Councilmen, Water Commissioners and members of the Board of Public Works are protesting against the proposed annexation of the blanket district. A special election will be held Thursday to decide whether twenty-three square miles of territory lying to the north and the west of the city shall be annexed.

Six months ago the Water Board passed a resolution protesting against admitting this outlying territory at the present time. The commissioners assert that the city is not now in position to supply the territory with municipal utilities and protection.

Folded about the city like a garment the new district extends for eleven miles about the northern and western boundaries. It extends from Jefferson street along the entire western and northern limits, and south about a mile and a half along the eastern city boundary.

Thursday afternoon the Chamber of Commerce passed resolutions indorsing those adopted by the Water Board and recommending to the citizens of Los Angeles that they go to the polls Thursday and vote against the annexation.

The new district contains one-half the area of the present city limits, excluding the "shoestring;" its population is less than one-twentieth that of the city; the assessed valuation of the property is about one-fortieth that of Los Angeles.

WATER THE MAIN THING.

Commissioners of the Board of Public Works assert that for the next ten years the city would spend more on the streets of the new district alone than the entire taxes paid by that territory. But it is by reason of the present water conditions that the most strenuous opposition comes to the annexation. The city is not in position to give to the territory the water supply it would have a right to demand, and it would be almost impossible to afford adequate fire protection. A number of fires in this outlying territory would affect the insurance rates of the entire city.

Part of the territory is fertile, well watered and fairly populous, but much of it is composed of hill ranges and cañons that are little suited for city lots. The original petition provided for the annexation of a part of the Cahuenga Valley only. Property owners in the other district formed an association and secured a petition which embraced the Cahuenga district in the blanket petition. The Cahuenga residents protested, but they could not help themselves.

A LARGE AREA.

[illegible] territory covered by the blanket petition: Starting at Jefferson street on the west city line, the new district extends west about a mile and a half, half way across the old Rancho Las Cienegas. From there the line runs in a northeasterly direction to the center line of Colegrove. It skirts the southern and eastern boundaries of Hollywood and includes the whole of Griffith Park.

From Griffith Park the line runs north to the southern line of the incorporated city of Glendale, taking in the whole of Tropico and hundreds of acres of valuable and highly productive land in the valley of the Los Angeles River. This territory comprised the original annexation district.

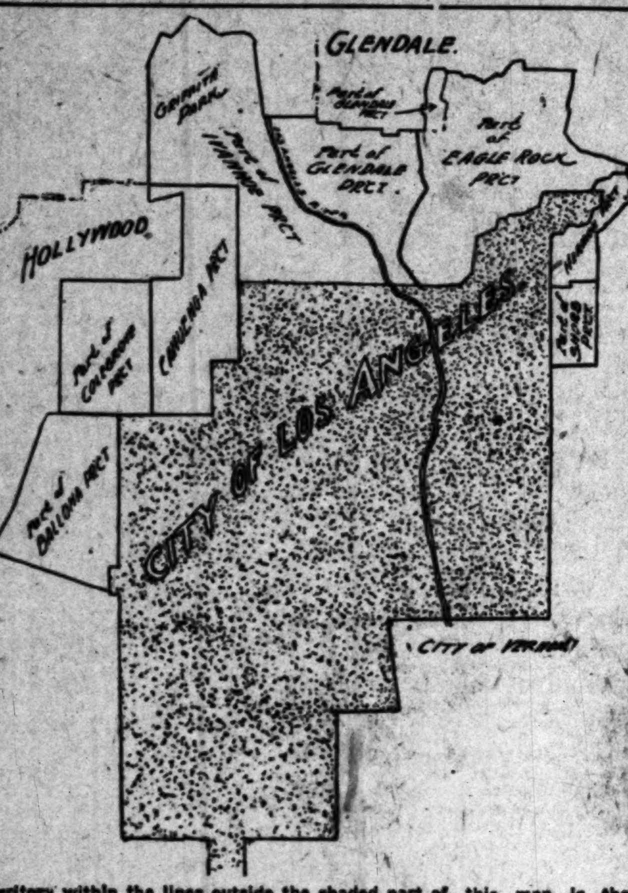
At the southern boundary of Glendale there is a long jog north along the eastern boundary; then another east, following the contour of the foothills to the western boundary line of Pasadena. This sweep includes the Eagle Rock country, and several square miles of foothill territory, including the greater portion of the Johnson ranch. It brings the quaint little Church of the Angels within the proposed new city limits.

The line turns south just east of Eagle Rock and parallels the western boundary of Pasadena for half a mile; then it turns east and becomes a part of the west lines of Pasadena and South Pasadena. From here it continues south to a point about half a mile east of the line where Downey avenue intercepts the city limits; turning to the west it joins the present city line about a block south of Downey avenue.

The general outline of the new territory is that of an inverted crescent; the distance between the cusps, roughly estimated, is seven miles. The inner [illegible] and the outer is seventeen miles.

When the Cahuenga and Colegrove districts were included the committees from these suburbs were not consulted; in fact, they protested violently against being relegated to a place as a square in the patchwork.

The State law provides that when a petition is filed, signed by 5 per cent. of the electors of a municipality, providing for annexing new territory, the Council must call an election at once.



The territory within the lines outside the shaded part of this map is the twenty-three square miles included in the blanket petition for annexation to the city, which will be voted on next Thursday. The project is opposed by the Chamber of Commerce, Water Board and others on the ground that the city is not in position to provide municipal utilities and protection to so large an additional area.

The blanket petition contains the names of more than 8000 electors of Los Angeles.

WHY THERE'S OPPOSITION.

The Board of Public Works protests strongly against the proposed annexation by reason of the lack of sewer facilities. The city is in no condition to provide a sanitary sewer system for this territory.

From the Fire Commission comes a protest that it will be impossible to extend proper fire protection to the new district. The magnificent distances in the outlying territory remove the greater portion of the territory from the pale of possible protection.

Asked for an opinion as to the advisability of annexing this territory, the Consolidation Commission recommended against taking in any territory at the present time, except that lying diretcly between the city and the ocean. This recommendation cuts out the whole of the Eagle Rock district.

Speaking of the coming annexation election, a member of the Board of Public Works said yesterday:

"All the contiguous territory seeking admission lies in the lines of progress. In time it will form a part of the great metropolis of the southland. But it is plain that the city is not in position at the present time to care for this territory. We must consider whether it is wise to load the city with the additional expense of this district until we are across the desert without water supply."

Commissioner Edwards concerns himself chiefly about the streets in the new district: "For the next five years," said Mr. Edwards, "[illegible] would expend on the streets alo[illegible] strip would pay in taxes; to take in that territory now would place a grievous burden on the taxpayers inside the city limits."

"The annexation election has come perilously near carrying by default," said Assessor Mallard last week, "there has been no official objection to the admission of the new district, and there are enough people living in the city, and owning property to vote it in."

THE STANDARD'S SET-BACKS.

Those who persist in crediting the Standard with almost superhuman foresight and who believe it is absolutely invincible, should find food for reflection in its present position in California. The Times has long maintained that in attempting to control California oil the trust was undertaking a job very different from what it had been accustomed to in the East. The latest change of tactics goes to prove it.

It has always been the policy of the Standard, with few exceptions to the rule, to produce no oil of its own but to buy, refine and market that of others. The risks connected with production it prefers to let others take. With a product that was useless unless refined this was not so difficult, secret processes and costly plants entering into the question quite extensively; but with crude fuel oil the producer sells direct to the consumer and only the question of transportation has to be considered.

Here again the Standard has a new problem to deal with. Hitherto it has found the producer located far inland and at the mercy of the railroads, which Mr. Rockefeller made willing allies. But on coming to California the situation was quite different. All the fields are near tidewater, some of them almost in sight of the ocean, and, with the exception of that of Kern River and some at Sunset, all the product is easily pumped, while even this excepted oil can be piped by lightening with other oil. Pipe lines have been built by independent capital and oil marketed despite the trust. The Union has conclusively demonstrated that others can both produce and market California oil without the Standard's help.

The Standard's record in California is one of which it can hardly boast. It started out to follow its time-honored policy of not producing. It built a costly pipe line, which for half its length has only been half successful. It has displayed a strange lack of consistency in its policy, doing one thing today and reversing its course tomorrow. For three years it had a working agreement with the Associated. Now it begins to look as though that were a thing of the past. Open competition is now the rule in all the northern fields. For years the trust affected to despise the crude fuel business, no oil except that of 22 gravity and over, such as was suitable for refining, was wanted. Now the Standard takes anything it can get and makes no distinction between the various oils, a complete reversal of policy.

Two years ago the Standard set out to wipe the local refineries at Los Angeles off the earth. They are still here, however, and the trust now has troubles enough of its own.

Today the Union is getting control of the foreign fuel market, where the Standard has nothing. The Standard set out to keep the Union from crossing the Isthmus of Panama and was utterly routed at Washington so that California independent oil is about to invade the East and Europe.

A year ago the Standard had almost an absolute monopoly of refined oil in San Francisco; now the Union has entered that field, too.

A little over two years ago the Standard with a haughty air offered 12½ cents at the Kern wells. Now it is hustling to buy all the crude it can at 30.

But the most humiliating check which the Standard has suffered, and which is one of the main causes of its present vexation, was the way in which its British rival bought up the source of supply at Coalinga right under its nose and left the trust nearly stranded.

At this late date it appears as though it has at last learned what it should have known at the start, that in California, if it wants to do business, it must produce and market its oil like any one else, taking the risks of production, which it has endeavored to avoid; that it can no longer be too particular; and above all that it cannot dictate. The crude fuel trade is one that can neither be ignored nor controlled.

The Standard's lesson may prove costly, as land is not as cheap as it was a few years ago when the Standard disdained to buy.

A prominent New York politician says Fairbanks will be our next President. In looking over the other part of the same paper, however, we noticed that the day on which this interview was given out was the coldest that New York has known this winter.

"California cities are afflicted with fleas," says the Chicago Tribune. No, no! The flea has abandoned California cities, making it just that much harder for heaven to compete with us.

SOUTHERN SENATORS AND THE LABOR PROBLEM.

By the latest news from Washington it appears reasonably certain that there is to be an end to the controversy between the Federal government and the labor-union politicians who run things in San Francisco over the question of Japanese pupils attending the public schools. The price at which the Schmitz gangsters have agreed to surrender this contention is represented as the exclusion of Japanese laborers from the United States. It seems an extremely high price to pay for so small a package of goods of questionable quality.

The Times has heretofore pointed out the probable desirability of limiting in some degree the influx of Japanese laborers to our island possessions as well as to the mainland. Their entire exclusion now or in the future, unless that future is remote, may well be questioned as to its wisdom.

The controversy has brought about a curious phase in the diplomacy necessary to get any measure through the Senate of the United States. The proposed bill carried a drastic clause against the introduction into any part of the United States of "contract labor." The growth of industries in the South has been very rapid, and properly the southern people do not want this development of their industries checked. The chief obstacle in the way of this development is lack of labor. Certain Southern States, wherein the activity is greatest, have sent agents abroad over the world for the purpose of inducing willing laborers to come to these States, share in the prosperity of the day and help do some of the work. The Senators from these Southern States refused to support this exclusion act unless some modification was made in reference to the labor so necessary in their several States.

The point which rises highest in this controversy is the entire willingness of these southern Senators to consent to the exclusion of the Japanese provided Italian, Greek and Slav immigrants are not checked in coming into the Southern States. Here these southerners show a higher type of patriotism and of citizenship than our own representatives in the House of Representatives and in the Senate from the Pacific Coast. The Schmitz idea seems to have a firm hold in the minds of all the Pacific Coast delegations in Washington. Our Senators and Representatives know just as well the desirability of an increased supply of willing labor in the Pacific States as those Senators do in regard to the States of the South. But Gompers has less influence over the South Carolina Senators than Schmitz exercises over those from California.

PUBLIC SQUANDERSHIP.

The unsound reasoners who advocate general public ownership of utilities are getting the hardest jolts of years right at the present moment. These jolts are as frequent as the recent earthquakes, and they strike in many quarters.

Read The Times of Saturday morning, scan the figures which show the increase in expense of conducting the various city offices during the last two or three years, and see if you want the same management of all utilities that is responsible for this squandering of the taxpayers' money.

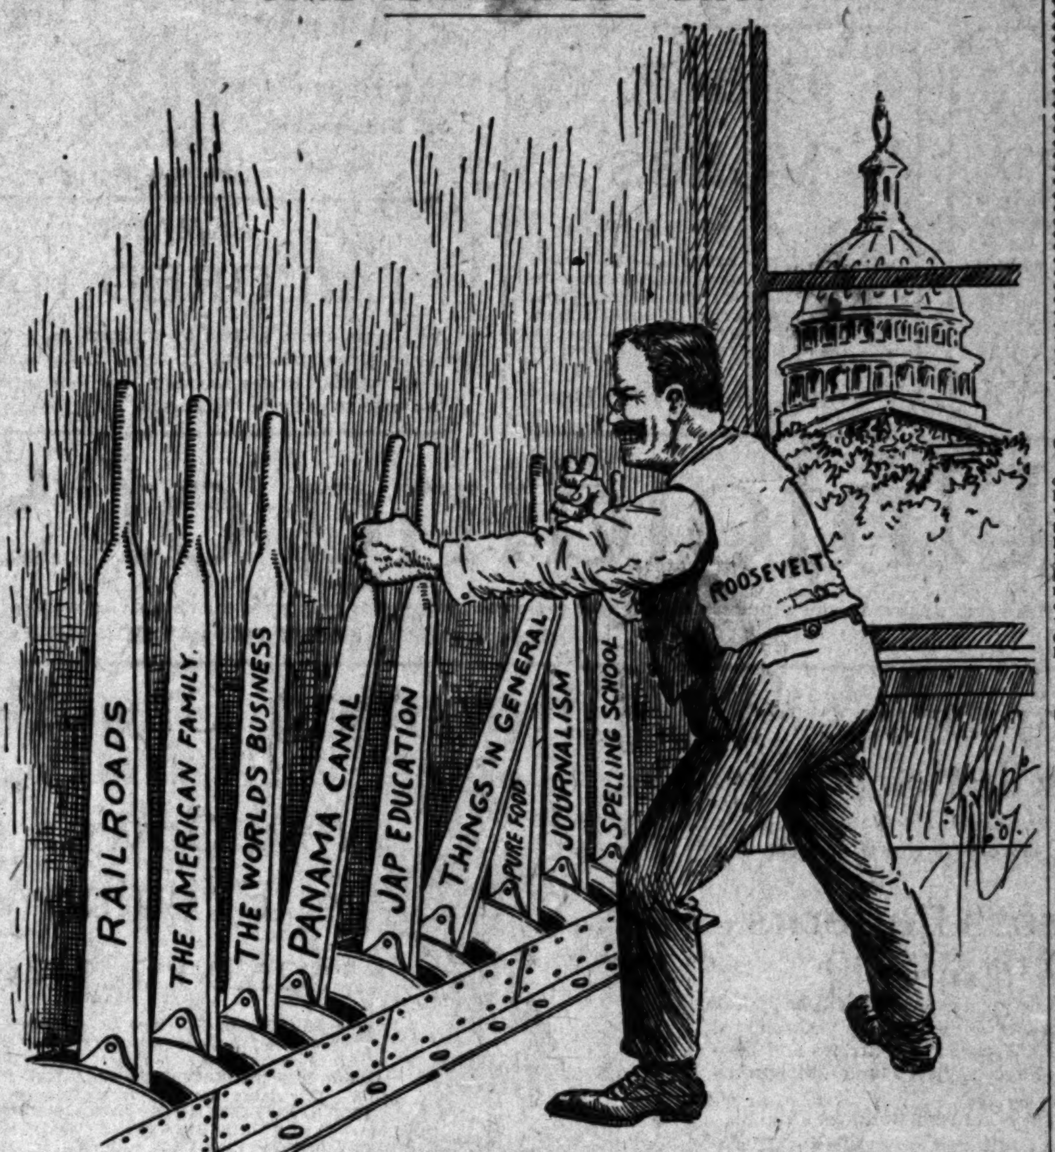
We will concede that our city is growing as rapidly as any reasonable person will care to claim, and that this growth of the city naturally demands an increase in the cost of conducting public business. The growth of the cost should not, by any means, be in the exact ratio of the growth in population. It is only here and there that this growth of the city and extension of its borders really call for additional employés. But when it comes to increasing the expenses four or five times as fast as the city grows, then we begin to get the exact measure of this public squandering of public funds for rendering public services in many cases in such an unsatisfactory manner that under private ownership such employés would either have to reform or make room for more efficient persons.

When you are done with your observation upon the way of doing public business down at the City Hall, take an excursion to Sacramento and observe there the way politicians attend to the public business. Grasp Senator Savage's bill to pay every most incompetent hireling of city, county or State a minimum wage of $3 a day. Then go back to the beginning of the session and study carefully the open raid made by almost every Senator and Assemblyman in the Legislature upon the public treasury, squandering the taxpayers' money again upon political heelers, who are given sinecures at the expense of the taxpayers to square up accounts between these heelers and the legislators whose election they are supposed to have forwarded.

Continue your investigations to the city of Washington and learn why the government of the United States, conducted by men of a little larger caliber and presumably of a little purer patriotism than the Councilmen and district Senators and Assemblymen, failed to manage the digging of the Panama Canal and forced the turning of that undertaking to a private corporation. One Samuel Gompers got the ear of grave Senators and statesmanlike members of the House of Representatives. This agitator told these brethren that certain labor should not be employed in digging the big ditch. Gompers did not care one copper cent how long it took to dig the canal, or how much the cost of that work would be to the people of the United States. He had simply one purpose in mind—to make an abominable graft of the big undertaking by which his followers in the labor trust would be paid two hours' wages for one hour's work. The Senators and members of the House of Representatives seemed to be taking their cue from Gompers. The result was turning over the digging of the canal to a private corporation, which will seek to get the most efficient labor and pay the ruling wages of the world for doing the work. Under government control, the ditch probably would not be dug in fifty years, and would cost 100 per cent. more than was necessary. Under private contract the work will be performed in proper time, and we will know something like what it is going to cost.

When the county sought to vote bonds for public improvements during the past year the bonds were voted down by the people in several instances. The reason given by the great mass of the voters for voting against these bonds was that they would not entrust the spending of the money to the politicians. The voters of California would hate much to entrust the spending of two more years' taxes to the Legislature at Sacramento. What would we come to if men of the same type as these Councilmen and legislators, instead of having their operations circumscribed to the mere routine work of making laws and enforcing them, had utilities of every kind in the cities, counties and the State of California under their thumbs, intent as ever upon using their power and position first of all to reward their henchmen and then pave the way for their own reëlection?

"THIS IS MY BUSY DAY."



THE GIRL WHO WORKS.

Among the pathetic features of the strenuous life America is leading at the present time is the girl who works. You see her every evening on the street cars as she returns homeward after the grind of her weary day's toil.

While there is too much driving done in the commercial life of the age, still it has not yet reached the stage, perhaps, where a man is unable to stand it. But it certainly has reached the stage where nine women out of every ten who work are unable to stand it.

Everybody is rushed. Business is "great" and the orders must be kept up with. Every employé must keep head and hands moving from the moment the store and office doors open in the morning until they close at night. Women no more than men can be spared. But the women can't stand it as the men can.

It would be a great blessing if something could be done to make it a little easier for the girl who works. And why can't it be done?

FORGET THEM NOT.

At the Great Assizes the humble offering that comes from a willing heart to the cause that needs will have as full recognition as a thirty-million contribution from a Rockefeller.

The Times knows that there are hundreds of willing hearts in Los Angeles that are touched by the genuine distress of the sufferers from that awful explosion in our city, and that without any other thought or aspiration than a desire to do good they will help swell the fund for the benefit of these stricken ones.

The sufferers are our neighbors and friends, very near and very dear to some of us. They are all deserving. We can easily put ourselves in their places and in the places of their dependents. Ten dollars for them right now will be of more real and immediate blessing than a thousand donated to somewhat else, perhaps.

Friends, we know we need say no more. There is not a particle of doubt of a generous response to the call for contributions to The Times fund for these, our own.

SAN CARLO MATTER.

City Council Allows Use of Angelus Rink, and Board of Public Works Will Pass Final Decision.

Yesterday morning the City Council passed a concession to the standing ordinances, allowing the use of the Angelus rink, at Eighteenth and Main streets, to the San Carlo Opera Company. The grant still requires the signature of the Board of Public Works to make it effective.

It is believed, however, that there will be little opposition to the project.

In case the board approves, contracts will be immediately signed for an engagement lasting from March 4 to March 18, during which time sixteen operas will be presented.

The opening opera will be Ponchielli's "La Gioconda," with Lillian Nordica in the title role. Sig. Constantino will sing Enzo Grimaldi, while Mme. Monti-Baldini and Sig. Perello del Seguerola will be in the roles of next importance. "Rigoletto" will be given the following evening, featuring Sig. Constantino and Alice Nielsen, with the great baritone Giuseppe Campanari in the name part.

Ferullo and his band will probably play the Southern California circuit during the engagement.

PLEAD CROCKER CASE.

PARIS, Feb. 16.—The Public Prosecutor in the First Tribunal of the Seine today presented his conclusions in the suit brought by George Crocker of San Francisco to recover $20,000 from Dr. Doyen which Crocker paid to the physician in 1904, for treating the late Mrs. Crocker for cancer. The conclusions were against Crocker's contention. The tribunal announced that a decision would be rendered next week.

THE LANCER.

More than one President of the United States has complained wearily of the burden heaped upon his patient shoulders by the patronage system, in addition to the legitimate work of his office, and now and then one has all but broken down under the strain. The present occupant of the White House, however, finds the job of managing Uncle Sam's business almost a sinecure, and has to hunt around for other things to keep him busy and down to anything like good fighting condition.

Managing the railroads of the country is generally deemed a big job for a goodly number of pretty big men, but it is only a before-breakfast diversion for the human dynamo in the White House. It may be asserted by the captious that no conspicuous improvement in railroad service has been noted since Mr. Roosevelt took charge, but such criticism is impertinent. Mr. Roosevelt is not so much concerned with results as with finding something to do in his spare time.

It occurred to the President one morning that the diet of the American people needed regulating, and before night he had the meat packers canned and Congress busy telling us what to eat, and how to distinguish sawdust and excelsior from other brands of Battle Creek breakfast stuffing.

Between writing magazine articles and showing the Czar and the Mikado how to govern their people, he found time hanging heavy on his hands, and for exercise he ran down to Panama and showed the men on the job how to dig a ditch. Then he appointed himself the national schoolmaster, and started a spelling bee, which set up a buzzing about his ears that he probably enjoyed hugely while it lasted. It was no fault of his that Congress and most of the "lit'ry fellers" would not learn to spell after the Roosevelt fashion. When his spelling class proved refractory, he took charge of the San Francisco schools and delivered lectures to California on pedogogics and municipal law, which attracted even more attention than his famous discourse on race suicide, in which he begun his campaign to regulate the size of American families.

There would appear to be enough work in all these diversions of the President to absorb even his superabundant energies and keep him as busy as a cat on a tin roof, but there is no limit to his activities or his ingenuity in hunting trouble. He now proposes to edit all the newspapers in the United States, and supervise the reading of a hundred million people. That is a task that would have stumped Hercules, and I fear that if the President undertakes it he will find his big stick but a broken reed.

Called Down.

Charlie Bell has justified the confidence of the decent citizens who sent him to the State Senate in place of Ben Hahn, the Pasadena pass beggar and duck peddler. Bell's calling down of the Southern Pacific's drudge distinguishes him from the squalid gang of invertebrates and petty grafters, doing time at Sacramento with railroad ball and chain dragging at their heels.

The fat lackey of the Railrogues, drunk with the insolence of a butler among scullions, unable to control Bell—or, for that matter, any man having the self-respect of a Chinaman's yellow dog—slandered him through the columns of a paper whose legislative correspondent is one of the "boss's" crafty boosters, seeking to discredit Bell by spreading a report that he had tried to buy his way into the favor of the corporation debaucher of legislatures. Unfortunately Senator Bell weighs only about a third as much as the Southern Pacific's man-of-dirty-work, and, therefore, it was not feasible for him to pedipulate the swollen pup and send him kivodling through the streets of Sacramento, but he faced the fat libeler and forced him into stammering, craven equivocations in the presence of a servile crew of "statesmen."

There are two methods, available to Senator Bell, of dealing further with the Southern Pacific's hired blackmailer. One is to run him out of Sacramento with a gun—and the gun need not be loaded—and the other is to demand of the Senate that the fellow be tin-canned and chased away from the Capitol.

The fellow, of course, is merely a hired drudge, earning his dirty wages and doing the best he can for his employer, and it would be absurd to waste upon him personally the wrath that should be directed against the corporate debaucher of government in California. But corporations have no terminal facilities for the toe of a boot. Therefore, it is necessary to manifest disapproval of their policies by kicking the most pernicious and offensive of their representatives. The Southern Pacific could be kicked out of politics in the person of its corpulent lackey, and nature has adapted him admirably to the purpose.

Against Malibu Reserve.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I noticed in a recent issue of The Times an article regarding the proposed forest reserve in the Santa Monica Mountains, above Malibu ranch.

During the month of June, 1902, this department, under my direction, caused an examination to be made of the Malibu mining district, which included the west half of Range 16, and the whole of ranges 17, 18 and 19, T. 1 S., and extended north to the San Bernardino base line, and it was carefully inspected as to the advisability of the same being converted into a forest reserve. A field assistant rendered an adverse report, as it was found that no good reason could be found for this district being converted into a reserve. The district produced scarcely any timber, and the waters were found to flow to the west into the Pacific. Shortly after the report was made, I forwarded a copy to Representative McLachlan, with a protest against these lands being converted into a forest reserve, as I did not believe that the conditions found would merit such action. This report was forwarded to Representative McLachlan, as he was the representative of the district, and I considered that he was the proper person to refer the matter to either the general land office or the forestry department. Upon urging Representative McLachlan to present the matter to the proper department, he advised me under date of January 10, 1903, that I should send the report direct to Commissioner Binger Hermann, then commissioner of the general land office. Mr. McLachlan evidently did not wish to assume the responsibility of the matter.

While I have been in favor of extending the forest reserve system throughout the State, where any good might accrue from it, from the contents of the report made by the field assistant of this department, I believe that the lands embraced in the Malibu and Santa Monica districts should not be included in a forest reserve. I was of the opinion that the matter had been definitely settled a long time since, and that these lands would remain as they are. I shall at once take the matter up again with Hon. Gifford Pinchot, forester, of Washington, D. C., and endeavor to ascertain his views on the subject, and further protest against the creation of this proposed reserve.

Are We Civilized?

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The daily press is announcing a "grand hunt" soon to take place in the vicinity, the hunters dividing into two parties, competing with each other as to which side will kill the greater number of birds. The hunt will end in a supper and jollification.

Now I would like, through your columns, to ask those individuals who are doing and proposing to do this thing, a fair, square question: What warrant have you, outside of the brutal law of might, that you presume, with red hands and merciless hearts, to thus inflict upon the face of nature blood, slaughter and suffering in the dishonored name of "sport?" Who gave you the right to maltreat my brothers of humbler species, to invade their homes, and make of their distraction and pain a mockery and hilarity? Is this civilization? In the name of intelligence and decency I protest against this continual barbarous exploitation of our subhuman friends by individuals who because of good clothes, social affiliations, smirking faces, and the latest instruments of destruction, arrogate to themselves the name of gentleman! Such appellation, however, slides from them as readily as water from the backs of the creatures they persecute, for no gentleman for "fun" or "sport" inflicts pain on a defenseless creature.

Civilization? The "side-hunting" I have described would make a savage blush with shame. It is cruelty gone to seed. It is a product aped by American snobbery from the degradation of Europe, where the idle and degenerate representatives of stolen wealth and social corruption think their festivities colorless if their blood-lust is not gratified by the butchery of some living thing—living things endowed with nerves and sensitiveness, perhaps to crawl away wounded and die miserably in some secluded spot.

So, too, with their art. Japanese art has almost revolutionized our methods of illustration within the last few years. We are trying to learn from them.

The Japanese have attempted more in the way of copying our writing than in any other branch of art; and with curious results.

One of the Japanese literary men lived in Los Angeles for some years and married an American wife here.

For a time he was a howling hit in the magazine world; but faded. The peculiarity of his mind was a lack of continuity; and a lack of the sense of analogy.

His stories were replete with imagery and weren't about anything much. You were charmed while you read and couldn't remember what it was about two minutes afterward.

In business dealings, he could be convinced that a certain line of literary policy was essential. In circumstances exactly analogous, arising the next minute, he would have to be convinced all over again.

There seems to be some curious lack in the Jap brain.

Japanese school children learn like lightning in certain regards; yet very oddly.

Some one was teaching a Jap boy to read English not long ago. He learned in an astonishingly short time to read aloud from the classic about the little red hen and fox.

Finally a thought occurred to his teacher. "What is a hen?" she asked him.

"I do not know, ma'am," he said.

"What is a fox?"

"I do not know ma'm!"

On the other hand, how is it that three of the greatest medical discoveries of the past year were made in the laboratories of Japan by Japanese surgeons?

Mr. Jap, you are the puzzle of the ages. We have learned enough about you to know that we know nothing at all.

FIGHT OVER BILL.

Act to Amend Civil Code Favored by Grocers, but Opposed by Furniture and Fixture Dealers.

Tangible assets versus intangible liabilities seems to be the line-up in the fight for and against Senate bill No. 198 and House bill No. 90, in Sacramento. It is entitled "An act to amend the Civil Code" and if passed, would be section No. 1742.

This bill provides that when, for instance, a woman buys a sewing machine on the installment plan, the contract must be recorded in the office of the county Recorder within thirty days.

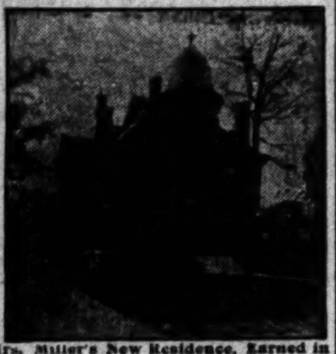
The penalty provided for neglecting to record such an agreement is that it becomes void and any other creditor may have a right to attach the machine for debt as well as the vendor.

This is the plain principle of the bill and the result is that all the furniture and fixture dealers are fighting against it, while the grocers and provision dealers, who cannot recover what they sell on credit, are in favor of it.

Mrs. Cora B. Miller Makes a Fortune.

Started a Few Years Ago With No Capital, and Now Employs Nearly One Hundred Clerks and Stenographers.

Until a few years ago Mrs. Cora B. Miller lived in a manner similar to that of thousands of other very poor women of the average small town and village. She now resides in her own palatial brown-stone residence, and is considered one of the most successful business women in the United States.



Mrs. Miller's New Residence, Earned in Less Than One Year.

Several years ago Mrs. Miller learned of a mild and simple preparation that cured herself and several friends of female weakness and piles. She was besieged by so many women needing treatment that she decided to furnish it to those who might call for it. She started with only a few dollars' capital and the remedy, possessing true and wonderful merit, producing many cures when doctors and other remedies failed, the demand grew so rapidly she was several times compelled to seek larger quarters. She now occupies one of the city's largest office buildings, which she owns, and almost one hundred clerks and stenographers are required to assist in this great business.

Million Women Use It.

More than a million women have used Mrs. Miller's remedy, and no matter where you live, she can refer you to ladies in your own locality who can and will tell any sufferer that this marvelous remedy really cures women. Despite the fact that Mrs. Miller's business is very extensive, she is always willing to give aid and advice to every suffering woman who writes to her. She is a generous, good woman and has decided to give away to women who have never used her medicine $10,000 worth absolutely FREE.

Every woman suffering with pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing-down feelings, nervousness, creeping sensations up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, or piles from any cause, should sit right down and send her name and address to Mrs. Cora B. Miller, Box 4401, Kokomo, Ind., and receive by mail (free of charge in plain wrapper) a 50-cent box of her marvelous medicine; also her valuable book, which every woman should have.

Remember, this offer will not last long, for thousands and thousands of women who are suffering will take advantage of this generous means of getting cured. So if you are ailing, do not suffer another day, but send your name and address to Mrs. Miller for the book and medicine before the $10,000 worth is all gone.

GOLD TEETH OR BRIDGE WORK

This method does away with plates, and while more expensive is certainly much more satisfactory. You can bite and masticate with these teeth just as you could with natural teeth. We do so much of this work and save more time by the Schiffman Method that we are enabled to save you about 25 per cent. In delicate work like this, where practice is such an element in success, does it not seem reasonable to suppose that a dentist of natural ability, wide experience and unusual practice, can do better work and cheaper than others of less experience and small practice, even if they have the same natural ability? Reason answers for us.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he removed the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth, and put on a porcelain crown which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. JUDSON R. RUSH, of Davis & Rush, Attorneys, 217 New High street.

I have had porcelain crown work and some filling done, and also had ten teeth and roots extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and take great pleasure in recommending his method to any one wishing dental work done without pain.
MRS. C. W. F. SCHRAMM,
Mother of Paloma Schramm, corner of Austin and Wadsworth.

I had my upper and lower teeth extracted by Dr. Schiffman without any pain. I have since had an upper and lower set made and they fit fine. They fit so tight that it is with difficulty that I can remove them. I cannot speak too highly of Dr. Schiffman and his work, and advise every one needing work done to patronize him.
MRS. F. J. KELLOGG,
146 West 14th St.

Dr. Schiffman has done bridge work and made crowns and extracted teeth for me and without any pain, and in the very best manner I am pleased to recommend him.
C. H. PENROSE,
135 South Main St.

Dr. Schiffman has done a large amount of bridge and plate work for me, which was done in a very satisfactory manner.
A. J. BRADISH,
Chief of L. A. Detectives.

I have had a number of teeth extracted and filled, and a six-tooth bridge made by the Schiffman Dental Co., and find the work very satisfactory, and was perfectly painless.
IRA L. HAAS, Riverside, Cal.

I had thirteen sore teeth extracted by Dr. Schiffman. I dreaded before he began, but it didn't hurt me one bit.
A. Y. ROBINSON,
"Sandab Jack,"
Avalon, Catalina.

Dr. Schiffman has extracted ten teeth for me, and I never felt the least annoyance. The operation was absolutely painless. He has made me a set of teeth that are highly satisfactory. They fit perfectly and feel fine.

I cheerfully recommend the doctor as a conscientious, efficient, painstaking dentist to any and all that require his services.
MRS. W. L. EWING,
1142 East 28th St.

Dr. Schiffman extracted eight teeth for me without a particle of pain, and afterwards made me a full upper flexible plate which fits me perfectly.

I have given them a good test, as it has been a year and a half since they were made. I gladly recommend the doctor to all who are in need of dental services.
MRS. EMMA BIRKLE,
420 South Molino Ave.

I am pleased to state that Dr. Schiffman fitted me with both upper and lower bridge work, which I have worn for over a year with perfect ease and satisfaction.
MRS. CHAS. E. PACKMAN,
1215 Berendo Street.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth, I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain.
D. K. TRASK,
Judge of Superior Court, Los Angeles County.

PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

City Attorney Hewitt gave an official opinion yesterday afternoon that if the Los Angeles-San Pedro consolidation election carries on March 14 it must be followed immediately by a new election for all city offices. This started the political pot bubbling at the City Hall.

Councilman Blanchard gave notice at the committee of the whole meeting yesterday that he will introduce an ordinance prohibiting the sale of cigarettes inside the city.

A special Council committee will be appointed Monday to select a site for a new police station.

Assistant City Attorney Works said yesterday that a compromise has been effected by which the City Attorney will be permitted to name the prosecutors in the police courts, but preliminary examinations in felony cases will be conducted by the District Attorney's office.

Evidence with direct bearing on the alleged murder of Cladie Besold by her husband, Anton Besold, was presented yesterday in the Superior Court. Dr. Campbell states his belief that the third hole in the skull was drilled recently. The mystery is unsolved.

Alexander Williamson received a two-year sentence yesterday for assault with a deadly weapon on his step-son-in-law on January 23.

J. Hugh Jones, formerly of Phoenix, was arraigned yesterday in the police courts on two serious charges—burglary and forgery.

A. Koenig of No. 326 North Pritchard street, who was arrested Friday on complaint of his wife, pleaded not guilty yesterday to a charge of disturbing the peace.

J. F. Taylor, alleged embezzler, was arraigned yesterday morning before Justice Chambers and his preliminary examination was set for March 12.

The case against Richard Cross, accused of assault with a deadly weapon upon his wife, was continued yesterday on motion of the defense.

AT THE CITY HALL.

MAY MEAN NEW CITY ELECTION.

IF SAN PEDRO COME IN ELECTIVE OFFICIALS GO OUT.

Consolidation Will Compel All Those Elected in December to Make Their Campaigns Over Again—Political Pot Bubbling at the City Hall—Contests Promised.

Real trouble is brewing at the City Hall. The question of the consolidation of Los Angeles and San Pedro has paled beside the greater one, to the politicians, of the municipal election for new officers that must follow.

City Attorney Hewitt rendered a final opinion yesterday to the effect that if consolidation is effected under the present State law, an election of officers must follow.

When the news was broken to the elective officials, some evidenced a sudden desire that the constitutionality of the State law be tested before the election is held.

Their desires are likely to be thwarted by reason of the attitude taken by the Consolidation Commission. Chairman Butler announced yesterday that the commission has decided to recommend that the Los Angeles-San Pedro election be held on March 14, as provided for in the ordinance passed by the Council three weeks ago.

Under the State law, this, the consolidation election, if successful, must be followed immediately by a second election for all city offices. This is equivalent to a general election. It would vacate all the offices filled by the people at the December election. Every official, from Mayor to Councilman, would have to make his campaign over again or retire.

A conference of the elective officials will probably be held some time this week. They may attempt to initiate a movement for a "gentleman's agreement" that they shall not be opposed for reëlection.

A two months' trial of some of the new officials has not convinced all their constituents that they are the proper men for the places they fill. Councilmen have visions of resentment at the $100,000 salary ordinance they passed last Monday. Some have not been able to rid themselves of the whitewash of the official gas investigation.

It was intimated at the City Hall yesterday afternoon that George Arnold may decline to furnish the funds for City Auditor Mushet's campaign.

Inspector Edwards of the Board of Public Works has not yet agreed to turn over the street force to assist Councilman Healy in his Eighth Ward canvass.

"Doc" Howton has not yet pledged his support to Councilman Yonkin; neither has Martin Betouski consented to assist in Lyon's reëlection.

The ladies of the Friday Morning Club have not appointed their campaign committee to make a canvass for Mayor Harper.

A portion of the shoestring strip will vote at this election. It is doubtful whether the roadhouse-keepers in the strip will throw their support to Councilman Wallace.

The Ascot Park contingent has not "come through" with a contribution to Councilman Wren's campaign fund.

The rough necks along the river front in the Ninth Ward are preparing to do things to Councilman Blanchard for throwing them and going into the camp of the Non-Partisans.

NEW POLICE STATION.

COUNCIL READY TO ACT.

A special committee will be appointed by the Council Monday to secure a new location for a police station. Following a conference between the Mayor and the Council the legislators discussed the present police conditions and decided that the city must have a new station.

A valuation of $100,000 has been placed on the present City Jail site on West First street. The building contains almost enough steel for a new station. Two sites have been considered informally by the Police Commission, one is on New High street, near the Courthouse, the other is on Central avenue, near Second street.

The committee will also consult an architect as to the advisability of erecting a new building on the present site.

A marked coolness is noticeable between Chief of Police Kern and his former associates on the Finance Committee. The Councilmen are considering an amendment to the ordinance providing for the addition of ten patrolmen a month to the police force.

While in the Council Kern secured the passage of the ordinance increasing the saloon license to $100 a month. At that time a companion ordinance was passed, providing for the increase in the police force. By reason of a paucity of names on the eligible lists furnished by the Civil Service and Police Commission has not been able to appoint as many new man as are provided for in the ordinance. Yesterday the Finance Committee made a recommendation that the ordinance be amended so as to cut off a part of the increase in the police force, and that the money saved be used to purchase an addition to Sycamore Grove. The committee sees a way to save $10,000 to the police force; this is just the sum needed to purchase the additional park land.

Chief Kern is protesting vigorously. He says that the present is a most inopportune time to reduce the force. He thinks that the Council should rather be granting him additional men to aid in ridding the city of thugs and highwaymen.

CITY ATTORNEY WINS.

RETAINS PROSECUTORS.

Assistant City Attorney Works returned from Sacramento yesterday, bringing with him the remains of the bill intended to transfer the prosecutors at the Police Station from the jurisdiction of the city to that of the county.

"I think we have effected a compromise," said Mr. Works, "under which the District Attorney will conduct the preliminary hearing at the Police Station in cases where the accused is charged with the commission of a felony.

"This, I believe, will be the only change made by the Legislature. We have consented to that, and I have sent north a substitute bill in which this is incorporated."

NICOTINE CAMPAIGN.

ANTI-CIGARETTE ORDINANCE.

Councilman Blanchard served notice on his brother Councilmen at a meeting of the committee of the whole yesterday morning that he purposes to introduce in an ordinance prohibiting the sale of cigarettes inside the city.

The Non-Partisans on the committee applauded gently. "Just what I told the boys; Blanchard has gone over to the long hairs, body and breeches," growled Barney Healy.

Coming from the Republican leader in the Council, this notice has caused consternation among the tobacco dealers. Blanchard's friends say that it is the beginning of a crusade against nicotine.

"I desire to give notice of this ordinance now," said Blanchard to his fellow Councilmen, "in order that the dealers may have an opportunity to dispose of the stock on hand. It should serve as a notice to them to stop buying. Los Angeles is too enlightened to encourage the cigarette habit longer.

Five minutes after Blanchard made this announcement the underground wires leading from the City Hall were singing merrily; representatives of the tobacco interests were in the hall before noon. They came too late, however, as the committee of the whole had already concluded business and gone home.

During the afternoon the bombardment of Blanchard's office in the Mason Operahouse building commenced. He stood the attack well; at closing time he reaffirmed his determination to press the anti-cigarette campaign.

The proopsed new ordinance strikes some city officials. Two of the Mayor's commissioners are cigar dealers. John R. Haynes, chairman of the Civil Service Commission, and Commissioner Edelman are confirmed cigarette smokers. At each session of the commission Dr. Haynes passes about a case containing cigarettes with his name on the wrapper. He is what the trade designate as a wholesale consumer.

Cigar stores are not to be banished for the present, but they are to be "warned" by the application of a stiff license fee. The Mayor did not include the tobacconists in his revenue-producing ordinances, so the Council has taken this in its own hands. The Finance Committee has recommended a license of $6 a quarter for all stands where the sale of tobacco is $15 a day or less; $15 a quarter when the sales are more than $15 and less than $30, and $25 a quarter when the sales are greater than $30 a day.

According to the estimate made by Secretary Bostwick for the Finance Committee the new tobacco license ordinance will increase the city's revenue $25,000 a year.

Pool and billiard tables are also to be included in the high license list. The reason advanced for this is that they require police supervision. The proposed new ordinance will tax the small places where there are four tables or less $12 a month, and there will be an additional tax of $2.50 for each table more than four.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

SHIVERS WHEN SHOWN SKIRT.

WITNESS IDENTIFIES GARMENT TAKEN FROM CORPSE.

In Besold Murder Trial Miss Chaffin Tells of Wife's Departure for Last Time from Hill Street House. Dentist Testifies About Tooth Taken from Skull.

A. A. Sturges, attorney for Anton Besold in the murder trial now in progress in the Superior Court, expressed surprise when Ethel A. Chaffin, after describing the dress of Cladie Besold with minuteness, declared that she could not even hazard an opinion as to whether Anton Besold had worn a light or dark suit on the morning of July 11, 1906. Miss Chaffin was telling of that morning when Cladie Besold left the house at No. 917 South Hill street for the last time.

Anton and Cladie Besold, according to this witness, had lodged with her since June 15. On the morning of July 11 the pair left the house together, between 9 and 10 o'clock, stated Miss Chaffin, and Mrs. Besold stopped to speak to her, saying: "My husband is going to take me to the beach. Isn't he good?" Then followed the description of Cladie Besold's dress.

"She wore her changeable silk skirt," began the witness, and went on to speak of a white waist, pink chiffon hat and black shoes.

Miss Chaffin testified that Anton Besold had returned to the house in the evening, between 5 and 6 o'clock, and that he had told her that his wife had gone to Summerland.

In cross-examination Mr. Sturges, who had been looking over the transcript of the examination of Besold in the Justice Court, asked the witness if she had ever gone to the postoffice for letters for Mrs. Besold. She said that she had, taking an order written by Mrs. Besold and securing a letter addressed to "Gertrude C. Johnson." Further questions brought out the fact that Mrs. Besold had asked her not to deliver the letter in the presence of her husband.

In the preliminary examination, it had been shown that the letter addressed to "Gertrude C. Johnson" had come from Cladie Besold's own family.

When, in the direct examination, the soiled and crumpled skirt of changeable silk was shown to Miss Chaffin, she shrank from it and shivered. Then she said: "That is the skirt she wore."

F. C. Matzka, a laundry wagon driver, testified that he had handled the laundry for the entire house on Hill street last July. The identifying mark put on the Besolds' laundry had been "59-0," he said. This is the mark visible on the band of the underdrawers taken from the corpse, and on the garments alleged to have been given by Besold to Mrs. McFadden later in July, saying that his wife did not want them any more, as she had gone to Mexico.

A dentist from Bellingham, Wash., testified that he had filled an upper left molar for Mrs. Alderman (Cladie Besold's name before her second marriage) with alloy. The upper left molar taken from the skull of the corpse found in Temescal Cañon has an alloy filling. It was shown to the witness, who stated that it was like the one he had filled.

Dr. George W. Campbell was recalled to the stand. He had made a further examination of the skull and stated his belief that the third hole in the skull, which occasioned so much surprise and questioning on its discovery Friday morning, had been drilled in it since the preliminary examination of Besold before Justice Young.

Ex-Sheriff White was the last witness yesterday. He testified to hearing a part of a conversation between C. S. Gilbert, who had Besold in custody, and the prisoner. According to the witness, Gilbert had asked, 'Why did you take your wife away into a lonely cañon like that to kill her?" and Besold had answered: "If you have any heart, Sheriff, don't ask me that."

The trial will be continued Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

ANXIOUS FOR PRISON.

WILLIAMSON SENTENCED.

Alexander Williamson, when brought before Judge Smith yesterday to answer to a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, pleaded guilty, adding: "I'd just as lief stay in prison as go back home."

Judge Smith hesitated some time before passing sentence, for, as he said, it was a peculiar case. Finally, however, he remarked that Williamson was likely to go after his step-son-in-law, V. E. Van Arnam, again if he was allowed to go free, since he had declared in jail that he would kill the young man if he got a chance. The prisoner was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary.

Williamson was brought into Department Two of the Superior Court on January 28, five days after his attempt to kill the man who, he declared, was conspiring with his wife and step-daughter to defraud him of property. He was examined on a charge of insanity, which was dismissed. Williamson has an income of $800 a year from an estate left by his uncle in Philadelphia.

CONFESSED LOAFER.

Badly Needed Room Now Coming

Today we make the first public announcement relative to our acquisition of the Vollmer Building, just south of our present quarters. This splendid building, with its 30,000 square feet of selling space, will be connected with our plant on the corner, affording us the badly needed outlet for necessary expansion.

It is a matter of great gratification to the management of this store that its store policy, its people, and above all, its merchandise, should so appeal to the public that four expansions have been necessary in the short time we have been in business. Once more we express our appreciation of the magnificent business accorded us. Mere words are cheap. In the new building certain things we've long had in mind will now be possible, and we hope to serve you still better than in the past.

So much for the future. Now for tomorrow. Take a look through these bargains. It is such merchandise, at such prices, that has made more room necessary. Get here early.

the offense had been committed by daylight, and, therefore, was burglary in the second degree. He seemed inclined to be very lenient until the boy, who gave his age as 17, admitted that he had just been "loafing 'round" since coming to California several months ago. Judge Smith thereupon sentenced him to two years in State prison. Lloyd had stolen a telescope grip of clothing.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

BREAKS POLICE COURT RECORD.

PRISONER HELD ON TWO COUNTS THE SAME DAY.

Jones Arraigned in Different Departments Must Answer Burglary and Forgery Charges—Wife Causes Husband to Face Charge of Disturbance—Notes of the Courts.

Charged with burglary, J. Hugh Jones was arraigned yesterday morning before Justice Chambers. His preliminary examination was set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. Five minutes later the prisoner was in Justice Frederickson's court, before Presiding Justice Rose, and charged with forgery. His preliminary examination on the second charge was set for Tuesday morning of next week. Bail in each case was fixed at $1500.

According to a statement made by Jones, he came to Los Angeles a short time ago from Phoenix. He says he has friends there who will aid him. He claims he is innocent of the two charges.

After a chase of several blocks in which a roomer at the Roanoke, J. H. Gregg, and Jones figured, the latter was arrested at Seventh and San Pedro streets Thursday. An overcoat, which Jones is alleged to have stolen from Gregg, is held in evidence. Detectives declare Jones entered Gregg's room with a pass key. They claim to have additional evidence against him which will bring, they say, speedy conviction.

On the forgery charge Jones is accused of uttering a check on the Golden State Wine Company for $35.35. The check was made payable to H. I. Whitney by R. J. Wheeler and was drawn on the Bank of Bakersfield. The worthless paper finally reached the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank of Los Angeles. The check was indorsed by H. J. Jones, R. J. Weller and J. H. Jones. It is alleged that Jones cashed the check August 17, 1906.

Jones occupied the unique position of being held on two serious charges in the Police Court on the same day. There is a question whether he will be tried on the two charges should he be held to the Superior Court. The burglary charge against the man, it is said, may be dropped.

Causes Husband's Arrest.

A. Koenig of No. 326 North Pritchard street pleaded not guilty to a charge of disturbing the peace yesterday morning in Justice Chambers's court. He was arrested Friday night on complaint of his wife, who said he had threatened to kill her. It is alleged Koenig ran amuck with a shotgun and threatened the lives of several. He became excited, it is said, when he found his wife was not at home. He denies the allegations, and will have a hearing tomorrow morning. Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Koenig was arrested on a similar charge.

Alleged Embezzler Arraigned.

F. J. Taylor, arrested in Oakland on information from Los Angeles charging him with embezzlement, was arraigned yesterday before Justice Chambers. He will be examined March 12, and bail is fixed at $2000. Taylor was formerly secretary of the American Novelty Company of this city. It is alleged that while in the employ of the company he embezzled about $10,000.

Cross Case Continued.

Richard Cross, accused of trying to kill his wife on North Main street, appeared for trial yesterday morning in the Police Court, and the case was again continued. This time the defense asked for time, and because three continuances have been granted the State, the request of the defense was allowed without argument. Three times the State's case has gone over because of the illness of the principal witness, Mrs. Cross. It is doubtful if the case will ever come to trial, as it is believed Cross and his wife will settle the affair out of court. Cross is a barber. He shot at his wife, and the bullet was deflected by a corset steel.

Duffy Charged With Cruelty.

Philip Duffy of the Duffy Lumber Company, Jefferson and Main streets, pleaded not guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals yesterday morning in Justice Chambers's court. He will be tried on Tuesday morning. It is alleged that Duffy had in his possession a horse with its entire hoof rotted off.

Accused of Assault.

James Haskett, accused of assault with a deadly weapon upon A. Major, on December 28, was bound over to the Superior Court yesterday under $1500 bond. Haskett is accused of stabbing Major in the breast with a pocket knife. Major alleges that his lung is punctured. Haskett is a mere boy, while Major is a heavy-set man. Haskett was defended by Earl Rogers. An effort to have the bail reduced failed. Haskett will have a hearing Tuesday morning.

"Doctor" Convicted.

Toy Kee, Chinese, who claims to be a healer and dealer in herbs of healing, was charged with practicing medicine without a license yesterday in Justice Chambers's court. He was convicted, and will be sentenced Monday morning. The case was bitterly contested, and the attorney for Toy Kee served notice that an appeal will be taken to the Superior Court.

Lusk Fined Forty.

N. K. Lusk, accused of insulting several little girls at Chutes Park, was fined $40. He declared he was under the influence of liquor at the time. Justice Chambers heard the case.

Times' New Year's Annual.

The Midwinter Number of The Times has had an unprecedented sale; more copies have been mailed away by enterprising Los Angeles citizens than ever before. It is a great missionary to send friends, and a thousand personal letters could not give them as much concise information about this great land of ours. It will aid the whole country if business men will send a copy to their customers and correspondents. Real estate dealers can help themselves in no better way than by supplying clients living at a distance with one of these great papers. Anybody, anywhere, will surely be delighted to receive a copy of these "Land of Sunshine" publications. Mail orders promptly filled.

Beautiful Eagle Roc

Business Property

THE TOWNSITE TRACT at the end of the car line has brought to a focus all the business possibilities of Eagle Rock. Our $16,000 pressed brick building was hardly on the architect's drafting board before every store was rented and every apartment above spoken for. This building, being now leased ahead, any one looking for a permanent business investment can secure it by building another business structure on the adjoining lot. If you are in doubt about getting tenants, we will lease it and pay you ten per cent. net on your investment.

Meanwhile, business lots within a stone's throw of our projected block are selling for $600, one-quarter cash. For an investment, we know of nothing approaching these lots in value. Do not hesitate, and put off going to Eagle Rock, thinking "it will keep." These prices will not keep—we know they won't, and we know that we are now selling them too cheap. We have an object in doing so.

There are some other big things in store for the Townsite Tract, but we will talk about them later.

When you go out to Eagle Rock—look it over thoroughly. It is worth while. Don't hesitate to let our boys drive you over the valley. They want to SHOW YOU EAGLE ROCK and they will not pester you to buy—won't even talk shop unless you do.

On account of the extraordinary demand for Eagle Rock building sites, we advise you to act promptly to avoid disappointments.

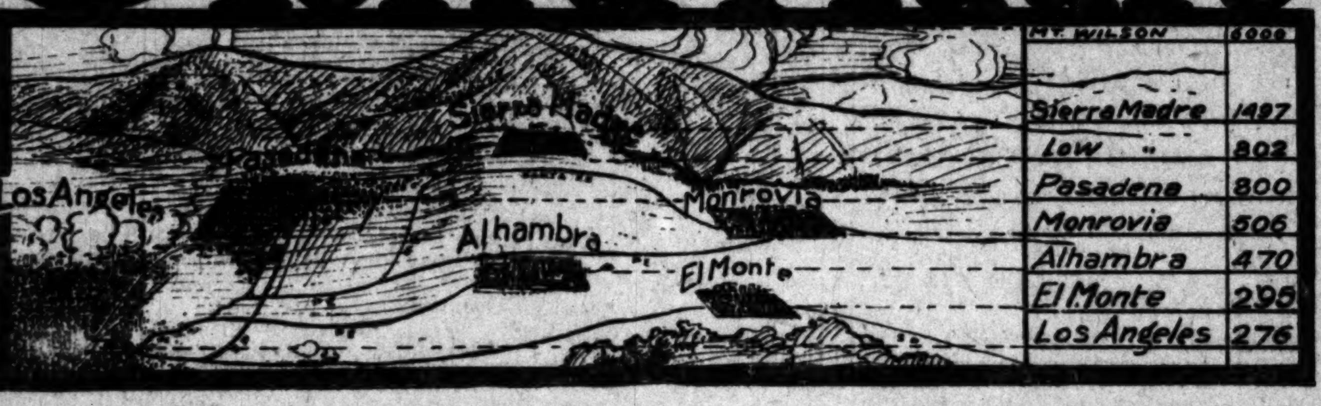
Sierra Madre



The Most Inspiring Spot in Which to Live

So close, so high, abounding in such charms of health, view, and environment that it captures all who visit it. It is enjoying prosperity in proportion. Substantial business blocks are building; a bank is about to open; an $18,000.00 school building is nearing completion. Great numbers of bungalows and fine residences are in course of erection. The population doubled last year. The city has just been incorporated—greater growth and activity is already manifest. The residents are so enthusiastic over the many features of the place that they have subscribed an advertising fund to let people know what they have and to get the business man to come there with his family to live. It is the most recuperative spot he can find for his relaxing hours and the most healthful and safe place for his children. But two children have died in Sierra Madre in the past fourteen years.

The accompanying illustration gives an idea of the city's commanding location. From hundreds of verandas may be had sweeping views of miles and miles of the most beautiful valley vistas in the world—from Covina to Pasadena, and reaching to the Pacific.

Breathe the air! so soft, so light, so dry, and laden with the mountains' balmy odors; so different from the valley's murky, heavy, moist, penetrating atmosphere.

And drink the water! clear, cold, delicious, right from the mountain springs.

Thirty minutes from the time the meeting was called to order the town of Hanover had gone on record as having voted to build a brick schoolhouse 500 feet long, 10 feet high and 2 feet wide and to build a plank walk from Reed Hall in Hanover to Lebanon, in which town was a female seminary.

Jewelry Time

This is the season of the year when most enjoyment is derived from fine jewels. Many winter pleasures are still before us, and the delightful weather prevailing gives the ladies many opportunities for the display of jewelry.

We are also making a "display of jewelry." You are accustomed to seeing fine and desirable articles at this establishment. But the showing of high grade gems, popular jewels and strictly new 14K jewelry was never more interesting or fascinating.

NEWS OF THE MINES—Week's Review.

GOLDFIELD BOYCOTTERS.

CRIMINAL GANG RIDING TO A FALL.

Insolent Demands of the Jawsmiths Likely to Bring Question of Control of Mines to an Issue and Determine the Industrial Conditions of the Camp.

GOLDFIELD (Nev.) Feb. 15.—The white-winged dove would fain hover over what seems the placid surface of Goldfield's swift stream of industrial life, but the practiced voyager feels the waters are troubled. Calm on top, they are turbulent below. The undercurrent of unrest that threatens to capsize the employers' craft stinks of anarchy and swells with the lawless passions of defiant criminals, who direct the destinies and gull the enslaved dupes, the rank and file, of union labor.

Goldfield's first serious labor trouble occurred last August and September, when the leaders of the Independent Workers of the World, usually abbreviated to "I.W.W." and often characterized as "I Won't Work," boycotted one newspaper and two business houses for the reason that the employés of those institutions, while union men, refused to affiliate with their particular organization. Though every man in the mechanical office of the newspaper was a member in good standing of the Typographical Union, the anarchists forbade the street sale of papers, forced advertisers to withdraw their patronage and mobbed men who attempted delivery. Further violence would have resulted save for the courage of such men as George Wingfield, the millionaire mine owner, and Diamondfield Jack Davis, a Goldfield pioneer, who met the rabble on the street and stopped them by the display of arms. To save its life, the newspaper, the Goldfield Sun, sold out. The boycott was not lifted until the boycotters had fully satisfied themselves that the new owners were in no manner allied with the old and reconciled to the rule of the I.W.W.

At the time of the close down of mines that resulted from this disturbance last year, one Joe Smith held the reins of I.W.W. government. Smith is by trade a dishwasher. His gang absorbed and completely cowed the local of the Western Federation of Miners. The men who dig the ore and make Goldfield possible are under the absolute sway of such creatures as Smith, who is innocent of a day's honest toil in his whole life. Smith was not even a naturalized citizen of the United States, yet, through the intimidating influence of his compatriots and slaves, he was made a member of the board of trustees of Goldfield town.

High-grading, the wholesale and brazen, but generally countenanced, theft of rich one, led to the Goldfield strike of last December and January. The thieves knew that with the expiration of rich leases the mines' managements would insist upon the installation of change rooms to stop the robberies. They bulled the situation by demanding higher wages upon peremptory notice, hoping thus to bluff the operators from their designs. The ruse failed of effect. The miners got hungry and went back to work. The change rooms, however, have not yet been installed and there is perceptible an air of uncertainty as to the probable period of the innovation's advent. Certain it is that the thieves and the anarchists who lead them are employing every means of opposition. The menace that now confronts the camp is that either the operators will continue to be ruled by their employés, or that a serious state will ensue upon their execution of the change room plans.

Joe Smith has been shelved now for Vincent St. John, one of the most crimson of the red anarchists of Cripple Creek days. Nevada is to have a State inspector of mines. The I.W.W. demand that they be allowed to appoint the inspector. If their demand is acceded to, Vincent St. John will be their choice and the office will be a howling farce.

In Goldfield it has been the custom for the I.W.W. to mob and run out of town any miner who failed to affiliate with them, particularly such of them from Cripple Creek as failed to come up to their measure of anarchy. Not satisfied with such arbitrary methods, they now threaten to treat in like manner any operator under the Cripple Creek ban who may attempt to acquire or develop property in Nevada. They characterize as a menace to any community in which he may live or do business any man who sympathized with the mine owners, the city or county government or the Colorado State officials at the time of the Cripple Creek trouble. Should violence be attempted upon any such operator in Nevada (and there are already many of them and more coming) the situation will be brought to such a head as will end in the utter annihilation of the I.W.W.

But Goldfield booms, and booms as never before, despite the lowering clouds. The mines are at the bottom of it. Every one has heard of the fabulous Mohawk and knows of its mammoth production for the few months of its activity in 1906. Based upon its record and that of some of its neighbors, the conservative estimate of the camp's output for 1907 has been $25,000,000. Now comes one little fraction alone, Combination Fraction, with a blocking out of ore which competent engineers pronounce good for $1,400,000 every month, or $16,800,000 a year. Not far behind, by recent revelations, will run the production of Jumbo Extension. All this time mines that continue to contribute generously to the monthly production are Daisy, Great Bend, Jumbo, Red Top, Sandstorm, Kewana, Silver Pick, Black Butte, Combination, and many another, not to mention such sure comers as St. Ives, Blue Bull, Booth, Columbia Mountain, C.O.D., Triangle, Dixie, Vernal, Yellow Rose, Skylark and Eureka. With such present greatness and such magnificent future assurance it is to be deplored that Goldfield's reputation and prospects can be marred and clouded by a few unscrupulous aliens, whose sole means of subsistence lies in their power to incite rebellion.

OLD DOMINION.

Believed to Be Richest Copper Mine. Queen Produces Wonderful Ore.

GLOBE (Ariz.) Feb. 14.—Enthusiastic miners now claim that the Old Dominion mine in Globe is the richest in the Southwest. Note has been made before of the great sulphide copper body cut on the thirteenth and fourteenth levels of the property. At last reports the drift on the lower level had penetrated the sulphides over thirty feet and the farther wall had not been struck. The whole body will average over 15 per cent. in copper, in addition to being just the ore the company needs in its smelter, to balance the carbonate and silicious ores from the upper levels. The same body of ore, on the thirteenth level, runs 10 per cent. for ten feet and 17 per cent. for eleven feet, on the crosscut. Nor is the body of ore a short one. It is exposed on the surface and has been developed at varying depths along a distance of 1000 feet. At no place is there lack of value, the assays running from 2 per cent. to 65 per cent. copper.

Two carloads of ore have been shipped to smelter from the Queen mine at Superior that are expected to give returns of at least 60 per cent. in copper, at least 700 ounces of silver to the ton and one ounce of gold to the ton. This shipment is believed to be the richest ever made from a copper mine in the Southwest. The ore comes from a stope of copper glance on the 300-foot level that varies in width from a few inches to three feet.

GOLDEN AURORA.

Some Wonderfully Rich Ore Veins Are Found in the Old Mines of Esmeralda.

AURORA (Nev.) Feb. 14.—A strike of rich ore on the 250-foot level of the Prospectus Mine is drawing the attention of mining men to the revival of this old and well-proven district. The Prospectus has a three-foot vein of $60 ore, with a fifteen-inch streak that runs away up in the thousands. The Wide West has similar ore in a five-foot vein, carrying a foot-wide streak of $3000 rock., and the Durand has a body of $45 ore from the 100 to the 450 level.

At a depth of 65 feet in the Seminole, a property recently acquired by the Aurora-Esmeralda Company of Los Angeles, an eight-foot vein, assaying $50, has been encountered. The Eva, an extension of the Prospectus, and on the same vein, has a shaft down 55 feet with good milling ore in the bottom, and is sinking to prospect for the high-grade vein.

Sharp and Stewart, who offered their claims for $12,000 last year, have recently refused $20,000 for the group.

The milling capacity of the district will be increased by 110 stamps very soon, and the Tonopah Railroad extension will reach a point about four miles from Aurora by July. Aurora is getting ready for the boom which is expected to strike the old Esmeralda district when mining men realize the extent and richness of its ore bodies.

SEARCHLIGHT.

Improvements at Depot Site—Mammoth Strike Proves South Extension of Ore Veins.

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) Feb. 15.—Searchlight may not move entirely to the proposed depot site of the Santa Fé system, but the fact is now very apparent that there will be a town at the terminus of the road. The graders have completed the street work and are at work on the lower end of the townsite, setting a permanent level for the roadbed. There are now eleven houses under course of construction, including two stores, newspaper office, freight and store houses and several dwellings. The management of the Terminal townsite have ten carloads of lumber ready to be shipped as soon as the cars can be transported within a reasonable distance of their destination.

Wednesday afternoon, Searchlighters had their first view of the Santa Fé train as it came over the grade about ten miles from town. At this point the track layers are now constructing a bridge, and the smoking locomotive can be seen from Searchlight very distinctly over the desert. The steel for the remainder of the track has arrived at Manvel and will be shipped to "front" in a few days or as soon as the ties are in position.

The recent strikes on the Stanley Forbes, Searchlight Mammoth, Cornucopia and Philadelphia Searchlight mines continue to cause excitement owing to their outside locations and also on account of the value and extent of the ores. The Mammoth strike has in a measure caused many mining men to become interested in the new find owing to the extending of the proven mineral zone in a southerly direction.

JOHNNIE MINES.

Indications That Rich Ore Is Concentrated on Minnie Mae Hill.

JOHNNIE (Nev.) Feb. 13.—The Johnnie Con. Mine has made an excellent showing. On the 700 level, the north drift shows 15 feet of ore that will assay between $25 and $30. The ore shows considerable copper stain and other mineralization. In the south drift a crosscut is being started to catch the foot wall in the face of the drift. The ledge has already been proven in places from 15 to 20 feet wide. Five feet of this is high-grade ore. The workings in the south drift have attained a vertical depth of 1000 feet, yet there is no indication that the water level has been reached. Preparations are being made to continue the workings of the mine further southward to catch the veins of the Minnie Mae Hill.

The Beauregard lease on the Johnnie Con. ground is making a remarkably good showing. On the forty level ore is being sacked that will average $120 to the ton. On the Frost lease a winze is being sunk to the fifty level, following the vein that was exposed on the forty level in the Beauregard lease.

These two leases are on the southern end of the Johnnie Con. ground and the riches they are showing up, with the wealth obtained from the Bowler lease, indicate that the values are concentrated on the Minnie Mae Hill.

In doing development work on the White Cap Claim, one of the mines in Browne's merger, a ledge of red oxide of copper was developed in the shaft, that in addition to its gold values returns from 4 to 8 per cent. copper.

SEARCHLIGHT RAILROAD.

Opening of Line Delayed by the Non-Arrival of the Rails.

Railroad day at Searchlight has been postponed, as indicated by the following letter from the general passenger agent of the Santa Fé:

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 12.—Mr. F. J. Abbott, V. P. and G. M., Searchlight T. T. Co., No. 822 H. W. Hellman Building, city, Dear Sir: I am just in receipt of information from our general manager's office stating that they have been disappointed in receiving the new rails they expected for the Searchlight extension and it will be impossible to open the line till the latter part of March or the first of April.

I am very sorry that they found it necessary to delay the opening. Please cancel my letter of February 9, and I will advise you from time to time how the work is progressing. Yours truly, [Signed] E. WM. M'GEE.

BUILDING MATERIALS.

Producers in California Advised to Send Samples to the Government Architect.

The matter of the selection of building stone for the proposed Courthouse and post-office buildings to be erected by the government in Los Angeles, appears to have been definitely settled. State Mineralogist Aubury has received a letter from Senator Flint, in which he states that there is no likelihood of stone other than California stone being used in these buildings. Mr. Aubury suggests to all producers of granite, sandstone, limestone, marble, terra cotta, brick, tiling, cement, gypsum and all other classes of material which would enter into the construction of large buildings, to send to Supervising Architect Taylor at Washington, D. C., a fair-sized sample of their product, accompanied by a letter describing the locality in which the substance is produced, the estimated amount of material in sight, or which can be produced, the distance from railroad or water transportation, the price at which the substance can be placed f.o.b. at railroad or water point of transportation; also any physical tests which may have been made on the substance, and any other information which would assist Mr. Taylor's department in making selections. Without the samples and data, the department will remain, as it has in the past, in ignorance of what California produces in this line.

GOOD PROSPECTS.

U.S.A. Syndicate Expects Profits from Gold Mines Near Hermosillo.

NOGALES (Ariz.) Feb. 14.—Mill machinery has been ordered by the U.S.A. syndicate for its mines near Hermosillo, and when installed will increase the capacity of its reduction works to 100 tons daily. The syndicate is said to have blocked out 330,000 tons of free milling ore that will yield $5 a ton. Wood and water are accessible and abundant, and the cost of mining and milling is expected to be not more than a dollar a ton.

A Deal in Crackerjack.

A deal involving the sale of several hundred thousand shares of the stock of the Crackerjack Gold Mining Company to a syndicate of Goldfield operators has just been consummated. The purchase of this large interest by the Goldfield financiers was made after examination of the Crackerjack gold properties by Frank Oliver.

This is the third important Crackerjack deal within the last three months. The first was the sale of the Tom Boy claims to Los Angeles and Eastern people for $75,000; next, the Beau Brummel and Iron Cap groups, embracing ten claims, were sold to a Montana syndicate for $200,000. The sale of the interest in the Crackerjack Gold Company was negotiated by the R. D. Robinson Company, of this city.

Reports of the discovery of rich copper ore are coming in from the vicinity of the Needles, San Bernardino county. From surface rock, assays have been obtained showing values in copper and gold of $127.81 per ton.

PROJECTED EXTENSIONS OF MINING DISTRICT ROADS.

Guggenheim Properties in Helvetia District Being Developed Extensively—Metallic Bismuth Found in Whetstone Mountains—Advance in Value of Wolframite.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Feb. 15.—It is reported that the Imperial Copper Company, which owns the standard-gauge railroad running from Red Rock to Silver Bell and connecting that camp with the main line of the Southern Pacific, will be extended to Florence to connect with the Phoenix and Eastern.

The Imperial mine has been a good payer for several years. Its ore shipments are heavy and the product of the mines is increasing. At the present time work is well under way on the 350-ton smelter and also on a 500-ton concentrating plant.

Work has been resumed on the property of the Cleveland-Arizona Company. This company is the largest operating in the district with the exception of the Imperial company. New pumps of powerful capacity have been installed to take care of the water.

The new machinery for the Twin Buttes has been installed and is now in operation. As a result the daily production of the property has been increased to about 200 tons. The Twin Buttes people are considering the matter of a smelter to be located at the camp.

A cash payment of $75,000 to the owners of the Tip Top property in the Helvetia district by the Guggenheims was one of the most important mining items of the week here. There still remains $175,000, which will be paid later, the purchase price of the property being $250,000.

General manager of the mining enterprises of the Guggenheims, G. C. Kaufman, has ordered several carloads of lumber and mining machinery. Ore shipments to the El Paso smelter will be resumed within thirty days. A three-compartment shaft will be sunk on the property. Surveys are being made for a railroad to connect Helvetia with either the Southern Pacific or the Twin Buttes Railroad.

E. B. Reeser, general manager of the Mineral Hill Consolidated Copper Company, has closed a contract with the Douglas smelters for the delivery of 8000 tons of ore from the property, located eighteen miles south of Tucson. The ore is an iron copper sulphide, which is sought by smelting companies.

The Gila Valley, Globe and Northern, one of the Randolph lines, with headquarters in Tucson, will extend the road so that it will take in several additional camps in Globe district. The extension will be about four miles in length.

Development work is continuing steadily on the property of the Pittsburgh and Arizona Company in the old Charleston district. A double compartment shaft is down to a depth of 400 feet and three shifts are being worked daily. The company is contemplating the erection of a reduction works at Charleston.

The annual meeting of the Compania Minera Juarez has been held at Nogales, Sonora, and officers have been elected. The company owns an old gold property in Sonora on which a 20-stamp mill has recently been erected. The officers elected are as follows: President, Robert MacKinnon, Utica, N. Y.; vice-president, J. M. Worthington, London, Eng.; secretary, Eugene Snyder, Utica; general manager, W. E. Defty of Phoenix.

A strike of bismuth has been made on the property of the Euclid Mining Company, which is operating in the Whetstone Mountains about twelve miles from Benson. The company has been taking out wolfram ore for some time. Wolfram is very valuable and has advanced from $500 per ton to $650. From it tungstic acid, used in hardening steel, is made. Metallic bismuth also commands a fancy price.

KNOCK-OUT BLOW AT UNIONISM.

BISBEE WILL NOT TOLERATE WESTERN FEDERATION.

Operators Take Initiative and Close Mines Rather Than Submit to Dictation of Unions—Conspiracy to Make Bisbee a Closed Camp Brings Disaster to Dupes of the Agitators.

BISBEE (Ariz.) Feb. 16.—The expected has happened in the mines of Bisbee. Eight hundred men have been thrown out of work, as the first tangible result of the effort of the Western Federation of Miners to unionize the camp. Five hundred of the men "given their time" were employed at the Spray shaft of the Copper Queen; 200 of them were employed by the Calumet and Arizona Company, and 100 by the Shattuck and Arizona Company. It happened that no discrimination was made between union and non-union men. The discharges were of men employed on specific work, by gangs. The foremen, in handing out the pay checks, simply stated that the employing company had concluded to do a quantity of repair work, utilizing a time when the fuel supply is short. This is a plain subterfuge, however, as fuel is coming in steadily and the smelters at Douglas have been working up to their limit on the Bisbee ores. Till the last few days, the Spray shaft has been handling the greater part of the Copper Queen ores, owing to the work of reconstruction of the Holbrook shaft. Now the latter is finished and is in operation, much relieving the work at the company's other openings.

It was less than a week ago that the union came out in the open, headed by J. D. Cannon, late Socialist candidate for Congress in Arizona. This was assumed to mean that the union had fully entrenched itself and was prepared to do battle. The companies have struck the first blow. It is a hard one, and the fear is that it is not the only abridgement of force that the combined companies are ready to make. Nearly 4000 men are employed in the district. Just the proportion of union men is not known, but it is believed they are much in the minority as yet. There seems little disposition to make trouble on the part of the men discharged and many of them already are leaving for Cananea and for Nevada, union men being in the majority among the departures. The business interests of the city are alarmed over the situation, as it is appreciated that the mining companies will not hesitate to shut down every shaft, if such drastic action is deemed necessary to demonstrate their stand against union control and the possibility of a demand for a "closed" camp. Heretofore there has been no discrimination against union labor in Bisbee, save in exceptional instances where members of the Federation have been found busying themselves in proselyting.

The lot of the Bisbee miners has generally been considered a fairly attractive one. They work eight hours a day for a wage of $3.75. They are not compelled to trade at the company store, there are no company boarding-houses or cottages, and about the only set charge against the miners' wages are those of the hospital service, common to all camps. The mines are dry and well ventilated, save for a few sulphide stopes under the old slag dump of the Copper Queen, and the treatment of the hands has always been considerate. There has been some grumbling among the men, many of whom believe that the present high price of copper would entitle them to a flat $4 wage, but the majority seem to believe in the policy of letting well enough alone.

STAPLE AS WHEAT

Will be the stock of the Mohawk-Johnnie Mining Company. Application for the listing of this stock with the San Francisco Stock and Exchange Board is now being made, and during the present week we expect its daily call by that institution to commence, thus making the stock an active, marketable quantity, as readily convertible into cash as a valid check. This si as we assured the public would be the case when we were selling the stock. We now advise the purchase of Mohawk-Johnnie at market price, because we know that it will prove one of the best, strongest climbers on the San Francisco board. We will be pleased to fill orders for the stock, or you can buy through any other broker with exchange connections. Our advice to buy this stock is inspired by definite knowledge of the conditions relating to the very valuable holdings which the stock represents, an understanding of solid facts which most positively warrants the conclusion that the stock is certain to speedily climb in value.

Bill of Particulars

The Mohawk-Johnnie Mining Company is not a mere prospecting enterprise, but is operating in what has already been proven to be the richest portion of the famous Johnnie Mining District, and is operating with great success. It is practically on a producing plane today, and before long will be in receipt of large cash returns from its product. From the two leases it owns on the Johnnie Consolidated property—the Frost-Rathborne and Beauregard—it is producing very rich ore. These leases adjoin and are being developed jointly; the development on them embraces a 6-foot shaft nearly 135 feet deep, from which extensive drifts are being run at the 40-foot and 100-foot levels; from the 40-foot level there has been taken some of the highest grade ore ever found in the Johnnie District. About 85 feet south of the main shaft a winze has been sunk 65 feet. All of the workings on these leases are in ore, and while the width of the main ledge has not yet been determined, it is known to be in excess of five feet. Above the drifts there is actually in sight and blocked out 10,000 tons of ore. Estimating the ore body to be the same width at the bottom of the winze as it is above the drifts, there is about 18,000 tons of ore practically in sight. These figures encompass only the ore body revealed by the workings and must not be assumed to measure the entire ore body exposed at the surface. On the Frost-Rathborne Lease dump there are several hundred tons of high grade ore, some of it running up as high as $1970 per ton, or nearly $1.00 per pound. On the dump of the Beauregard Lease is another large quantity of high grade ore; in addition, there is already sacked on this lease 85 sacks of 135 pounds each of ore averaging $680 per ton. The ore output herein referred to, the result of comparatively little development work, is indicative of the character of the leases owned by the Mohawk-Johnnie Mining Company; it is the kind of stuff that makes big dividend payers, and that sends the values of stocks sailing aloft. As said before, these leases already place the Mohawk-Johnnie Company in the producing class, and its ore is rich enough to justify shipping, which would at once put it in the paying class. However, it will not be necessary to ship the ore because the Boston-Johnnie Company, whose property adjoins the leases, has let a contract for the erection of a 100-ton mill to be completed inside of 90 days, and has contracted to handle the ore of the Mohawk-Johnnie Company. By the time this mill is completed, the ore-producing capacity of the Mohawk-Johnnie leases will, of course, be much greater than at present, and the company will immediately become the recipient of large cash returns from this output.

The development of the six claims owned by the company, and situated south of the Johnnie Consolidated mine, is being pushed with all the energy that men and money can command. The main shaft is down about 115 feet, and in ore. Soon drifting will commence from this shaft, and the task of opening up the ore bodies begin. The ore from these claims runs as high as $481 per ton, mostly in gold, and it is expected that out of them will be developed one of the greatest mines in Southern Nevada.

Influx of Big Operations

The tide of the Johnnie Mining District is rising. The really big men of the mining realm are coming into the territory and making investments that stand as unimpeachable testimonials to the merits of the region. We quote the following from an extended article on the Johnnie District in the Los Angeles Herald of Feb. 11, 1907:

> "A syndicate composed practically of Senator Nixon and George Wingfield, of Goldfield, and D. G. Doubleday, of San Francisco, have purchased the control of the Globe-Johnnie Company for $80,000, which is at the rate of over $160,000 for the property represented by the company's capitalization. It is understood that development on a large scale will follow. The entrance of Messrs. Nixon, Wingfield and Doubleday into the Johnnie District is regarded as of inestimable significance. * * * *
> "Another deal of equal significance is the sale, just made, of the Nevada Johnnie property to the Guggenheims, who, as everybody familiar with the mining industry knows, rank among the world's foremost mining operators, and who do not even consider districts which promise less than extraordinary results. In addition to this purchase, the Guggenheims have taken options on several other properties in the district.
> "Other late deals include the sale of the Pittsburg Johnnie holdings to San Francisco parties, and the Sandstorm claims to a St. Louis syndicate.
> "A syndicate of Colorado and California mining capitalists is contemplating the purchase of the White Cap, Lorna Doone, and Bonnie B groups, with the intent, if purchases are made, of merging them into a corporation capitalized at $2,000,000.
> "But what will prove, if consummated, a most momentous transaction, both in the properties involved and the caliber of the buyers, is pending, with every prospect of successful issue. The prospective buyers are men who have been identified with the big properties of Tonopah, Goldfield, and Greenw and their investment on the scale proposed in Johnnie will create a furore amounting to a cyclonic boom."

Just Remember

That we recommended during the year 1906 the purchase of Mohawk, Frances-Mohawk, Rep Top, Jumbo, Silver Pick, Lag and other stocks, and that those who took our advice have been able to clear from 300 to 3900 per cent. on their investments. NOW WE ADVISE THE PURCHASE OF MOHAWK-JOHNNIE AT MARKET, then watch the daily quotations as published in the newspapers, and see it soon begin to climb. Act promptly and you will profit quickly. That's all.

But climate itself, without careful medical supervision, The patient's blind reliance on climate often leads to errors, to aggravation of the disease, and to death. . . . But all patients who can afford to seek other climes should be warned that climate alone will never cure."

NSONIZER CO.:

ago I had an attack of typhoid pneumonia, from which I never fully recovered my health. After a ghing and gradually running down, I was taken with catarrhal asthma. Eighteen months ago attack of typhoid pneumonia, which left my right lung nearly solid, so it became very difficult for at all. All this time I was under the care of several of the most skilled physicians in Philadelphia, ago they told me that the only way I could prolong my misery was to change climate. I came to soon found that climate did me no good. I got so bad that I could not exist without the use of form of an asthma cure to smoke to get temporary relief. Like a man grasping at the proverbial at your office and your specialist, after a thorough examination, told me that he could empty out d cure me. I started the treatment without faith, but after using it three or four days the empty- n, and I must have expectorated a quart every twenty-four hours for several days, and I could entering deeper and deeper into my right lung until in ten days I could take a full breath and went like a new man. After the third day of the treatment I could lie down and sleep all night with- patent asthma smoke in my system. ASTHMA CURED 210 South Indiana St., Boyle Heights, Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 10, 1907.

BENSONIZER CURE:

Six years ago, while living in Council Bluffs, Ia., I was suffering severely with chronic nasal catarrh and the doctors operated on my head and removed some polypus from my nose, and soon thereafter I began to choke up and have asthma. This horrible disease drove me to California, the doctors saying that in a warmer climate I would not suffer from asthma. I came here five years ago, but found little or no relief, and gradually grew worse, trying all kinds of remedies and different doctors until the last year I was in constant distress and unable to work at my trade. This fall, when the wet weather began, I was in a horrible condition, and my lung began to fill up. My family physician told my wife that I was past help, and I got so that I could not sleep nor eat, and coughed terribly. Could not lie down in bed at all for fear of choking to death. This was my condition when I went to 626 West Sixteenth street. Upon examination, your specialist told me he could positively cure me, and could give me immediate relief. He gave me one inhalation and told me to come back in the afternoon and get two more treatments and I would sleep that night. I could not walk alone at this time, but with my wife's help I got to your office, and that night I slept, and ever since I have had no trouble, and in a week's time the doctor said I could go to work. And for the past month I have worked at building my house harder than I have ever worked, and remain perfectly well. All this has been done since December 19, 1906. Hoping to help other miserable suffering humanity to guide them to this wonderful cure, prompts me to write this. Send them all to me and let them see for themselves what you have done for me.

Truly yours,
FRED F. PETERSON.

OIL ASPHALT NOT SO GOOD.

NATURAL CEMENT SHOULD BE USED ON STREETS.

Expert Bush Tells of Analysis and How Petrolene Changes to Asphaltine, Then the Surface Crumbles. Explains Test Which Should Be Made for Material of This Kind.

Practically a new reason is given from a scientific standpoint for the poor quality of the asphalt-laid streets of Los Angeles by James K. Bush of East Orange, N. J., who has been identified with the asphalt industry in the East the greater part of his life.

Mr. Bush has been visiting in Los Angeles since December 8 and has taken an exceedingly great interest in its streets. In an interview yesterday he calls attention to the assertion of the late City Engineer Stafford and Street Superintendent Hanley, that the asphalt streets here do not last more than four years instead of from ten to twenty years. Continuing he says:

"To explain why crude oil asphalt is a complete failure for street paving, I might state that asphalt is composed of asphaltine and petrolene; the former being a hard cokey substance, while the latter is that which gives the asphalt all its adhesive or cementitious and binding properties, therefore, the petrolene is the important element of asphalt and it is this that we will take up separately.

"Upon analyzing streets paved with natural asphalts when they are first laid and then from six months up to four years later, we find that the asphalt contains the same per cent. of petrolene as when first laid, but on making this same test on streets paved with asphalt made from crude oil we find a considerable decrease in the important ingredient of petrolene of about 6 per cent. and an increase of the undesirable constituent of asphaltine of the same amount after the street was paved six months, and I might state that this has held true in over two hundred streets that I have tested in this regard.

"Further analysis shows that this change of the petrolene into asphaltine at ordinary temperatures continues until so much of the petrolene has been converted into the hard cokey substance of asphaltine that the street readily crumbles under ordinary traffic. Therefore, under these conditions it can be readily seen that in order to have a durable and satisfactory asphalt street it will be necessary to exclude from use all the artificial asphalt made from crude oil and to use the natural asphalts, of which I understand you have large deposits in California. By using the natural asphalts you will save money in the long run, through eliminating the extensive repairs that now have to be made.

"As stated, the main constituent of an asphalt is its petroleue, therefore, before allowing an asphalt to be used for paving, I would suggest that a sample be taken and the petrolene extracted from it with chemically pure sulphuric ether and then put a thin filment of this petrolene over a piece of glass and after being exposed to the air at ordinary temperatures for fifteen days or longer, and on analyisis if any of the petrolene has been changed to asphaltine, which would be indicated by its losing its stickiness, that the asphalt be condemned and not allowed to be used on the streets.

"I might state that by investigating the asphalts used on your streets, both from a practical and scientific standpoint that you will soon entirely eliminate the poor and unsatisfactory results now obtained and also might state that the difference in cost between using the natural asphalt and the asphalt made from crude oil is about 6 cents per square yard and a saving in ten years on repairs of not less than 75 cents per square yard."

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

SEVEN PIPES TO TIDEWATER.

SANTA MARIA HAS NOW FOUR FINISHED, ONE BUILDING.

Two Are Planned and Pipe for One Is Ordered—Associated and Union Will Each Have Two—Independents Plan to Build One, Buy Ships and Market Their Own Crude.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA MARIA, Feb. 14.—The general prosperity in the oil business has affected this entire region, Northern Santa Barbara and Southern San Luis Obispo counties, as well as what is known as the Santa Maria field proper. "Wild-catting" is going on everywhere and an enormous extension of the district is confidently looked forward to during 1907.

Located as this district is within twenty-five miles of the ocean and within thirty to thirty-five miles of good harbors, it is a field to be reckoned with immediately. Today three pipe lines are in full operation to tidewater, two to the big steamship landing at Port Harford, viz: the Standard's eight-inch line and the Union's six-inch, and one four-inch built by the Pacific Oil and Transportation Company, now owned by the Associated, and running to Gaviote. A fourth, the Graciosa's eight-incher, to Oil Port on Port Harford's water front, but two miles from the big steamship landing, has just been completed and is being put through preparatory tests.

A fifth, an eight-inch, is being laid by the Union, paralleling its first, to relieve the pressure upon the latter, it having proved utterly inadequate to the demand.

This will give the Union a total piping capacity of some 35,000 barrels a day under pressure. As the output of the district is now fully 20,000 a day, exclusive of what the Graciosa will put through its own line, and not less than four-fifths of this goes out by Port Harford, and three-fourths of this latter is handled by the Union it is readily seen that with the rapid increase in sight, there will be need for all this pipeage in the very near future. This line is nearly half finished.

A sixth line to the ocean is to be laid by the Associated from Alcatraz Landing at Gaviote, a distance of thirty miles to Divide, a station on the narrow-gauge in the field. It will be an eight-inch, so that with its present four-incher, the Associated will have a total carrying capacity second only to that of the Union. The old line is longer than the new one will be, as it goes about by Zazas Station on the narrow-gauge, making its length about thirty-five miles. One pumping station is to be put in at first. It is understood that pipe has already been ordered.

Thus it is seen that this district has five lines that to all practical purposes are complete and the Associated's assured within a year; this, too, while Kern's districts are struggling for cars and Coalinga has but two pipe lines, the largest number possessed by any other district in the Stath.

Not content with this the independent producers, a term which in local use means companies unaffiliated with either the Standard, Union, Graciosa or Associated, have formed the Santa Maria Oil and Transportation Company with a capital of $1,000,000, and have announced their intention of building a seventh line to tidewater and acquiring ships to market their own crude. They have already acquired land for tankage and site for a 1500-foot wharf at Pismo, at Port Harford, four and a half miles from the present steamship landing.

The directors are P. O. Tietzen, Thomas Hughes, M. Fleisher, J. W. Atkinson, B. Sinsheime and J. F. Goodwin. Nearly all are Santa Marians and connected with the Pinal, Brookshire and Western Union companies, Mr. Goodwin being general manager of the first two.

The Pinal and Western Union are now delivering to the Standard under low-priced contracts which will expire in a few months and it is quite certain that they will not be renewed, in which case the pipe line will be a necessity to get the product to market independently, unless, indeed, the Standard pays enough to convince the owners of the advisability of abandoning their plans.

THE ASSOCIATED'S PLANS.

The Associated wants Santa Maria oil in good quantities as shown by its determination to triple its pipeage. The combine has been unfortunate in this district in the extreme so far as getting its own production is concerned. Through its subsidiary company, the Recruit, it acquired a large tract on the Escolle ranch, west of the narrow-gauge track. It has so far drilled three dry holes, going as deep as 2900 feet, and is working on the fourth, now down 2300 feet, without results. This is two miles distant from the nearest of the three dry holes and nearer the proven belt, so that better results are hoped for. So far the Recruit has not been a very good recruit for its parent company. When the land was bought, however, it had all the indications of being good oil property.

The Associated, undeterred by the Recruit's failures, has gone wild-catting in its own name, and is erecting a rig to drill on the Buell ranch at a point some twenty miles south of Orcutt and ten miles nearly west of the nearest well, that of the Los Alamos Oil and Development Company. There are said to be good indications.

The combine evidently intends to buy on a large scale when its eight-inch pipe is laid. At present it cannot handle more than the small amount it has contracted for under agreements made by the P. O. & T. Co., with the Pinal and the Western Union. At the present rate of delivery these should expire toward the end of the current year. They are at low prices and more will doubtless be asked when the time for renewal comes.

In addition to what it is buying for piping to Gaviote the Associated buys fuel for the Espee Coast line as far south as Santa Barbara or Ventura from the Brookshire and the Graciosa. The former delivers by pipe to the spur track to the Union Sugar Company's factory at Betaravia and the latter at Casmalia Station to which it has its own line.

PRODUCTION AND PRICES.

The production was but little increased in 1906 over 1905, many of the best wells being kept capped during the greater part of the year. Toward the end, however, the deliveries increased and during December totaled something over 500,000 barrels. In January they again fell to 400,000, which, however, was far ahead of the average of 1905.

Two-thirds of the output is from the wells of the Union Oil Company. Of the other oil sold practically all is handled under old contracts at 25 to 35 cents. Very little "spot" oil is offered, although the Standard and Union handle some from time to time. The only recent contract learned of is that of the Rice Ranch, which has sold to the Union at 50 cents, a substantial advance plainly indicating what the future may be expected to bring forth.

NATURAL GAS UTILIZED.

The leading owners of the Brookshire and Pinal have formed a company to supply the town of Santa Maria with natural gas direct from the wells of these companies. The pipe for its conveyance to town is now strung across the road from the fields preparatory to laying. At present the Union is supplying gas in Orcutt, but except for drilling purposes, there is very few uses for the gas produced in enormous quantities.

VERY LITTLE STORAGE.

The Union has some storage in tanks and reservoirs. The Brookshire is now building a big reservoir and if the market does not stay favorable, it is likely that there may be more stored by 1908, but at present the stocks are very small. The Standard has six 35,000-barrel steel tanks, none of which it has filled. The total amount held is considerably less than 1,000,000 barrels, which is too little to count for much now.

"REDONDO VILLA TRACT B"

The Beautiful

Only $90 Per Lot $4 Down, $4 Per Month No Interest, No Taxes

FREE ROUND TRIP TICKETS from Los Angeles to Redondo and return, on cars going every 20 minutes, are given away at our office absolutely free upon application. Also free automobile ride at Redondo.

Large level lots, 50x150 feet Rich soil, pure water, fine climate. All lots, including corners, one price—$90 per lot—no more, no less. You know what you have to pay—$90 per lot—no higher. At Redondo over $2,000,000 has already grand and substantial improvements. The beautiful "Redondo Villa Tract B" is on the Camino Real (King's Highway) boulevard connecting Redondo with Los Angeles. We have just bought this beautiful tract for $151,000, and believing that it pays to let our customers make a profit, hence we have decided on this grand profit-sharing plan. We will make a profit and all our pursharers are guaranteed a profit of 25 per cent. within one year, as per our written agreement.

MR. H. E. HUNTINGTON IS EXPENDING OVER A MILLION DOLLARS AROUND REDONDO IN SUBSTANTIAL IMPROVEMENTS.

Go down to Redondo and see for yourself. At Jefferson street and Grand avenue see the immense stacks of heavy steel rails for the double-tracking of the present two electric lines of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway Company. arriving daily. Dirt is now flying. Better buy now. Then there's the Los Angeles-Pacific Railway Co.'s electric line to Redondo, the broad-gauging of which will soon occur. And in addition to the above three electric lines now running to great Santa Fe steam railroad. With four lines of transportation it would seem as if same would be sufficient, but surveyors are in the field laying out the shortest line of all to connect Los Angeles with its choicest seashore suburb—Redondo. ington is now building at Redondo the largest electric power house on the Pacific Coast, to cost $1,250,000, as fast as men and money can do it. Go down and look at the mammoth cement smokestack.

A suburban electric railroad is now nearing completion at Redondo. The grand three-story business block of Mr. W. M. Garland at Redondo is just finished. Follow successful men like Mr. Huntington and Mr. Garland—they know that stantial and a safe place to invest in. Buy anywhere around Redondo and you are sure to make large profits. Three commercial wharves. A safe harbor by twenty year's practical test. Redondo is permanent and has just begun to grow. ring to successful men, we notice that the following men have bought to the north of Redondo:

Mr. Edwin Chambers, the far-sighted General Freight Agent of the Santa Fe; Mr. George H. Peck, the successful banker of San Pedro; Mr. John J. Byrne, the capable General Passenger Agent of the Santa Fe, and Dan Murphy, the millionaire ator of Los Angeles. A word to the wise is sufficient! BUY!

Remember that your purchase is made with the distinct understanding that we will refund all money paid us, with 6 per cent. per annum interest added, if after visiting the "Redondo Villa Tract B" it is found that we have misrepresented our proposition in the slightest particular.

25 Per Cent Guaranteed Increase

For $4 down and $4 per month until paid for we will sell you a "Redondo Villa Tract B" lot for $90, subject to the following guarantee from us: If at the expiration of one year from purchase this $90 lot is not worth $112.50—or 25 per cent. increase—based on the price at which our corps of salesmen will then be selling similar lots, we will refund all of the money you have paid us, with 6 per cent. interest additional. If you should die at any time before payments have been completed we will give to your heirs a deed of the lot without further cost. If you should lose employment or be sick you will not forfeit the land, but as each written certificate of sickness or non-employment is received monthly your time for payment will be extended another month.

Our Restrictions

No saloons, no shanties, no factories. Purchasers are not compelled to build, but if they do then they must erect attractive looking houses, there being no "dollar limit." We leave it to each purchaser to build a pretty looking house, which must be neatly painted, as we know that for a moderate sum one can now build a very pretty bungalow. Lumber is cheap at Redondo, as there are three commercial wharves at Redondo at which lumber schooners are daily discharging their cargoes.

If Russell Sage, the multi-millionaire of New York, told you that you could make a fortune in suburban real estate (especially when it costs you only $4 down and $4 per month) wouldn't you be impressed? Well, listen! That's just what Mr. Sage did say in the New York World of September 28, 1902: "Young man, buy real estate, especially acre property in the outlying boroughs, and then work hard at your usual avocation. Your real estate purchases will make your old age comfortable."—Russell Sage.

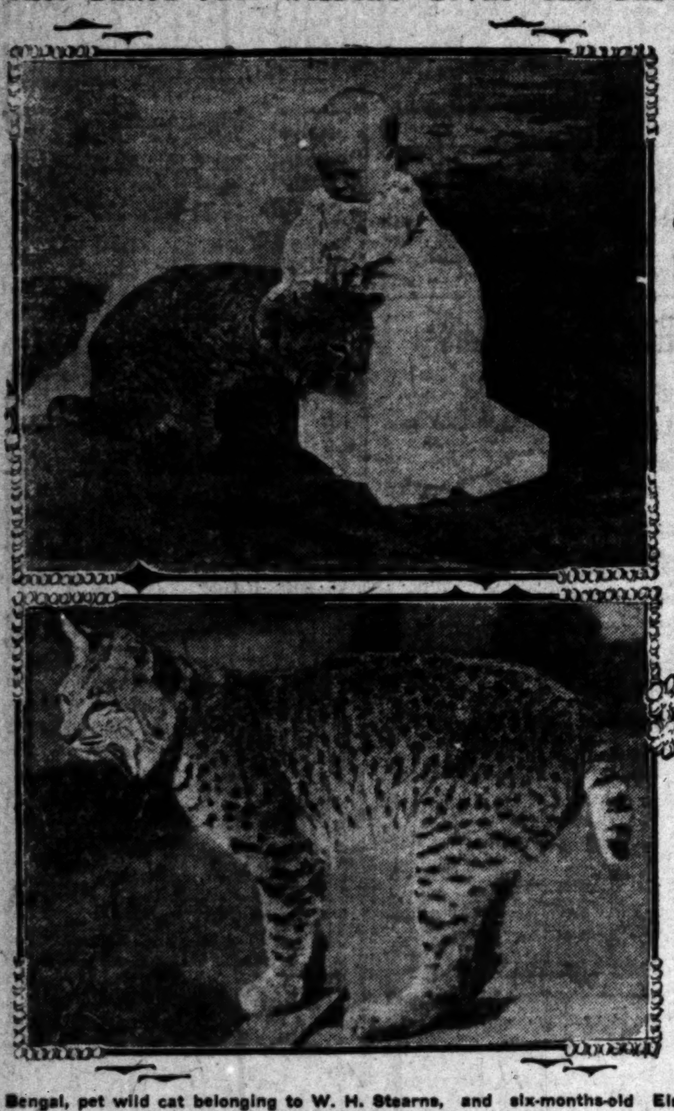
THIS LARGE PET WILDCAT LOVES THE BABY.



Bengal, pet wild cat belonging to W. H. Stearns, and six-months-old Elsie Stearns playing with the good-natured beast.

How would you like to have a real live wildcat for a pet? This is what little Elsie Stearns, 6 months old, and Helen Stearns, aged 9, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Stearns of No. 810 North Los Robles avenue, Pasadena, regard as their dearest treasure.

They would rather play with this big California wildcat than with their smaller domestic cats, and he is just as good-natured as any of the rest, too.

Bengal is his name, and he looks the part, for his marking is very similar to a Bengal tiger's. He is a beautiful animal, about three and a half feet long, and very heavy. His fur is soft and thick, and it is with this soft fur that the round-faced baby loves best to play.

The photographer caught the baby just as she was pulling the wildcat's hair, and he is submitting to it with rare good nature. Were it not for his size, one might think this gentle beast a well-bred domestic animal.

He was caught when three months old in the wilds of the San Bernardino Mountains, and purchased from a hunter at that age by Mr. Stearns. He has been with the family since that time. He was put right with several small Angora kittens, and grew up and played with these. He used to roam the house and jump on tables and bookcases, just as other kittens, but he has grown too large for that now, and they are obliged to keep him in the open, for, in his playfulness, he might break ornaments and dishes.

He is now 3 years old and powerful, yet as gentle as any ordinary cat. He is devoted to the children. He will lick the baby's hand and face and let her play with him just as roughly as she wishes, with never a growl or sound, and he is also fond of little Miss Helen. He likes women and children generally, but does not care for men. Mr. Stearns says the reason for this is that he has been obliged to take Mr. Bengal during the summer and shake him up in a bag of insect powder to rid him of fleas. Bengal regards this as a decided insult to his dignity, and thinks all men must be responsible for it. He usually growls at them.

He knows instinctively his natural enemies, however, and is ready to protect himself. He does not like dogs, and not very long ago a small dog ventured into his kennel and was thrown out and summarily killed with one fell stroke by the powerful cat. The dogs belonging to the Stearns family, however, are exempt from this treatment. He does not go near them, but now and then runs up and gives them a sly tap, as if to say: "Now will you be good?"

He is jealous of the children, and will not let anything that he thinks looks harmful come near them. His back will be up in a moment if harm threatens them, and again, if they speak kindly to him, he will put up his back and purr and rub himself against them, just like the gentlest tabby.

Bengal is to be one of the features of the exhibit of the Los Angeles National Cat Club for next week. Mr. and Mrs. Stearns have two other wildcats, but they are not tamed, having been captured after maturity. They also have a choice collection of beautiful Angoras, and an aviary filled with rare birds, from many countries.

Your mirror will tell you Satin Skin powder works beautifying wonders, 25c.

Why You Should Buy At Once the Stock of the United States Granite Pressed Brick Company

WE are asking you to invest in the stock of our company. We feel that you should know and understand thoroughly the salient facts concerning it. We do not wish you to buy a "pig in a poke," and having the fullest faith and confidence in our enterprise and in its profit-making certainties submit the following:

The Industrial Side

We make granite pressed brick.
This brick is superior to all others.
Our process is secret, and cannot be imitated.
The supply of raw material is unlimited and is close to Los Angeles.
This brick is not an experiment. The process is not new. It has stood—triumphantly—the test of time and competition.
It is manufactured in one day. An order received today may be filled tomorrow. It takes three weeks to manufacture by the old ordinary methods.
There is unvarying, absolute uniformity in the product.
Our factory at Sixteenth and Alameda streets is now in course of construction, and will be running in a few weeks. It will have an initial capacity of 20,000 bricks a day, which may easily be increased with comparatively small expense.
Our brick is easier to lay, has greater endurance, and is more pleasing to the eye than any other brick.

The Financial Side

Capitalization is only $250.000 in shares of $10 each.
We can make granite pressed brick at a cost of $7 a thousand.
The price of pressed brick in market ranges from $35 to $60 a thousand.
We can sell ours for $25 a thousand with a clear profit of $18, or nearly 300 per cent.
With an initial production of 20,000 brick a day, the daily profit will be $360.
Millions have been made in manufactures on a competitive profit ranging from 7 to 20 per cent.
No other brick can compete with ours either in quality or in cheapness of manufacture.
We own our own raw material, and will own our factory and its contents. It is located right here in Los Angeles.
Our managers are capable, experienced brickmakers and business men.
The market is practically unlimited, and the demand is steady.

STOCK WILL ADVANCE TO $8.00 FEB. 23

Price Now $7.00; Par Value $10.00

This is the third allotment of stock. It is a sure winner. We cordially invite you to call and examine the product, and investigate fully not only our process and resources, but the methods of the company and the character of the men behind it.

SHRINERS CHECKMATE.

They talked to him like a company of Dutch uncles. He was obdurate. Nothing doing.

Then the committee played its ace. Mr. Proprietor was informed that showing the spirit he did made the case one for the consideration of all the commercial and civic organizations which have the best interests of Los Angeles at heart.

On such an occasion as the meeting of the Imperial Council it was not only unfair to discriminate, but unbusinesslike and a detriment to the city as a whole. Drastic action was promised if this state of affairs was continued.

The proprietor capitulated and reduced his rates to the usual commercial rate—plus two in a room.

But now another problem confronts the committee. From among the long list of hotels which heretofore has promised a certain number of rooms it develops that there is a shortage. When it came to making a contract quite a number of the proprietors "welched." The rooms are not to be had.

CLAIM A SHORTAGE.

This unforeseen contingency has caused the members of the committee considerable worry, though they claim that when the time comes there will be accommodations for all. Today, however, the committee will get out and hustle. The committee will take no chances, and cast-iron agreements will be made with the hotels.

This last move upon the part of a few of the hotel proprietors is thought by some of the committee to be a little strained. The great number of visitors now in Los Angeles undoubtedly causes many of these hotels to believe that they will not have the rooms to spare for the Shriners during the week of May 6 to 11.

But there is another view. Besides the Shriners the Dunkards are coming in May, and there will be an advance guard. Also the delegates to the National Congress of Mothers will be here. It is thought there will be such a demand for rooms that prices will go soaring.

Maybe the proprietors who are "welching" think that by holding out they can rent their rooms to better advantage. Happily it is a comparatively small class of these who have taken this stand, and they are almost without exception newcomers, who have not as yet become inoculated with the public spirit for which Los Angeles is famous.

CONGRESS OF MOTHERS.

The local arrangement committee for the Congress of others, in which Mrs. W. W. Murphy is a moving spirit, is also striving to make satisfactory arrangements with a number of the hotels. But the hotels will shelter only in part the motherly delegates, who will convene here between May 10 and 16. The committee is arranging for the accommodation of the delegates in a large measure in private and high-class rooming-houses.

Although this committee is meeting with some difficulty in getting hotel quarters so far in advance for women, its members believe that every delegate will be properly housed and that there will be no cause for complaint upon the part of the visitors.

On the very day that the Congress of Mothers ends its sessions begins the national convention of the German Baptist Brethren, better known as Dunkards. Their convention will begin May 16 and last until May 23. Their delegates will be taken care of for the most part in private houses and by the brethren.

From June 18 to 21 will be held in this city the convention of the National Eclectic Medical Association.

BLOCKED BY RAILROADS.

But though so far ahead that no attempt has as yet been made to arrange for hotel accommodations, the annual convention of the National Educational Association will be one of the most important meetings to be held on the West Coast this year.

This convention will meet in the Auditorium from July 8 to 12, inclusive. Special rates have been made for its delegates, and it is because of these special rates that the convention comes to Los Angeles.

It was the intention at first of the officers of the National Educational Association to have the convention this year in Philadelphia. The action of the eastern trunk line railroads caused this plan to fall through.

For years it has been the custom for the railroads to make a special rate for this convention, to which was added an additional sum of $2, which was turned over to the N. E. A. treasury for its expenses. This year the eastern railroads refused to collect this additional $2 for the Philadelphia convention.

LOS ANGELES WINS.

The matter was carried before the Western Passenger Association, representing the western railroads. This association also refused to make the $2 collection. Then the officers appealed directly to the railroads leading to Los Angeles, the Southern Pacific, Santa Fé and Salt Lake. They were encouraged.

Last week the final arrangements were made. The railroads consented to make a special rate of one fare for the round trip plus the $2 for the N. E. A. Thus was the convention secured for Los Angeles and it is estimated that over 60,000 visitors will take advantage of this special rate to visit Southern California.

Among those who worked hard to have this big convention meet in this city next July are Prof. E. C. Moore, city superintendent of schools; N. R. Martin, district passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, and Prof. J. H. Chamberlain, dean of Throop Polytechnic Institute, Pasadena.

To Prof. Dean is due much of the credit for this, for as an officer of the N. E. A., he worked hard in the face of many obstacles to bring the convention here, and succeeded.

SPECIAL LOCAL RATES.

The Santa Fé has already prepared a special schedule of local rates for all holders of special rate tickets to these conventions to remain in force from May 1 to September 15. The company has issued the following instructions to its ticket agents throughout California:

Tickets may be sold to the holders of excursion tickets for the above occasions from points beyond Portland, Ogden, Salt Lake City, Albuquerque or El Paso, also to holders of nine-months' round trip tickets to San Francisco, Los Angeles or San Diego, and to friends accompanying the holders of such tickets, as follows:

One lowest first-class fare and one-third for the round trip. Add enough to make the rate end in "0" or "5," when necessary. No rate to be less than 50 cents for a full ticket or 25 cents for a half ticket.

Territory: From Los Angeles to all stations on the Los Angeles Division. From San Francisco to all stations on Valley Division.

Additional rates: From Los Angeles to San Diego and return, $4; from Los Angeles to Grand Cañon and return, $35; from San Francisco to Grand Cañon and return, $40; from San Francisco to Yosemite Valley and return, $25.

UNION TEARS OFF ITS MASK.

BRANCH OF FEDERATION OPENS OFFICE IN BISBEE.

Preparing to Hold Up Operators as Soon as It Seems Feasible—Latter Say This Will Be Never and That They Will Close Mines Before Submitting to Totemites.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

BISBEE, (Ariz.) Feb. 12.—It has been known for months that a branch of the Western Federation of Miners had been formed here, but its meetings had been so carefully guarded that no knowledge could be gained of its membership. Yesterday the union came out in the open. It has hired an office in the city and displays the charter of Bisbee Local No. 160 of the Western Federation of Miners, signed by Charles Moyer as president and E. P. Haywood as secretary.

In charge of the office are P. C. Rawling, the Territorial organizer of the Federation, and J. D. Cannon, formerly a local restaurant keeper, a blatant Socialist and one time Socialist candidate for Congress. Inquiry at the office concerning the personnel of the organization and its officers secured no response. But the organizer volunteered this information: "The policy of the union will be to proceed to a peaceable and thorough organization of the camp, which has been pretty well perfected during the past year. In accordance with the custom of the Federation, wherever it is established, the charter of the local will not be recalled as long as fifteen members in good standing desire to retain it. We intend to go along quietly, minding our own business and crystallizing the work that has already been done."

WON'T DARE TO "CLOSE" CITY.

The organizers and the people of the camp generally thoroughly understand what it will mean to force any attempt to unionize and "close" this city to all save union miners. The question was thoroughly discussed a year ago. On March 5, last, a vote over unionizing the camp was taken, the vote being restricted to miners employed in the local mines. The result was decisive, 1288 men voting against the proposition and only 426 in its favor.

Almost to a man, the mercantile interests are against the introduction of unionism, with its record of trouble, bloodshed and crime, and the miners' wives, now secure in their homes, see idleness for their men and want for themselves and their children in the very suggestion.

It is probable that nearly 4000 men are employed at the present time in and around the mines of this district. Many of them are from Colorado, where the union has ruled supreme. Though not discriminated against by the mining companies, they seem to find something lacking of spice in the conditions they have found here of peace and contentment, the men working eight hours a day in well-drained and well-conducted mines, for the maximum wages paid in the West.

The walking delegate and the strike assessment are missing and if men do not like their jobs, they can do nothing worse than quit. The Copper Queen Company has many miners who have worked for it for twenty years, each accumulating a competence without assistance from any union. Into this contented and prosperous body of workingmen is to be carried the propaganda of Socialism of the most rabid kind, veneered as unionism.

UNION ALREADY BOASTING.

It is boasted that the union now has a membership of over 600 in the camp and that additions are being made daily. There is no allegation that the men are being treated unfairly, that they are being underpaid or overworked or that they are compelled to buy at the company stores. Bisbee simply is a rich plum that the Federation's fingers long have twitched over.

The union hopes that a majority of the miners soon will be unionized. Then a demand will be made upon the companies for the closing of the camp to all save Federation workmen. The companies will do nothing of the sort, whatever the result. Rather than submit to union control, they would close their immensely profitable mines, utterly blasting the prosperity of the camp. Only disaster can follow the pressing of unionism upon Bisbee and the union men themselves are bound to be sufferers.

ATTRACTIONS OF TUCSON.

TUCSON (Ariz.) Feb. 15.—The Chamber of Commerce has just issued a very instructive and artistic pamphlet, describing the many attractions of this city and showing in colors some of the principal business houses and dwellings.

The city now has a population of 17,000, and is the only town in Arizona in which gambling is prohibited. It has six public parks, five public schools, two parochial schools, the Territorial University, seven churches, a public library and a modern sanatorium. The pamphlet points out what opportunities the city, as the mining center of the territory, offers to the investor as well as to the home maker.

WOULD-BE SUICIDE DISGUSTED.

Max Rademacher wanted to kill himself yesterday. While loading a Smith & Wesson 38-caliber revolver a shell caught in the ejector and he could not close the pistol. Disgusted, he told roomers in the lodging-house at the corner of Fifth and Los Angeles of his disappointment and the police were notified. Two razors and the pistol were found in the man's bureau drawer. He was arrested and lodged in jail. Yesterday afternoon a complaint charging him with insanity was issued. Rademacher says he is a waiter who came from San Diego a few days ago.

LAWYER STRUCK ON HEAD.

O. H. Carpenter of No. 132 South Hill street, a lawyer, was struck on the head in a fight with a man named Daniel Coffee yesterday afternoon. The trouble occurred at the Hill-street house, and Coffee, it is alleged, struck Carpenter on the head with a heavy piece of timber. Carpenter was taken to the Receiving Hospital. He is thought to have sustained a fractured skull. His wife is in Seattle, in which city the injured man is said to have a large law practice. A warrant for Coffee's arrest has been issued.

LONE STAR VALENTINE BALL.

The Texas Society of Southern California will hold a fancy dress masquerade ball at No. 845 South Figueroa street on Tuesday. There will be a joint meeting of the Massachusetts, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Texas societies on the fifth Tuesday in May, when decidedly novel features of entertainment are to be introduced.

LITTLE GIRL'S ARM BROKEN.

Viola Howard, aged 7, whose home is at No. 1703 James street, was treated at the Receiving Hospital yesterday for a fractured forearm. The little girl endured the pain bravely while the fracture was being reduced. She said she had fallen from a fence at the rear of her home.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

Charles Byrhan was struck by a Southern Pacific train near Burbank yesterday morning and both legs were cut off. Bryhan was taken to the County Hospital, but died soon after his arrival there. His home is in Springfield, Ill.

The Marvelous Rotary Steam Engine Still On Exhibition

Vast Throngs Have Witnessed This Wonderful Invention At Work

Stock in the Parent Company Now Forming, a High-Class Security

SHOWING THE COMPACTNESS OF THE ENGINE.

Many Prominent California Investors Heavy Buyers

Shares at Par (One Dollar) Offers the Man or Woman of Limited Means a Safe Investment

This May Be the Last Week Stock Will Be Offered at This Price

This has been a week of intense interest to steam men and power users. The demonstrations that have been given by the Crescent Rotary steam engine at 212 Mercantile Place have almost startled the engine men of Southern California. Everybody is accustomed to seeing the ordinary reciprocating, or piston type of steam engine, but when they behold the Rotary, and see the small space it occupies, its compactness, and have proven to them before their very eyes that so small an engine as the one on exhibit has 10 horse power, they are almost persuaded that here certainly must be the eighth wonder of the world, and so it is in its ability to revolutionize steam power The picture given above is a fair photographic reproduction of the actual engine as it appears "hooked up" ready to turn the wheels of any load that takes 10 horse power to manage. There are many features of this engine not enjoyed by any other type of engine in the world. Compared to the Turbine and Reciprocating Engine of common use, or even the Electric Motor, it is as far ahead of them as the present automobile is ahead of the old stage coach

We can speak of but a few salient features in this article.

No Dead Centers

The fact that steam is always at work on some part of the area solves the dead center objection. This engine may be started at any point on the circumference of the cylinder. By one action of the lever, the action of the entire machine may be instantaneously reversed without coming to a stop.

Weighs Less

The matter of weight is one of no small significance. This is especially true when one considers the remarkable difference between the Crescent Rotary Engine and the old style. A 10 horse power of the Crescent type weighs 150 pounds, stripped. The old style of the same horse power weighs from 500 to 760. Four-fifths reduction in weight is a gain that will be appreciated by those whose experience in the use of steam engines has made this fact apparent.

Costs Less

The cost of the Crescent Rotary Engine is the one feature that will commend it to all users of steam power more emphatically than any other merits that it possesses. Made of only three principal parts, it is easy to see in what manner the cost has been reduced. There are no complex parts. The three components of this engine are easily made, have no intricate combinations, the only absolute necessity being that they be accurately made and as carefully adjusted. With these two points regarded the operation of the machine is accomplished The 10 horse power size Crescent Rotary Engine can be placed upon the market with profit to the manufacturers at a cost of less than three-fourths the cost of the same size of the old reciprocating type. The cost of a steam engine is a point that makes the purchase of one a matter of moment. The Crescent Rotary Engine has absolutely solved the question of cost.

Company Forming to Make and Market These Engines

Mr. James Austin Larson, vice-president and trustee of the Crescent Rotary Engine Company, of 212 Mercantile Place, has sold to many of Southern California's best people and shrewdest investors blocks of stock in this enterprise. From the sale of the past week, and the intense interest being taken in this wonderful invention, the few remaining shares will all be sold at an early date The office at Spokane, where the company was formed and where the headquarters are now located, have just notified Mr. Larson that the negotiations under way for the sale of certain foreign rights of manufacture are progressing nicely and that they hope soon to announce the consummation of this deal, which, when it goes through will make every dollar of stock in the parent company worth three to five times the present selling price, which is one dollar—par value.

Here is certainly a high class security, one that is bound to make money hand over fist, for the exclusive market that is open to the company places them in a position to dominate the Steam Engine Market, with a product that will sell like wildfire because of its small size, saving in first cost, and its enormous sale—for it will displace every other type of engine, the company will make a tremendous profit

Stock Will Soon Go to a Dollar and Fifty a Share

We say this advisedly—based upon the phenomenal demand for the stock, which is the best proof of the certainty of enormous profit in manufacture that awaits the investor. That if you are looking for absolutely the best industrial proposition ever offered the people of this or any other country, you will waste no time in getting hold of just as many shares at one dollar each as you have money to buy, or as many as you can get an option on if the funds are not at hand this moment. We believe that before this week is out announcements will be made which will justify the advance to one dollar and a half, and may be two dollars a share. The opportunity of profit to the company from the sale of foreign and domestic patent rights alone is enough to make the price soar. Take for instance this deal that is now on—one million dollars for the German rights say in itself would make a great big dividend on the capital stock, and every shareholder is equal profit-sharer in this big revenue.

This is not an untried invention, nor is it a paper proposition. The company has a factory at Spokane which is turning out engines.

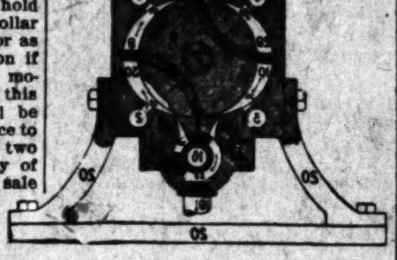
If you are interested, and you should be whether you are a large or small investor, you can have the opportunity of seeing this marvel of the century in operation under steam if you will go to 212 Mercantile Place, where you will find Mr. Larson or his assistant, who will take you to where the 10 horse power model is at work. And from that it is not merely a good thing on paper, or looks nice as an office model, but the stunts this little engine will do will convince you that we have not said half enough.

A Great Many Ladies Have Become Interested—and Buyers

The gentlemen are not the only ones to see the commercial value of this invention, dozens of women have called to see the engine and get particulars about the proposition. Many of them have invested their money. You know there is a saying about "It takes a woman to make a bargain."

Hundreds of mail orders and inquiries have come to the local office for stock, and if you are still holding off you will make the mistake of your life if you do not close on a block of shares tomorrow. Procrastination in this may mean the pauper's share to you—for as sure as you live you will see this stock many times the price asked today—one dollar per share.

If you can't get to 212 Mercantile Place during the day, the office will be open during the evening so as to accommodate you. But whatever you do don't delay. Buy these shares today.



HOW THIS ROTARY ENGINE OPERATES

Steam from the boiler enters the feed pipes at 18 and 19, and thence into the valve chambers, 25 and 26. It is forced then into the feed parts 11 and 13. The steam then enters the parts of the crescent-shaped chambers, 9 and 10. Here expansion takes place, forcing the ends of the blades, 5 and 6, forward. The lessening distance for the blades to travel in the chambers, 29 and 30, presses them into the piston, 8, 9 and 10. The later chambers take up the increasing lengths of the blades in the same proportion as their decreasing in length becomes necessary in chambers 29 and 30. As the protruding blades approach the exhausts, 21 and 23, the opposite ends are beginning to take the steam at the feed parts 11 and 13. By the time the full area of the blade end is in steam contact, the dead steam is fully exhausted through 2 and 4. Whatever of atmospheric cushioning remains between exhausts 21 and 23 and parts 12 and 14 escapes through the latter into exhaust chambers 27 and 28. This establishes the rotary motion, which is communicated from the piston, 8, to the shaft, 7, which is keyed, transmitting its power for outside application. To reverse the action of the engine one lever is provided, and 16 and exhausts 1 to 4. When reversed by the lever, the action of the valves 25 and 27 and 26 and 28 is reversed, exhausts 2 and 4 are closed and 1 and 3 opened. Blades 5 and 6 slide through the piston, 8, in a steam-tight channel, with a minimum friction, and are also steam tight where their ends meet in contact with the interior walls of the chambers, 9, 10, 29 and 30.

All Diseases

Drs. Shores not only cure Catarrh, but they cure Nervous Diseases, Kidney Diseases, Bladder Troubles, Heart Disease, Diseases of the Stomach and Bowels, Piles, Fistula and Rectal Diseases, Female Complaints, Diseases of Women and Children, Rickets, Spinal Troubles, Skin Diseases, Deafness, Asthma, Bronchial and Lung Troubles, Ovarian Diseases, Sciatica, Rheumatism, Hay Fever, Neuralgia, Hysteria, Ear Diseases, Goitre (or Big Neck), La Grippe, Lost Manhood, Blood Diseases, Scrofula and all forms of Nervous and Chronic Diseases that are curable.

DRS. SHORES TAKE NO INCURABLE CASES under the promise of a cure. Diseases that have baffled the skill of other doctors and specialists and stubbornly refused to yield to the ordinary methods of treatment in most cases are quickly subdued and mastered by these noted doctors. Prices and terms within the reach of all. Everybody who has a symptom of disease should call and consult these noted specialists free. CONSULTATION AND EXAMINATION FREE, whether you take treatment or not, for any disease.

Importance of a Cure

There is danger from contagion to the catarrh victim in many clouds of dust that blows.

While catarrh does not cause all cases of consumption, it is also true that all those who have consumption have been subject to catarrh. All consumptives were catarrh victims. They took cold. Catarrh had prepared the way for consumption. Tubercular consumption ever requires a break in the membranes which line the breathing tubes. Catarrh furnishes the broken places in the form of raw spots. The consumptive germs cannot enter the blood of one whose bodily health is perfect, whose blood is rich and pure, unless there should exist in such person's body a broken sore or inflamed discharging spot where these germs may lodge and enter the system. Catarrh forms just such broken places, and those persons whose Throats and Bronchial Tubes are raw and inflamed are ever exposed to the danger of acquiring consumption. If the people were only alive to the fact that if they attended to their throat and bronchial tubes and allowed those skilled in the treatment of these parts to cure them, there would be but few cases of consumption. To show what can be done in the way of preventing consumption, nothing is so convincing as this: Among the hosts that are treated at our offices every year scarcely a person who has been under care has been known to develop lung disease. This is proof beyond question that by curing catarrh the development of consumption is prevented.

Free Free! This Week! One full treatment free in all Catarrhal diseases as a test. Make no mistake. All are invited.

If you live out of town and cannot call, write for free examination blanks.

A WORD TO THE SICK

If your regular doctor's treatment has been disappointing; if you seem to stay about the same, or even get worse under ordinary treatment, don't give up all hope, but remember Drs. Shores & Shores make a specialty of curing old, deep-seated Chronic Nervous and Private Diseases—they have cured hundreds. A friendly talk with Drs. Shores will cost you nothing and may save your life.

testified that there was no ventilation underneath the floor of the building.

Elmer A. Bennett, plumbing and gas inspector, and Charles E. Bailey, deputy plumbing inspector, both testified that they had no knowledge of the location of the gas meter in the restaurant, and that the placing of gas pipes and meters was carried on without any special knowledge of their department in many of the city's buildings.

Several police officers testified as to the general conditions at the building immediately after the fire, and while some of them saw the gas company's men at work there, none of them saw the removal of the meter.

G. B. Lewis, who installed the distillate burning outfit the night before the explosion, declared that when he left the place a short time before 4 o'clock on the morning of the accident, he detected no smell of gas; that he gave the stove a trial and that it worked all right, and that it is in good condition now.

Both chefs at Cressaty's—James Benson and Fay Smith—testified as to the trouble from gas since early in the morning until the explosion occurred, and agreed that it was worse in the pantry, where the meter was located.

FEARED AN EXPLOSION.

Miss Ray Calish, cashier of the restaurant, also told of the trouble with the gas oder, which kept getting more offensive, and of the many attempts to secure help from the gas company's office. She says that finally she called them up and said: "For God's sake, if you can't fix the leak, then stop the gas from coming in." She says that when the first gas company man arrived he seemed excited and said that the leak must be stopped at once or there would be an explosion.

Max E. Rotman, an employé of the gas company, told of being sent to the restaurant to help fix the trouble, and he then was sent back to the company's office for a special light for Bloomenthal. When he returned, Holderman, another gas company employé, was outside.

"He told me he had taken out the meter, and asked me to help locate the main," said Rotman. He testified that Holderman and Bloomenthal entered the building, and that as soon as he could put his bicycle away he followed. The two men had disappeared into the pantry, and he was about fifteen feet into the kitchen when the explosion came. He said it was not a minute after the men had entered the pantry.

Asked as to the use of special lights for their work, Rotman said they used none except that when they wanted to read a meter they struck a match for the purpose. He declared that neither man was smoking when he saw them enter the building.

There were several other witnesses, their testimony being corroborative, and all agreeing on the early discovery of the smell of gas at the restaurant.

PAIGE-MITCHELL RANCH

FARMS

Profits of Dairy Farming

Close to the City of Tulare and the Most Fertile Land in the County

When you buy land buy the best; get it close to an enterprising, growing town that will afford good markets, schools, churches, stores, etc. You can just as well locate in a thriving community as to go out into the country where there are no people and no advantages. The Paige-Mitchell Ranch is splendidly located as regards climate, markets and two railroads.

Prosperous Farmers

The farmers of Tulare have grown rich; there are many highly cultivated and extremely profitable farms which demonstrates the Paige-Mitchell Ranch to be in the right spot. Its soil is of the very highest grade; the crops raised are extremely heavy; there seems to be no wear out to the soil. Grab a handful from a freshly plowed furrow and you will become enthusiastic over its "feel," its "smell" and its "taste." It is what you are looking for—rich and mellow. "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." Look at the crops from this soil. Ask the farmers how much they make. The records are better than the average. Our five, free booklets give all the facts and the figures.

Alfalfa $13 Per Ton

Last week's quotation on alfalfa was $13 per ton f.o.b. Tulare. There is a demand for more alfalfa than is now produced in Tulare. It is a great stock country. Dairying is profitable; sugar beets are a specialty; all kinds of grapes take naturally to this soil. Everything does well. Wheat is a tremendous crop. Corn, sweet potatoes, cantaloupes produce lavishly. It is a good climate in which to raise turkeys.

Abundant Water Supply

The Paige-Mitchell Ranch is abundantly watered. The water question has been satisfactorily settled in Tulare county. It is a known commodity. There is no guess-work about it. The developments have demonstrated where the water is; there is plenty on the Paige-Mitchell Ranch—enough and to spare.

Prices Are Low—Terms Easy

We can sell you a farm on the Paige-Mitchell Ranch for a small payment down and the balance in one, two or three years. Many farmers have bought on this plan and paid for their land out of their crop besides getting a good living in the meantime.

The price of these 10, 20 or 40 acre farms is lower than is asked for adjacent property having equal advantages.

Call or write to our office for complete information and for the five booklets which describe five different kinds of farms and farming in Tulare county. Daily excursions to the property.

Guaranteed Liquor Cure.

No Detention From Work or Loss of Time—Desire for Drink Destroyed by Orrine.

When one of our most reliable druggists makes a positive statement that he will guarantee to cure the liquor habit if Orrine is used in accordance with directions or refund the money it shows his great faith in the treatment. It is in this way that Orrine is sold by the leading druggist in nearly every city and town. In every box is a registered guarantee which entitles you to a refund of your money if Orrine fails to effect a cure.

No other cure for the liquor habit has been sold in this way and this remarkable guarantee shows how far superior Orrine is to the ordinary sanatorium or home treatment. There is no detention from work or loss of time when Orrine is used. It destroys the desire for liquor, so that the drink is not missed; also cures the deranged stomach, weakened nerves and other ill effects of excessive drinking, restoring the patient to perfect health.

Orrine is prepared in two forms, No. 1, the secret remedy which can be used in food or drink without the knowledge of the patient; No. 2, for those who take the remedy of their own free will. Both forms are guaranteed. A registered guarantee in every box.

Treatise on how to cure drunkenness free on request. Orrine Co., Washington, D. C. The price of either form is $1 a box, making the cost of the complete cure less than one-tenth what is usually charged at sanatoriums, with a guarantee that the expense will be nothing unless a cure is gained. Mail orders filled.

PREPARING TO SEND ATHLETES EASTWARD.

TO HAVE California well represented in the National athletic contests to be held at the Jamestown Exposition, next summer, is the end towards which Pacific Coast representatives of the American Athletic Union are working. Managers of local teams are also much interested in the success of this movement and are working to have a full quota of men from the South make places on this team. They are firmly of the opinion that the interests of California will be advanced by the entry of men from this section.

Considerable corespondence in regard to this California team has been received by Herbert Hauser of San Francisco, who is secretary of the Pacific Coast branch of the A.A.U. Al Lawton of this city also has been the recipient of letters from National Secretary Sullivan urging that the matter be pushed to completion. He requests these men to get a line on the winners of the various meets with the idea of getting the strongest men to compete for the final tryout when Jamestown delegates will be selected.

The method for selecting such a team will be by holding two meets of the A.A.U. One in the north and the other in this city. The northern meet will be held in March, while the one here will follow close on the finish of the intercollegiate meets, the date having been set for May 6. Unless a man tries and qualifies in the A.A.U. meet he will not be considered, no matter how capable he may be, or how brilliant his collegiate or team record.

Another rule applying to this competition is that a man must come within a prescribed time, height or distance in order to qualify without regard to his place in the events. In a slow race the winner might be barred by this rule, while in a similar event run in good time, third place man might meet the limitations.

Mr. Lawton stated yesterday that he expected a large number of teams to enter the Southern California A.A.U. meet which will be held on Bovard field at the University of Southern California on May 6. Men will compete under the colors of the following organizations University of Southern California, Occidental College, Pomona College, Whittier College, St. Vincent's College, Los Angeles Y.M.C.A., Los Angeles Athletic Club, Throop Polytechnic, Pasadena Y.M.C.A., as well as a number of academies and high schools.

One of the heartiest supporters of the Jamestown project is Coach Holmes of U.S.C., and he intends to have every one of his men try for the place in the A.A.U. Richardson is one of the most prominent candidates. The entry list is open to any amateur list in the south.

WHITTIER BEATS U.S.C.

Quaker Boys Win But May Lose Services of Captain Todd Who Sprains Ankle.

Whittier defeated U.S.C. yesterday in basketball, with a score of 40 to 18. The game was played in the gymnasium at U.S.C. Whittier began with a rush that dazed the university men, and they didn't get over it till the second half was well under way. The U.S.C. team work was then a feature and they threw thirteen goals to seventeen by their opponents in the last fifteen minutes.

Capt. Todd, guard for the Whittier team, and one of the best players, sprained his ankle during the game, and while it did not put him over the side-lines his work was not so effective during the rest of the playing. Killian, forward, and Adams, guard, were both absent and weakened U.S.C.'s team to some extent, but Burek and Swantek played a good game in their places.

On Monday Pomona will play U.S.C.

Burek's playing yesterday was his first work, practically, since the close of the football season. It is understood he will be out regularly in the track work the remainder of the season. He and Richardson and Haigler are set on shutting Occidental out of points in the hammer throw in their meet on Washington's Birthday. Another bit of gosip overheard at U.S.C. campus is that if Bird, Occidental's crack sprinter, does not enter in the dashes, that Holmes will not allow Parsons to run. He expects to win the event with slower men and wants to give his newer material a chance.

DUST-EATERS WILL GATHER.

Bi-Weekly Auto Track Racing Offered Chicago.

Vanderbilt Cup Racers Are Among the List.

Speedsters and High-Powered Roadsters Entered.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bi-weekly automobile racing will be offered the Chicago public during the coming summer, if the plans of a group of speed enthusiasts reach fruition. Negotiations have been entered into with the management of the Worth track, from whom promises of hearty support have been secured. That a number of race meets would probably be held this year was made evident some weeks ago, but the plan has assumed greater magnitude than at first contemplated by the promoters.

The prevalance of touring cars of high power, capable of fully as great speed as the racing machines of a few years ago, gives a long list of eligible cars. Another important class on which promoters are relying for some hot contests includes the "gentlemen's roadsters," high power runabouts that are declared to be capable of any speed up to seventy miles an hour.

Orlando F. Weber has been active in arousing interest in the proposed series of races, and C. A. Coey, who has been much in evidence at race meets in the past, has fallen in with the movement. Coey hopes to be able to make use of the Thomas Vanderbilt racer, which he entered with Le Blon as driver, in the last international cup race.

Herbert Lytle and the Pope-Toledo racer are expected to be in the city during the summer and it is believed that the Locomobile and Oldsmobile cup racers will also visit Chicago. The Haynes Vanderbilt racer is now owned in this city, and will be entered in the races and several Apperson "Jack Rabbits," duplicates in power and speed of the cup racers, are relied upon as entrance in the events for racing monsters.

As star attractions, arangements will be made for the appearance of such professional dust-eaters as Barney Oldfield, A. C. Webb and Eddie Bald, and efforts will be made to induce Webb Jay to tempt fortune again and bring "Whistling Billy" into service.

CHANGES IN VANDERBILT.

EXTENSION OF WEIGHT LIMIT IS PROBABLE.

Rules for America's Premier Auto Racing Event Will Be Made More Like Those of European Contests. Few Foreign Makers Will Compete Otherwise.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An extension of the weight limit for cars entered for the Vanderbilt cup is probable this year. Several times attention has been called to the fact that the weight of 2204 pounds has become too low because of the steadily increasing horse-power of racing cars. This compels manufacturers to build cars of tremendous power with the limit of 2204 pounds, and has for a couple of years been requiring them to edge too close to the line of safety. Some of the conservative makers have refused to build racing cars solely for this reason.

The weight restriction has lost its significance abroad and the little Grand Prix of France is to be run this year with no restriction as to the weight of cars. This fact is likely to lead to a change in the rules for the Vanderbilt cup.

If the weight limit of 2204 pounds is retained it will seriously interfere with foreign entries for the Vanderbilt cup as the racing cars of the foreign makers will be built this year without reference to weight, as the rules for the Grand Prix ignore the weight issue. This would make some of the cars unavailable for the Vanderbilt race under the present rules and the makers are not disposed to produce more than one specially designed model of racing car in a season.

The abolition of the weight limit is not expected to result in the building of enormously big high power cars. It is believed that in the Grand Prix several makers will attempt to win with speedy light cars that are likely to go through with less trouble and fewer renewals of fuel supply. In fact some on the other side appear to be of the opinion that a new movement toward light weight racing is to begin.

TO LEGALIZE SPEEDING.

Bill to Provide for Automobile Racing on Public Highways Presented in Massachusetts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WORCESTER (Mass.) Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A measure, which, if adopted, will prove a distinct boom to motorists of this State will be presented to the Committee on Roads and Bridges at the State House by Daniel F. Gay of the Worcester Automobile Club.

It provides that the Mayor or selectmen of a city or town may in their discretion upon special occasions and subject to reasonable condition close the public ways and grant permits to persons to operate automobiles at any rate of speed during a specified time and upon specified portions of the public highways. Should the measure become a law it would legalize speed races on the highways of this State.

AIR PILOTS ARE CHOSEN.

Team to Defend America in the Second Aero Gordon Bennett Announced. Eight Countries Compete.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The American team, which is to defend the Gordon Bennet international balloon trophy, has been selected by the committee of the Aero Club of America appointed for that purpose.

President Cortland Field Bishop, Augustus Post and Samuel H. Valentine composed this committee. They have announced that Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, who won the cup for America last year; J. P. McCoy and Allan R. Hawley will be the members of the team. The race in which England, Germany, France, Spain, Belgium and possibly Italy and Austria will compete against the United States will be started from St. Louis on October 19.

No Centipede Race.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Because of lack of entries the board of rowing stewards of the Intercollegiate Regatta Association has announced that a centipede race could not be introduced this year. According to the rules of the association if three entries are received for a race it shall be put on the schedule of the Poughkeepsie regatta.

HAROLD E. THOMAS,
captain of the Pomona College track team, who is a remarkable athlete.

POMONA CAPTAIN IS POPULAR ATHLETE.

HAROLD E. THOMAS, captain of the Pomona College track team, is one of the most versatile athletes in Southern California. Although handicapped to a great degree by the loss of his left arm, he has been able to win his "P" in both track and tennis. He won his track letter in his freshman year, and tennis later in 1905.

Thomas is the 'varsity bread jumper, having a mark of 21 feet 10½ inches. He has jumped the distance several times and in all the meets he jumps very consistently. Thomas went north last spring with the Southern California All-Stars. In the Stanford meet he made six jumps, all being over 21 feet. Next to Munger, "Hal," as he is called, is the best high jumper in college, having done 5 feet 8 inches a number of times. He jumps in the latest form, going straight at the bar.

Were Thomas needed in the 440-yard dash, he would undoubtedly make good, for he has run the distance in less than 56 seconds.

Thomas has held the college tennis championship for the past two years. He plays a fast, hard game, both at the net as well as at the service line. In serving he holds his racquet and throws the ball in the air with the same hand.

Thomas will graduate this spring. His home is in Phoenix, Ariz. In January, Thomas, with two others, took the Rhodes examination for Oxford scholarships at Tucson. While he will not hear from the Board of Examiners for nearly a month, all his friends feel confident that he passed the exes safely.

It was while attending Phoenix High School that Thomas lost his arm. He was on a duck-shooting expedition on the Salt River, and while out in a boat after a bird, his trigger caught and discharged the barrel. The charge entered his left arm, tearing it badly. It was necessary for his companions to drive about thirty miles with him before reaching a surgeon. Every effort was made to save the arm, but to no avail, and it was taken off at the elbow. After the arm was about healed, Thomas played tennis one day with the result that blood poisoning set in and he suffered a severe relapse. His arm was removed at the shoulder. For a long time his life was despaired of, but because of his vigorous constitution he pulled through.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE.

Y.M.C.A. Teams to Play to Select Champions to Represent South at Watsonville.

The schedule of games for the basketball championship of the Southern California Y.M.C.A. was made out yesterday and shows the teams lined up as follows: February 20, Spartans of Los Angeles vs. Long Beach, at Long Beach; February 23, Pasadena vs. Long Beach, and Los Angeles Spartans vs. Los Angeles Meteors, at U.S.C. gymnasium; February 27, Pasadena vs. Los Angeles Meteors, at Long Beach; March 4, Los Angeles Meteors vs. Long Beach, and Los Angeles Spartans vs. Pasadena, at U.S.C. gymnasium.

The series will determine the Southern California Y.M.C.A. championship, and also will decide which team will be sent up to Watsonville to represent Southern California in the State championship series that starts March 9.

READY TO DASH AGAINST TIME.

Pasadena-Altadena Climbing Contestants Prepare.

Vital Change in Regulations Bars Amateurs.

Half of Entrance Fees Will Go to Charity.

With the course in perfect condition, and a large entry list assured, the second Pasadena-Altadena hill climb is well on the road toward success. Not less than fifty and probably seventy-five entries is the prediction of the committee having the matter in charge.

As already stated in The Times, the course this year is nearly a mile shorter than last year's, its exact length being 1.4 miles. Unlike the course of last year, there are no turns. Another of the objectionable features of the former course has been done away with. A bridge has been built over the Altadena trolley tracks, so that there will be no diminishing of speed when taking the crossing.

Another improvement is a run of 200 yards beyond the finish in which the cars may slow down. Last year there was hardly enough room for this.

Policing the course will be attended to more thoroughly this year. The Pasadena end of the course will be cared for by the regular Pasadena force. The main length of the run and the finish will be guarded by members of the dealers' association. For this purpose one member from every firm belonging to the association will be drafted for duty on Washington's Birthday.

One precedent that the committee has established is that no cups will be solicited. Two perpetual challenge cups have been given and will be competed for. These are the dealers' association cup for the fastest time up the hill regardless of class, won last year by a Thomas, and now held by the Western Motor Car Company; and the Leon T. Shettler perpetual trophy for the $1500 and under class, won by a Reo and held by Mr. Shettler. Any one who wishes to put up a perpetual trophy will be welcomed, but neither the committee nor the association will solicit cups.

The winner of any class where there is no trophy will be given a certificate, handsomely embellished.

VITAL CHANGE IN RULES.

Two vital changes have been made in the general rules of the contest. The wisdom of both may be questioned, and it will only be after a trying out that their merit can be determined.

By a new ruling of the committee, but one car of the same make and model may be entered in any class. The obvious intention of the rule is to prevent a dealer entering three or four machines in a class, with the hope that one of them may pull through in first place. Thus far the rule is excellent, and not only means a fair show for every dealer, but will aid in expeditious running of the event.

The objection to it is the same objection that may be urged against the second ruling of the committee. This rule is that no entries will be accepted except from members of the dealers' association.

These two rules absolutely exclude any amateur competition. While the amateur element is not large, it is distinctly worthy of consideration. There are owners of cars in Pasadena and Los Angeles whose presence in the hill climb would be an addition to the programme. In many cases they own foreign machines which are not represented in Los Angeles. The possible presence of a Mercedes, a Panhard and a Renault is thus barred.

The position of the committee is that every dealer in Los Angeles is a member of the association, and the public want to know what each car will do under the best handling. That is true, but the public is also interested in knowing what a car will do in the hands of owners.

There is one distinct benefit of this rule, however. The absence of any car represented in Los Angeles, except in those cases where a dealer has no car owing to the abominable traffic conditions, is a confession of weakness that cannot be overlooked.

CHARITY WILL GAIN.

Of the $10 charged as an entrance fee, no part will be returned. One-half of this money will be donated to the Salvation Army for use in Los Angeles solely. The other half will be used to pay the expenses of the meet.

On account of the sickness of Don Lee, a member of the hill-climb committee, L. T. Shettler has taken his place, and will serve on the committee.

Rivalry in the $1500 and under class is an assured thing, as the Buick and the Reo have always been strenuous competitors, and both come in this class. Last year the Buick beat the Reo out with two passengers, and the Reo evened up by winning with four passengers aboard. This year, Mr. Shettler offers to wager $100 that the Reo makes better time than the Buick in either the runabout or touring car class, and agrees in case he wins to turn the money over to the Salvation Army.

The classes, of which there are twelve, six each for runabouts and touring cars, were published a week ago in the automobile section of The Times.

Race Regulations.

The regulations for this year's hill climb pertaining to the cars themselves do not differ greatly from those of last year. The principal change is in the entrance fee, which will be $10 this year. No part of this will be refunded. Last year the major part of the fee was refunded if the car took part in the race.

In all classes except the two free-for-alls full equipment is required. This is defined to mean the regulation equipment of lamps, horn, tool box, etc. Tops may be removed.

In all the runabout events the cars must carry two persons, both together weighing not less than 300 pounds. All touring cars must carry four persons, the four to weigh not less than 600 pounds. In other words, the average weight of passengers must be 150 pounds.

Every car must carry a number furnished by the starters, and no car will be recognized as a competitor unless it does carry a number.

The entries close tonight at midnight.

GOOD ROADS MADE BETTER.

Improvements at Riverside—Rubidoux Mountain Boulevard Proving Immensely Popular.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 16.—Autoists agree that the Riverside county roads are in the lead of all Southern California roads. The Box Springs grade is irreproachable. The roads leading to San Bernardino and Redlands present a uniformly hard, smooth surface, and the road from here to Los Angeles is better than it has been for some time.

In coming from Los Angeles to Riverside, drivers are advised to follow the Southern California automobile signs as far as Etiwanda, then take the Base Line road to Rialto and turn south to Riverside. This change in the route is recommended on account of repair work in progress on the road leading from Etiwanda to the winery at Wineville. San Bernardino and Riverside county Supervisors are jointly repairing this road, which leads through a sandy stretch of ground which has heretofore made heavy traveling. The road will be graded and oiled, and when completed will be one of the best in this section.

Driving from Riverside to San Bernardino, motorists are advised to turn to the left at the railroad bridge for half a mile and then turn to the right again, on account of a fill which the railroad company is making. In going to Redlands from Riverside the best route is to take the direct road to Colton, from there following east on Colton avenue to the Casa Loma Hotel.

The scenic boulevard to the summit of Rubidoux Mountain has been widened in places to accommodate the largest cars that may want to make the trip, and machines with 118 wheel base now go up with ease. This road is proving immensely popular, and automobile parties come out from Los Angeles every day to enjoy the exhilarating drive up the mountain. It is a "one way" drive, with a 4 per cent. grade ascending and an 8 per cent. grade descending. The view from the top takes in a magnificent stretch of country, including Corona, Arlington, Riverside, Highgrove, West Riverside, Colton, Redlands, San Bernardino, Rialto and the intervening valleys. Particularly on Sundays the drive is crowded with enthusiastic automobilists.

SADIE CASE.

NEW ROAD TO SAN DIEGO.

Automobile Highway to Be Constructed Up Carlson Canyon Over Point Loma.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 15.—In line with the movement for better roads the Point Loma syndicate announce the immediate construction of an automobile road up Carlson Cañon, on Point Loma, connecting Roseville with Ocean Beach. The grade through the cañon will be about a mile long and will be used for general purposes until the laying of the rails of the railroad is completed. The work of surveying the streets in Ocean Beach and Roseville is progressing. The automobile road up the cañon to Ocean Beach will be a valuable addition to the automobile drives of the city.

O. G. Griffin of Los Angels, who arrived in his automobile from Los Angeles Thursday, coming through from Riverside in one day, reports that while the country roads are very bad he made the trip without great trouble.

AGREEMENT FOR ROAD RACE.

Conditions of Oldsmobile-Pope-Hartford Contest to San Francisco Are in Final Shape.

The Los Angeles-San Francisco race between the Oldsmobile and the Pope-Hartford will come off March 14, unless the committtee decide that road or weather conditions would make it impossible. As both contestants express a desire to run the race as quickly as possible, there seems every reason to suppose that the date set will be adhered to.

Fernando Nelson, who now holds the record between the two cities, has been appointed stakeholder. Capt. Ryus and E. P. Brinegar have each deposited with him $1000, and have agreed to deposit $2000 more before March 5.

The race will be started from Broadway and Fourth street at 4:30 o'clock Thursday morning, March 14. The finish will be at the corner of Twelfth and Broadway streets, Oakland. The route specified is the Valley route, and each car must pass through San Fernando, Elizabeth Lake, Bakersfield, Fresno, Merced, Tracy and Livermore.

Each car must carry four passengers all the time, but they need not be the same persons throughout the run. Any number of relays of drivers and mechanics will be allowed.

The articles of agreement also provide that the cars must be absolutely stock cars, with the exception that either contestant can provide shock absorbers, bumpers, straps and any lamp equipment he sees fit.

If either contestant is arrested, or if neither reach Oakland within forty hours, the race will be run over.

MAKE TOUR OF MEXICO.

Los Angeles Party Report Fair Roads to Mexican Boundary With a Few Exceptions.

A party of ten, consisting of F. T. Boydston of Chicago, with his wife, mother and sister, and Bion L. Trout of Chicago in Mr. Trout's '07 Haynes, and George T. Huntsberger, with his wife and son, B. M. Jones and C. A. Lyons of Lyons, Neb., in Mr. Lyon's '06 White, have just finished a trip through Southern California and over into Mexico. They were gone a week and a half.

They claim to have been the first to make the entire trip without assistance since the heavy rains. The first night out they spent at Corona, and the second at Escondido.

They report fair roads until two miles past Bonsall. At this point they advise motorists to proceed straight ahead after reaching the line of gum trees, instead of following the auto club signs and turning to the right. Following the straight road until the next road to the right will bring travelers back on the main road without going into an almost impassable adobe sink hole.

With the exception of a few sink holes the rest of the roads as far as Tia Juana are reported very good. There is, however, a difficult ditch at the forks of the Oceanside and Escondido roads.

FIRST PIERCE ARRIVES.

The first of the '07 Pierce-Arrow cars arrived in Los Angeles the past week. The car was bought by H. J. Slater. It is the 28-32 horse-power model, and from outward appearances does not differ greatly from the last year's model of the same power. The addition of a Simms-Bosch magneto is one of the principal changes on the engine.

RACING GAME IS BOOSTED.

SAN DIEGO TRACK PROBABLE SCENE OF CONTEST.

One of Largest Courses in Country Is Almost Completed at Lakeside. Barney Oldfield and Bruno Siebel Named as Stars to Scintillate at Christening.

One of the first, if not the only track built expressly for automobile racing in America, is almost finished at Lakeside in San Diego county. The christening of the track will in all probability be by a race between Barney Oldfield in the Green Dragon and Bruno Siebel in the rebuilt 999, which has been painted black, and will appear for its resurrected racing debut under the name of "The Flying Dutchman."

Siebel has been at San Diego the past week perfecting arrangements, and reports that the race is practically settled. Dana Burks, owner of the Flying Dutchman, said yesterday that the car would be shipped to San Diego in a short time and would appear there in races, so that the long talked-of meet seems to be assured.

John H. Gay is the man responsible for the building of the track. He owns 2000 acres at Lakeside, which is about twenty miles from San Diego, and he has constructed the track at his own expense.

The track is two miles around, one of the largest tracks in the world, and said to be the largest in America. The form is egg-shaped, and with so large a track this shape gives practically no corners. The radius of the curve at the larger end is 1000 feet, and at the smaller 600 feet. Compared with most courses on which motor racing has been held, this will appear almost a straightaway.

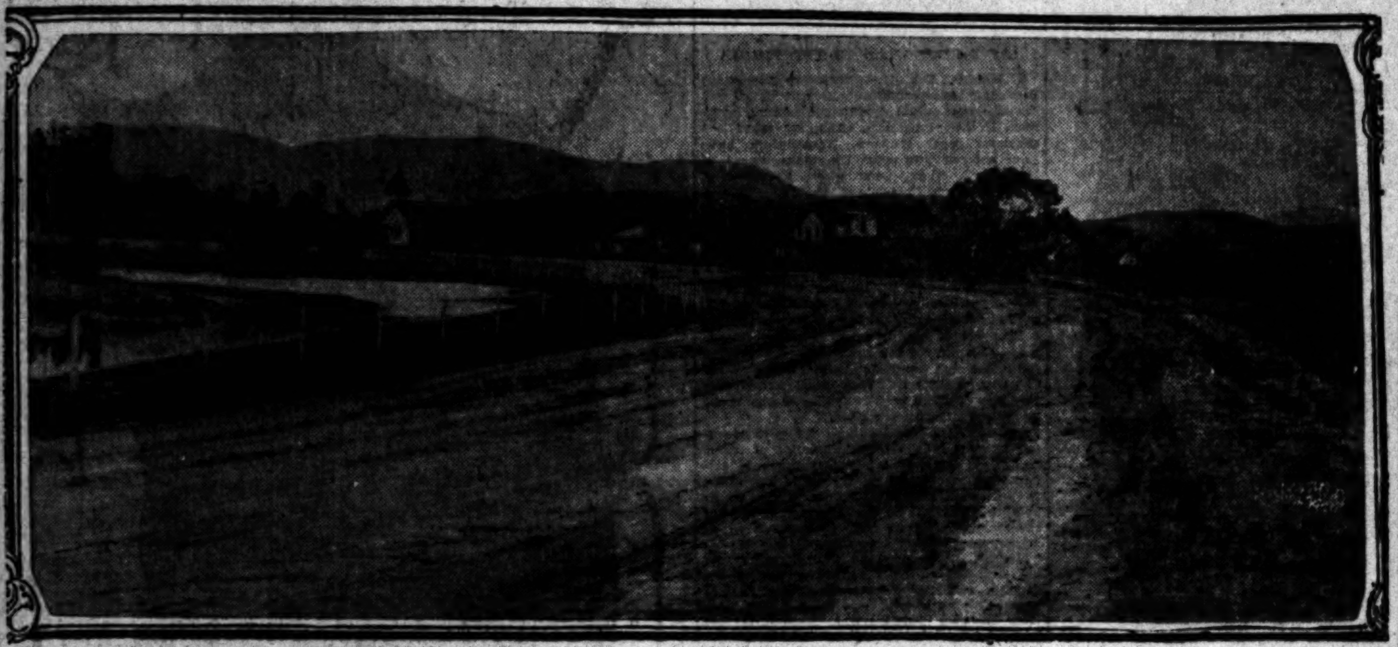
The absolute straightaway of this track is three-quarters of a mile on each side, leaving a half mile for the turns.

The width is 60 feet, a very generous size. Five racing cars could come up abreast on the straightaway without any danger, a larger number than can be placed on the majority of tracks. At the turns the outside is heavily banked, so that there is no danger of cars going wide at the corners.

The surface is clay, heavily packed and very smooth. The finishing work is now being done, and after the final touches, the track will not be profaned by the steel shoes of horses, so that there should not be a break in the surface.

As far as the arrangements are now completetd, there will be at least three races between Oldfield and Siebel—one at one mile, one at two miles, and one at five miles. It is probable that at each one of the distances the matches will be best two out of three, so that motorphiles should get plenty of sport.

It has been suggested that other cars be given a look-in, and to this end Siebel suggests an endurance run to San Diego, and stock car racing as well as special events. He is now at work on this proposition.



First track in the United States built expressly for automobile racing—the new Lakeside track in San Diego county, two miles in length and 60 feet wide, with a lake in the center.

THREEFOLD IS PLAN FOR SHOW.

CHICAGO AT WORK ON NEXT YEAR'S EXHIBIT.

Independents and Licensed Forces May Split—Racing Board Appointments Stir Hidden Hornets' Nest in Motor Club Circles — Charles Knight Issues Challenge.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—With the seventh annual Chicago automobile show still in its closing hours, attention was turned to the prospects for the 1908 exhibition. That the next show will be another spectacular display of national proportions is evidenced by the fact that more than one-half of the exhibitors in the last show have made tentative application for increased space next year.

The possibility of a threefold show next year, with gasoline cars in the Coliseum, electric vehicles in the First Regiment Armory and power wagons in the Seventh Regiment Armory—formerly known as Tattersall's, was suggested by General Manager S. A. Miles. By the use of suitable coupons, the objection to the distance between the two armories—about three blocks—could be obviated, as it would be possible to visit the pleasure machines on one day and the commercial display on another. The commercial showing at the show which ended Saturday night was scattered and of small dimensions, but by another year Mr. Miles believes the manufacturers will demand that commercial cars be given greater attention.

Prominent figures in the American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association began early in the week to marshal their forces for an early show next year. Expressions of opinion at the annual meeting of the organization indicated a sentiment on the part of a considerable number of the members in favor of the selection of a date late in November or early in December for the Chicago show.

"The present date is too late for wholesale business and too early for retail," declared General Manager Alfred Reeves of the A.M.C.M.A.

Rumors of a possible split between the "independents" and licensed forces were given additional weight by a war of words between prominent members of the A.L.A.M. and A.M.C.M.A., supplementing advertisements calling attention to the products of the rival bodies. The inability to secure the Coliseum for another show than that under the auspices of the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers greatly weakened the stand of those who said: "Then let's hold a show of our own." The Live Stock Exposition Hall on the South Side was mentioned as a possible substitute for the Coliseum, and those who wished an early exhibition broached the possibility of an open air affair at one of the big South Side amusement parks, White City or San Souci.

The American Motor Car Manufacturers' Association named Benjamin Briscoe as their president for the coming year. The complete list of officers follows: President, Benjamin Briscoe; vice-president, R. E. Olds; treasurer, H. O. Smith; auditor, Roger J. Sullivan, and general manager, Alfred Reeves.

A. L. Riker was named as president of the mechanical branch of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers at a meeting held at the Chicago Athletic Association Wednesday. W. S. Clarkson was chosen as secretary. In the technical discussion, considerable variance of opinion was brought to light in connection with the theme of alcohol carburation. Springs were another subject of discussion, and defective heat treatment in the manufacturing process was given as the cause of virtually all broken springs. Informal discussion revealed the fact that several other companies, in addition to the Royal, are likely to have Vanderbilt racers this year. The cup racers will be given attention at the next meeting, which will be held next month at the association rooms in New York.

Announcement by Jefferson de Mont Thompson of his appointments on the racing board of the American Automobile Association stirred a hidden hornets' nest to life in Chicago motoring circles. The fact that the West was absolutely ignored led the Chicago Automobile Club directors to vote to withdraw from the A.A.A., at least, so it is reported, but the result of the meeting at which this action was taken was kept from the public as far as possible. It is reported that later consideration convinced some of the directors that they were showing themselves in a sorry light by voting to secede as soon as the chief offices of the organization fell into eastern hands, and there is likelihood that the vote of the directors will be rescinded.

Charles Y. Knight has posted with the Technical Committee of the Chicago Motor Club a check for $500 to bind him to fulfill the terms of a challenge he issued last week, in which he declared his belief that no car of equal cylinder displacement and weight can excel his Silent Knight in point of economy. His proposal is that a contest be held over the Cedar Lake course of fifty-one miles, from Chicago to Cedar Lake, Ind., under the auspices of the Chicago Motor Club. The Silent Knight cylinders are 5½x4½.

LATEST IS CHILD'S AUTO.

Miniature Car With Speed of Five Miles Is Offered to Up-to-Date Young America.

An enterprising manufacturer has brought out a small automobile for the use of children, the miniature car weighing about sixty pounds. This "real automobile" for youngsters is equipped with artillery wheels and ball bearings, pneumatic tires, oil lamps, horn, number tag and an imitation coil box.

Instead of a gasoline engine or an electric motor it depends upon a large steel coil spring for its source of energy. The speed of the car is never greater than five miles an hour while the power is being used, and it is extremely simple to operate, there being but two foot pedals which need attention. The spring motor is wound up by a crank handle and is so geared that it becomes very easy for a child to wind. The car is designed upon the lines of an up-to-date runabout.

DE LUXE IS COMING.

The De Luxe car, which was described some time ago in The Times, will be seen in Los Angeles in about a month. The Pacific Automobile Company will handle the car. The De Luxe is a new-comer in the automobile world, but it has created a great deal of talk. It is an attempt to produce the highest possible grade of car. Practically every part is made of chrome nickel steel, and thirty-four Hess-Bright bearings are used. One of the interesting points is the valve action of the motor, which is an adaptation of the Fiat racing construction, used also this year by the Pope-Toledo. Another interesting point is the rear axle construction, which is practically two axles in one.

Line of Social Distinction.

A sight that emphasizes the social line of distinction which chauffers have been able to draw between themselves and coachmen and footmen, is frequently to be seen on Fifth avenue, New York. It consists of a Pierce Arrow having a "swell" limousine body, within which sit a couple of women well-known in the "400." On the front seat are two "hired men," but there is a great difference in their aspect. One is a footman, wearing the conventional livery of his job, brass buttons, silk hat and all. The other is a chauffeur, wearing clean linen and ordinary walking garb, except for a cap. His whole pose shows that he considers the footman a menial and he treats him just a bit more haughtily than his employers do.

Powerful Touring Board.

F. H. Elliott, the new secretary of the American Automobile Association, formally entered upon the duties of his office on February 1. The national organization has now nearly 9000 members and its prospect never was so bright. Of special interest to members will be the movement to have uniform laws in all States and the development of the touring bureau. Secretary Elliott says: "The touring board under the policy of the new administration will have a much broader scope, giving far better results than ever have been obtained before. It is the belief that the endeavors of the new touring board will shortly put value upon membership in the American Automobile Association, one that will make it as essential to all motorists as is membership in the Touring Club of France."

Odd Colors Wanted.

Sales Manager Kirkpatrick of the Peerless Motor Car Company, says that one characteristic point of sales made at the Chicago Show, is that purchasers are looking for a wider field of colors for car bodies. "We have hitherto been compelled to finish a great number of our cars in standard reds, black, and greens," said Mr. Kirkpatrick, "but now almost every order which we receive contains in its specifications, a call for odd or unusual colors, and there are all sorts of variations and changes in running gear and decorative effects, striping and lining."

Another American Here.

The big running mate of the rakish American roadster arrived in Los Angeles the past week. The power plant is the same as that used in the roadster, and exhibits the same points in construction—off-set cylinders, off-set cam shafts, magnetic ignition, twin thermo-siphon circulation of the water, etc. The rest of the car is much different. The regular form of spring suspension is employed instead of the underslung system of the roadster, but it is modified after European construction by employing a drop frame and platform spring in the rear.

statistics are quoted to show that the well-schooled saddle animal, for many years neglected by Californians, is now greatly in demand and that it almost is impossible to secure enough at any price to supply the call.

The proprietor of a fashionable saddle livery at Pasadena stated a short time ago that, though he was prepared to pay a good price for suitable horses and was always on the lookout for such, he had found it a very difficult matter to secure any at any price. This complaint is made by several other persons who have from time to time desired to purchase gaited saddle horses, but have not felt inclined to go to the expense of importing them from the Eastern States.

The increasing interest being taken in this class of horse is shown conclusively by the increasing size of the entry list in these classes at the horse shows. When, three years ago, the first exhibition of the Southern California Horse Show Association was held at Pasadena the entries in the three-gaited saddle class were few and an agitation was started to have a class for western-broken horses added; the claim being made that that was the typical saddle animal of California and that it would be useless to try and foist the higher type upon the section.

Last year there were more entries in the three-gaited class than in the five-gaited, and some very notable animals were exhibited. That this year's entries will outnumber those of last year to a considerable extent is certain and the competition will be great.

"There is no doubt but that the horse show has done more to improve the saddle horse than any other agent, as far as California is concerned," is the way one horseman put it, and the idea is pretty general. As long as the saddle horse was looked upon as an inferior animal and every horse that did not pan out well in the shafts was put under the saddle, the California type did not stand very high, but conditions are rapidly changing.

SIDE-SADDLES ARE TABOOED.

RIDING ASTRIDE BY WOMEN IS FASHIONABLE.

Various Arguments on Equine Equipment Brought Forth by Pasadena Horse Show Enthusiasts. Mexican-broke Saddle Horses May Be Added to the Prize List.

With the approach of the horse show the much-discussed argument of side-saddle versus cross-saddle for women exhibitors again has made its appearance. Both sides of the discussions have their supporters and opinions of medical experts are brought to bear to show that this or that method is the more natural and consequently the more hygienic.

"Side-saddles are dangerous and furthermore are inclined to produce curvature of the spine. They also make a horse's back sore," says one authority. "The cross-saddle is not fitted to a woman's use and a woman rider never secures a good seat," says another. As there is no final court of appeal it is impossible to reach any settlement satisfactory to all concerned, although the exponents of both schools of riding feel assured that they have settled the argument for all time.

Pasadena has been the scene of some interesting disputes with regard to the matter and each side has endeavored to show the absurdity of the stand taken by the other. On one hand it is claimed that the side-saddle is a relic of the Middle Ages and that progress demands that it be relegated to the scrap pile along with the hoop skirt. The other side makes the claim that, as the side-saddle has stood the test of ages and was considered entirely satisfactory in the days when all gentlewomen rode, it therefore must be the right thing and should be retained.

The question of comfort to the horse is also brought into the matter and here again the authorities differ. Advocates of the side-saddle claim, however, that although an unskillful rider will do her horse less harm with a cross-saddle than with a side-saddle, on the other hand, a really skillful rider will never give her horse a sore back no matter what equipment she may use. As to the relative control which the different methods allow over the horse it seems to be impossible to arrive at any conclusion.

It is a notable fact that in communities where all women ride to hounds the cross-saddle is almost unknown. Cross-country riding tests the rider's seat more than any other form of equestrianism and the fact that woman riders are able to ride over fences and ditches with the best of the men would seem to dispose of the claim that a side-saddle seat is insecure. On the other hand, it is generally admitted that the cross-saddle has many points in its favor when it comes to what is commonly known as "rough riding."

In Pasadena the side-saddle is so seldom seen as to be almost a curio and for this reason there are many persons who believe that it should be banished from the horse shows. However, as the majority of the women who exhibit at the shows are in the habit of using the side-saddle the directors of the various associations have not thought best to make any change.

From time to time efforts have been made to induce the Southern California Horse Show Association to add a class for Mexican-broken saddle horses to the prize list and the matter has received more or less discussion. The "wild west" horsemanship is not considered the highest type by the judges, however, and it is pretty generally felt that to admit it as a class in the exhibition would be to defeat one of the chief aims of the horse show—the extension of knowledge in the proper and scientific handling of horses.

Whatever the practice may be in the Eastern States it is certain that the cross-saddle for women and the Mexican saddle for men go together in California and the barring of one from the horse shows of necessity bars the other.

Trotting Dates.

Grand Circuit trotting dates, as arranged by the stewards, leave a gap of one week between the scheduled meeting at Cincinnati and the one at Lexington, which is to open this year on October 8, while the races of the Kentucky Breeders' Association conflict with the dates assigned to Memphis. As not meeting is likely to be held at Memphis, the latter clash is merely on paper, but the break between Cincinnati and Lexington seems more serious. Should there be no meeting at Oakley Park, and it now appears probable that none will be held, the campaigners might be forced to remain idle or take to the bushes during two of the best weeks of the season.

To London Horse Show.

Lehman Strauss is fitting six new trotting bred carriage horses for the spring shows. All were purchased on a recent trip to Ohio and Indiana. In the lot are a bay mare, 15.2½ hands, by Billy Parks, 2:15¼; a bay gelding, 15.2½ hands, by So Sure, a son of Be Sure, 2:06¾; a brown gelding 15.2 hands by Wilton, 2:19¼, and a bay gelding, 15.1½ hands, by Star Patchen, son of Wilkes Boy. Mr. Strauss expects to send his Garden winners, Fleurette and Babette, to the International in London next June.

First Circuit Meet.

Boston is first in the field among Grand Circuit trotting tracks with its announcement of stake races to be decided at Readville Park August 19 to 24. The events are the Massachusetts, $9000, for 2:14 trotters; the Ponkapoag, $4500 for 2:10 trotters; the Blue Hill, $4500, for 2:30 trotters; the Neponset, $3000, for 2:06 pacers; the Norfolk, $6000, for 2:08 pacers, and the Readville, $3000, for 2:12 pacers. All races are to be three dashes of one mile each.

Going to England.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt expects to drive his four famous grays and the Ventura coach from London to Epsom Downs on Derby Day, next June. The race will be run shortly after the international horse show, and it goes without saying that many American horsemen will be present.

Won't Send Sweet Marie.

E. T. Stotesbury has decided not to send Sweet Marie, 2:02, and his other trotters to the international horse show in London.

Eastern Racing Dates.

LEXINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Kentucky racing commission today announced the dates for the race meetings. The Lexington track will be opened from April 27 to May 4; Louisville, May 6 to June 8; Latonia, June 10 to July 13.

GOLD CUP TOUR IS ASSURED SUCCESS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When M. Dupuy issued his prospectus for a gold cup tour in American automobiles through seven European countries the plan, though deemed interesting, was taken seriously by but few of the manufacturers to whom the invitations were issued. That was two months ago.

Many of the makers have realized the business possibilities of such a trip and as a consequence, the success of the proposed tour, in the opinion of its chief projector, seems assured. Up to date thirty individuals have made entries for the trip and sixteen American cars have been pledged for the journey, while a score of makers have signified their intentions to be represented in the tour.

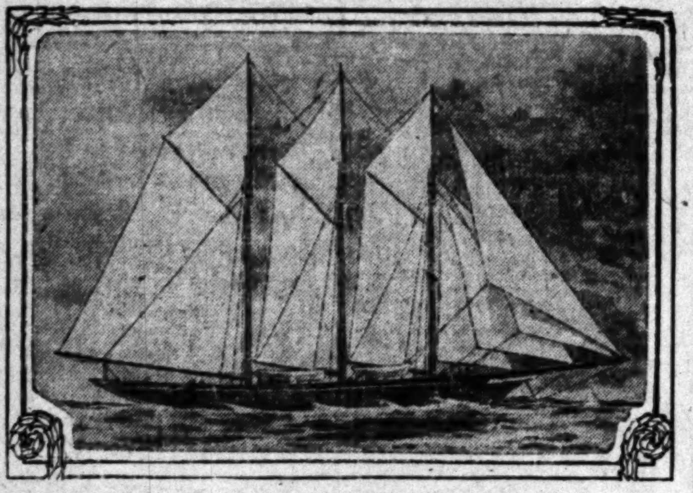
As it is planned to have not more than fifty cars nor more than 300 passengers on the trip, M. Dupuy believes the lists will be filled when entries close on May 1. Among those already on the list are entries from Martinique, San Francisco, Alberta and Vancouver, B. C., Detroit, Cleveland and Buffalo.

The list of cars nominated include the Stearns, Packard, Pierce, Columbia, Cadillac, Thomas, B.L.M. and Welch. The average is two each of these.

The date of departure of the tourists from New York will depend upon the date of the Grand Prix race, which is to be witnessed by the tourists soon after their arrival in France.

In the tour there will be two classes, the Blue Eagles and the Red Eagles. The former will be non-contestants for the gold cup, while the latter will be contestants. Both classes of "Eagles," however, will enjoy the same rights and privileges of the tour. Should there be more than one clean score or a tie at the end of the journey, a series of elimination trials will be held in the vicinity of Liverpool to determine the Gold Cup winner.

NEW THREE-MASTER TO CRUISE IN LOCAL WATERS



New auxiliary yacht for Henry W. Putnam, Jr., to sail the Pacific.

FRANK GARBUTT SCORES FREAK.

MAKES WAGER HE CAN DEFEAT CRACK STEAM YACHT.

Challenger Is Not Yet Built, but Owner Believes He Can Make Her Fast Enough to Outrun Speedy Lucero—Game Sportsman Has Won Peculiar Proposition Before.

Frank A. Garbutt has proposed a wager entailing any amount of money within reason that his designed power schooner will beat the steam yacht Lucero in a match race. The offer has been communicated to Owner Goodall of the Lucero, and it is probable a match will be arranged.

To the casual observer Garbutt seems to be a careless bettor of good money. But, as he says, "What is the use of a yacht to me if I cannot have some fun out of her? I do not command my boats when they race under canvass, because I have not been long enough at the game to know the best points; and when one is running a power boat, there must be something more interesting than merely turning on the power and steering."

When a man proposes to race a yacht which is not yet built against a steam yacht of which he knows nothing for any stake the other side may desire it looks a little out of the common.

The Lucero is a steam yacht which lately arrived from San Francisco and is now at Terminal Island. She used to belong to the late Charley Fair, a millionaire who, like his father, was generally supposed to have the fastest things that could be bought for money. The Lucero is about ninety-five feet on the water line, and the new Garbutt craft, being built at Mormon Island, will have a water line length of only eighty feet, or fifteen feet less. But as a matter of fact, Garbutt did not know of this important difference when he offered to race his coming vessel against the Lucero, nor did it make any difference in his proposal when he was told. So far as he saw, the boats seemed to be pretty much of the same length, and that was near enough for him.

The design of Garbutt's boat is wholly an experiment, being a composite of the suggestions of four persons, those of himself, the builder, Muller, Matt. Walsh, and another. In reference to the matter, Garbutt says:

"Why should I wait till the new boat is finished and tried? Suppose I did so, and suppose I found in that way that I was almost certain to lose, or almost certain to win? I prefer to make a good bet now, and then get to work and do everything possible to make my craft as fast as I can. That would keep us all interested for quite a while, and if she could not win when the time came, I would not want her at all. What's the use of a family cruiser unless she has some go to her.

The Lucero has 350 horse-power and is said to travel at fourteen knots an hour, which is pretty nearly the top speed which Garbutt has been hoping to get out of the power schooner.

In a similar way Garbutt backed his boy's sloop, the Did, for $500 against a similar 18-footer just built by J. T. Pugh's firm. Matt. Walsh took charge of the sailing, with some other sailors from Gloucester, Mass., and the Did was provided with new sails, hollow spars and everything that could help to make her fast. For the final contest the boys of the South Coast Yacht Club all bet against Garbutt, because he was a mere tyro and did not know a thing about the game into which he butted.

The stake of $500, and all the side bets that were offered to him, went to Garbutt. The two boats came from different parts of the country, and had never been sailed in company, so that there was no possibility of previous knowledge of their capabilities.

Naturally, the building firm of Pugh wanted its revenge, and built another boat to beat the Did—a little peach that looked like a winner, called the Aimee. The money-making tars of the South Coast Yacht Club also wanted their revenge, which means the chance to get square. Another $500 stake was put up both sides; but the new boat also was defeated by the Did.

Unless called off by a race for an Emperor's cup, Henry W. Putnam, Jr., intends to take a long cruise in the Pacific with his new and palatial three-master which is now being finished at the Lawley yards in South Boston. This will give the yachtsmen of California a view of such a cruiser as they never saw before. She is of a kind to stir the ambitions of California millionaires, and, judging by the gradual advances in yacht sizes which are now being made in this region, it will not be long before vessels which are now the pride of New York are duplicated here.

The hull is built of steel of a tensile strength of 60,000 pounds to the square inch. The plating runs from its lightest at seven-sixteenths to three-quarters of an inch in the heavy trough keel. This trough will carry 110 tons of lead, a large part of which will be run in molten. The machinery will consist of two water-tube boilers and a triple expansion engine of 400 horse power, which drive a feathering propellor of manganese bronze specially designed for this vessel.

Under natural draught her speed is expected to be about ten knots an hour. The canvas for the sails is being specially woven, and will be fifty per cent. stronger than that in general use.

THOMAS TO TASTE HONEY.

Foley Will Post a Forfeit for the Match.

Best Match for Many Months Practically Made.

Jack Palmer Is After Flynn or Mike Sullivan.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Will do 145 pounds and post forfeit immediately—Harry Foley."

The foregoing telegram is the reply of Joe Thomas's manager to the challenge of Honey Mellody. It practically clinches the great welterweight fight, as Mellody is anxious to meet Thomas if the latter can get down to the stipulated weight, as his manager says he can.

MASTER AND PUPIL.

RYAN TO FIGHT KELLY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tommy Ryan and Hugo Kelly will fight for the middleweight championship at Rochester, March 4. The bout will be limited to six rounds and the principals are to weigh in at 158 pounds at 3 o'clock. They will fight for 70 per cent. of the gross receipts; 60 per cent. to the winner and 40 to the loser. The referee will be Eddie McBride of Buffalo.

The original date, February 28, was changed in order to accommodate the referee and a big crowd of Buffalo sporting men.

Articles were signed today immediately upon the receipt of a message from the Rochester promoters saying that arrangements were agreeable to them. Kelly is now working at Harlem. He is devoting his time principally to road work with a little gymnasium work downtown. Manager Ferretti says he will furnish a lot of fast clever lightweights.

"What Kelly wants to secure is speed, and therefore I want fast, clever men. He can do all the slugging that is necessary now and doesn't need any sluggers."

Ryan is on his Michigan peach farm, but will begin conditioning himself at once. He needs but little work as he is already in grand shape.

NEW YORK HAS HOPES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Joe Thomas-Honey Mellody match which has been talked of by sporting men all over the East for the past week, looks as though it must come to a head now if Johnny Mooney will agree to what he says. Upon his return to Boston, Mellody's manager said that his man would challenge any one in the world weighing between 142 and 145 pounds. Harry Foley, on behalf of Thomas, jumped at the offer like a flash. Thomas would certainly have trouble weighing in ringside at 142 pounds, but if the men weighed in at 1 o'clock or tipped the beam a bit heavier at the ringside, one of the best goes of the year might be arranged.

PALMER AFTER MATCH.

WANTS FLYNN OR SULLIVAN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sam Fitzpatrick, who formerly managed Jack Johnson, has announced that he would in future look after the interests of Jack Palmer, the English pugilist, who is to arrive here on March 2. Fitzpatrick said that he would begin the campaign for Palmer by challenging the winner of the Jim Flynn-Mike (Twin) Sullivan fight.

TO MEET MELLODY.

DENVER WANTS MATCH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The winner of the Harry Lewis-Mike (Twin) Sullivan match in Denver will have a chance at the welter-weight title, for Matchmaker Gallagher, of the Coliseum Athletic Club, made an offer today to hang up a $3000 purse or 50 per cent. of the receipts for a ten-round bout between Mellody and the winner of the fight, which takes place here February 21.

Both Lewis and Sullivan agreed that the one who is victor when they meet, will remain in Denver for the Mellody fight. Gallagher wants the fight early in March, and has opened negotiations with the champion. With Joe Thomas grown so big he is talking of a fight with Tommy Ryan for the middleweight championship, and Willie Lewis laid low by Mellody, the only logical contender for the crown will be the winner of the Denver fight.

RENO IN SWIM.

AFTER BIG MATCHES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Immediately upon seeing Keevin's telegram accepting terms for Walsh to fight Neil, Charlie Kohl and Harry Pollock left last night for San Francisco. They have plans to pull off three or four fights together. They will talk with Coffroth and Selig and try to meet Gans and Britt. They are also looking for heavies, Berger and O'Brien or Kaufman and O'Brien. They will make final arrangements for the Neil-Walsh battle from San Francisco, and the match is practically certain.

Tex Rickard says Riley is four-flushing. He says he wants Corbett and Herman and next Gans and Nelson. He will give Gans and Nelson $30,000 and has a purse for Jeffries and a good man any time. Corbett is training hard. McGrath will arrive tomorrow.

The Double Cross.

Fitzsimmons and "Philadelphia Jack O'Brien" were matched to go six rounds in the ball park in Philadelphia, and a ring was erected on the baseball diamond for the afternoon crowd. The affair was well advertised in the papers, and "bad blood" was said to exist between the men. As a matter of fact they were both after the nimble dollar, and the affair was to be only apparently vicious. Fitzsimmons did no training at all, nor did O'Brien put himself out to be fit and ready, so well was the matter understood between the men. Fitz reached Philadelphia early and took a carriage out to the baseball grounds.

He was taking matters easily, lolling about the players' dressing room, when some fellow, bent on mischief, broke in on his sweet solitude and told him that he had it straight that O'Brien was going to double-cross him and score a knockout if he could. Fitz tipped his hand by refusing to believe it, which only made the mischievous one more emphatic in his statements.

Ruby Robert's ire began to rise, and he determined to put the Quaker out of business just as quickly as possible. Full of vicious glee the runner then sought O'Brien, and assured him that Fitz was undoubtedly going to knock him out; that he had it straight; that Fitz had determined to double-cross him and that he had best get his lick in first.

The men were slow about entering the arena, and there was no handshaking or "may the best man win" sentiment that day. When time was called both men showed extreme caution, and began feeling each other out carefully. At the beginning of the second round they got together like a pile of wildcats, and the fur simply flew. From that time on to the finish it was a fight—such a fight as Jack O'Brien had never been guilty of before—and never since, for that matter, until his recent go with Burns. Fitz landed one of his heaves on O'Brien in the sixth and last round and all but had him out, and the round was cut short some twenty seconds to prevent a knock-out.

As "no decision" was given, the fight is chronicled as a draw, but Jack had a narrow escape, and Bob was sore for weeks afterward.

Furlough to Tommy.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The only known obstacle in the way of the Sullivan-Attell match, the opposition of the Missouri Athletic Club, Sullivan's employer, to professional bouts, is removed. B. A. Shelby, chairman of the house committee, has given the popular Tommy permission to make the match and has promised to use his influence to get a furlough for him. M.A.C. members are figuring on chartering a private car to see the battle.

MIKE RILEY'S PIPE DREAM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The following telegram received by a local newspaper this afternoon makes it appear possible that Harry Harris, the New York boy, will at last have a chance to fight Abe Attell for the featherweight championship: "Los Angeles will give $10,000 for the Harris-Attell fight. MIKE RILEY."

BENNETT CARD FRIDAY NIGHT.

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien's benefit comes off next Friday night, and three youths will be offered up for the slaughter under special permit issued by the Pacific Athletic Club. Jim Tremble, Abdo the Turk, and George Brown are the three unfortunates. Each has been induced to lend himself as a sacrifice to the pugilistic art by offer of a certain sum of money, and the inborn idea in the hearts of all fighters that it is going to be hard work for the other man to beat him.

There is no cause for the match except to give O'Brien a chance to earn a little money and to fill in a date. As to the latter, it would have been easy for Manager McCarey to match any number of boys who could have put on an even battle. The only "feature" of the coming fight is whether or not O'Brien has the ability to knock out three men in succession within the limit of three rounds each.

Both Brown and the Turk are smaller men than O'Brien. Tremble weighs a trifle more but carries superfluous flesh. He has had one chance to stay with O'Brien and failed. The Turk has acted as O'Brien's sparring partner and never had an opportunity to land a blow on the elusive Quaker. He believes that when he undertakes real business, he can elude O'Brien long enough to stay the limit. That is his ambition, and the ambition of the other two. Brown pretends to believe he has a chance, but he is outclassed in weight, hitting powers, ring generalship, experience, and everything else worth mentioning in the case. There is nothing to the match which can command favorable comment. It hurts the game and lowers the high standard of the club.

EMERGENCY OFFERS.

"Emergency" Kelly of Boston, who claims he can fight at 122 pounds, has sent a letter to Kid Solomon challenging him to battle in the ring. Kelly is not Irish, but Hebrew, and his fighting name is assumed. He won his sobriquet by being ready at any moment to take the place of a fighter when one or the other of a matched pair failed to appear to do his turn at a boxing show. He is said to be a fair scrapper, but not a world-beater.

Solomon is willing to meet Kelly or any other man who can do from 122 to 124 ringside. It is up to Manager McCarey, however, to offer a match here.

BOXING IN NEW YORK.

Believed That The Game Will Be Allowed to Continue Under Hughes Administration.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Properly conducted by clubs with bona fide membership, it is believed that boxing in New York City will not be interfered with by Gov. Hughes. A year ago the sport flourished in this city, and all went well as long as the small clubs regulated the sport. But the greed of certain promoters brought boxing into disrepute. The small clubs were robbed of their members and attractions, and when a "club" was formed with Madison Square Garden for a "club room" and ten-round bouts as attractions the "goose that laid the golden egg" was killed. These things savored too much of the old days, and Gov. Higgins finally stepped in and stopped everything.

There is every indication that boxing will soon be resumed in this city, and that precaution will be taken to prevent unscrupulous promoters from offending the authorities by abusing the privileges allowed by law. For several months the Long Acre A.C. has been conducting bouts in a perfectly legitimate manner. No membership tickets could be bought at the door. Several times the police made arrests, but never secured a conviction.

Limited round bouts will be held at the Marlborough A.C., which has planned a boxing entertainment for the night of February 18. Of all the clubs that attracted attention last winter the Marlborough was most prominent because of the quality of its boxing shows. New York is the home of many boxers, and most of them will be found on the membership rolls of the Marlborough.

The Bedford Athletic Club of Brooklyn is another organization that will make a feature of boxing in the near future. A number of other clubs in New York and Brooklyn will also give boxing exhibitions.

For a long time the New Polo Athletic Club in Harlem has been holding weekly boxing stags at which good boxing talent appeared. These bouts have never been advertised, but as the New Polo membership is large, nothing of the sort was needed.

Many persons believe that announcement of bouts is an indication of a fracture of the law, but such is not the case. Matches are often made at the last moment, and for this reason announcements are made in the papers.

Boxing is a sport which has thousands of followers in New York. There should be no objection to these men joining clubs which can furnish this sport as long as it is conducted along legitimate lines. Matchmakers and managers of various clubs should get together and preserve the game from the influence of the men who are willing to let others take all the risks and then make everybody suffer for their indiscretions.

Burns Meets a Tartar.

Tommy Burns ran up against a Tartar at Buffalo, N. Y., recently, and the following is the story told of his adventure:

Some years ago, when Burns was fighting under his right name of Noah Brusso, he met Ben O'Grady in Detroit, and knocked him out. In fact, he beat the Buffalo boy so badly that it was weeks before O'Grady's life was spared. Since then he has done but little boxing in the ring and probably never will again. He appears to have a deep-seated grievance against Burns, however, although no one knew it up to last night.

Burns had just left his dressing room and passed out into the hallway to the street from the stage entrance, when he met O'Grady.

Putting out his hand, he said:

"Hello, Ben, how are you feeling?"

O'Grady appeared about to extend his hand when to the surprise of all, he yelled:

"I'm all right now. You beat me once in Detroit, but you can't do it here in Buffalo," and at the same time he swung at Burns and hit him flush in the mouth. Burns staggered back and as O'Grady rushed at him he grasped him about the arms and pinned him against the wall. Others jumped in and dragged O'Grady away.

There was no more surprised man in the place than Burns. "I can't understand that fellow," said he, a minute later, as he picked up his hat. "Why, when I came to Buffalo on Monday he called at the Lafayette Hotel and we had a long chat. I told him then that if ever he wanted anything that I would be the first one to help him out financially or in a benefit by boxing for him. Evidently he has held a grievance against me ever since, but I never knew it. I beat him, as I try to beat every one else I meet in the ring. I felt awful when I found out he was in such bad shape. Why, the man must be crazy."

Richest Prizefighter.

Who is the richest prize fighter in the world? This question has often been asked. Some have said it is Jeffries. Tommy Ryan has been mentioned as the champion of finance; Britt has been proposed; Jack O'Brien has been suggested; Charlie Mitchell has been in line; Tom Sharkey is known to be very wealthy, and so on down the line.

The latest claimant to the bank account belt is Reddy Gallagher, who won and lost battles on the Coast in the days of Young Mitchell, Ike Wier, Peter Jackson and George Dixon. Gallagher married a San Francisco girl and later moved to Denver, where he has been located ten years or more. He saved his money while a fighter and, after he retired, was successful as a boxing promoter. He pulled off several of the fights Kid Parker and Young Corbett fought at Denver. Gallagher cleaned up handsomely on these contests and the profits went into real estate.

He recently sold the Coliseum Building in Denver for something like $150,000. Gallagher is the owner of other valuable real estate in that city.

MAY ATTEND THE FUNERAL.

Los Angeles Sporting Men Greatly Grieved.

Harry Corbett's Death Is Sincerely Deplored.

Arrangements for Burial of Noted Sportsman.

Manager McCarey of the Pacific Athletic Club says he will head a party of Los Angeles sporting men to go to San Francisco to attend the funeral of Harry Corbett, who died there yesterday afternoon of heart failure.

"I shall attend the funeral if no one else does," said McCarey last night, "but I know a lot of the boys will go from here. Harry was the best fellow in the world, and all his friends loved him sincerely. I scarcely can believe the news."

Regret among the sporting men of Los Angeles is general because of the death of Corbett. He was the best known sportsman on the Coast and highly respected. When Jeffries and Ruhlin met for the world's championship he was settled on as the one man to referee the battle after all others had been cast aside.

Corbett was a noted stakeholder and a promoter of pugilism. He was a member of the noted "fight trust" before its demise, and was generally considered by sporting men as square clear through.

HARRY CORBETT DIES.

HEART FAILURE CAUSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Harry Corbett the well-known sporting man, brother of James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion pugilist of the world, and of Joe Corbett, the baseball pitcher, died suddenly, this morning, of an attack of heart failure at his home in this city.

Corbett was at his place of business last night in good health and spirits, but during the night, according to statements made by his family, he was seized with a severe cold, accompanied by slight congestion of the lungs. At 7 o'clock this morning, he arose and went to the bathroom adjoining his sleeping chamber, intending to take a hot salt water bath to relieve his cold.

Shortly afterward his young daughter was awakened by the sound of the running water and went to the bathroom where she found her father lying on the floor in an unconscious condition. She screamed for help and when a special policeman arrived in response to her cries, he found Corbett dead.

SHOWS BRAVE FACE.

WHILE BROTHER LIES DEAD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

EVANSVILLE (Ind.) Feb. 16.—When shown the Associated Press dispatch containing the news that his brother, Harry Corbett, had been found dead at San Francisco, J. J. Corbett was shocked.

"I can scarcely believe it. I got a letter from him last week. He was in perfect health," he said.

When informed that the dispatch came direct from San Francisco and was true, he said:

"I will send a wire at once. Harry was the finest one of the Corbett family. This is terrible news to me. This is the second time that I have had a dispatch of this kind handed to me. My father died suddenly and my brother was found dead in bed.

"Harry was certainly the best one of the family. He leaves a blind daughter. The news is certainly an awful blow and I hardly feel that I can appear at the theater."

Corbett is acting the leading role in a melodrama playing here, and was unable to cancel his engagement for today's matinée and the night performance.

PRIVATE QUARRELS.

HAVE NO PUBLIC INTEREST.

Very few words of commendation can be heard in favor of the match between Eddie Robinson and Billy Manning to meet before the Pacific Athletic Club to settle a grudge fight, on Washington's Birthday. Those in a position to know feel that the fight could be avoided, did not the participants fear the ridicule of the public and the forfeiture of their money posted with Manager McCarey. Billy Manning is not of the opinion that his original offense was sufficient to cause a fight, and Robinson looks with greater indulgence upon the supposed insult received by him. It almost is certain that were the proper overtures made, the principals would extend mutual apologies and settle the difficulty between them without resort to violence.

The whole trouble started because one or both men allowed the tongue to wag too freely, and in a moment of anger each saw offense and defi was passed and accepted. The men have learned their lesson of caution and it is not likely that if the trouble stopped at this point either would forget his part of silence hereafter. Both men are ashamed to have been drawn into this public exhibition, which was aggravated by the presence and actions of others. Each feels the remaining part of the proceedings is a disgrace upon his family, himself and his profession.

It is learned on the best of authority that the wives of the men keenly feel the disgrace of the situation and are suffering mental and physical anguish. Continuance of the difficulty will increase this condition, and by the night of the fight there is no telling what the state of affairs may be.

It is argued that since the alleged insult was a public one, the men should fight in public. But "honor" seems to be lost behind the shadow of the side bet, the purse, and the mercenary interest of the Pacific Athletic Club in making an "attraction" out of a battle which is an affair of honor. No matter how public the insult, old-time duelists always fought at dawn when the rabble would not be present.

No man need bear insults of another, and he should fight if the occasion demands it. But a public show house should not be the clearinghouse of private quarrels. The fighting game is injured by such tactics, and the "affair of honor" loses its justification.

No doubt the fight will be an "interesting" one, and would be the more so if one of the men were badly hurt, for the crowd views the battle as does a bunch of school boys—it wants to see gore shed and cares naught for the private vengeance of either. That feature but adds spice to their gruel. The battle may turn out to be good enough as an attraction.

Fight promoters in Philadelphia recently made themselves unpopular for dragging forth some of those old gladiators—Billy Lavigne, Young Corbett, Casper Leon, Terry McGovern, and others. An attempt also was made to take Frank Erne and Bob Fitzsimmons from the pugilistic cemetery. The promoters tried to do business on the reputation of names famous of the past, and failed, for the younger men showed great superiority. The latest action was to drag Grover Hayes out of the hospital to fight Darkey Haley, but Hayes sprung a surprise and beat the Englishman almost to death. The promoters there are lucky in being free from fatal results because fights go only six rounds. The blame is laid to the doors of but one or two of the promoters in the Quaker City, others are said to run a square game.

Ryan After O'Brien.

Tommy Ryan has this to say of Jack O'Brien:

"If Jack O'Brien wants to fight me at 154 or 158 pounds I will accommodate him. O'Brien has been bluffing long enough. Now he must fight or slink away like a whipped cur. Tommy Ryan means business this time.

"I challenge the world at either the middle-weight or welter-weight limits. The middle-weight is 154 pounds, but I will waive that point. If O'Brien will come forward at 158 I will lick the stuffing out of him.

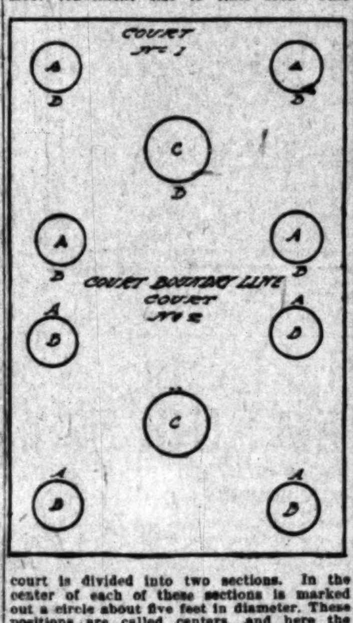
"He is nothing but a big four-flusher. I have got a wallop to put him away so he will stay away."

GAME OF CENTERBALL.

How Sport Is Played and Showing the Positions of Men on Each Side During Contest.

Centerball is being taught the pupils of the Hollywood public schools as a substitute for basketball. In some respects the games are similar, but are entirely different in the essential features. In centerball there are no baskets, but certain players take fixed positions and it is the object to get the ball to them from the opposing side of the court.

A centerball court may be made any size which space permits, as in basketball. The most convenient size is 40x80 feet. This court is divided into two sections. In the center of each of these sections is marked out a circle about five feet in diameter. These positions are called centers, and here the home player for each side is stationed.



Near the four corners of each court are drawn smaller circles, about three and a half feet in diameter. In each of these circles is stationed a goalman, the goalman of the respective side being stationed in their own courts.

Guarding each player in the five circles on a side is a rusher, whose duty it is to keep the ball from reaching the goalmen or center, and to pass the ball to his own goalman in the opposite court. The goalmen and centers cannot leave their circles, but the rushers can run about in any part of the court so long as they do not cross the center line.

Points are scored when the ball passes from the rushers to their goalmen on the opposite court. When a goalman has received the ball he passes to the center if he can. If the center holds the ball, a score tallies. If the ball passes to three goalmen in succession without going to center, a score may be tallied. No score is made when a rusher passes direct to a center, but the center may then pass to a goalman and receive the ball in return, for a score.

To start the game the two rushers who guard the centers come together on the dividing line and the umpire tosses the ball between them, as in basketball.

County Tennis Tourney.

The Alameda-Bellevue Tennis Club will hold the annual tournament for the championships of Alameda county on February 22, 23 and 24. Both singles and doubles will be played and first and second prizes will be given in each tournament. Each match will consist of the best two out of three sets, except the two final matches, which will be best three out of five. No challenge match will be played in either event, as this tournament will have no connection with any previous tournament for the same title. No challenge cups will be offered, as it is the intention of the club, if it continue the tournament annually, to have the winners of the preceding year play through the tournaments on an equal footing with all other players. This method is becoming quite general in England and is fast getting a foothold in the Eastern tournaments in this country. It is believed that it is more just than the prevalent system of having the winner of one year stand out and defend the next year.

Bicycle Racers.

The Bay City Wheelmen of San Francisco are seriously endeavoring to develop new racing material, and a series of sprint bicycle races are being held at the Stadium in Golden Gate Park. The winners in the various events will be given credit for points, and at the end of the racing season the holders of the most points will be awarded prizes consisting of several medals, a watch and a standard wheel.

Salt Lake Riders.

The Salt Lake saucer track will see the good ones this coming season, as among the well-known riders who have already signed are Bobby Walthour, F. A. McFarland, Rutt of Germany, Ellegard of Denmark and Frank Kramer. Plans are now on foot for the building of a new bicycle track, and the incorporation of a company to promote the racing upon business basis, with the riders owning a large amount of the stock, and their friends controlling the remainder.

SEEKS MINISTER'S LIFE.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 16.—While the Minister of Justice, Dr. E. E. Van Raalte, was standing in front of his residence today a lunatic fired five shots at him with a revolver, but missed him. The would-be assassin was arrested.

CLASSIFICATION OF AMATEUR ATHLETICS.

AMATEUR athletic interests in Los Angeles are proposing a general classification of sports for Southern California so as to relieve the present chaotic condition of general athletics. The plans talked of entail:

Classification of colleges, high schools, athletic associations, and independent teams so that one team may play other aggregations in its class only.

Arrangement of schedules so that winners of the various classified leagues may play the winners of other leagues.

Definite limitation of seasons so that a winners' post-season series may be played to decide the championship.

Classification of all sports into proper seasons so that none interferes, more than is necessary, with any other.

Appointment of a general amateur athletic committee to have charge of all schedules and assignments of games, etc.

Appointment of other committees so that all details of general government and control of athletics be general.

General committee to control only the amateur features of the sport, allowing the colleges, schools, or clubs to settle for themselves and between themselves all questions of school standing or individual eligibility.

These are but some of the general ideas which are but in embryo at the present time. All amateur interests admit that some action is needed to organize present athletic conditions into a uniform whole so far as individual interests permit. The chaotic state of the football season, last fall, created a demand for some action to control schedules and conditions of play. The present aimless purposes of basketball put forth demands just as insistent.

The subject of such a classification and control of athletics has been discussed by R. P. Faithful, president of the Southern California Basketball League, and other heads of amateur sports.

"We need some classification of athletic teams so that there may be uniformity of contests," said Faithful last night. "We need also to fix permanent seasons, so that respective sports may be played between the dates set for them. I believe that there should be no time wasted between teams which have no interest in beating each other. The various classes can play out their schedules, and then the winners may play for the Southern California championship. I believe we could get all athletic interests to work in harmony with much better results in all departments."

These ideas are undeveloped, but it is proposed to set the boys to thinking and a meeting may be called for the purpose of discussing the situation thoroughly.

A seven-and-a-half-inch mesh is required by this bill in seining for salmon, shad or striped bass, and it is made illegal to seine for them between sunrise of each Saturday and sunset of the Sunday following. Surf fish, yellowfins and croakers, the fishes most popular in Southern California surf fishing, should be included in this law by all means, for they take the place of the varieties mentioned in the bill, and are every bit as worthy of protection, and even more in need of it.

LEEDS'S GOOD WORK.

Assemblyman Leeds, in Bill No. 325, aims to fix a striped bass season ranging from May 15 to February 15 to protect the fish in spawning time. His version of the dove matter is an open season consisting of the month of August. On deer, he has proposed an open season beginning August 15 and ending October 15. Most important of all is section 626, which affects "no sale" on every bird in the game bill, ducks included. Mr. Leeds has also taken a pot shot at the shrimp matter by fixing a closed season from May 1 to September 1.

Of other measures introduced by northern Assemblymen and other out of the local ken, is Bill No. 386 by Assemblyman Weske, providing a stiff, uncompromising law on the subject of trespass, making it a misdemeanor with a heavy penalty to enter upon any lands properly posted with signs, three to the mile, for the purpose of hunting or fishing without permission from owner, agent or tenant.

Assemblyman Held regulates the trout situation by proposing an open season from April 1 to November 1 on all varieties other than steelhead trout; fixes a size limit of one-half pound, below which no trout may be sold, and makes it a misdemeanor to catch trout in any other manner than with hook and line. Twenty dollars fine or twenty days in jail is the penalty proposed.

Assemblyman Strohl wants to modify the salmon and striped bass masures to permit a 5¼-inch mesh, but offers a $200 penalty for violations.

The bill of Assemblyman Ludington relative to the taking of fish by nets, weirs or traps in San Diego Bay is a local affair, and if passed is of value as showing what may be accomplished in the way of special legislation for particular cases.

AGAINST MEADOW LARKS.

Assemblyman Held, in Bill No. 26, makes an attack upon the meadow lark and wants to repeal the protection granted. Mr. Held's argument in favor of his bill is that the meadow lark devours large quantities of grain, which hunters allege is not the case in this part of the State, his frequenting of grain fields being due to his fondness for the bugs, worms and other injurious cretures there to be found. The bird is just as commonly found in old pastures where there is no grain.

Observing sportsmen incline to the idea that one day the meadow lark may take his place as a game bird, his well-known delicacy of flavor and willingness to lie before a dog making him in some measure a substitute for the quail.

It is conceded that the bill of 1907, if there be any at all, will partake of the nature of a compromise measure, and just what its provisions will be cannot be known until the legislators are through trading about between one another.

The bills introduced by Messrs. Cornish and Leeds appear to be satisfactory to local sportsmen. There even is a measure providing an open summer season for shore birds under consideration.

JUNIOR CAT CLUB PARTY.

PREPARE FOR EXHIBITION AT COMING SHOW.

Children Form Orchestra to Play at Future Events—Valentine Party Proves Pleasing Social Feature. Prizes Presented to Successful Hunter for Missives.

The Los Angeles Junior Cat Club was entertained by its president, Claude Horton Reynolds, and his sister, Miss Grace Reynolds, at their home in Hollywood yesterday afternoon. In addition to the social features, a business meeting was held at which arrangements were completed for the exhibition of the cats owned by the club members at the show to be given by the Los Angeles National Cat Club at Chutes Park, February 21 to 24.

The club decided to form an orchestra with members taking chief parts. It is proposed to bring the orchestra to such a degree of proficiency that it will be able to furnish the music at the future cat shows of the senior club.

The social features included a valentine party. The missives were hidden about the house and the children hunted for them with great eagerness. Garrett Winne won the first prize, having received the largest number of valentines. Claude Reynolds won second prize and Corrine Wigne third.

Music and recitations by the girls and boys were other features. Refreshments were served. The decorations were valentine hearts strung from the corners of the rooms. About fifteen were present. Mrs. H. G. A. Lovell, Mrs. N. J. Fulks and Mrs. Carter assisted Mrs. Jessie Reynolds Gerling in entertaining.

CAN'T HEAR THE ENGINE.

Motorcyclists Run Down by Motorists Because They Make so Much Noise Themselves.

That the motorcyclist is often in grave danger when being overhauled by a motor car, is set forth in a letter addressed to W. E. Scarritt, chairman of the Committtee of Public Safety of the Automobile Club of America, by R. G. Betts, president of the Federation of American Motorcyclists. It would seem that the automobile driver considers that the motorcyclist is abundantly able to take care of himself, but several accidents have shown that this is a fallacy.

Mr. Betts points out that the cars are now so silent that noise produced by the motorcyclist renders the approach of the motor car inaudible. "It may surprise you to learn," says Mr. Betts, "that a motorcyclist riding in the same direction as even the big barking cars used in the Vanderbilt cup races, cannot hear them until they are practically upon him." A plea is therefore made for a distinct warning before any motorcycle is reached by a motor car.

HUNTING PECCARIES IN TEXAS THICKETS.

"I HAVE hunted tigers in India and lions in Africa, but the only genuine thrill I ever got was when I was treed by a drove of peccaries in Texas," said a globe-trotter in a San Antonio hotel.

"We started out from Dad Bonham's ranch, with full equipment, which, in Texas, means some flour, a frying pan, and a blanket," continued the speaker. "I've cut my way through several tropical jungles, but I found there's nothing quite so dense as a Texas thicket. At last we made a permanent camp. There were several big open blades hereabouts, and, at nightfall, Dad led me out to the edge of one of these. The moon was coming up, so bright that you could draw a fine bead on anything. We posted ourselves in the center of the glade, and then I understood why Dad made me carry an extra rifle slung across my back.

"'Ef they git comin' too fast,' said Dad, 'drop the gun you're usin', and swarm up the nighest tree. Then you kin finish your shootin' up there—but when you're runnin,' don't fall down.'

"Pretty soon I heard a grunting and crashing at the edge of the glade, and seevral figures, about as large as good-sized dogs, moved out into the moonlight. Dad blazed away and so did I, dropping several. Do you think the rest of them ran! Not on your life. Pickett's charge at Gettysburg wasn't any braver than their sprint across that glade. But we dropped the bunch before they got within fifty yards of us. Dad crammed up his magazine again, and I never filled my own rifle any quicker. Soon there was grunting and crashing on two sides. The rest of the peccaries were coming to see what the noise was about. Dad let fly at one bunch, and I at another, and neither missed many shots in that bright light. But they kept coming, and, finally, when a big band, led by an enormous tusker, burst on us, over at the left, Dad yelled to me to run for the trees. I could hear the rush of little feet behind, and I hadn't any more than swung into the low-hanging branches of the first tree at the edge of the glade than the peccaries were beneath.

"I unlimbered my other rifle, and began to fire into the bunch beneath, first getting the old tusker with a shot between the eyes. We had plenty of ammunition and we burned it till past midnight before the peccaries concluded they had enough. We could hear 'em crashing through the thicket, the wounded squealing with rage. When they had gone we climbed down and counted up. Dad had forty dead ones under his tree, and I mustered thirty-six. Yet Dad complained because the shooting was so poor. The country was settling up too fast, and the tenderfeet were making it hard to get a good day's sport, he said."

There is an even more exciting way of hunting peccaries, and that is with lances, on horseback. Dogs are used and trail a bunch of peccaries to an open space, and then the hunters charge them with lances. Rather, the peccaries charge the hunters, for the wild hogs are game at any spot in the road. The cow ponies were used to the sport, and could sidestep just as easily as a trained prize fighter. It is great sport.

It is claimed that peccaries are increasing in the Southwest, in spite of the constant hunting that is done. Countless droves of them roam through the thickets and under the pecan trees, hunting nuts and digging for roots, upon which they feed. Peccary meat is good if one knows how to cook it, but there is a gland in the back that must be removed at once, else the meat becomes quickly contaminated.

The peccaries roam from Texas to South America, and the further south one gets the more ferocious the animals become. The Texas peccaries are savage enough to make it interesting for any hunter, however, and there is no better sport in the Southwest than hunting these ferocious little animals.

NEW MATERIAL AT STANFORD.

Track Team Has New Faces for Field Meets.

Poor Outlook for Both Big Northern 'Varsities.

Levery of 'Pasadena Makes Good Showing.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD, Feb. 15.—Trainer "Dad" Moulton is rapidly getting the track men in shape for the meet with Berkeley in April. At the beginning of the season the outlook for point winners was exceedingly gloomy, but in the two handicap meets held on the oval there has been brought to notice much heretofore undiscovered material. Moulton and Capt. McFarland started the ball rolling with an enthusiastic rally at which over a hundred men "signed up" for track work. It is from this squad of comparatively green recruits that the captain and trainer, with but a few of the old team, must develop the athletes who will compete against California.

In the dashes there are but two men whose work is known to Stanford through former performances here. These are Edwards and McNeil, both of whom have been members of the track squad three years and won the 'varsity emblem in the last meet with California two years ago. Holman, '09, who was one of the fastest men on the Rugby team last fall, is also showing up well. There is but one freshman, Reid, who has thus far given any promise in the sprints. He won the 100-yard dash in a recent trial meet, and should be heard from if he lives up to his preparatory school record.

In the distance races Stanford is fairly well provided for. John O. Miller will run the two-mile again, and should have no difficulty in winning it as he did two years ago. Nash, '07, who was just developing at that time, is now one of the best distance men in college and will probably make a showing equal to Miller's. These two men are considered sure point winners for the Cardinal. In the 880-yard and mile runs Levery of Pasadena and Bradford are the most promising men out, but there are a number of other candidates for places in these events who may be expected to develop during the season.

With the exception of Capt. MacFarland and F. Lanagan, '08, Stanford has no athletes of any particular ability in the hurdles. These men probably will be good for first places in both the low and high hurdles, but second and third place men will need to be developed.

Of the field events, the pole vault is the only one in which Stanford can at the present time feel sure of a place. With Lanagan and Kocker both going over eleven feet this early in the season, there is every reason to believe that they are good for eight points in the big meet. In the high jump Stirling is the only old man on the track team, and he has already been bested by Poor and Martin, two freshmen, who have reached 5 ft. 8 in.

Aynesworth and Vandervoort, upon whom the Cardinal will depend in the broad jump, are doing 21 feet. Scott, the most promising entering athlete in these events, has gone out for baseball and may not compete on the track. In the weights, Crawford, '09, a brother to the famous Crawford on the track team two years ago, promises to equal the performances of his elder brother as soon as Trainer Moulton instills a little better form into him.

It is unsafe to make any forecast of the intercollegiate meet this early in the season, for training has been of but three weeks' duration. While it does not appear that Stanford will have a strong track team, California, too, has lost many of her stars and must develop a new team from unknown material. Stanford will be weakest in the field events, and strongest in the distance races.

It is probable that when training is transferred to the new track, next week, better results will be obtained. Thus far the men have been forced to run on the old oval, which has been muddy a great deal of the time and has not been improved for a year. The sunny days of the past week and the final arrival of the cinders have enabled the completion of the new track in time for training on it, beginning Monday. Bleachers will be erected at once, so that the field will be in readiness for the interscholastic meet on March 23.

POMONA COLLEGE HAS HIGH HOPE.

TRACK TEAM PROSPECTS LOOK UNUSUALLY BRIGHT.

Coach Noble and Trainer Braden Issue Strict Orders to Men Not to Break Training During Semester Vacation — Nightly Trials Prove Very Satisfactory.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 16.—Track prospects at Pomona College are becoming brighter each day. All the men are training hard and several give promise of making new records in their various events. Coach Noble and Trainer Braden have issued strict orders against any breaking of training rules during the vacation between semesters.

Trial races and field events have been held every night. The try-out for the U.S.C. field meet on March 2 will be held February 23.

Munger promises to set a new Southern California record, if not a new Coast mark, in the high jump. He cleared 6 ft. 1 5-8 in. easily in a trial jump Friday, and is jumping over six feet for form.

Capt. Thomas is rounding into form and will be able to hold his own in the broad jump against all comers. Baird and Holly are both jumping close to Thomas. The Spurgeon brothers are proving themselves able to take care of the short dashes. W. Spurgeon in the 100 and R. Spurgeon in the 220 hope to make Parsons hump to beat them.

McKee is running the 440 easily in 54 sec. and should be able to clip a couple of seconds off that in the intercollegiate meets. Pomona is weak in the half mile, in the absence of Brown, but several new men are showing well in the event.

Hinrod will have things all to himself in the mile as there is nobody in the south who can equal his last year's time of 4 min. 27 3-5 sec. He is much improved in form this year and could make the distance in 4:32, if necessary.

Hutchinson and Johnson are doing steady work in the two mile. Neither of them fear Estoppey very much, for he has not run the two-mile in less than 11 sec. this year. Both Johnson and Hutchinson have run it in under 11 in practice and Johnson, because of his strong sprint at the end will make the time close to 10 min. 40 sec. in the meets.

W. Spurgeon, who was in bad shape last year, is in perfect form this season and will take the low hurdles in 27 sec. or under. He is a novice in the high sticks, but is running a pretty race and clearing all the bars in 16 3-5 sec.

Davenport is putting the shot around 40 ft. and Metcalf is sending the hammer over 130 ft. Birdsall, Vaile and Holley are clearing 10 ft. in the pole vault. Although the relay men have not been picked, Pomona will have a fast bunch in this race.

POMONA HIGH WINS BOTH.

Girls' and Boys' Teams Defeat Redlands in Orange Belt Leagues by Close Scores.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Pomona High School basketball teams decisively defeated the Redlands High School teams in Renwick Gymnasium, this afternoon. The score in the boys' game was 19 to 12, and in the girls', 20 to 2.

The results of this afternoon virtually make the Pomona teams champions of the Orange Belt League. The games were scheduled for Pomona, but because of wet courts at Pomona High, were changed to the indoor college courts.

The Pomona boys excelled the Redlands men in team work, but not in individual play. Evans of Pomona was the star of the game, scoring ten points for his team. Phelps did the best work for Redlands. The line-up:

Pomona.	Position.	Redlands.
Henderson (C.)	forward	Childs
Seaver	forward	Sanborn
Carpenter	center	Gore
Evans	guard	Bert
Mosier	guard	Phelps (C.)

Referee, Filbert; umpire, Richards; field goals, Henderson 2, Seaver 2, Evans 3, Carpenter 1, Sanborn 3, Gore 1, Phelps 1; foul goals, Evans 4, Phelps 4; fouls, Pomona 5, Redlands 6.

GIRLS ALSO WIN.

The Pomona girls outclassed their opponents at every stage of the game. Line-up of girls:

Pomona.	Position.	Redlands.
Pocock (C.)	forward	Roush
McFarland	forward	Sanbern
Cogswell	center	Arth
Poston	guard	Reeder (C.)
George	guard	Yost

Referee, Gilbert; umpires, Evans and Birdsall; field goals, Pocock 1, McFarland 8, Sanborn 1; foul goals, Pocock 2, Roush 1; fouls, Redlands 9; Pomona 6.

CARDINAL MEN LIKE BOATING.

STANFORD SEEMS TO HAVE GOOD CREWS.

Great Activity on the Water Results from Coach Murphy's Personality—Says He Never Saw More Likely Body of Men Adapted to Rowing in Regattas.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD, Feb. 15.—There is unprecedented activity in boating this year, and the great interest is largely due to the influence and personality of Coach Dan Murphy. While here last year Murphy became greatly interested in the prospects for rowing at Stanford, but his work was cut short by the earthquake. He returned again this year at a salary considerably smaller than that offered by Wisconsin, in order to again take up his plans for defeating the hitherto victorious California crews.

Boating has received a great stimulus within the last two years, occasioned in part by the decision of the executive committee of the student body last spring to grant the 'varsity emblem to the crew. This step placed boating on a par with other branches of intercollegiate sports.

This year an "eight" as well as a "four" will be developed, and also freshman crews, so that some great races are expected to take place on the Sausalito estuary in April.

Coach Murphy as yet refuses to discuss the probable personnel of the crews. He is working more than fifty men, the remainder of a much larger squad after a weeding out process, but has taken no steps which indicate who the members of the crews will be. It is certain, however, that Zimmerman and Pemberton, who were selected for the 'varsity four last year, will again row for the Cardinal. Zimmerman is an old Portland Athletic Club man, and last summer, along with Pemberton, rowed in Massachusetts regattas in the winning crew from his club.

The position of coxswain probably will be retained by Turner, who was selected for the place last year. Chalmers, football star of four years and formerly member of the baseball team, is a candidate for honors on the water, and has an excellent chance of making the crew. Nothing can be stated about the remainder of the available material, but Murphy has always said that he has never seen a body of men who presented greater possibilities than the candidates found here.

In the arrangements for the inter-class regatta, which will be held sometime within the next three weeks, a new plan of rowing against time instead of in the usual manner of competition will be adopted. Each crew will row over a course a quarter of a mile long and the time will be taken. This is necessary owing to the smallness of the campus lake, where the regatta will be held this year instead of on the bay as formerly. Thus a great many more spectators can be accommodated.

GYMNASTIC TRY-OUT.

Y.M.C.A. Athletes Selected to Meet Pasadena—Spartans Defeat the Rovers.

Lingstrom, Moulton and Perine were the men who made the highest number of points in the Y.M.C.A. gymnastic try-out, last night, and they will comprise the Los Angeles team to meet the Pasadena team next week, to see which goes to Santa Cruz. All three are star performers, but the local association has lost its greatest athlete, Bittman, who has left the city. Results:

Horse—Perine, 22 1-3; Davis, 20; Beebe, 19.

Parallel bars—Beebe, 25 1-3; Perine, 21 2-3; Lingstrom, 21 1-6.

Mats—Lingstrom, 24 1-6; Moulton, 22 1-3; Beebe and Perine, tied at 17 5-6.

Rings—Moulton, 27½; Lingstrom, 23 1-2; Beebe, 19.

High horizontal bars—Perine, 25 1-3; Lingstrom, 23 1-12; Moulton, 21.

The total individual scores were as follows: Lingstrom, 110¾; Moulton, 106¾; Perine, 104 1-3; Beebe, 92 2-3; Davis, 85 1-6.

The Spartans won an exciting game from the Rovers in the basketball contest that followed the try-out. The final score stood 31-29 in favor of the Spartans.

No Looloos Sign Yet.

None of the members of the Los Angeles ball club have returned their signed contracts to Capt. Dillon and it is not expected that any of them will for ten days, yet. No one is worrying, because the players, doubtless will come to the scratch, a number of them having drawn advance money. Dillon says they will play their first real games on March 2-3 at the Chutes ground with the New York Giants, providing that all of the New York players reach this city in time for the games.

STANFORD ANXIOUS TO JOURNEY SOUTH.

STANFORD is anxious to come to Los Angeles and meet an all-star track team of the south, early in April. This is explained in letters which Harvey R. Holmes, coach of U.S.C., has just received from Track Capt. McFarland, of the Stanford aggregation.

This will be a return engagement of the meet held at Stanford last season when Southern California sent to Palo Alto a team which came back with laurels. Stanford is anxious to have a try at the honors with the Southern California favorites.

Acting on the wish of Capt. McFarland, Holmes has just entered into correspondence with the other managers in this section and a favorable answer will be sent to Stanford early, if possible. The date requested by McFarland is April 6, but as this is the date already arranged for the A.A.U. meet of Southern California, another time must be agreed upon, though there should be no trouble in suiting all parties in this respect.

Berkeley addressed some correspondence to managers here early last fall, opening the way for a trip southward. It is thought that whichever of these teams closes a contract with Southern managers will have a distinct advantage over the other. Owing to the trouble over freshmen athletics it is very likely that the team getting a hold on the local situation here will be in position to dictate to the other.

Coach Holmes gives assurance that his team is anxious to meet the Berkeley and Stanford men, and it is probable that Occidental and Pomona are also pleased with this prospect.

RAIN PREVENTS POMONA GAME.

Claremonters Unable to Meet Occidental

Captain Bird Seems Laid Up for Several Weeks.

New Athletes Developed to Take Cripple's Place.

The basketball game with Pomona and the interclass track meet, which were to have been held at Occidental, yesterday afternoon, were called off on account of the rain.

A definite date has not been set for the basketball game, as the Claremonters have a game with U.S.C., Monday afternoon, and were not able to name a date off hand. It is probable that the class track meet will be held either tomorrow or Tuesday afternoon, although as the U.S.C. dual meet is scheduled for Friday, it is possible that the postponement will be made until the following week.

With the first intercollegiate meet close at hand, the Presbyterians are crippled by the loss of Capt. Bird, and also Harry Hodge, who has a mild case of blood poisoning in his leg. However, it is probable that Hodge will be able to run against the Methodists, although it is an assured fact that Bird will not be able to don a suit for two or three weeks.

Coach Merrill is working hard with the new candidates, and has already developed three athletes who will probably prove point winners in the coming meets. Blee, Carver and E. Marshall are the men who are rapidly coming to the front.

Blee is running the 100-yard dash in 10 2-5 sec., the 220-yard dash in 23 4-5 sec., and the 440-yard dash in 55 sec. He is very fast, and in the longer distance is able to sprint the last 150 yards at a rapid clip. He will probably be given a place on the relay team.

Marshall, who is devoting his time to the hammer, is the hardest trainer on the campus. He is able to throw the weight 120 feet with the single turn, and is rapidly mastering the double turn, with which he ought to be able to increase his distance at least ten feet.

The performances of Carver have been the surprise of the year at Occidental. He has been able to outrun all of the mile men, and he does not seem to have reached the limit of his ability in this event. He can tack on to any pace and then sprint the last lap. In the meet with the Pasadena Y.M.C.A. he ran the mile race in five minutes without great exertion. The students are anxious to see what he can do against faster men.

Of last year's men, Thomson and Clarke are acquiring great versatility, and each will compete in four or five events throughout the year. Thomson looks good for points in the hammer throw, shot put, and low and high hurdles; and Clarke will run the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, in addition to the weight events and relay race. Both men are strong and apparently tireless.

There is still a marked absence of high jumpers at the Presbyterian school, and from present indications Occidental will be woefully weak in this event. McKee, K. Gordon, and Lowry are working out, but none of them have been able to clear better than 5 ft. 2 in.

Newman has increased his distance in the broad jump to 20 ft., but is handicapped by a bad ankle. He is the only man who will be able to win points for the Presbyterians in this event, as no one else is able to get over eighteen feet.

Merrill, Young, and Thomas are working out for the pole vault, but Merrill is the only one who has yet reached ten feet.

BUNDY WINS IN TENNIS FINAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CORONADO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tom Bundy defeats Bell in singles.

Bundy and Bell win doubles in a great five-set match with Sinsabaugh and Browne.

May Sutton defeated her sister, Florence, in finals of the ladies' singles, 6-0, 6-0.

Rain prevents conclusion of consolation singles and mixed doubles.

The champion of Venice is now champion of Coronado. Thomas Bundy, who won the Fourth of July tournament at the Ocean Park Country Club last season, and has since been puting up the most consistently strong game of tennis of any of the South's champion racquet artists, is the 1907 holder of the big cup offered by the Hotel Coronado. Bundy defeated former Coast champion Alphonso Bell yesterday afternoon in the finals of the tournament by the score of 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

The last day's play of the big tournament brought out some splendid tennis, although the weather kept the players off the courts in the morning, thereby preventing two of the events from being completed. The match in the finals of the men's doubles, in which Bundy and Bell defeated Sinsabaugh and Browne, the Southern California doubles champions, in a sensational five-set match, was the most spectacular of the entire tournament. Sinsabaugh and Browne had the odd set in their favor twice during the match, winning the first and third sets. Bell and Bundy pulled out with the score 2-1 against them by winning two hard-fought sets, 6-4, 6-4.

In the finals of the ladies' singles May Sutton proved invincible and defeated her sister, Florence, who is conceded to be the second best player in the United States, without the loss of a single game in the two sets. Miss Sutton's drive is as strong as ever, but she has improved her volleying game noticeably. Her showing in today's match is encouraging in view of her coming struggle with Miss Douglass for the championship of the world.

Gaiusha still remains the favorite in the race for the consolation prize. He and Keeney will remain over until Monday to contest for the honor with the San Diego players, Morgan and Keyes. The mixed doubles will be played off by Sinsabaugh and Florence Sutton and Bell and May Sutton after their return to Los Angeles.

"The Queerest Accident."

Manager Fred Tenney, of the Boston Nationals, in chatting the other day with a party of Hub fans, recalled an incident that was enacted last summer in Exposition Park there. "The queerest accident that ever happened to me took place in Pittsburgh," said Tenney. "I was making for third and Tommy Sheehan was playing the bag. I noticed that he was playing rather far back, and so I ran into the bag toward the diamond. First thing I knew I felt a stinging sensation on my left hand, and, looking around for the ball, I found it had struck me and then hit Sheehan in the throat. My hand swelled way up and I called for some water. 'Young Cy' Young brought me some, thinking I wanted it for Sheehan, but I wanted it for myself, and by application of water I succeeded in reducing the swelling. I worked my fingers and found myself able to play the game out."

Indiana's Desirable Statute.

Manufacturers of bicycle and automobile supplies are interested in a bill that has just been introduced in the Indiana Legislature, which provides a maximum fine of $50 for those who throw glass or broken bottles on any public highway. It is claimed that when a bicycle or automobile tire is pierced by glass it is difficult to find the puncture, and in many cases manufacturers are compelled to furnish new tires on the grounds that the original ones were imperfect. The proposed law is along the lines of several enactments that have been passed in other States. In Ohio, for instance, the offense named constitutes a high misdemeanor, and may be punished by imprisonment as well as a heavy fine.

The Massachusetts Automobile Owners' Protective Association will ask the Legislature to make it a crime for a chauffeur to use his employer's car without permission.

STANFORD TEAM APPEARS GOOD.

HOPES TO BEAT CALIFORNIA IN BASEBALL SERIES.

Little Change from Last Year's Line-up but Men Have More Experience—Comparative Scores Show Cardinal Aggregation About as Good as Blue and Gold.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

STANFORD, Feb. 15.—The struggle for places on the baseball team is not severe, this year, most of the members of the 'varsity of last year having returned to college. It is certain that Thiele, '08, who was substitute to Sales last year, will be in the pitcher's box. Stott, '07, who has caught for three years, has not played up to form this season, and is now being hard pressed for his position by Daily, '07. It is uncertain as to which of these men will play in the series against California, but unless Stott takes a brace Daily has an excellent chance of beating him out.

On first base, Capt. Presley has no opposition. Stanford lost its second baseman, Harry Bell, through the action of the scholarship committee, and Lanagan is at present trying out Scott, '10, for the position. The freshman seems to be making good, hitting and fielding well, but is somewhat erratic at times and shows his inexperience.

"Kenny" Fenton is a fixture at third, and the idol of the team. He plays his regular brilliant game. There is a contest on for shortstop, which position Cadwalader has been playing thus far this season. He was brought in from the outfield to replace Sampson, the shortstop last year, whose foot was severely burned just before Christmas. Sampson has again donned a uniform and is out for light practice. His all around ability will make him a strong candidate for his old position if his injury will allow him to return to the game permanently.

In the outfield Lanagan has three available 'varsity men in Wirt, Dudley and Owen, all of whom have won their "S" in baseball, but he is trying out along with them, two new men, Dennis, '09, and Cuenen, '10. Both these men have shown up well, thus far, but it is not likely that any of the three old fielders will be replaced.

The schedule of games for the remainder of the season is as follows:

February 21, Presidio.
February 22, St. Mary's at Oakland.
February 27, St. Mary's.
March 2, Gallagher Marsh.
March 6, Santa Clara.
March 9, St. Mary's.
March 12, Santa Clara at Santa Clara.
March 16, Gallagher Marsh.
March 20, Santa Clara.
March 21, Santa Clara.
March 23, St. Mary's at Oakland.
March 24, St. Mary's.
March 30, Santa Clara.
April 3, Santa Clara.
April 6, U.C.
April 10, St. Mary's.
April 13, U.C.

To date the comparative scores of Stanford and California against the two Catholic schools is as follows:

January 30, California 2, St. Mary's 12.
February 1, California 1, St. Mary's 3.
February 7, Stanford 4, Santa Clara 3.
February 9, Stanford 4, Santa Clara 1.
February 12, Stanford 2, Santa Clara 2.
February 13, Stanford 1, St. Mary's 6.

Wants More Money.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mordecai Brown, premier pitcher of the National League, has added his voice to the rapidly increasing chorus of demands for increase of salary. The three-fingered twirler has not accepted terms from the Cub management and came to Chicago today to urge his demands upon President Murphy. The difference is not so great that any serious outcome is feared, however.

McGraw is Waiting.

"Mugsy" McGraw, the manager of the New York National ball club, is about one of the most independent or indifferent men that ever hit this town. When asked, Friday, if he knew anything about his various ball players, he declared he did not and had not heard anything from any of them. He says he has ordered them to report here March 1, and expects them to do so.

age price of granulated ten years ago, in 1897, being 4.503 cents, as compared with an average price of 4.515 cents last year, and with no change in tariff. In raw sugar, however, the price of 96 centrifugals has increased 4 per cent., from 3.557 cents, which was the average price ten years ago, in 1897, up to 3.686 cents, which was the average price of centrifugals last year. Within the same period the consumption of sugar in the United States has increased from 63.5 pounds per capita for 1897 up to 70.1 pounds for 1906. The total consumption of sugar in the United States was 2,070,978 tons for 1897, as against 2,864,013 tons for 1906, an increase of 793,035 tons. The reason that the producers of sugar are deriving no corresponding benefit from the general advance in the price of all other commodities is, of course, due to the larger production throughout the world, especially in beet sugar, although Licht's estimate for the [illegible] campaign is rather less than was figured for 1901-02, being 6,670,000 tons, as against 6,750,478 tons at the previous period. In the United States, however, since the beginning of the present century, the output of beet sugar has increased more than 300,000 tons. The bulk of the increase in cane crops has been in Cuba, where the revolution, prior to our war with Spain, was reducing the output a decade ago. In other islands of the West Indies there has been little change. In Mexico the sugar industry is increasing, also in Brazil. In Australia and Africa, and among other cane-producing countries, there has also been slight development. It is evident that, outside of the United States, the consumption of sugar is not increasing in the same proportion as it is in the United States, and Hawaii's staple crop has, and has had, to face a condition in which the supply is greater than the demand.

Hawaii's potato famine was raised on the arrival of the steamer Californian, which brought 800 sacks of spuds from Seattle. Since then the Alameda has brought an additional supply. She carried a full cargo of general freight, including lime, lard, beer, feed, and many other Coast products, some of which might easily be shipped from Los Angeles if there were a direct line of steamers on that route. Should a permanent line ever be established, the steamers ought to carry refrigerator goods, because nothing would be more welcome in the Honolulu market than a good supply of cherries, peaches, apricots, plums, pears, grapes and other fruits, of which you have an abundant supply. Hitherto only small quantities of these have been brought here by the Spreckles' line, and with cherries, for instance, retailing at twenty and twenty-five cents a pound, it can readily be imagined that the consumption is not large.

Total shipments of merchandise from the United States to Hawaii, during the calendar year of 1906, amounted to $13,431,017 in value. Fully 80 per cent. of this came from the Pacific Coast, and the merchants of Los Angeles might, with some energy and perhaps concessions at the start, divert a portion of this trade from San Francisco. The main trouble will be in securing a return cargo, because all sugar shipments are arranged by other routes, and Hawaii's other exports are limited mainly to coffee, honey, sometimes rice, bananas, pineapples, fresh and canned, and Japanese laborers.

CAN'T GLOSS OVER SHOOTING.

LAWYER'S FATHER SAYS HE REFUSES MONEY.

But Doesn't Know Whether Proffer is from Official Source—Employs Counsel and Will Demand Rigid Investigation—Police Also Looking Into Matter.

"Overtures have been made toward a possible settlement of the shooting affair in which my son was seriously wounded by two policemen. I do not know whether these overtures came from official sources. I refused to listen to them."

This statement was made yesterday by James Cleary, father of James T. Cleary, the young lawyer who was shot and seriously wounded Friday morning by Patrolmen Louis Rico, who, with Patrolman Ben McCann, sought to place the young man under arrest.

According to the father, the proffer of money for hospital expenses has been made, as well as a possible bonus.

Determined to have the most rigid investigation made of the shooting Mr. Cleary, Sr., has employed counsel. Data have been collected and are being put in shape. A statement from the wounded man is in type.

"This matter cannot be glossed over," continued the parent. "My son believed he was being held up. Those officers did not declare themselves to him, but instead acted like highwaymen. My son is not yet out of danger. The physicians say that grave complications are yet possible."

Mr. and Mrs. James Cleary came to Los Angeles from Nebraska about three months ago. The family lives at the Wilhelm on Grand avenue.

The positive statement is made by Mr. Cleary that his son was returning from a social function when he was shot. He says that the young man was wearing a dress suit, and the patrolmen must have been drunk, or they could not have mistaken his son for a robber.

At the Good Samaritan Hospital the young lawyer was reported to be resting comfortably last night. It will be several weeks before he is able to walk, say the attending physicians. The bullet has been removed.

There is to be a police investigation. It was planned to hold the inquiry yesterday, but it has been postponed. Chief Kern and Mayor Harper have already discussed the matter in private, though nothing of an official nature has been done.

Patrolmen Rico and McCann were on duty yesterday. Both refuse, under instructions, to discuss the matter. The strictest silence is being maintained at detective headquarters, also.

LAST OF "PATHFINDERS."

Death of Nathaniel Beebe, Who Made First Visit to California With Fremont.

One by one, the little band of men who crossed the plains and came to California with Gen. John C. Fremont in 1842, have passed out.

Nathaniel A. Beebe, a life-long friend of "The Pathfinder," and said to be the last living member of the party that made that first journey, died at his home on Crocker street, this city, yesterday, at the advanced age of almost 90 years. He has lived in Los Angeles for fourteen years, having returned to Iowa after spending two years with General Fremont, and leaves a daughter, Mrs. C. Thomas, as his only surviving relative here.

The expedition headed by Gen. Fremont, and of which Nathaniel Beebe was a member, was sent out by the government, and returned to St. Louis clothed in skins, shortly before the expiration of two years.

The deceased was a native of New York, where he was born March 27, 1817, and was consequently, at the time of his death, aged 89 years, 2 months and 16 days. In his boyhood he removed to the West with his father, and was a resident of Iowa at the time he joined the Fremont party to come to California in 1842. When he returned to his home in Iowa, he went into the milling business, and that and farming occupied all his days, until he again decided to come to California. He first went to San Diego, and then across the border to Tia Juana, Mex., where he spent a few years, and then removed to this city where, as stated, he has lived for fourteen years.

The body is at the undertaking establishment of Robert Sharp & Sons, and will be taken to San Diego for burial on Monday morning.

AT POINT OF A GUN.

Two footpads robbed M. F. Donlon of No. 766 East Eleventh street, on Crocker street, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets last night, about 8 o'clock. Donlon left an East Twelfth-street car at Crocker street, and was walking toward his residence, when the highwaymen stepped out of a shadow, and one of them held a revolver in Donlon's face, and at the same time told him to throw up his hands. Four dollars was all that the robbers secured. Turning upon Donlon one of the men told him that they would kill him if he followed them. They ran south on Crocker street and escaped.

JAILED AGAIN FOR THEFT.

Again Laura Scott, an ex-convict negress, is in the toils on the charge of larceny. She was arrested last night at No. 4 San Julian Place on the charge of stealing a clock from H. C. Russel at No. 120 South Alameda street. According to the officers, the woman had access to the room, but was not permitetd to use any articles in it. The officers had been searching for the Scott woman for some time.

B'NAI B'RITH GRAND LODGE.

Victor Harris, Past President of the Los Angeles Lodge, No. 487, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, and George N. Black, its President, have gone to San Francisco to attend the Grand Lodge of this order, which will convene tomorrow. It is probable that Mr. Black will be elected Grand President for the fourth district, which includes all the Pacific Coast, and in case this takes place, it is likely that the next session of the Grand Lodge will be held in this city.

DIVISION FEVER COOLS.

Huntington Beach Committee Has Conference with the Townsite Company.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 16.—On invitation of the Huntington Beach Company a delegation of members of the Board of Trade of Huntington Beach went to Los Angeles this morning to attend a meeting of the directors of the Huntington Beach Company.

The delegation was requested to appear before the board in order that the Huntington Beach Company might get a definite idea of the sentiments of the citizens of Huntington Beach in regard to the division of Orange county, and the annexation to Los Angeles county of a strip along the shore including Bay City, Sunset Beach and Huntington Beach.

A large delegation, including the committee which conferred with the Chamber of Commerce in Santa Ana last Wednesday, went to this meeting and included the following members: A. L. Reed, E. A. Harding, S. E. Hern, O. C. Stewart, G. Reynolds, C. W. Warner, C. D. Heartwell, Charles E. Babcock, George W. Moore, O. H. Huber, J. F. Corbett, S. L. Blodgett, H. S. Hazeltine, George Jess, J. W. Shirley, A. W. Shoule, C. A. Sprague, George E. Phelps, J. M. Gillespie, S. W. Price, L. M. Johnson, and E. L. Franklin.

Col. S. H. Finley, who is heavily interested in Huntington Beach, but is a resident of Santa Ana, was also present and made a speech which was presumably impartial, as he is interested on both sides of the county, which is proposed to be divided. The trend of his remarks was against such division, believing that the interests of both factions lies in harmony and unity of purpose in the future, rather than the indorsement of the division of neighborly interests as proposed.

In short talks by J. W. Shirley, George W. Moore, president of the Celery Growers' Association, and Mr. Hazeltine, manager of that concern; J. F. Corbett, C. W. Warner, T. B. Talbert, A. W. Shoule, S. E. Hearn, George Phelps and S. W. Price, it was made plain that the radical views entertained by the Huntington Beach citizens have undergone a considerable change since the adoption of their resolution a few days ago for annexation to Los Angeles county. The expressions of friendship and their willingness to coöperate in matters to promote the interests of their younger neighbor, Huntington Beach, made by Santa Ana has done much to bring about this feeling.

Mr. Gates, a member of the board of directors of the Huntington Beach Company, said that it is the desire of his company to consider the will of the people of Huntington Beach as their guide in this matter. He said that "the interests of the citizens are our interests and it is well to consider the question thoroughly and come to a definite decision as to what is the best for all concerned, and then fight it out on those lines, no matter what the cost."

Assemblyman Stanton, who introduced the bill to divide Orange county and annex the strip along the beach to Los Angeles county, addressed a meeting on that subject at Huntington Beach tonight.

TO STUDY LEMONS.

Department of Agriculture Sends Expert to Riverside to Improve Fruit's Keeping Qualities.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 16.—To help the California lemon grower solve some of his knotty questions, Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture has sent to Riverside one of his ablest men, Dr. R. H. True. Dr. True's attention will be directed toward improving the keeping qualities of lemons shipped to the eastern markets. Dr. True is in charge of the drug, tea and poisonous plant investigations of the Bureau of Plant Industry, and has done notable work in developing the tea industry in South Carolina and Texas and the camphor industry in Florida.

Frank D. Rodgers, who claims the distinction of having established the first steam laundry in Bombay, has returned here to recuperate from a terrific siege of bubonic plague. He says that American machinery is given the preference in India, and that railroad bridges, printing presses and many other American manufactured products are being introduced.

AVALON BULKHEAD.

AVALON, Feb. 16.—Work has been begun on the Avalon Bay bulkhead, permission to build which was granted to the Santa Catalina Island Company by the War Department. The bulkhead is to be constructed at a point 130 feet from the street line of Crescent avenue.

Membership in the Light Tackle Club is steadily increasing. Within a few days seven persons have qualified for membership and been provided with the coveted button, three of them getting silver buttons and the other four bronze buttons, the bronze being given for a fish weighing twenty pounds or over, and the silver for one over thirty-three pounds. The anglers who received the silver buttons are Clarence Gunnett, Richmond, Ind., 33 1-4 pounds; Harvey S. Brackett, Chicago, 33 1-4 pounds; John C. Deacon, Chicago, 36½ pounds.

Those receiving bronze buttons are Mrs. Clarence Gennett, Richmond, Ind.; Alfred Nelson, New York, and Charles S. Ross and Ward W. Willits of Chicago.

For modern sunny flats and cottages, see J. Albert or Mrs. Jerrue, opposite Pacific Hotel, Avalon.

SAYS HE IS DESERTER.

Edward Milles, who says he is a deserter from a United States warship, walked into the recruiting office in Los Angeles yesterday and asked to be arrested. He was sent to the City Jail, and will be turned over later to the Federal authorities. It is believed that Milles is insane.

I Cure Men

DR. TAYLOR

The Leading Specialist

I have treated hundreds of men who had long suffered a gradual decline of physical and mental energy as a result of private ailments, and my success in curing difficult cases of long standing has made me the foremost specialist treating men's diseases. This success is due to the study I have given my specialty; to my having ascertained the exact nature of men's ailments, and to the original, distinctive and thoroughly scientific methods of treatment I employ.

To those in doubt as to their true condition who wish to avoid the serious results that may follow neglect, I offer free consultation and advice, either at my office or through correspondence. If your case is one of the few that has reached an incurable stage, I will not accept it for treatment, nor will I urge my services upon you. I treat curable cases only, and cure all cases I treat.

Weakness

I am confident that I have cured more cases of so-called "weakness" than any other physician. There may be doctors in the largest eastern cities who have treated more cases than I, but they cling to the old and ineffective practice of dosing with tonics. "Weakness" is merely a symptom of local disorder that requires local treatment. This is a truth that I have discovered, and that has been fully established by my success in effecting permanent cures. My method is original with myself and is employed by no other physician.

Contracted Diseases

I cure these troublesome and positively dangerous diseases in but half the usual time required, thus forestalling chronic complications. A new and unique system of treatment that cannot fail to cure both quickly and permanently.

Varicocele

Many who are but slightly afflicted with varicocele believe that the trouble is of little consequence. The opposite is true. Varicocele is a disease of a progressive nature. As it advances, nervous complications come, power diminishes and the general health is impaired. I cure varicocele in five days, without the use of knife, ligature or caustic, without pain and without detention from business.

Specific Blood Poison

My treatment for Specific Blood Poison neutralizes and eliminates the very last taint of virus from the system, and all this is accomplished without the use of dangerous minerals. I afford you a complete and permanent cure.

Consultation and advice free at my office or by mail. All medicines are prepared in my own laboratory from the finest standardized drugs.

DUCK HUNTING GOOD PASTIME FOR WOMEN.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) Feb. 15.—A young woman, loaded down with ducks, and with two great wild geese slung over her shoulder, swung off a train at the union depot in Denver. Clad in her rough suit of waterproof material, and her feet encased in rubber boots, and her cheeks aglow under her waterproof hat, she looked the picture of health.

"There's no charm in golf for me, as long as the duck season lasts," she said emphatically. "My word for it, there is no sport that equals this kind of hunting. The woman who tries golf and horseback riding and tennis, and other outdoor recreation, is merely sipping the good things. She needs a day on a duck lake before she gets a good long draught of the elixir of life.

"My brother interested me in duck shooting. I used to wonder why he started off so eagerly every week, when the ducks were flying, and why he found any pleasure in getting up at an unearthly hour in the morning, and lying in the rain all day in the worst weather, just to get a few shots at passing birds. He finally induced me to take a try at the sport. We went to the clubhouse and passed the night. It was just 4 o'clock when 'Bub' woke me up. After a fine breakfast we started.

"After a long tramp through a raw, penetrating atmosphere, Bub and I came to a blind at the edge of the lake. It was just beginning to show a faint sign of dawn, though I could tell it was going to be the kind of a morning that is rare in Colorado—one of those gray, misty days, something between a rainstorm and a snowstorm. Although it was still too dark to see many rods. I was all impatience, but Bub sat down on the ground and lit his pipe with all the calmness in the world. How men can be so phlegmatic is more than I can understand.

"'There's no hurry, sis,' he said to me. 'We can't see 'em for twenty minutes yet.' Well, it began to get lighter and lighter, and suddenly, off to the right, I saw a thin line of black, growing momentarily longer and blacker.

"'There they come,' said Bub. 'Now wait till they're within good range and then fire.'

"Well, I was so excited I nearly dropped my gun. I let both barrels go but missed.

"'You didn't catch 'em at the break, sis,' said Bub. 'Ducks make a funny little jump as soon as they see you. They will be sweeping right down at you, but at the first hint of danger they seem to stop short, and then they are off, in a jiffy, at another angle. You want to catch them with both barrels right at that little pause. It's about as long as half a wink, but if you are quick you can get 'em.

"It was easier said than done, I found out. The ducks came flying thick and fast. I dropped three with a long shot from my right barel, but somehow I couldn't time that little break right. Finally I caught the trick of it, however. I let go both barrels, just as Bub let drive with his, and we dropped seven ducks into the lake.

"'Bully for you, Sis—you've caught it!' cried Bub. And then it was just a case of counting the dead ones at each flight.

"It was a cold day, with the wind blowing like ice off the mountains. But I didn't seem to feel it a bit. I was aglow with excitement, and when it began to drizzle a cold rain it merely added to the enjoyment. It was an experience brand new and never to be forgotten.

"After awhile we took our boat and stole out into the water, picking up ducks. Then, with the bottom of the boat strewn with the bright plumaged game, we thrust her nose in among the tallest reeds and abandoned our blind. Here among the cattails we waited for the ducks. There is no sport like it in the world—this straining your eyes to see through the soft gray curtain that has enfolded you—the swift flight of the long, wavering black line within your vision—and then the quick aiming and firing of the shotgun. The smell of the powder gets into your blood. You have the same lust for killing that must have come to the cave woman when she lay in wait, with her lord and master, for the game with which to stock the primeval larder. You exult in the hardships, and laugh to scorn the cold rain that would cause dismay if you faced it in town. You are one of the wild, free creatures of earth, not a tidy, fussy little manikin of civilization."

ORGANIZE NEW SHOOTING CLUB.

SAUCER SMASHERS SELECT SITE NEAR SCHUETZEN PARK.

J. Ed Vaughan, Fred Mills and Other Prominent Shotgun Cracks Form Western Gun Club to Hold Weekly Shoots and Pull Off an Occasional Tournament.

Devotees of trap shooting in this city have almost perfected the organization of another club to be devoted to the gentle art of pulverizing the fast flying bluerock, or some other form of inanimate target equally hard to hit, and as easy to break.

There is already one trap shooting organization in town, the Los Angeles Gun Club, but its shoots are rather sporadic in their character, and for that reason do not appeal very strongly to the non-expert class of marksmen whose idea in patronizing the traps is to practice proficiency in the handling of a shotgun, rather than pit their skill against others in the pools. To such marksmen as these, weekly shoots appeal more strongly than the tournaments, and it was with the idea of catering to this class that the Western Gun Club has been formed.

Grounds have been secured on the Pasadena short line beyond the present station of Schuetzen Park at a crossing called Li Fur station. The fare is 10 cents each way. A bulkhead and trap-house will be installed this week and a clubhouse erected as soon as the weather permits, the initial shoot being scheduled for next Sunday. The equipment proposed is a Legett trap, and should the attendance of shooters justify it, another one will be installed whenever necessary.

The arrangement of the grounds has been left to J. Ed Vaughan, whose experience in all matters relating to trap shooting is of the widest, and who by many is considered the best wing shot in Southern Southern California—a title that he probably has as good claim to as any other scatter gunner now in mind.

Mr. Vaughan has made some changes in the installation of the traps which he believes will commend themselves readily to shooters. The background at the Western Club grounds is the blue sky only one angle being likely to dip under the crest of a range of hills to the north, that being the extreme left quartering bird. The right quarterer and the straightaway birds will be limned against the sky most clearly, making the best possible shooting conditions, and Mr. Vaughan has so laid out the trap that the sun will not interfere with shooting even in the morning. The trap bulkhead slopes away from the shooter instead of toward him, which is also advantageous to the gunner, being in fact, the manner recommended for installing the trap.

The gentlemen who have organized the Western Gun Club say their present intention is to make the shooting open to anybody, and to trap targets at actual cost, probably a cent and a half per bird. A three days' tournament is in prospect as soon as the organization is complete, and no restrictions whatever are to be placed upon the make of gun, kind of ammunition used by the contestants, other than the American Shooting Association rules against ten-gauge guns and black powder in force at all clubs.

One of the members has figured out a new system of running the business end of such a club, and recommends the sale of books good for ten targets, fifteen targets, twenty targets, and so on, the contestants to buy so many books before starting in, and then to present their tickets for each event before shooting. Only those who ever attempted to conduct the business affairs of a tournament can appreciate what an advantage this system properly worked out, will be. It will obviate nearly all the bother of settling for targets and apportioning moneys after the event is shot off.

For a new organization, the Western Gun Club has interested a number of old hands at the shooting game, such as Ed Vaughan, Big Jim Gibson, Fred B. Mills, who now holds several championship medals; Will A. Wright, M. P. Towne, Mark Lane, James Mason, D. W. King, Jr., J. B. Wood, U. Allen, E. D. Neff, C. E. Gillon, D. M. Crossman, Dr. Garnette, Dr. Parker, Homer Kennedy, Fred L. Bueneman, Hy. Ogle, H. L. Bowlds, and J. B. Wood among others. Mr. Vaughan has been taking the names of those who wish to join, at No. 534 South Spring street.

It is proposed to hold a practice shoot every Sunday, allowing those who wish to enter for the birds only a chance to do so and practice to their hearts' content.

ROD AND REEL MEET.

TUESDAY NIGHT THE DATE.

All members of the Southern California Rod and Reel Club, whether otherwise notified or not, are requested to be present at the annual meeting of the organization next Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in Blanchard Hall art gallery, as there is a great deal of important business to be attended to, the election of officers, and reports of several committees, notably the legislative, being due.

Inasmuch as the secretary has been unable to get all the names on the books owing to the failure of several parties to turn in their lists, he has requested that all who have applied for membership in the regular way be present, whether they hold receipts for admission fee or not, as such receipts can be issued to them before 8 o'clock Tuesday night, when the meeting will be called to order. A great many things are to be discussed that will appeal strongly to every fisherman, among them being the matter of rules for the proposed angling tournament of the coming season.

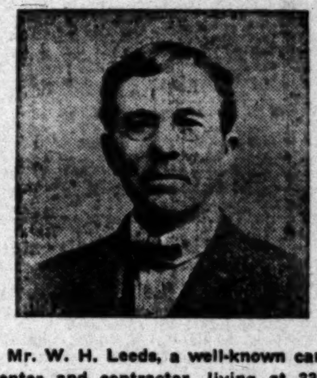
Catarrh in the Head and Throat Cured



Mr. W. H. Leeds, a well-known carpenter and contractor, living at 334 West 42nd street, says: "For some time I have been a victim of chronic catarrh, effecting principally the nose and throat, the nose being stopped up nearly all the time, so that I was compelled to become a mouth breather, while I was constantly hawking and spitting mucous from my throat. The specialists of the Los Angeles Medical Inst. cured me. The discharge has stopped and I am now sound and well. Can any one wonder that I recommend these physicians to all my friends.

SOCIETY MEETINGS—

SOCIETY OF BIBLICISTS, SCIENTIFIC.
Biblicist; one skilled in the knowledge of the Bible; a demonstrator of truth by the Scriptures.

OBJECT OF THE SOCIETY.
To present the fundamental truths of the Bible relating to a subject in a systematic and orderly or scientific manner.

Knowing this first, that no teaching of Scripture is of any private interpretation. The Bible must and does interpret itself.

Either there is or there is not a higher existence than recognized by ordinary man. If there is it is the business of science to discover it and teach mankind the way to attain it.

Mind appears to be shut up in the magic circle of its own ideas, without any capacity of breaking through the circle or apprehending any reality but itself.

Man has become weary of his thoughts and longs for power to break the circle that keeps him enslaved.

Without this power folly or madness is usually the lot of mankind.

The Bible is the best text-book of the sciences that have directly to do with the happiness and well-being of mankind.

The Bible disarms all criticism when its great truths are scientifically presented.

WHAT IS TRUTH?
A soul-satisfying answer will be given to this question from the Bible this evening.

No one that hears it will ever ask the question again, the answer will be complete.

This Sunday evening, February 17, 8 p.m., Music Hall, 222 S. Hill st. Free. No collection, no donation. You are invited to come and bring your friends. 17

PERSONAL—
PROF. C. IRVIN ALTHOUSE, of 305½ S. Spring st., near Third.
THE CELEBRATED, RELIABLE PALMIST AND ASTROLOGER, whose work is known throughout this entire land, and who has made a life study of PALMISTRY AND ASTROLOGY, has convinced hundreds of the best intellects and persons in all walks of life that HIS REMARKABLE READINGS AND PREDICTIONS for future events in their lives ARE UNPARALLELED.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S readings, which are thorough and scientific, have nothing in common whatever with the fictitious readings of illiterate, unreliable humbug palmists, astrologers, psychics, fortune tellers, and those who, through trick methods, claim to tell your name, etc., who scarcely know one line or mount from the other, and who, by their disgraceful readings, drag these useful sciences into the mire of fortune telling and fraud.

A satisfactory reading can only be had from one who has thoroughly mastered the laws of these wonderful sciences through years of critical study of planetary influences on the lines of the PALM, combined with large experience, trained judgment, etc. All kinds of diseases can be accurately diagnosed. Careful advice given in domestic, love affairs, etc.; also of financial success or failure; changes, deaths, investments, vocation in life, and many other important things you should know, which cannot be mentioned here. With each palm reading there is also an astrological reading.

PROF. ALTHOUSE stands at the very head of the profession, having read—FROM LIFE—more celebrated people than any other reader. He does not deceive the public in this respect. His readings, too, must in nowise be classed with those of any other reader now operating in this part of the country, and his skilled work has no comparison with theirs whatsoever.

E. H. SOTHERN says—"I find your readings coincides with Cheiro's," and "I am greatly interested in Palmistry." Frederick Warde says, "Your reading of my hands was most satisfactory. Your knowledge and skill in palmistry is REMARKABLE and gave me a much more exalted idea of that science than I have hitherto entertained." Louis James, actor, says, "I wish to say that your reading of my hand was ENTIRELY SATISFACTORY." Paul Gilmore, actor, says, "I want to express to you my keen appreciation of your reading, it is by far the most scientific I have ever had." Juliet Crosby, actress, says, "Prof. Althouse has given me a most helpful, complete and satisfactory reading." Prof. Althouse also read Admiral Schley, Senator Clark, ex.-Gov. Pardee, Gen. Chaffee, Baron Rothschild, Joaquin Miller, Ysaye, Sousa, Edison, Capt. Hobson, Creatore, Huntington Susan B. Anthony, Nance O'Neill, Mme. Scaumann-Heink, Calve, Julia Marlowe, Modjeska, Adaberto, Sembrich, Gadski, Jefferson, Nat Goodwin, Maxine Elliott, James O'Neil, Lillian Russell, Anna Held, Rose Melville, Chas. B. Hanford and hundreds of others. These are a few names of PUBLIC persons and are merely given to indicate the class of people being read, as well as the very best people of Los Angeles, WITH WHOM ALL HIS BUSINESS IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL. Intelligent, high-class patronage solicited—those capable of appreciating the superior qualities of a fine reader.

ASTROLOGY AND THE HOROSCOPE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE has also given many years of critical study to and is an experienced practitioner in the science of MODERN ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The HOROSCOPE IS DECIDEDLY A GUIDE IN LIFE, showing remarkable things when properly cast—from the position of the planets at your birth; in fact, TELLS EVERYTHING ABOUT ONE'S SELF WORTH KNOWING, being in truth one of the best investments the world offers. Your horoscope is also a key to the character of others, and in this respect can be of the utmost use to you. SCIENTIFIC PREDICTIONS, embracing all questions of life, for the present, immediate future and events up to the close of life—made by these sciences—through the trained judgment of Prof. Althouse—will stagger the senses. Beware, however, of the incompetent and unreliable reader.

PROF. ALTHOUSE'S wonderful proficiency in hand readings and casting of horoscopes, has brought him a large and successful practice. The most private confidences are reposed in him, and his advice is sought in the most difficult and critical circumstances.

MRS. MASSON,

the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at

222 S. SPRING ST. (Suite 17.)

by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND-READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn, in his investigations along psychological lines, that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper, can readily be distinguished from crude and often exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc. AFTER HE HAS HIMSELF WRITTEN THAT INFORMATION. PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in everyday life. Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health, marriage and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill-luck into wide paths of success and prosperity can all be told you through scientific palmistry WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

Daily 9 to 6; Sundays 9 to 2.

Evenings by appointment.

PROFESSOR SHELDON,

THE WORLD'S GREATEST PSYCHIC, PERMANENTLY LOCATED IN HIS HOME OFFICE, IN THE WINDHAM, 109½ SOUTH BROADWAY.
READ CAREFULLY.
AN HONEST PROPOSITION.
NO FEE IN ADVANCE.
IT IS JUST AS CHEAP TO SEE THE BEST.
REMEMBER THE NAME—
SHELDON.
THE NAME SHELDON
A DOUBLE GUARANTEE.

MAN OF PSYCHIC GIFT POWER IS SHELDON.

The most critical test that one who practices a profession must submit to is the crucial test of time. No business that is ever so slightly tinged with fakirism or doubt can withstand the development of time and the interchange of ideas among those who consult, investigate and pass judgment. Professor Sheldon has been in California eighteen years. He has been consulted by thousands. The best evidence of his wonderful power is the testimony of his large clientele, who come from every walk in life; secondary to this is the true and brilliant work of eighteen years of restless activity and without exciting the hostility or failing to secure the admiration of every person who has consulted him. A man should be judged by his works, and so he is. Prof. Sheldon has been tried. He has met every expectation, every advertised promised, and his reputation is established.

I hereby solemnly agree and guarantee to make no charge if I fail to call you by name in full, names of your friends, enemies or rivals. I promise to tell you whether your husband, wife or sweetheart is true or false, tell you how to gain the love of the one you most desire, even though miles away. How to succeed in business, speculation, lawsuits; how to marry the one of your choice; how to regain youth, health and vitality. Removes all evil influences, cures drink habit, locates treasures, cures all nervous diseases.

How can I have good luck?
How can I succeed in business?
How can I make my home happy?
How can I conquer my enemies?
How can I marry the one I choose?
How can I marry well?
How soon can I marry?
How can I conquer my rival?
How can I make any one love me?
How soon will my love propose?
How can I get a letter?
How can I get a good position?
How can I remove bad influences?
How can I control any one?
How make distant ones think of me?
How can I settle my quarrel?
How can I hold my husband's love?
How can I keep my wife's love?
Sheldon never asks questions.

STANDING CHALLENGE.
$5000—FOR HIS EQUAL—$5000.

SHELDON
has been a native of California for the last eighteen years and is legally ordained to one of the oldest spiritualist societies in the world.

My only reason for calling you by name and what you called for—I do this incidentally as a chain to read by.

He will tell you frankly your condition and what you may expect; if nothing can be done for you he will not take one cent of your money. Has not this honesty on the face of it?

The folowing list shows purely and simply that Sheldon has been consulted by the most popular and most noted men and women of the world, and his reading of their lives was pronounced most wonderful—Julia Marlowe, Sarah Bernhardt, Helen Gould, Hon. C. H. Harrison, President McKinley, President Harrison, President Cleveland, Senator Depew, Senator Hanna, Senator Foraker, Senator Spooner.

No man has ever been consulted in more notable affairs than he. In Europe and America he has advised thousands in various walks of life, and always to their advantage.

Sheldon stands alone, possessing a force, a power, a gift—call what you will—that none can explain, none can account for.

During the last ten months I have brought around through this wonderful power of personal control, 721 marraiages, 143 separations, without any after trouble, came by the mutual consent of opposing parties; located 16 buried treasures; located 19 wills and 11 deeds; success in gaining 810 pensions; reunited 118 separated; have helped 182 investors; there have been 714 cases of such private nature I do not feel like classifying; in fact, it suffices to only say there is no heart so sad or wish too great that your hopes cannot be speedily realized by the force of this wonderful power.

He can relieve your anxiety, care, embarassment, can astonish, guide, comfort, cheer and strengthen you.

Make no change in business, do not buy or sell a rooming-house, do not buy mining stock, do not buy a lot, a farm, a ranch, or make a lease without first seeing Sheldon. He will advise you to your advantage. He asks no questions.

SUCCESS AWAITS YOU.
OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS AT YOUR DOOR.
WILL YOU ANSWER?

BEWARE
of pretenders and partially developed mediums. They copy his advertisement and in many smaler cities use his name. Please remember, Professor Sheldon can be seen only at his home office, in the Windham, 109½ S. Broadway.

My practice and professional reputation are built upon "honor," reasonable charges, fair dealings, faithful service and speedy success for my clients have won for me the largest practice in the State of California. My superior knowledge and power, give me advantages which warrant me in guaranteeing safer, surer and more rapid results than can be obtained elsewhere.

Credo, the eminent Hindoo scientist, known on both hemispheres as the "World's Wonder," arrived from the Orient, now located over the Unique Theater, suite 8, 629½ S. Broadway.

Credo is the embodiment of the Hindoo Mahatmas—the wonder worker of the twentieth century, and the only astral mediator of secret influence in America. The greatest scientific palm reader, the most powerful dead trance medium, who lapses into suspended animation when readings are given. His soul leaves the body, as it were, and pervades the spheres, hence no guess work, no mistakes, but your life laid bare like a relief map. There is no problem in your life that Credo cannot reveal. This son of the occult tells you more of yourself, of your friends, or enemies, of your prospects for your future than any palmist or astrologer in the city. He exerts his God-given powers for beneficent purposes to all who call on him.

Credo is a great healer and the many miraculous cures performed by this noted Hindoo divine speak for themselves. Healing circles held every Tuesday and Friday forenoon.

Whether in trouble or felicity, call on Credo and learn something of the mysteries surrounding us on every side, learn of the infinite truth that cannot be grasped by material brain. He treats the poor and rich alike; a low fee to all. (See Sunday Want columns for Students in Occult Sciences.)

Remember the name and place, CREDO, suite 8, over Unique Theater, 629½ S. Broadway.

FOR FOUR DAYS ONLY.
Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday.

REGULAR FEE, $2, $3 AND $5.
ALL READINGS REDUCED THIS WEEK.

If you contemplate consulting a life reader, several things should be taken into consideration. ABILITY, the HONESTY of methods, the FAIRNESS of dealings, the HIGHER degree of work, the ACCURACY of each prediction, the COMMON-SENSE used with it, the INTEREST taken in each case, the RESPECT shown to each caller, the fact of SECRECY in consultation, the FEE charged for services.

These things, taken under consideration, will place a thinking public in a position to judge for themselves and not be misled, imposed upon or their time thrown away.

WONDERFUL—ASTONISHING—CONVINCING.

St. Elmo will tell your full name, age, occupation, your mother's maiden name and whom and when you will marry and what you called for, without asking you a question; will tell you the name of your sweetheart, or anything you want to know. He sends you away much wiser and happier than when you called.

IT IS NOT ONLY WHAT CAN BE SAID BY AN ABLE LIFE-READER, BUT WHAT CAN BE DONE, for besides the wonderful gift of second sight, Mr. St. Elmo possesses the secret knowledge of reconstructing unhappy domestic affairs, of making the home happy, of gaining the one you wish in marriage, of making the one you love admire and love you, of overcoming rivals and enemies, gives you the secret power of influencing others (without their knowledge,) into doing your every wish. WANTED—IF YOU EARN LESS THAN $25 PER WEEK

I can DOUBLE your salary by teaching you how to write catchy, intelligent advertising.

If you are ambitious, have common-school education and wish to qualify for ready positions at $25 a week and OVER, you should write for Free copies of my two new books—my elegant Prospectus and "Net Results."

One graduate fills $10,000 place, another $8000, and any number earn $2500. The advertising manager of the famous Beechnut Bacon, another graduate, was a drug clerk a year ago.

A $12 clerk in a New Jersey rubber company, less than a year ago, I placed in the advertising chair of a large land company in Alabama, after completing my course a few months ago. Last month he resigned to take charge of the largest department store in the State.

These are mere examples of possibilities awaiting Powell graduates, and the demand from advertisers for their services is THREE TIMES greater than in any previous year—a demand that exceeds the supply.

My System of Instruction by Mail is the only one in existence that has the hearty indorsement of the great experts and publishers, and I am anxious to send my Prospectus and "Net Results," together with the most remarkable fac-simile proof ever given in the history of correspondence instruction if you are interested.

Write me if you wish to double your earning power. GEORGE H. POWELL, 17 379 Metropolitan Annex, New York.

BUSINESS CHANCES—

$10 FOR $1; THE STOREHEAT MFG. CO. own the two wonderful inventions, the lunch box that stores up heat for weeks, and the freezer that makes ice cream without ice, and are selling 25,000 shares of stock at 25 cents for money to place order with large eastern factory, and begin putting them on the market at once; they are simple, practical and will sell in immense quantities at a reasonable price and big profit; over 50 business men, bankers, workingmen and others have already investigated, and bought stock, and only a few thousand shares left at 25 cents; Sales of only 75,000 lunch boxes and 75,000 ice cream freezers yearly will pay 75 cents on each share, or 300 per cent. yearly profit on present selling price, and there is not a practical business man in California who is familiar with the trade and the invention but will tell you we can sell twice that number within 60 days after they are placed on the market in a single large eastern city like Pittsburgh, Pa. $100 invested in Bell telephone has already paid over $200,000 in dividends; these inventions will be used by fifty people where one has a telephone. Stock will probably sell for at least $2.50 within 30 days after they are placed on the market; $10 buys 40 shares; $25 buys 100 shares; $250 buys 1000 shares. Installments if preferred.

BANK GUARANTEES ABSOLUTE SAFETY

Deposit the money to pay for stock in any bank or trust company of Los Angeles, with instructions to hold it until we deliver the stock certificate, and PROVE BEYOND DOUBT that the lunch box actually stores up heat in a latent state for weeks or months, that the freezer makes ice cream without ice, that they can be manufactured cheaply enough to sell at a reasonable price, and yet leave a big margin of profit; that the Storeheat Mfg. Co. is legally incorporated under the laws of Arizona; that the total capitalization is only 150,000 shares; that there are 100,000 shares in the treasury; that the stock is absolutely non-assessable; that the officers and directors are practical business men of unquestioned honesty and ability; that the U. S. patents covering both the lunch box and ice cream freezer have been assigned to the Storeheat Mfg. Co., and that said assignment is properly recorded in the U. S. Patent Office at Washington, D. C.

Instruct the bank to hold your money until we deliver the certificate, and prove beyond doubt every statement made in this advertisement or any of our printed matter. The above guarantee is good only to purchasers of 2000 shares for $500 cash, as we can not ask banks to bother with small amounts or installments. The best things on earth require some money to start, and that's the reason you can buy stock so cheaply now. Put your money to work and watch it make $10 for $1 in a few months. This is your last opportunity—orders for stock have already come in from twelve different States and even from Mexico, and we have received over 450 letters of inquiry from a single insertion of two four-line advertisements. All who delay will either have to pay more, or not be able to get the stock at all. Better mail or wire us your order at once.

MY MAGAZINE, INVESTING FOR PROFIT. Which I send free, is worth $10 a copy to any man who intends to invest any money, however small, who has money invested unprofitably, or who can save $5 or more per month, but who hasn't learned the art of investing for profit.
It demonstrates the real earning power of money, the knowledge financiers and bankers hide from the masses.
It shows how to invest small sums and how to make them grow to fortunes, the actual possibilities of intelligent investments.
It reveals the enormous profits bankers make and shows how one can make the same profits safely.
It explains how stupendous fortunes are made and why they are made, how $1000 grows to $22,000.
To introduce my magazine, write me now, mention this paper, and I'll send it six months free.

HOTEL, EUROPEAN PLAN.

A small, modern house with select trade, practically all outside rooms, some with private bath. Elevator and every convenience. The house is new, the furnishings are excellent, and every appointment is calculated to keep the trade it now enjoys. Every room is occupied by a nice class of prompt paying patrons and the house pays a net monthly profit of $300. Eastern interests of the proprietor are worth more to him than that, so he will consider a reasonable offer of either all cash or terms. If you have as much as $2500 and want this house, I'd be pleased to show it to you. The rest of the price the house will pay out. OWEN, 314-315 Citizens Bank Bldg.

Edward MacDermott buys and sells stocks anywhere on commission. The past week has been a very busy week in stocks. Edward MacDrmott for the first time in two years took a couple of days off and went to San Francisco, and I am glad I went, for little old Los Angeles looks good to me. San Francisco is still a city of ruins and dust and dirt, poor San Francisco! but the hearts of her people are in the right place, and I am glad I met the brokers up there. They are fine fellows, but they are worn out physically, for they have been and are, under a great strain; they do a tremendous business.

The regular call is in the morning and the informal call takes up all the afternoon; then they adjourn to the street and try to fill their unfinished orders. I would like the editors of the Los Angeles papers to go up there and see the tremendous volume of business and money coming to San Francisco from outside sources. Even now I believe that, with the assistance of the daily papers, the Southwest Miners' Exchange could get this business and also, many of the brokers would come here to live, as many of them told me. The attitude of the newspapers is against them. Take up the San Francisco papers and see every one helping mining, and the stock exchanges have their quotations in every paper. Items of mining news are given prominence. Our papers are real estate mad, and they cannot see anything but real estate and town lots.

Los Angeles must look to mining for her prosperity. She must offer hear heart and hand to the miner, for her riches must come from the mines that surround her. She is the logical and true mining center, and in spite of every obstacle, before long will reign as the mining queen of the Golden Southwest.

The Southwest Miners' Stock Exchange has private telegraph wires now installed, also both telephones. The rules are rigid. To buy, they require the purchaser to put up the cash or a certified check. Those who wish to sell must send their stock to Edward MacDermott, properly indorsed on the back. Remember, it is hard to buy less than Board Lots; that is, stock selling 5 to 10 cents Board Lots, are 500 to 1000 shares. Stock selling from 25 cents to $1 per share, 100 to 500 shares. Over $1 to $5 per share, 25 to 50 shares. Bear this in mind when ordering stock.

If you reside in Los Angeles, would like you to call on us at the Southwest Miners' Exchange, 114 South Broadway, where public calls are held daily.

Southwest Miners' Stock Exchange is the only mining stock exchange having a public call, and it has the largest mining stock business in the whole Southwest. The public is warned against buying from Curb-stone Brokers who have no standing on the exchange. You do so at your own risk. Stock purchased through the Southwest Miners' Stock Exchange you know to be good, but you cannot tell if you buy from outsiders.

Edward MacDermott can and will make you money, as he has thousands of others. Edward MacDermott has been before the investing public in Los Angeles nearly three years, and he has been tried successfully. Edward MacDermott has the largest stock brokerage business in Los Angeles. You know you are safe when you do business with him. He protects his customers.

Here are some specials I want o buy—

Searchlight Helena Mining Company. It is intended to organize the above named company on three claims at Searchlight, named "Helena" Nos. 1, 2 and 3. These claims lie adjacent to the Santa Barbara Searchlight Mining Company, of which Senator H. E. Carter is a director, and the stock of which is being sold at 25 cents per share; it also lies near the Wyoming Searchlight Mining Company; good strikes, not to say phenomenal ones, have been made on these properties. Assays as high as $42.75 have been obtained. It is believed that the "Quartette" ledges are continued into these properties. A limited amount of the stock of the company will be sold at $2 per thousand shares (the first allotment having been 300,000 shares oversubscribed,) and a bonus of 25,000 shares will be given to parties who serve as directors. Call 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and see maps. PACIFIC COAST MINES BUREAU, Inc., members of the South California Stock Exchange, duly chartered, 215 Delta Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal. Phone F7784. 17

MINING—

THE BULLFROG MINING DISTRICT HAS made good. For its age it is unquestionably the best gold camp ever opened up. I have been in Rhyolite continuously for two years and have improved the opportunities to secure and am the owner of well located and promising properties there. To persons who have money for investment in mining, am in position to offer strictly ground floor proposition. Have no desire to spend time with any but investors who mean business, but would like to get in touch with those who have funds they will put into mining in such a way that all the money provided will be used to pay a reasonable price for property and its development instead of using it for commissions and advertising worthless stock. If interested, telephone F6990, or call at 534 MASON BLDG. F. O. Frazier. 17

CORPORATIONS ORGANIZED.
Mining, industrial and business companies organized at reasonable cost. We pay all incorporating fees, conduct preliminary meetings and attend to all matters in connection with the organization.
MONEY SECURED FOR GOOD PROPOSITIONS.
If you intend to organize a company, write or call and we will gladly give you expert opinion as to the best methods to pursue.
OUR RECORD
Of over 1200 corporations organized speaks for itself.

Britain's Naval Strength.

Some official figures published the other day in the London Times by Sir William White indicate that at the present time Great Britain's sea power is more than equal to the combined navies not of any two but of any three other countries in the world. The figures cited by Sir William White cover the six years ending on March 31, 1906, and compare the tonnage of the first-class battleships built and completed for sea by the United Kingdom, Germany, France and the United States during that period. Great Britain constructed vessels aggregating 348,385 tons; Germany, 143,122 tons; the United States, 110,210 tons, and France, 44,285 tons. It is obvious that the aggregate tonnage built during the sexennial term by the three countries last named fell short of the tonnage created in the same time in the United Kingdom by 50,000 tons.—[New York Sun.

Birth of a Petrified Child.

A Suffolk (Va.) dispatch to the Chicago Tribune of January 29 says: "A remarkable surgical operation performed here yesterday resulted in the birth of a petrified child. A woman from Gates county, North Carolina, came here, who had been pronounced as suffering from internal tumor and had been similarly affected for more than three years. The child had turned to stone. Its weight was five and one-half pounds."

White Bear in Pennsylvania.

White deer are quite common in the West Branch Valley, but the latest albino freak in that section is a white bear. At least this is what the residents of Dougherty's Run district, Lycoming county, say, the aforesaid white bear having been seen twice within three weeks, those who have encountered it being Frank Weaver and a Miss Hetler, both residents of Dougherty's Run.—[Philadelphia Record.

BREATHING AND CONSUMPTION.

Correct Use of Our Lungs Would Eliminate Consumption and Pneumonia.

George W. Bear writes interestingly in the Milwauke Sentinel on the importance of correct breathing. He says:

"Thousands are seeking various ways to improve their health, but not one in a thousand strike at the foundation of their weakness by developing their lungs or power of respiration.

"Of the 800,000 diagnosed consumptives now in the country, it is estimated that 500,000 will ultimately succumb." So says one of our leading medical journals in a recent article about the coming congress of tuberculosis. How little we need this awful plague. And how little we would have of it had these people when as children been taught to breathe and live properly.

I have often wished that there might be found a man of influence in our school boards and the like possessing the knowledge of the mere facts:

First—That consumption kills more than the sword, pestilence or famine.

Second—That no child was ever born into this world suffering from tuberculosis.

Third—That compulsory deep breathing in our schools today, combined with healthful living, would wipe consumption and pneumonia off the face of the earth in two generations.

Is it not an astonishing thing that no popular educator has yet grasped the simple, ordinary, everyday truth that consumption is preventable? The daily practice of diphragmatic breathing acquired in childhood would make every human being, whatever his tendencies or ancestry, proof against the inroads of the bacillus of tuberculosis.

Are we to contniue this expenditure of money for the building of sanitariums for consumptives, there to let these poor, suffering creatures go to die? Or shall we arouse ourselves to the necessity of a well-directed action against the spread of this insidious disease?

The one, and only, course now left for us to pursue is to begin by teaching the children the wonderful function this "breath-mansion" of ours has to perform during life and the results they must reap if they fail to observe the rules thereof. Although the system of teaching in our schools today is one of the best, still a short period spent in teaching the children to breathe properly would not come amiss. Is it not of great importance that a child know how to use its lungs properly?

In how many of our schools today is a word spoken of deep breathing, the value of fresh air and sunshine? The majority of children breathe like canary birds. I have seen boys who have inherited hollow chests and consumptive tendencies become transformed in two years' time by being taught to breathe properly: I have seen pallid, anaemic girls grow rosy and robust through being taught the same exercises.

The lungs are composed of innumerable cells, and the majority of children (this can also be applied to the older people) use only the upper rooms of this "breath-mansion." The lower ones are closed to the air, and are the receptacles for dust and disease germs throughout life.

One of the best things our board of directors can do is to adopt a practical and beneficial system of physical training for the public schools.

Children should be taught lung sweeping.

Proper breathing is an aid to the mental and spiritual faculties as well as to the physical body. Let it become an important art of the educational system of our land

A noted New York sculptor blames the automobile for a falling off in his business, declaring the autoist has neither time nor money for art.

Under the patronage of King Alfonso, himself an ardent motorist, a chair of automobiling is to be instituted at the School of Arts and Crafts in Madrid. Not only the art of driving, but the mechanics of the auto will be taught.

SERIOUS AND HUMOROUS PHASES OF THE DECLINE OF THE COCKTAIL.

By Harold Bolce.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE

THE agitation again of the army canteen may result in the restoration of that institution. Its abolition was prompted by the theory that the elimination of beer and light wines from the barracks, where these refreshments were sold under Federal authority and restraint, would banish from the throat of the soldier all thirst for the distilled trouble which he now accumulates beyond military boundaries and control.

That was a strange fallacy. The trouble was that when the canteen went out the soldier began to do so, too.

I used to see these young men fare forth across the Aqueduct bridge, at Georgetown, after the canteen closed its doors at Fort Meyer, and start down-town toward the Red Light district of the National Capital. Meanwhile the W.C.T.U. was rejoicing in the dream that it had removed temptation from the rank and file. A dispatch from Washington last week announced that the President has no patience with "what he regards as the misguided activity in opposition to the canteen, and does not hesitate to say so." It is interesting, too, that a Woman's Army Canteen Club, headed by Dr. Anita Newcomb McGee, an army surgeon, is busily at work trying to undo what the temperance ladies accomplished.

I do not believe that the majority of the Congressmen who killed the canteen voted according to their convictions. What they wanted to get rid of was not the canteen, but the delegations of women Prohibitionists then besieging the committee rooms. This legislation was beneficial to the class of Congressmen whose reputation for sobriety was on the wane. It enabled them by one vote to transfer themselves to the ranks of the elect. The whole action of Congress on this question illustrated that women without the suffrage can exert a great influence upon legislation. In some things the petticoat is more potent in America than the Star-Spangled Banner.

One of the great virtues of the canteen system was that the official steward in charge of the company's club was authorized to decide when the consumer had enough. Of that, the celebrant himself, civilian or soldier, seldom is a competent judge. I heard of an old farmer, who was asked what he thought of drink.

"There are only two drinks that are dangerous," said he, "the first and the fiftieth." The army canteen cut out at least the "fiftieth." That symbolic number is reached by some drinkers when they have absorbed the third or fourth glass, and as the whole question of drink depends upon the drinker's storage capacity the canteen management, in deciding when a soldier had reached a decent limit, served a great purpose.

The standards of what constitutes intemperance differ greatly in different sections. There are signs posted conspicuously in some of the offices of the War Department stating that men in that service must not use enough liquor to incapacitate them for work. In some of the European clubs in the Orient, a member is not considered a thoroughbred unless he gets into a condition in which he must crawl or be carried to his 'rickshaw. An old English quatrain reads:

"Not drunk is he who from the floor
Can still arise and drink some more;
But drunk is he who prostrate lies,
Without the power to drink or rise."

It is remarkable how some natures can absorb drink. In a café I saw an ordinary-sized German drinking beer out of a glass about the size and shape of a fish globe. I commented upon this to a friend, and as we saw him empty four of these enormous vessels, I said:

"The physiologists say that the stomach holds a very small measure of anything. That man has gotten away with more than a gallon. Surely it has not gone to his stomach."

"When last seen," was the reply, "it was going in that direction."

I have seen small men drink enough beer in an evening to put out a conflagration, and yet not show any effects from their indulgence. On the other hand, a sturdy farmer will sometimes take a couple of glasses and become so tempestuous that the constable or police officer has to be called in. Nor is this lack of capacity always to be explained on the ground that liquor has a greater effect upon a novice than upon a hardened sinner. Socrates was a temperate man, but upon one occasion went out to celebrate with his young disciples and succeeded in drinking them all under the table.

I knew a university professor in the West who, while he indulged in wine when he so desired, prided himself on his ability to drink without betraying it. But one night he went to a reunion of the local members of his college alumni. When the banquet was over the street cars had stopped running, and the professor started to walk to his home, which was near the suburbs. He swears that he was perfectly sober, but he did not reach home until long after sunrise. Instead, he ran into a circular racetrack at the edge of the city, and, imagining he was getting somewhere, toiled around that course all night.

There is an idea in some parts of America that if a man can remember in the morning what he drank the night before there was something missing in his enjoyment. A great temperance reform might be ushered in if some one could compile an account of the comical things men do when they are drunk and tell them all the embarrassing details when they sobered up. I read of a business man of New York who used to drink to excess, and at restaurants and bars talk recklessly and foolishly about his business and domestic affairs. A friendly associate awaited a favorable opportunity and secreted a stenographer behind a screen in a cafe where the drunken merchant was giving an alcoholic talk. Every word was taken down, and next day, when the business man, thoroughly sober, arrived at his office, there on his desk was a long typewritten transcription of his drunken monologue of the evening before. As he read the stuff, inane in places, and most of it lacking all reticence about personal affairs, he sent for his associate, and thereupon made a pledge that he would never again drink anything more dangerous than Croton water.

Last week, in New York, two men of respectable appearance and connections, began to celebrate, and in a freakish mood rang the bell of a fashionable house near Central Park, and, pushing past the maid, proceeded to dance festively in the drawing-room, to the great terror of the members of the household. The well-dressed intruders kept up their entertainment until the police arrived.

We are the same race that reeled around the planet in antiquity. Anytus, the son of Anthemion, gave a great dinner, and among others invited Alcibiades. It was during that general's vivid youth. He declined the invitation, but proceeded to make merry on his own account, and finally with his joyous companions went to the home of Anytus, and, standing at the door capital out of the proposed subway to run from Hill and Fourth streets to the western city limits. The railroad people have invested immense sums of money along this subway line. H. E. Huntington owns a big slice of lots along the ridge of hills just north of Ocean View avenue, and all these are supposed to promise great developments in that region for the immediate future. A fair basis for a compromise between the school-board and the railroad interest as to the Olive-street school seems in sight at the time of writing this article. Probably before it is published the agreement will have been reached, and the last obstacle put out of the way of this subway. If the difficulties in the way of the North Hill-street and Sunset boulevard tunnel could be as readily removed, it would have a very stimulating effect upon the property all along that section of the city, particularly out Sunset boulevard. These obstacles at the present time seem insuperable. Of course, in all these new developments, the person who has the courage to get in first reaps the greatest benefit. He also runs the greatest risk, for if there is any hindrance to the carrying out of the schemes, if the slang will be permitted, he gets left.

FOR NEW MASONIC TEMPLE.

Illustrated on this page is a picture of the new Masonic Temple which Sunset Lodge No. 352, F. and A.M., contemplate building on southeast corner of Pico and Fedora streets, in the pleasant Pico Heights district of Los Angeles. At present the lodge occupies quarters on the corner of Pico and El Molino streets, one block east of the site for the new building. The new lot is 65x140 feet. The building will cover the entire plot of land.

Train and Williams are the architects. It is a three-story-and-basement brick affair of the type known as class B. The first floor will consist of three large and well-lighted storerooms. Plate-glass windows, modern entrances and a large basement are advantages held out to the prospective lessees. The second floor may be finished either as a loft for the use of the stores below, or partly as a loft and partly as offices, or be finished entirely as a hall. On the third floor will be located the lodgerooms, consisting of a Masonic temple for Sunset Lodge, a room 40x75 feet. Adjoining will be a social and dancing hall, 22x77 feet, with kitchen, pantry and rear stair entrance to Fedora street. Off the banquet hall is a parlor, 20x35 feet, in which a large fireplace will be built. Ladies' dressing-room and toilets are here provided. There is also a reception hall, 18x20 feet, opening from the main hall, which will have a gentlemen's toilet, etc. A Tyler's room, 8x24 feet, a preparation room, 15x18 feet, and two property rooms, each 8x9 feet, occupy the remaining floor space. Off the Tyler's room are stairs leading to a balcony floor, which contains a gallery in which 100 people can be accommodated. This floor also may be used as an organ and stereopticon loft. There are also a large hall, library and sitting room on this floor.

Exterior finish will consist of pressed brick, with ornamentation consisting of Masonic emblems. The general design of the building clings to the French Renaissance style of architecture, which is especially adapted to Masonic buildings, because of its semi-classic appearance. The main entrance of the building will be on Pico street, on the east end of the building and will be typical in design as a Masonic temple. The stairs will be eight feet wide. The approximate cost of the structure will be $45,000.

UNITED SYNDICATES CO. LTD.

NEW LONG BEACH APARTMENT HOUSE.

FUTURE FOR SIXTEENTH STREET

To Be Widened to Fifty-five Feet—Ten Foot Sidewalks—Paved With Asphaltum.

Now that the widening of Sixteenth street is assured, the City Council having given the order for the work to be done as speedily as possible, this street, which is one of the great cross-town thoroughfares, is destined to become one of the principal streets of the city. The Sixteenth Street Improvement Association is very active in pushing the work to completion. The street will be paved and included in the conduit district requiring the telephone and lighting wires to be put underground, thus removing wires and poles from the street, excepting the trolley wires, which will be supported by ornamental iron supports. The city will also be requested to order all connections with water and gas mains to be made before the paving is done.

The street will be widened fifteen feet in the roadway, making it a fifty-five foot street between the curbs. A cement sidewalk ten feet wide, to be cemented solid to the curb, is specified.

The section of the street which is to be widened immediately extends from Figueroa to Pacific avenue. The widening and straightening of the street from Main to Figueroa has been ordered by the Board of Public Works and will be done immediately following the widening of the section previously mentioned. West of Hoover street the work of widening is also in progress. The street railway private right-of-way extending through Rosedale Cemetery will be condemned and made a public street.

When it is remembered that Sixteenth street has better car service than any other street within that radius of the business center, these improvements completed, will make this street equal to, or better than Pico as a business street and thoroughfare.

All poles are to be removed from the street within the prescribed district which are supporting wires and all wires are to be laid underground, excepting wires which supply power to operate the street cars, which are to be supported by ornamental iron supports. All persons owning property on Sixteenth street, within this district, will be required to connect with the main gas and water pipe, to the property line to avoid tearing up the street after it is paved, and also to connect with main sewer pipe on the street and lay laterals to their property lines prior to the paving of the street.

Volmer has the plans completed for an eight room residence to be built on an acre lot on Mayflower avenue between Lemon and Lime, to cost $4000. B. R. Davisson sold two lots on East Lemon avenue to William J. Whittner, $1400. F. H. Chadwick purchased of Thomas Wardall five acres east of the city, unimproved, consideration $1758. Price sold a lot on Grand avenue to Mrs. Edwards, of Los Angeles, consideration $1200. Ed Hotchkiss sold to Mrs. Edwards of Los Angeles lot on corner of Orange and California, consideration $850. F. J. Jerdon of Los Angeles sold to Mr. Pierson, a Charlotte avenue residence lot for $600. R. B. Price sold to Mrs. Chase of Los Angeles, four residence lots for $2400.

FOR TWELVE-STORY BLOCK.

Consolidated Realty Company to Erect Half-Million-Dollar Building at Sixth and Hill.

The directors of the Consolidated Realty Company decided to build a twelve-story office block on the southwest corner of Sixth and Hill streets, at a cost of about $500,000. The following-named were appointed members of the Building Committee: John J. Byrne, A. W. Rhodes, W. E. Demming and D. A. Hamburger. Both reinforced concrete and steel construction will be considered before a design is adopted.

TO BUILD CHEMICAL PLANT.

Work soon will begin on the erection of a large and well equipped chemical plant for the Justinian-Caire Company of San Francisco, one of the best known and oldest established firms in the business of supplying miners' chemicals on the Pacific Coast. More than a year ago the company, realizing the coming future of Los Angeles as a distributing point for the Southwest, bought a lot 155x250 feet on the corner of Avenue 23 and the Santa Fé right of way, in East Los Angeles. The deal was made through the agency of A. B. Chittenden & Co.

Surveys and measurements are now being made, with the purpose in view of laying the foundations for the buildings, and of building a spur tract from the Santa Fé Railroad into the property. The company will erect a one-story brick warehouse for storing chemicals and probably several one or two-story brick structures for manufacturing the materials.

The company now are realizing the great value of Los Angeles as a distributing point. As they are severely crippled through loss by fire and earthquake in San Francisco, Los Angeles may soon become their main manufactory. Probably $35,000 will be expended in making the improvements.

A local syndicate has sold to S. G. Marshutz, through the agency of the C. J. Heyler Company, the northeast corner of Hoover and Pico streets, 165 feet on Pico by 250 feet on Hoover; consideration $30,000. The purchaser intends to improve the property.

C. F. Kellogg and F. R. Kellogg have sold to S. G. Marshutz, through the same agency, the northwest corner of Washington and Grover streets, 109 feet on Washington by 146 feet on Grover street, improved with two houses of nominal value; price $13,500.

REDUCED FOR THIS WEEK.

Far cheaper than the same houses can be built on the same lots today. If you are hunting a home, don't neglect asking to see our list.

Eight-room modern residence on Harvard boulevard near Sixteenth street car line. Frontage of fifty feet with flowers, lawn and fruit. Very fine neighborhood. This would be first-class at $6500, but for this week we are able to give good terms on the price of $5000.

An "A No. 1" buy is the nine-room residence on West Seventeenth street near Magnolia. Beautiful locality, fifty-foot lot fully improved. Corner lot, terraced lawn, fruit and shade trees. House sets five feet above the sidewalk; stone retaining wall and very neat. A cozy bungalow of six fine large rooms (not cubby-holes,) closets, large fireplace, oak floors, porches, plumbed for gas, fixtures in and all strictly modern. On West Twenty-eighth street with service of either the West Jefferson street or West Adams street car lines. $2000 down will get this home. Balance to suit.

FOR SALE—
THE BEGINNING OF THE END.

After many weather interruptions and unavoidable delays we are now hopeful of seeing our plans for beautiful Corinth Heights realized.

Men are busy at work grading the streets. A great change is taking place. The pretty rolling country surface is rapidly giving way to a dignified city appearance. Additional trees are to be planted. Water is to be brought to each lot. Cement curbing, cement walks finish the broad well graded streets which are to be brilliantly lighted.

Do you realize the value of owning a quarter-acre lot? Room enough to enjoy the seclusion and privacy of your home undisturbed by the noises of your neighbors.

Quarter-acre lots for $300. These terms, $10 down and $10 a month, should interest every intelligent person.

Go out and see the ATTRACTIVE ELEVATION, the splendid situation. On two of the best car lines, the Gardena and Redondo and the San Pedro stop at Corinth Heights station. An enjoyable ride of 30 minutes. Free tickets for the asking.

An agent at Corinth Heights station will explain the plans that will make these lots MONEY MAKERS to those who buy now.

Do you realize it takes only $10 an owner of one of these quarter-acre lots?

It will be your GAIN to see us this week.

727-729 BANNING ST.—$18,000.

—100x128.6.

Improved with two cottages renting for $36, sufficient to carry the property.

Banning street is one block north of East First street, and Santa Fe spur is on it. If this property is improved with warehouses I will take a long lease and pay 7 per cent. net.

729-730 TURNER ST.—$21,000.

—150x128.6.—

Two blocks north of East First street and 100 feet west of Center street, where the S.P. has applied for spur track. Old property improvements carry the property. Money will be made in this class of property because of the scarcity of good warehouse sites.

CENTRAL AVE. NEAR 7TH—$25,000, running through to Merchant st., 40x220. Money is being made on Central ave. and this property will sell for $500 per foot in less than 12 months. Price Central Ave. frontage and then come to me for the cheapest thing on the street. Improvements will carry it.

When you want anything in warehouse or business property come to me. The above are only a few, but hey are winners and will make money for the buyer.

FOR SIXTEENTH ST. PROPERTY
C. C. C. TATUM.

Do you know that 16th st. is to be widened and paved from Main st., west to Pacific st., and the paving and widening from Figueroa st. west is to be done at once; remember the big advances that were made on Pico and Washington sts. when the paving was completed, and 16th st. will have just as wide a roadway as either one of these streets.

16th st. west of Figueroa has 3 car lines, while Pico and Washington have one each, making more car lines for 16th st. than ANY street in the city except the four principal retail streets; bear in mind that car lines create traffic.

Property can be bought today on 16th st. for ½ to 2-3 cheaper than on either Pico or Washington, and all things to be considered there is more money to be made on 16th st. in the next 12 months than on any street I know of. If you wish to invest your money where you know it will be safe and sure of a good advance don't fail to purchase 16th st. property, but first

Here is a corner that is absolutely the cheapest buy on the street; this is the largest vacant corner between Figueroa and Union ave. It has a frontage of 195 feet on 16th st., by 128 ft. to alley; good terms can be arranged; price $30,000.

FOR SALE—
Dear Friends (we expect to stand by the proper understanding of that word "FRIEND.")
We also respectfully URGE you to read this through and then cut it out and make us a call. We will keep our promises and show you property that will pay you to BUY, because we can sell it for you, then you will be our friend, if not before.

You will make no mistake if you invest in Central Ave. property, but before you invest, see a reliable Real Estate firm who have been located right in the midst of the best-paying and best-selling property on the avenue, and who know more about the actual transfers of Central Ave. property than any one else. We collect the rents at 1816, 1818, 1820, 1822, 1824, 1826, 2525, 2527, 2529, 2401, 2602, 2606, 2607, 2609, 2611, 2613, 2615, 2617, 2619, 2621, 2623, 2625, 2627, 2629, 2606, 2608, 2528, besides many offices, Halls and Flats overhead on Central Ave. (we have, all told, over 100 rental collections) the reason we mention the above, is that it gives us an insight into values of property not otherwise obtainable. (By the way, if you happen to be looking for a home, be sure and see us. We have a beautiful residence, cheap; owner lives in New York State, will never retu—house is empty,) but we started on Central Ave property, and wish to quote a few SNAP BARGAINS.

AN EXCLUSIVE OPTION.
100x140, on Central ave., west side, between 16th and Washington; Price $120 per front foot, or we will sell half of the above.
AT HALF PRICE, and accept HALF CASH, or we will guarantee to a buyer, on Monday, Feb. 18th, a lot 50x140, adjoining the above at $135 per front foot.
It MUST BE MONDAY, IT will be WITHDRAWN Monday eve. Owner must have money and will seek it without selling at a SACRIFICE.

ANOTHER CENTRAL AVE. BARGAIN.
Is a lot 50x140, west side north of 16th st. Price $150 per front foot.
When you realize that improved property is selling as high as $400 per front foot, you will buy to improve and get the large revenues that come from rents on this favored Avenue.

WHAT IS THE MATTER with 2311 and 2318 Central Ave.? Lot 50x125 to alley, and two modern cottages for $5600; we will sell one or both at the above rate and make terms. THIS CANNOT BE BEAT for residence property ON CENTRAL AVE.

NOT ONE PARTICLE LESS IN VALUE is the Lot ... Adams St., 78x100 plus.
IT IS IN A GOOD BUSINESS CENTER
It ought to sell for $200 per foot. Lots on other streets with less desirable features selling for more than that.
We are authorized to offer this fine property at $150 per front foot for a limited time only.

HERE IS THE CREAM OF ALL.
40x100 plus leased to the CITY. $500 has been cut from the price, not because the owner has to sell, but he has an opportunity to use money in a business engagement with other parties, and this is a bona-fide reduction from $8000 to $7500, and the possibility of easy terms, to show how disinterested we are. We can prove that out of that price there is no shading or secret equities for commissions, and we ask that you call, and we will introduce you at once to the owner. OUR ADVICE TO YOU is, don't lose this chance to get CENTRAL AVE. BUSINESS PROPERTY.

Just one more Bargain on Central.
162½x140 foot Corner, $80 per front foot.
The above list for price and location is not excelled in Los Angeles City.
Subscribed and sworn to before the head of the Firm of C. E. GILHOUSEN & CO., 2800 Central Ave. 17

STRONG CONVINCING VALUES IN BUSINESS PROPERTY.
INVESTIGATE PROMPTLY!

A thorough investigation of any of the following elegant business sites will prove to your satisfaction that they are all and more than we claim for them. They are sure-money makers and you could place your money to no better advantage than in one of these properties.

SPLENDID W. NINTH-ST. PROPERTY.
WELL LOCATED.
ONLY $300 PER FRONT FOOT.

This lot is 72x157 feet, located at corner of Ninth and Figueroa sts. W. Ninth st. is being paved and widened and values are bounding upward. We feel positive in making the statement that this property will sell for $500 per front foot when the improvements are installed. Such handsome profits are seldom made in so short a time—so do not fail to look into this alluring proposition.

W. PICO-ST. BARGAIN.
WELL IMPROVED.
ONLY $20,000.

Pico st. is one of the most rapidly developing business cross streets in the city. The contract for the work of paving has been signed and actual work will soon commence. Size of lot 77x135 feet to alley—improved with a substantial office building and two good houses. Surrounded on all sides by well-rented stores and other business property. This site will actually bring $30,000 after the improvements are a reality. Do not neglect your own best interests by failing to investigate this offering.

SNAP IN APARTMENT SITE.
VERY CLOSE IN.
ONLY $45,000.

This is the finest close-in apartment or hotel site in the city. Lot has frontage on three prominent streets—only one block from 7th and Figueroa—elevated ground. Nominal improvements on lot now rent for $110 monthly. If improved with a high-class apartment building this property will show a gross income of 15 per cent. Look into this—you will find our claims backed up by actual facts. A splendid chance!

FOR SALE—
MAIN STREET.
Is the main north and south business artery of the city, stretching from the eastern limits of the city to the sea, and, at its junction with 10th street, comprises Spring, Broadway and Main streets, and when the plan now underway for widening Main stret to 100 feet is accomplished, which probably will be in the near future, it will also be the main boulevard leading to the beach resorts.
This will increase the ratio of even the present rapid settlement on either side of this great business thoroughfare. It follows therefore, that business corners on Main street, which now pays 5 per cent. net is a good investment.
We offer the southwest corner of Main and 30th on this earning basis, with only nominal improvements.

FOR SALE—
LAND PRODUCES $800 TO $1000 PER ACRE ANNUALLY.
ROGUE RIVER VALLEY, OR.

Our climate combines all the best features of California and Oregon and possesses none of the objectionable features of either, here we have no excessive rains; the rainfall averaging twenty inches, with days and weeks of bright, clear, sunny days during the winter; no excessive cold, the temperature seldom falling to the freezing point; during this terrible cold wave from which the entire country is still struggling to extricate itself, we did not even have a frost here; no excessive hot weather, while in summer blankets are a necessity, the nights always being cool.

OUR APPLE AND PEAR INDUSTRY

Is our greatest attraction; here we have orchards which produce per acre $800 to $1000 annually. Our pears bring the highest prices in the world in the markets of New York and London. Our Newtown apples also bring higher prices than those of any other section of the world. Our Spitzenberg apples are unsurpassed for quality, color and size. This industry is still in its infancy here, we have thousands of acres of undeveloped lands irrigated, and upland, at lower prices than ordinary alfalfa lands are selling for in California. Here we get four crops of alfalfa without irrigation.

Three new railroads are to be built immediately, one to our copper mines, one to our coal mines, and one to our timber. Our lands will produce anything that grows out doors, corn, grain, vegetables, alfalfa, fruits of all kinds and berries of all varieties from April till November.

Our copper mines are developing such a volume of ore that the entire mining world is now turning its eyes this way.

Medford is a beautiful little city of 4000 inhabitants, possessing all modern conveniences and with the hosts of homeseekers now settling here, promises to have a population of 10,000 in the course of a couple of years. We have splendid schools, electricity, new water system now going in, fine business houses, hotels that any large city might feel proud of, and a delightfully picturesque environment.

We can offer more undeveloped opportunities for money making than any other section of the United States, and that with natural attractions unsurpassed anywhere.

Immediate Profit on Solid Investment on Present Established Values.

HERE IS ABSOLUTELY
The greatest bona fide bargain ever offered.

IT CHALLENGES ANY COMPARISON.

An investment that close investigation will convince the shrewdest buyer and expert on real estate values, is unequaled.

READ CAREFULLY.

This is an "ad.," it's true, but there is not a statement contained herein that cannot be verified.

DON'T TAKE SNAP JUDGMENT.
I have simply GOT to SELL AT ONCE.

Situated on the north side of Prospect ave., in beautiful Hollywood—Los Angeles' famous suburb, I have a double corner occupying an entire block frontage, 198x198 feet in depth, and 340 feet in wide, on the rear line, all in lemons, which I will sell for a trifle more than
ONE-THIRD ITS VALUE.

ONE-THIRD ITS VALUE.

Comparison—Adjoining my property is a similar amount, and which is not corner property, the price of which is Almost three times the price I am asking.

On the other side the PRICES are DOUBLE AND TRIPLE.

I also have a manificent hill villa site, one of the finest available pieces of residence property in beautiful Hollywood.

It commands one of the grandest panoramic views of Hollywood, Los Angeles, valley and ocean conceivable.

The above two pieces will have to be sold together.

When I state that prices for choice villa sites, as desirable as the one I am offering, are three and four times more, I fully realize that the statement will be ridiculed as an exaggeration, but an investigation of the facts, together with the reasons which force me to sell and which self interest compels me to refrain from making public, will disabuse that thought.

If you are looking for the greatest bargain in a gilt-edge investment.

If you desire one of the most magnificent pieces of residence property in the most favored and refined residence sections in all of Southern California, you cannot afford to let this opportunity slip.

IT IS A CASE OF MUST AND IMMEDIATE.

FOR SALE—

FOR THAT HOME OF YOURS.

$1800—One block from car line on street being improved. This is a pleasant house and the price is right.

$2300—New, 5-room bungalow, on a lot set to orange trees and shrubbery. All modern conveniences, instantaneous heater; fine location.

$3500—New, 6-room house with all modern improvements on beautiful Curtis avenue in an orange grove and near car line. This is a fine home.

BARGAINS IN LOTS.

Nowhere in the county can values be secured in lots, on streets completely improved, such as we can give you in Alhambra.

On Curtis ave., at $800 and $900, we have home sites. These are in the Valencia Terrace Subdivision and all lots carry building restrictions. The development of the tract by building fine homes has been very marked and as these lots are all within 500 feet of the car line, set to orange trees, the price is a bargain.

On Marguerita ave., from 500 to 800 feet of the car line, we can sell you a choice lot with all street work finished, for from $650 to $700. These are going very rapidly, because they are very attractive to buyers.

When we say street improvements we mean 5-foot sidewalks, heavy curb and 3-foot gutter, with thoroughly graded and, in most cases, oiled streets. All work done under the supervision of the city inspector and thoroughly high-class. This makes it impossible for the ordinary cheap subdivision work to be put out in Alhambra, which is a good thing for the city and the purchaser.

On S. Fourth st., near the High School and car line, we have a special bargain at $600, 50x150 lot; beautiful view of the mountains from this lot. It will not remain open for purchase long.

A little further south on Fourth street, lots at $450 to $550 which also have a fine view of the mountains and are well located near the High School.

Come out today or this week and let us show you the beauties of Alhambra.

FOR SALE—
Lovely home, as well as large income producing orange grove; ideal location near the foothills, in famous La Verne district; just read and consider carefully what we are now going to offer you for your money; remember too, that the last three orange groves we recently advertised in this paper as good buys, one at $30,000, another at $28,000, and still another at $20,000, we immediately sold; the one we now have to offer we are sure of selling; we have no money to throw away advertising fake orange groves; we also pride ourselves in being competent to place values on this class of property; have been in the harness for over 23 years, growing oranges in Los Angeles county, and can further say we like the business for the pleasure and profits we find in it.
The property we now wish investigated consists of the following.

50 ACRES.

10 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 18 years old.
4 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 10 years old.
2 acres Washington navel oranges, trees 7 years old.
7 acres Washington navel oranges trees 2 and 3 years old.

Making a total of 23 acres in Washington navel oranges; trees now in prime condition, having at all times had best of care; the returns from these trees for the past five years, which includes the low prices received three years ago, which was the lowest priced year out of 12 or 14 years, even then these trees have added to the owner's bank account for the five years $22,500, or $4500 per year; just glance over the age of these trees and satisfy yourself with us that the output from this grove will about double for the next five years; crop now on is estimated at from $5000 to $6000, and goes with place. Balance of land consists of 1½ acres eucalyptus trees, trees 80 feet high; wood to burn; ½ acre in assorted fruit trees for family fruit; 26 acres vacant land, most of which is A-1 orange or lemon land; and with water, of which there is ample, is worth from $300 to $400 per acre.

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS.

Modern 7 room cottage with nice yard and flowers, large barn for hay, stock and implements; one well and pumping plant, which furnishes 30 inches of water; one-fourth interest in another water plant which affords 22 inches water, reservoir for storing water, thoroughly equipped with cement pipe lines and turnouts; water under pressure for domestic use. Reasons for selling we can explain. Price $33,500; easy terms. Agents.

MANHATTAN.

FOR SALE—
MANHATTAN BEACH.
Manhattan Beach has made great progress in the last two years. The business of the general store doubled in 1905 and doubled again in 1906. That means something. The three miles of electric street lights installed a few months ago are giving great satisfaction. The handsome Congregational Church building has just been completed at a cost of $2500. Two new houses are now being erected and more will soon follow.
There is more inquiry for property right now than there was in March or April of last year, and as a gentleman said this week after buying a fine corner on which he will at once build a $2500 house, "I had no idea that such a fine lot could be bought at that price."
Investigate for yourself, and DO IT NOW.

Hello! Hello! 'Tis the sign-writer, who has returned to Dear Old Los Angeles, after a few weeks' absence rusticating and resting in the mountains of Nevada, where millionaires grow on the sage brush. Did you miss me? I had a great and glorious time while gone, but it is good to be back again; back talking to you, my dear friends, about the "wizard," the best trader in the United States; that man who does things, and whose time for doing them is the NOW.

There is a man we all know well,
Whose habit 'tis to trade and sell;
His life he gives to making folks glad,
So why, oh why, will you be sad?

"Wizard" is this man's name,
And "wizard" is he by deed and fame;
Though far away in lands I've been,
There is not his equal in making tin.

Each day he cons his lesson o'er,
Increasing your money from two to four;
On trades he dotes; his business that is,
So get in line to see the "Wiz."

Do it now, bring up your swap,
Whether a ranch or a little red top.
He gives you much, when you have less;
He's the "wizard," best trader in all the U. S.

Get in line—come in and see him. Read carefully his bulletin which follows; place a pin where it interests you, then come in, or write, sending in your trading list. Just say, "Dear Wizard: Do it Now." Then step up to the cashier's desk and get your tin.

FOR EXCHANGE—ONE OF THE FINEST dairy ranches in Southern California, comprising 3000 acres partly bottom land, the finest in the State, with about 250 inches of free running water for irrigation; about 1000 inches can be developed by wells; the water right alone is worth the price asked for the property; the hill land connected with the property cannot be surpassed for pasturing and grazing; buildings are all complete and while the property is only partly developed, it produces an income of about $35,000 a year, which can be increased to double the amount with an expenditure of from $10,000 to $15,000; the location is also first-class for walnuts and fruits, the property is located only about thirty miles from the city of Los Angeles, southeasterly, making it most desirable for marketing your products from the same. The owner cannot give the property sufficient attention to handle it properly, hence he is willing to exchange for part city property; prefer Los Angeles, but would take part eastern; if you offer eastern property it must be clear of encumbrance; if Los Angeles city property he might assume or pay cash difference.
Price $250,000.

FOR EXCHANGE—ONE OF THE FINEST dairy ranches in Southern California, comprising 3000 acres partly bottom land, the finest in the State, with about 250 inches of free running water for irrigation; about 1000 inches can be developed by wells; the water right alone is worth the price asked for the property; the hill land connected with the property cannot be surpassed for pasturing and grazing; buildings are all complete and while the property is only partly developed, it produces an income of about $25,000 a year, with an expenditure of from $10,000 to $15,000; the location is also first class for walnuts and fruits, the property is located only about thirty miles from the city of Los Angeles, southeasterly, making it most desirable for marketing your products from the same. The owner cannot give the property sufficient attention to handle it properly, hence he is willing to exchange for part city property; prefer Los Angeles, but would take part eastern; if you offer eastern property it must be clear of incumbrance; if Los Angeles city property he might assume or pay cash difference.
Price $250,000.
This property will stand closest investigation, and yours must be of same character.

a race for capital too late. If so, the prosperity of the country will force the railroads to sit down quietly, cancel their arrangements for improvements, and wait until the financial clouds roll by.

ADMINISTRATION HELPLESS.

There is apparently nothing the administration can do to better the situation. Chairman Knapp, acting under the personal direction of President Roosevelt, has exerted himself to break the car shortage in the Northwest, at least to the extent of securing proper distribution of coal to settlers in that section.

This car shortage, however, will continue, railroad men say, and will surely grow worse, whether there are blizzards or not. The shortage of coal in winter will be followed by a shortage of ice in summer, and present prospects are that it will be next to impossible to move next fall's crop of wheat to the mills or to move flour from the mills to the seaboard with anything like satisfactory promptness. The southern railroads are in worse shape than those of the north.

TO REASSURE FOREIGNERS.

President Roosevelt's intended letter to the Interstate Commerce Commission will have the effect it is intended for—that is, to reassure people abroad as to the stability of investments in railroads. The difficulty is, however that the high money rate is the result not so much of distrust as of the competition of the railroads themselves for necessary new capital. They must adjust this among themselves in some way, because the demands upon the money centers of the world have become greater than those centers can supply.

Apparently the prosperity in the United States has caused a condition where there is a legitimate field for investment many times in excess of the money which can be obtained for investment. This is not a speculative movement, according to best reports here, but is a new and unexpected pinch as the direct result of the redundant prosperity of the country.

HARDER TIMES WOULD BE HELP.

It is a funny condition, but it is unquestionably true that the railroads would have a better chance if the country were less prosperous for a little while. With smaller crops and a lessened output of manufactured articles the demand for increased railroad facilities would not be so threatening, railroads would not be in such a hurry to make improvements, they would not be clamoring for money at the same time, interest rates would go down and new railroad securities within reasonable limits could be readily marketed.

At the present time, however, the railroads find themselves in a condition where they cannot increase their profits except by the use of more capital, and they cannot get that capital on a basis which would be profitable to them. They must, therefore, wait for an easier money market, which, of course, will come when the railroads stop bidding against each other for cash.

SHAW TO KEEP HANDS OFF.

There is not as yet any necessity for interference by the Secretary of the Treasury with the money market. There is a lot of money on deposit with banks which is nominally subject to recall about this time. It is likely the Secretary may not ask for it on account of prevailing conditions. He could, if he wished, deposit a little bit more without cramping the treasury in any way.

The surplus of receipts over expenditures since July 1 now amounts to about $32,000,000. It is growing every day, but Uncle Sam cannot deposit money enough in banks even to make a beginning to supply the demands being made by the great trunk lines. They really asked for more money this year than would pay off the bonded indebtedness of the United States, and if they follow the plans outlined by J. J. Hill and others they will keep up that gait for the next five or ten years.

It is no wonder they find it a hard job to get cash enough, because they need almost immediately more than the entire revenue of the United Stats government for a whole year.

EMBALM INFANTS ALIVE.

Illinois Health Department Finds Poisonous Substances Used to Adulterate Milk.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—That thousands of infants in Illinois as well as many larger children are being sent to premature graves through taking into their stomachs, in milk, the same poisonous substances used to embalm the dead, is indicated by a special report ready for submission to Gov. Deneen by State Pure Food Commissioner A. H. Jones. The report was made to Jones by his assistant, Herman E. Schuknecht, the dairy expert of the department.

Assistant Commissioner Schuknecht points out that of thirty-five cities visited, not one escaped having sold within its limits milk from unclean and unsanitary cans and bottles showing filth in the bottoms.

SALVATION ARMY FUNERALS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—A largely-attended funeral over the bodies of three of the Salvation Army victims of the Larchmont disaster will be held tomorrow afternoon at Carnegie Music Hall. There will be special music, and Commander Miss Booth will preside. The Salvationists who were lost in the disaster numbered ten men and women, several of them being officers. They were all Scandinavians.

Ambassador Whitelaw Reid, it is reported, is suffering from influenza. His physicians have advised him to go abroad for a week or two, but his official duties at this time make this impossible.

The first story will contain large reception hall, double drawing-room, library, dining-room, den, breakfast room and kitchen; the second story will have private bedroom suites for each member of the family, and also for guests, consisting of sitting-room, bedroom and private bath. The basement will contain a large billiard-room, laundry with clothes driers, servants' rooms and a large tile-lined plunge. The hall will be finished in quarter sawed white oak; the dining-room in white and gold, Louis XVI style, drawing-room and den in curly birch, mahogany finish; breakfast room in pine. IMPROVEMENTS FOR ANAHEIM.

Improvements are going on apace in the thriving town of Anaheim, about twenty-one miles east of Los Angeles on the Santa Fé and Southern Pacific railroads. The latest addition to that town's large buildings is the two-story brick structure Mrs. E. O. McLaughlin is about to erect on the corner of Center and Emily streets, near the heart of the town. The building will have two storerooms on the ground floor and eighteen rooms on the second floor for use as offices or hotel purposes.

The building will occupy a lot 48x94 feet. The exterior will be finished in cream-colored pressed brick, trimmed with a golden hued pressed brick. Up-to-date plumbing and every modern convenience, such as electric lighting, heating, etc., will be installed. There will be a covered cement alleyway to rear of building for use in delivering goods to rear doors. The plans were prepared by Julius W. Krause. The cost will be $15,000.

SCHERMERHORN INN SOLD.

Schermerhorn Inn, located on the southeast corner of Potter Park and Francisco streets, on a lot 70x100 feet, was sold last week through R. A. Rowan & Co.'s agency. It is a three-story-and-basement apartment which cost about $35,000 to erect last year. The sale price was $55,000. C. P. Schermerhorn sold to C. G. Jepson. The building is rented on a lease for five years at a rental of $550 a month. The rental pays a percentage of 12 per cent. on the investment. There are ninety three-room apartments and nineteen baths in the building. There is a ten-foot easement on the east side, which provides plenty of light and air to tenants of this building and the one on the east.

J. B. Rowland sells to Joseph Faure twenty-two acres at $225 per acre; F. A. Rowland sells to George E. Cross thirty-five acres at $175 per acre.

TO CUT TWELFTH STREET.

The community lying between Main and Hoover and extending north and south from Twelfth street for a few hundred feet, is a house divided against itself. The cause of the row is the proposed cutting through and straightening of West Twelfth street from Sentous street to Georgia street, by cutting off the rear end of thirteen lots between Georgia street and Sentous, and then across the old Kincaid tract, lying between Georgia and Figueroa streets, making the thoroughfare nearly straight from Main to Burlington.

There is about 25,000 feet of property involved in the assessment district. Those promoting the enterprise say they have more than 7000 feet of the frontage which is favorable to the project, while those who are fighting the move have an equal amount.

The arguments advanced in favor of the proposed improvements are that property will be materially increased in value by the successful completion of the project. Those fighting aver that homes will be ruined, and property assessed an exorbitant amount. Among those named as in favor of the improvement are W. H. O'Melveny, C. W. Gates, W. H. Pierce, J. H. Reynolds and George Walker. Mr. Kincaid, the owner of the old Kincaid tract, is the leader of the opposing forces.

When the matter was brought up before the City Council, several weeks ago, there was a merry tussel, but the side favoring the proposition won out. Notices of the proposed improvement have been posted on the property affected, and unless the opposition manages to have a counter-petition ruled upon by the Council and Board of Public Works, the project soon will be an accomplished fact.

SOUTH PASADENA ACTIVITY.

W. R. Sebree has purchased from Mr. Dumont his residence on Laurel street, Oneonta Park, consideration $10,000. Sale made by W. R. Staats Company, Pasadena; Charles W. Manwaring has purchased, through the Bayles Realty Company, the southwest corner of Fair Oaks and Hope streets, South Pasadena, lot 115x168 feet. Purchase price is said to be about $75 per front foot. The property adjoining is being held at $90 a foot; Mrs. Carrie Potter Manwaring has purchased, through the same agency, in South Pasadena, lot on the southeast corner of Mission and Brent streets, price $1500. The Bayles Realty Company is erecting a two-story brick store and office building on Mission street near Fair Oaks at a cost of $10,000.

SYNDICATE BUYS ON SEVENTH.

C. M. Johnson has sold to a local syndicate a lot, 46x133 feet, on the south side of Seventh street, between Hill and Olive streets, with nominal improvements, for $135,000. This price figures more than $2900 per front foot. The deal was syndicated through the agencies of W. B. Merwin & Co., Robert Marsh & Co., and R. A. Rowan & Co.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

The week at the Mason Operahouse will be divided between two important companies. For the first half of the week, William H. Crane, Ellis Jeffreys and their aggregation of well-known actors will present a revival of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer." During the last three days Charles Hanford will appear in one of the lesser known Shakespearean plays, "Cymbeline," and in the infrequently-presented "Julius Caesar."

Of the Crane-Jeffreys offering, much has been received in the way of advance commendation. It is said to be sumptuously staged, and the cast is a notable one. Mr. Crane achieved success in the role of Hardcastle twenty-years ago. Tony Lumpkin will be played by George Giddens, an English actor of the first class. Miss Margaret Dale, late leading actress for John Drew; Miss Fanny Addison Pitt, well known in England and America; Fred Thorne, a celebrated comedian; Walter Hale and Herbert Sleath, leading men, are in the cast of principals. Sir Charles Marlow will be acted by Leslie Kenyon, who last visited Los Angeles in Mr. Mansfield's company.

Miss Jeffreys first came prominently before New York audiences at the beginning of this year. She first made up her mind to enter stage pursuits through the doorway of musical comedy ,but was dissuaded from this by friends. After small parts in the British provinces, her rise was rapid, and she became leading woman at the London Haymarket Theater. She appeared in the same capacity with Sir Charles Wyndham, Sir George Alexander, John Hare, the Adelphi, and the Duke of York's companies. She has been the creator of numerous important parts in plays by Arthur Wing Pinero, Henry Arthur Jones, Sidney Grundy, Capt. Robert Marshall and "-bert Henry Davis. A new play is preparation for her personal use next year. It is said to dead with diplomatic conditions in London social life.

In addition to her artistic attainment, Miss Jeffreys is something of a social quantity in England. She is a sister-in-law of the Earl of Howe, and is related by marriage to the late Lord Randolph Churchill and the Dowager Duchess of Roxburgh. Miss Jeffreys in private life is the wife of Herbert Sleath, who for stage purposes has dropped his family name of Skelton. Her only son, Charles William Penn Curzon, is but two removed from the peerage, and stands an excellent chance of succeeding eventually to the wealth and titles of his famous uncle, Lord Curzon.

In "Julius Caesar" Mr. Hanford for the most part interprets Marc Antony, in which role he scored great success in the Booth-Barrett company. The play, of course, contains three characters of first rank, the other two being Brutus and Cassius.

In "Cymbeline" Mr. Hanford plays the villain, for it is always the ambition of a legitimate actor to demonstrate not only his fitness for a single line of heroics, but for everything else of power and size. In recent years but one production of this comedy has been made in the West, and that was by Margaret Mather, when that well-remembered actress played Imogen to the Ichimo of E. J. Henley. Here Imogen will be enacted by Miss Marie Drofnah.

The Dramatic Week.

As announced, the Crane-Jeffreys revival of Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" will occupy the stage of the Mason Operahouse Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

On Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings Charles Hanford and his company will be seen. Thursday evening and at the Saturday performances "Julius Caesar" will be offered, and on Friday night "Cymbeline."

Everything is in readiness for Mr. Morosco's production of "Don Caesar de Bazan," which will be put on the Burbank stage this afternoon. This is said to be the first time the Salvini manuscript has ever been used by a stock company.

Mr. Desmond will be seen as Don Caesar, Mary Van Buren will play the street-singer Maritana, and Harry Mestayer will enact Charles II, King of Spain.

Special scenic preparations have been made.

Winston Churchill's dramatized novel, "The Crisis," will be played at the Belasco Theater this week. The story is familiar to all who read. On the one side is arrayed Stephen Brice, the Yankee lover, and on the other Clarence Colfax, his Confederate rival, both struggling in battle and otherwise over a beautiful and aristocratic southern girl, Virginia Carvel.

Following "The Crisis," the Belasco company will play "Under the Red Robe."

Fourth week of "The Holy City" at the Auditorium, and tomorrow evening the play will enter upon its seventy-fifth thousand of attendance.

Need anything more be said?

The Elleford Company, which has for many seasons appeared regularly at the Grand, will return this week, and will present a stage version of Mrs. Southwark's best-known novel, under the title "My Tomboy Girl." The play is taken from the romance of Virginia, familiar to readers of fiction as "The Hidden Hand."

The period covered by the story is that of the Mexican War, and one of the leading episodes of the tale concerns an episode of the war. Scene and characters are of the Virginia mountains.

"Gloria," a romantic playlet presented by Patrice and her company, is given "the long type" at the head of the week's Orpheum bill. This is the first western appearance of the comedienne since her return from her English engagement.

"Twisted and Tangled," comedy by W. H. Gickey and Florence Nelson, comes next into prominence. The name of "Happy Jack" Garner recalls a pleasant turn, consisting of good songs and tuneful melodies drawn from a disreputable old tuba.

"Little Hip," a tiny baby elephant, well trained and unusually intelligent, furnishes the animal novelty.

The hold-overs are Maddox and Melvin, the Labakans, Chris Smith and the Two Johnsons, and Alfred Kelcy and company.

MISS ELLIS JEFFREYS.
Miss Jeffreys is the celebrated English actress who will be seen here tomorrow night as the co-star with William H. Crane, in Mr. Crane's revival of "She Stoops to Conquer." Miss Jeffreys was one of the features of the fall season in New York, and will next year be seen in a new play of London life, now being written for her.

News Matters.

Francesco Ferullo and his newly-organized band are planning to open the converted Angelus rink—now a garden café, on Friday night.

The place is under the management of F. Limouze, an associate of Abbott Kinney and Frank Lawton in the Venice amusement enterprises.

Ferullo's band numbers forty-two men, most of whom are from the East. Rehearsals will begin tomorrow morning.

His soloists will be Domenico Palma, cornet; Liborio Lomonte, trombone; Dante Fortulatti, baritone, and Eliseo Dimitris, flicorno, or contralto. The bandmaster thus has an unrivaled brass quartette. Additional soloists are Sig. Scalchi, clarinet, and Sig. Raho, oboe, who will not be with the band for about two weeks, as he is now returning from a visit to Italy.

The first concert in public will be "tried on" Playa del Rey on Thursday evening.

A brilliant concert programme is to be given by Marco Vessella and his band at the Long Beach Auditorium on Wednesday evening.

Two Los Angeles soloists will be heard, Mrs. Carolyn von Benson and Natorp Blumenfeld. Mrs. von Benson will sing "Caro Nome," from "Rigoletto," and the berceuse from "Jocelyn," with violin obligato. Mr. Blumenfeld will be heard in one or two well-known violin masterpieces. Miss Orcutt of this city will act as accompanist. Miss Chase, a Long Beach pianist, has one or two numbers on the programme.

The chief number of the evening by the band will be a new fantasia on Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust." This excerpt is quite complete, embodying briefly all of the principal scenes and taking more than half an hour in rendition.

Scarcely of less note is the new fantasia on Lorenzo Perosi's "Resurrection of Lazarus," which is also very complete, embodying all the chief themes.

A number of other master-compositions will be heard, including numbers from works of Meyerbeer, Massenet, Bizet and Beethoven.

Director Vessella himself will introduce a new composition.

On Thursday evening at Simpson Auditorium the newly created Letter Carriers' Band will give its first concert, the proceeds of which will be devoted toward the band's immediate needs, including a library and uniforms. Vocal music and readings will be interspersed among the instrumental selections.

The director of the band at present is A. D. Hunter. Those assisting in the programme will be Miss Bertha Hancock, Miss Ruth Grant, Miss Irene Louise Carter and J. D. Berry.

Signor Janotta has announced a song recital to be given by Miss Edith M. Herron on Thursday evening at the Gamut Club.

Miss Herron will be assisted by Clarence W. Reynolds, Mr. Blumenfeld and Miss Orrie Mae Coons.

Mrs. Carrie L. Dunning announces that during the present week a normal class for teachers in the "Dunning system" of piano instruction for children will be formed.

At the annual concert to be given at the Gamut Auditorium early in March by C. S. De Lano's mandolin, guitar and banjo club, a choice programme will be given. The overtures, "Sans Souci," "William Tell" and "Pique Dame" will be given, as will selections from Haydn's gypsy rondo, "Tannhauser," "Rigoletto" and other operas.

LeRoy Painter, violinist, will be heard in recital at Gamut Auditorium on Wednesday evening, February 27. The programme will include selections from Beethoven, Sarasate, Wieniawski and Saint-Saens. Mrs. Loud will be at the piano, and Mr. Painter will be assisted by Abraham Miller, tenor.

Art and Artists.

Exhibitions This Week.

THE PAINTERS' CLUB — Ford Smith's.

The Painters' Club.

The February exhibition of that young and apparently very wide-awake aggregation of artists, the Painters' Club, shows a decided stride forward over the one held in January. It is crisper and fresher in every way, with some very interesting canvases from the brushes of the younger men. There can be no doubt that the Painters' Club has come to stay, and that its steady stream of good work will be a constant refreshment to all art lovers in Los Angeles.

There are twenty-nine pictures shown this month, in oils, water colors and pastels. The solitary pastellist is Charles Percy Austin, who shows two small impressions of California life, "Los Fueles" and "Beach at Twilight," the latter of which is handled with marked skill and feeling for delicate nuances.

The water colorists are Norman St. Clair, with his strong "Blazoned Cliffs" and his "April," which has a big sky full of life and movement; William Swift Damill, with two fresh impressions of sea and shore, "Laguna" and "Long Beach"—big names for very tiny pictures; Frank R. Liddell, with two refined bits of color, and Harry Lewis Bailey, whose "Near Ocean Park" is broadly and simply treated. Both Mr. Liddell and Mr. Bailey also contribute oils. Mr. Liddell's "Redwoods" has sentiment and good color, and Mr. Bailey shows a fine sky in "After the Rain."

The oil painters, especially the landscapists, are in full force. David Dunn shows two, "The Wash Near San Gabriel," and "In the Santa Anita Wash," excellent in their handling of grays, and with true and unforced sentiment. Albert Clinton Conner has real sunlight in "The Rustic Bridge," and his "Oak-strewn Mountain Side" is fine in composition and rich in color, though the distant hills strike one as being a bit "edgey."

Martin J. Jackson's "Sultry Morning" is charming, subtle and truthful. I wish I could say the same of his much bigger and more ambitious canvas, "Oreland Park," which is rather painty and exceedingly bad in composition. Pantiness, with a strong inclination toward chalkiness, is also the fault of Frank Conner's large picture, "Iris, Colorado Desert;" but it has excellent passages and breathes the spirit of the desert.

Hobart Bosworth's "Quatros Pecos" is painted with sincerity and refinement. Hansen Puthuff has dash and go in his two pictures, "Late Afternoon" and "Evening Glow," showing a splendid fearlessness in self-expression that augurs well for his future. Mr. Puthuff's tendency is certainly upward and to the top.

Carl Oscar Borg shows two well-painted canvases, both of which have been seen in a previous exhibition, "Graveyard of Old Ships," and "The Old Ranch." Val Costello's "The Oak" is as simple and unaffected as its title; its composition suggests Corot, though its color is the lovely green of winter in California. Aaron E. Kilpatrick, too, in his "Between Showers," has rendered a subtle phase of our winter; the composition is strictly original and the burst of sunlight on the crown of the hill is well painted.

On the whole, the Painters' Club is giving us pleasure and piqueing our curiosity. What will it be and do five years from now?

SANTA INEZ MISSION. BY CHARLES ROLLO PETERS.
This striking picture will be on view at the Gould gallery next week, with sixteen or seventeen others from the same hand. Mr. Peters is one of the most widely known of California landscape painters. His moonlight effects are especially beautiful.

Coming Exhibitions.

There will be three new exhibitions in three downtown galleries this week. As the exhibition of the Painters' Club will also continue, there certainly will be no dearth of pictures. He who runs may find them.

Charles Rollo Peters, who will show a number of his wonderful moonlights at Gould's, on Fifth street, needs no introduction. We all know of him by reputation, at least, and those of us who have never seen his work have a rich treat before us.

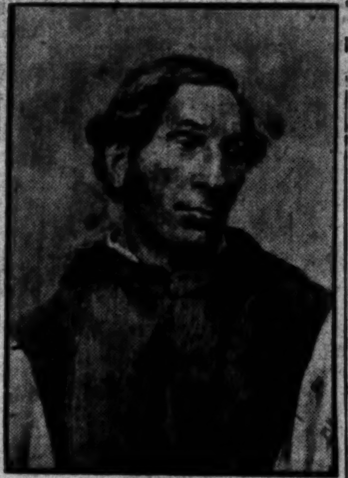
Mr. Peters is the winner of many prizes, one of the latest being a silver medal from the St. Louis Exposition. His best-known picture, "The Hosue of Mystery," has been declared by a famous New York artist to have been the best picture painted in America in ten years. Other painters, as well as the critics, have spoken highly of his work.

Mary Harland and Lida Price, the two friends who will exhibit at Steckel's, the one an Englishwoman and the other an American, are newcomers in Los Angeles who are going to remain with us.

They are both well-trained in their craft, students of the Parisian schools, and both have exhibited in the Salon of 1905. Miss Harland, who paints miniatures, has also exhibited some of these in the Royal Academy. Together they will show forty-six pictures, in oils and water colors, genres, landscapes and miniature portraits.

The third exhibit, to be held in Blanchard's, is also that of two friends, Emile Mazy and Albert Ballot-Beaupré. Mr. Mazy, who has been in Los Angeles for some time, and who is well known as a decorator, will have seven pictures, landscapes, figures, flowers, miniatures, etc., and Mr. Ballot-Beaupré, who has but recently come here, will show landscapes from widely different places, Normandie, San Pedro, the Bronx of the Hudson, the Grand Cañon, etc.

Another exhibition, held in Pasadena, at the Nicholson gallery, consists of Leonide C. Lavaron's very beautiful and original designs in artistic jewelry. Miss Lavaron has won an international reputation for her exquisite craft work.



PERE GREGORIE.
Miniature by Mary Harland, one of the twelve that this artist will show for two weeks at the Steckel gallery, beginning tomorrow at 10 a.m.

International Studio for February.

The February number of the International Studio continues the finely illustrated account of the collection of Alexander Young, dwelling on "The Modern Dutch Pictures," and reproducing important paintings by Mauve, James Maris, Artz, Israels, William Maris, Mesdag, Weissenbruch, Bosboom, Neuhuys and De Bock.

There is an appreciation of "Joseph Pennell's Recent Etchings," by Dr. Hano W. Singer. Other interesting features of the month are "Drawings and Sketches by Modern Masters;" two articles on arts crafts exhibitions, one held in Chicago and the other in Vienna; an account of "The Exhibition of Russian Art in Paris," and complete reviews of the recent T-square exhibition in Philadelphia and the winter exhibition of the National Academy of Design, New York, one being written by Leila Mechlin and the other by Arthur Hoeber.

ART NOTES.

E. A. Burbank, who came from the desert with a bad attack of la grippe, will leave Los Angeles again this week for another sojourn among the Walpis, Supis, Zunis, and Pueblos. He hopes to finish his work in Arizona on this trip. He will also go to the Grand Cañon. Mr. Burbank painted the negro before he became interested in the Indian. He has just sent East for some of his old negro pictures, some of which have attained to great popularity in reproductions. They will be shown in Blanchard's.

The recent pictures of Elmer Wachtel and Marian Kavanaugh Wachtel will go to Chicago the first week in March to be shown at Thurber's and Anderson's galleries. Both the Wachtels have done some very brilliant work of late, and their friends are invited to the studio on Sunday afternoons to see these pictures before they are shipped away. Many of them, in all probability, will never return, for the Wachtels are finding an appreciative audience in eastern cities. Mr. Wachtel's two largest and most important pictures cannot be seen, unfortunately, as they are now in the exhibit at the Corcoran gallery, Washington.

Katherine M. Ball, the well-known lecturer on Japanese art, who has just arrived from San Francisco, spoke before the Women's Press Club at Blanchard's Hall, on Thursday evening. She is also giving a series of talks at the Raymond Hotel, Pasadena.

Joseph Greenbaum has just begun a three-quarters portrait of Mrs. Briggs of Searchlight. The sitter has a face of much strength and character, which will no doubt be of great interest to the painter.

Frank Bischoff, the well-known painter of ceramics, has taken a studio in Blanchard Hall and is building a bungalow in Garvanza. Mr. Bischoff is also a painter of very charming landscapes.

ANECDOTES OF OUR BIRD FRIENDS.

Canary as a Danger Signal.

W. Blackett, a mining expert, giving evidence at the inquest of the four miners killed by an explosion of fire damp in the Urpeth colliery, mentioned an interesting incident.

The rescue party, he said, took with them a canary in a cage, which was kept in front of the party. When the canary dropped from its perch the rescuers knew they were in the danger zone. The canary recovered, and was produced at the inquest.—[London Standard.

Blue Jay a Moth Destroyer.

The blue jay is helping to solve the browntail moth question. Dr. Hatch reports that he witnessed a sight which will be of interest to all the people of New Hampshire and it may in a measure help out the browntail moth question. While calling upon a patient he noticed a blue jay at work on a tree near the window.

Upon investigating he found it was breaking into the nests of the browntail and eating the eggs and the moths themselves. This bird cleaned the tree and was busily engaged on another when the doctor left. Upon examination he found that every nest had been cleaned. Bird studiers explain this by saying that the crust has been hiding a good deal of the bird's food and he is getting what he can find elsewhere.—[Wilton correspondence Boston Herald.

How Maimed Birds Get Food.

"Maimed birds show remarkable intelligence in getting food for themseves," said a naturalist.

"I once found in my garden a bluebird that a stone had wounded badly. The poor little creature could neither walk nor fly. I put it in a cucumber frame and fed it regularly, but I suppose I didn't give it enough, for it foraged industriously all the time. Lying on the earth it would cover itself with leaves—only its small eyes would be visible. Then when a fly alighted somewhere near—swoop, the bluebird's head and neck would dart from the covering of leaves and the fly would be devoured.

"A finch with a broken wing lived high all one summer in my garden at the expense of the spiders. It pillaged their webs. It made a round of some twenty webs a day and fattened on the contents of those filmy larders."—[Louisville Courier-Journal.

Pheasants Lost in Fog.

There is a story told in shooting circles of a pheasant shoot in a certain well-known covert on the occasion of a thick mist. The beaters coming along, put up the pheasants at the end of the covert, but instead of coming on over the guns they went straight up into the sky through the mist.

When last seen by keepers or beaters (the guns hardly had a sight of them) they were still going as hard as they could fly straight upward and not one of them was ever seen again.—[From Country Life.

Parrot Talks Pennsylvania Dutch.

Willoughby Stephen of Allentown avenue, South Allentown, has an African gray parrot that can talk Pennsylvania Dutch like a native, as well as English.

While it has been comparatively easy to teach a parrot English, Pennsylvania Dutch has always been beyond them, and this is the first bird that has succeeded in mastering the dialect.—[Allentown Correspondence Philadelphia Record.

There are a great variety of robins in Australia, but, unlike our familiar English bird, the females differ in plumage from the males and are of a darker and more somber color.

Some people are under the impression that the English robin and his mate differ in plumage and expect to see, if not a wren, at least a small brown bird of retiring disposition and unattractive color, but the hen robin is quite as fearless as her mate and quite as brightly clad.

Big Bird Caught by Hook.

Seizing a fish which a local angler was landing on Dover pier on Saturday, a very fine specimen of the gannet (solan goose) was hooked in the throat and captured.

The bird had a spread of 6 feet 2 inches across the wing. The gannet is a rare visitor to Dover.—[London Daily Graphic.

Wild Ducks Destroy Crops.

Andrew Kaiser, who farms a large tract of land near St. John, says that wild ducks are destroying his growing grain and he is compelled to hire men to drive them away at night.

Thousands of these birds alight on his fields after dark and destroy large patches of grain, pulling the tender shoots up by the roots. He says that they do more damage than geese, as the latter only snip off the top of the grain, allowing it to sprout again. He estimates that the ducks so far this season have damaged his grain to the amount of $3000.—[Willows correspondence Sacramento Bee.

CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH AND HIS OLD SCHOOL.

Gen. Baden-Powell, Who Claims Descent from the Founder of Virginia, Gives Replica of Bust He Made of Smith to King Edward School.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—King Edward VI Grammar School at Louth, the school where Capt. John Smith wrestled with the "three r's," has been made the proud possessor of a bust of its most illustrious alumnus. The fact that the gift is from Maj.-Gen. Baden-Powell, who claims to be a "direct lineal descendant of the doughty colonizer," and was made by the general himself, makes the presentation decidedly appropriate, aside from the fact that America is about to celebrate the founding of Jamestown, 300 years ago, by a great exposition.

Maj.-Gen. Baden-Powell, known to every Englishman as "B.-P.," since his heroic defense of Mafeking in the Boer school in jerkin and doublet and high ruff collar, one day, when he met a peddler to whom he sold his books, and planned to go to sea on the proceeds. At this juncture he was called home by the death of his father, and his aged mother also soon passed away, leaving the would-be adventurer an orphan. The rest of his life story is known to the world.

In presenting the bust to the school the other day, Gen. Baden-Powell made reference, as he had often done before, of his "coming direct from the doughty captain." He traces the descent on his mother's side. He says "Capt. John Smith married while in America; and his grandson, Benjamin Smith, lived in New Jersey, and died in 1769. Benjamin's son, Joseph, came to England war, is a many-sided man, and not the least of his talents is sculpture. Some time ago "B.-P." discovered that there were no busts of his illustrious "ancestor" and in order that his features might be preserved to posterity, he set about to use a few minutes before breakfast every morning in modeling a bust of Capt. John Smith. One replica of this work, it may be remembered, the amateur sculptor courteously presented to the State of Virginia, and a second copy of the same was given to the royal school at Louth last week.

While Baedecker cites a church steeple as the only attraction for the sightseer at Louth, this ancient school, peacefully ensconced in the valley of the rivulet Lud, is full of interest. The town is in Lincolnshire, not far from the eastern coast of England, and while a majority of the 10,000 inhabitants are busy in the iron foundries, breweries, carriage shops and carpet factories of the place, a few old schoolmasters are trying to uphold the reputation of the grammar school, which for six centuries back has been turning out famous "old boys." Among the laurel-wreathed escutcheons on the walls of the old school are names of distinguished alumni, including Lord Alfred Tennyson and Sir John Franklin, the Arctic explorer—names that are as well known in America as homely "John Smith." The school was founded as a royal school in 1551, but it had existed for many years before that date as a "guild" school. The only relic of the buildings in which Johnny Smith spent his school hours is a bust of Edward VI—and when gazing at the plaster features of his sovereign it may be guessed that Johnny little thought that a bust of himself would some day grace the school as it now does.

The "Smith boy's" connection with the school is covered very vaguely in the school records of 300 years ago—about as vaguely as a "Smith boy's" record would be chronicled today. After a few terms at a school in Alford, near his home, Johnny is known to have become restless and his father decided to send him to Louth, where he might live with a relative and attend the royal school. The period was a tempting one for Johnny, for it was shortly after the annihilation of the Spanish Armada and the tales of adventure and glories of war which filled his ears fanned the flames of adventure in his young heart. He was on his way to as a Loyalist; married and was father of my grandfather, Admiral W. H. Smith, whose daughter was my mother. This branch of the Smith (or Smyth) family are entitled at the Herald's College to bear the arms of John Smith, viz., Three Turks' Heads, etc."

This claim has elicited a long letter from William Gordon McCabe, one of the commissioners of the Jamestown Expositon, which appeared last week in the Saturday Review, a prominent London journal. Mr. McCabe says, in part: "It is a distinct shock to a humble student of Virginian history to learn that the stout old soldier who died at the comparatively early age of 51, had a grandson living in (in all places of the earth) New Jersey, 160 years after his grandfather had sailed away forever from Virginia. And it is as sure as anything can be sure that John Smith was never married, and consequently could be no lineal ancestor of Gen. Baden-Powell. The question is almost too plain for discussion. Smith was in the colony less than two years and a half—was easily the foremost figure in it, and we can account for well-nigh every action of his during that time. He had the bitterest of enemies and the staunchest of friends, and between the narratives of the two we can follow him almost every day in his splendid fight to save the great enterprise in the face of appalling difficulties and dangers without and cowardly treachery within. Had he ever been married we should surely have heard of it from the narratives of Lookill and Mangall or Masters Pots and Phettiplace. No man, as I have said, had more bitter enemies, and had Capt. John Smith sailed away from Virginia abandoning wife and child, we should just as as surely have heard of it from Wingfield or Master Archer. Indeed, after Smith, owing to his dreadful accident, sailed for England, the chief of all the stories trumped up against him was that he designed to marry Pocahontas."

McCabe cites an English historian who speaks of Smith as spending his last days in London as a "lonely bachelor," and further goes to prove that his brother Francis left no lawful issue, and that Capt. John Smith made no mention in his will of any offspring whatever.

It seems to be, in American language, "up to" the Herald's College and "B.-P." to answer this flat denial from Virginia.

WORKING FOR YOURSELF.

Is It Better to Be in Business or to Work for Another?—These Two Pertinent Questions Fairly Discussed.

BY NATHANIEL C. FOWLER, JR.

Author of "Starting in Life," "The Boy—How to Help Him Succeed," "Gumption," "Dollars and Sense," "Fowler's Cyclopedia of Publicity and Printing," etc.

[Copyright, 1906, by Nath'l C. Fowler, Jr.]

He is somewhat in command of himself, and does not have to give account of himself except to his partners, provided he does not disobey any rule of business or of custom. He may, by himself, decide most of the business questions, and act, to a certain extent, as he pleases. He is under no direct direction of any individual, unless he has partners, in which case he shares responsibility with them. His success may be limited, but he may reach the very extreme of his capacity. He cannot be discharged without remuneration. He cannot be ordered in a peremptory way to do this or that. In most cases extra effort on his part will bring a larger return. He has more opportunity to realize any reasonable ambition. He may look forward to becoming a great captain of industry. His reputation and fame may extend beyond his town, his State, or his nation. He has an individuality, and is known by name and reputation to his trade, if not outside of it. He is not obliged, except as necessity demands, to keep regular office hours. He may take off an afternoon or a day off, or a week or a month off, provided it does not materially affect the action of his business. His income, if he be successful, may be many times larger than that of any of his employés.

But he labors under some disadvantages. His income may never be settled definitely. He may be successful one year and unsuccessful the next. He cannot anticipate his income with much degree of accuracy. He is under the constant strain of responsibility. He must keep his fingers on the pulse of his business and listen to every beat. While he may not be required to keep office hours, all of his hours are working hours. He may not leave his business with the closing of his desk. The responsibilities of business are with him by day and by night. It is a fact that more than 90 per cent. of men in business for themselves have either suffered or will suffer from at least one financial failure. True, many meet success eventually; but it is a fact, nevertheless, that over 90 per cent. of our business men either fail or become bankrupt, which may or may not cripple them permanently.

The average man in business for himself has twice as hard a time of it, and works twice as hard, as does the average employé. With the maximum of success, he suffers the maximum of worry. Although his time is theoretically his own, he is more often tied down to office hours, and has less time to himself, than have the men who work for him. Responsibility is his, and with responsibility comes every care and worry.

The advantages and disadvantages of being an employé may be summed up as follows:

There are three primary classes of livelihood earners: Those who earn a wage or salary and are known as employés; those who are in business for themselves and do not depend upon a salary, their income coming from the profits of their business; and those who combine the two and are partially in business for themselves, and yet receive a salary, a commission or a percentage.

The first class, that of employé, comprises about 95 per cent. of the self-supporting population. Substantially all of the balance are in business for themselves, comparatively few working under commission or percentage.

Practically every boy starts as a wage-earner, and for considerable time is under the command of others. In every sense he is an employé, having nothing to do with the policy of the business, his duty being confined to obeying orders and to doing the work which others have laid out for him to do.

Considerably more than one-half of our boys and young men, even including the dullest of them, at some time during the early part of their career, look forward to being in business for themselves or to occupying an executive position of a commanding order, and substantially every ambitious boy or young man has a well-defined intention of going eventually into business for himself. This ambition is natural, and is to be encouraged within reasonable bounds; but it must be borne in mind that the great majority of men are incapacitated for assuming the responsibility of proprietorship, and especially so during these modern times of fierce competition and the overcrowding of gigantic monopolies.

The average boy cannot be more than a wage-earner, unless he enters some small business where there is little opportunity for the exercise of more than ordinary capacity. This ordinary boy is in the vast majority, and, therefore, it may be said that most boys will continue to work for others and will never rise above the employé station; but this does not mean that a boy should not have the ambition to become an employer, for this ambition may do him no harm, and may increase his effectiveness as an employé, provided it does not make him unreasonably dissatisfied.

Let me attempt to place side by side the advantages and disadvantages which accrue to the employer and employé.

The employer has these advantages over the employé:

He is surer, on the whole, of his income than is the man he works for, for his employer may be able to carry him during a dull season, while his services are worth nothing in the way of profit making. If he is faithful and has fair ability, he is reasonably sure to retain his position permanently, or, in case of his employer's failure, of finding another similar position. Because he knows what his income is likely to be, and can reckon upon it with reasonable certainty, he can adapt his expenses and his savings to his condition. Of course, he is not exempt from worry, nor is responsibility removed from him; but, because he plays a second, or third, or fourth, part in the drama of business, the responsibilities of leadership are not upon him, and, therefore, if there is any worrying to be done in his business, the major part of it belongs to his employer and not to him. As a rule, he works on regular hours, and does but little overtime labor. He can better regulate his time and use his off time to better advantage. No matter what occurs, he has some one to advise him and direct him. He assumes no exclusive responsibility. On the other hand, he may not have more than ordinary opportunity for the realization of his ambitions; and the expenditure of extra energy, and the doing of additional work on his part, may not receive full recognition. If, through his endeavors, the firm he works for materially increases its business, he may not expect more than a small percentage of what he actually earns. His employer, who furnishes the money and who takes the financial risk and responsibility, absorbs, rightly or wrongly, substantially all the extra profits, even though the idea may have originated through the employé, and even though to the employé is due its successful execution. The employé cannot occupy so high a business position as that held by the employer, nor is his place in society likely to be on a par with that held by the man in business for himself. There is a sharp line drawn in business between the employer and the employé, and this line extends into the social world. The employé is in the ranks; the employer carries the sword. The business and social worlds recognize the man with the sword, but often fail to give proper credit to the man with the gun.

But let me impress upon you a great and fundamental fact: A first-class employé, one who occupies a position of responsibility, is far better off, both in a business and social way, than is the unsuccessful employer. Better be a good employé than a poor employer.

No man is fitted to go into business for himself, even on a small scale, unless he possesses a sense of proportion, which will enable him to finance business. Many a splendid salesman and a receiver of a salary of several thousand dollars is unfitted to assume the responsibilities of proprietorship. He can sell more goods than can any of his employers. As a trade maker he is a success, but he has done this business as an employé, and while playing a second part, and with the higher responsibilities resting upon others. He is lacking in what is known as financial judgment. He cannot diagnose the future or finance the present. If the management of the business was placed in his hands, it would go to pieces. This man had better remain an employé than to attempt to go into business for himself, unless he can become a member of a partnership, with partners to supply what he lacks and to keep him in his place. The faithful book-keeper, who seldom makes a mistake in figures, whose accounts are models of neatness, may not possess the capacity to do business for himself. It requires a different kind of ability to finance a business than it does to sell the product of the business. The successful business man, while he takes advice from others and follows it, usually decides by himself alone what to do and what not to do. If he has not the power to intelligently settle this question, he is not fitted to go into business for himself. I do not mean to say that pig-headed-ness and self-conceit are essential elements to proprietorship, but it must be admitted that the man who depends entirely upon others to do his thinking, who is unable to settle things himself, who cannot successfully handle responsibility and quickly act in emergencies, will not succeed in business for himself.

Brilliancy of salesmanship, and the ability to execute under direction, do not, by themselves alone, make for proprietorship. The ability to buy to advantage, without the capacity to sell at a profit, leads to failure. Many a first-class buyer, receiving a salary of thousands of dollars, cannot sell the goods he buys other than at a loss.

But one thing is certain, and that is that no man ever succeeded as an employer who did not make a success, or could not have made a success, as an employé. No man can successfully command who has not been successfully commanded. No general ever succeeded in time of peace, or in time of war, unless, at some time in his career, he obeyed orders and did so willingly, conscientiously, and profitably. The successful business man springs invariably from the successful employé. Therefore, let me say to the boy or young man about to enter business and to assume the duties of an employé, that the first thing for him to do is to serve his employer with all his faithfulness, and with all of his ability, and to become a success as an employé. When he has made that success, it may be time for him to consider going into business for himself; but even then he should analyze and place himself upon the rack of criticism, that he may discover whether or not he has in him the elements necessary for the proper financiering of business. If he cannot convince others that he possesses this capacity, he had better remain an employé.

DRY GOODS
SPRING AND THIRD STS.

HANDSOME beyond description are the new Spring dress fabrics. Seasonableness and true artistic beauty are combined in a way that makes the exhibit the most interesting produced in years. Whether it be wash goods, wool goods or silks, the same measure of newness, of endless variety, of beauty of color, design and texture is here for your approval.

Exquisite Wash Novelties

During the past week we have made mention of late tub goods of the suiting order; the various fancy and plain Linens, the Panamas, Facounes, Ginghams and the like.

This week we would direct your particular attention to the higher class fabrics, the exclusive patterns, designs and colorings in the sheer, filmy materials suitable for dressy gowns.

Silk Batistes 30c

Pure silk warp goods, as thin and sheer as mull. White grounds with pompadour and dresden printings, large and small dots; every wanted color—yard, 30c.

White Batiste 40c

Plain white batiste of the finer grades, with woven stripes, plaids, broken checks, squares, and lattice-like blocks. Highly mercerized silk finish. All prices from 60c on down to 40c a yard.

Silk Matalasse $1.00

A half silk fabric in real warp print designs, that shows every feature and expression of the finest silk goods—the handsome pompadour designs, all the delicacy of colorings, the true silk luster and finish. It is shown in a wealth of the best colorings ranging from the lightest pastel tones to the dark rich grays; yard, $1.00.

Emb'd. Batiste 50c

Another handsome, fine, soft dress material with elongated embroidered spots forming a broken stripe effect, and large coin spots, in every color—yard, 50c.

60c, 75c and $1.00 Novelties 50c Yard

Fifty pieces of half silk mousselines de soie and silk grenadines will be closed out tomorrow at the above price. They are all thin, sheer novelties of the better sorts. Exclusive, too; styles you'll not find in every shop.

The grenadines come in handsome Persian stripes of every color on delicately shaded grounds. The mousselines are shown in large, beautifully colored floral designs on white grounds. Not a yard in the lot worth under 60c, and the great majority easily worth 75c and $1.00. Choose tomorrow from the showing at 50c a yard.

Exclusive Wool Fabrics

The woolens so far received, while not representing the entire Spring collection, are eminently worthy an early inspection. As is usually the case, the most exclusive patterns, the choicest styles, have arrived in advance of the more commonplace productions, so, while these last, Fashion may be seen at her very best.

For tailored, street, and traveling suits you may choose from dozens of new weaves of medium weight expressed in plaids and checks, large blocks with over plaids, broad or narrow stripes, hair lines and herringbone weaves. White and black, soft smoke grays, lightish tans, browns, greens and blues in their various color combinations, priced from $1.25 on up to $2.50 a yard.

For more dressy gowns, calling and carriage dresses, there are hosts of soft, thinly woven materials in both all wool and silk and wool. Delicately dyed grays, smoke blues, tans, greens and browns with woven checks and plaids; fine herringbones and hair lines, embroidered effects and lace striped creations—the prettiest, daintiest things imaginable, priced from $1 to $2 a yard.

Imported Wools $1.00

Fine wool taffetas from the most famous Austrian looms; little checks of variegated colors on grounds of smoke gray, light tans, greens, putty colors, and blues. A cloth most women would be pleased to pay half as much more for. A dozen styles to pick from at $1.00 a yard.

Stunning Silk Styles

Picture in your mind all the prettiest and best summer silk styles you have ever seen. Double their beauty and newness, their goodness and style, and you will have a hint of what this silk department has to show this week.

Detailed descriptions are out of the question. Come tomorrow and enjoy them at close range—even though you have no thought of becoming an owner.

Beautiful specimens for Street Suits, Calling Dresses, Evening Gowns, and Costumes, Waists and Separate Skirts.

Splendid styles at $1.00, $1.25, $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and up.

Cheney Bros. best Foulards—guaranteed spot-proof, the yard, $1.25.

Suits at Half

We have twenty-five or thirty winter suits to close out tomorrow at exactly half their original price—and that means half their actual worth. All the new coat effects, each late trimming idea, box or single plaited skirts. The prevailing color of gray is shown in each of its many fashionable dark shades. Plaids, checks, fancy mixtures and stripes abound. Materials and workmanship the best that money can buy; style and finish faultless. For many purposes these dark suits are indispensable even for the summer season. Original prices ranged from $20 to $55. Tomorrow's prices—$10.00 to $27.50.

All our Evening Coats—white and colored—going this week at one-fourth less.

All our Evening Costumes—perfectly exquisite affairs—marked this week at one-third less.

Du Barry Scarfs $2.75

A new showing of this popular headgear for tomorrow. Plain colored pastel shades; shirred plaid effects, satin striped ones with Persian borders; Dresden and Pompadour printings on white grounds. All made of the heaviest grade of crepe de chine—$2.75 to $4.50 each.

New Windsor Ties 35c

Plain Facts About The Hair

It is the duty of every one who is interested in hair preservation to learn enough about the subject to tell whether an advertisement for a hair remedy is reasonable or unreasonable. In this connection, the United States Postoffice Department has begun a much needed campaign against false and misleading statements in advertisements in general. While this work is highly commendable and should be greatly extended, still at the same time it tends to paternalism rather than to personal self-reliance. If YOU know that the claims for a hair remedy are unreasonable and untrue, that knowledge will save you money and prevent disappointment.

The trouble lies in the fact that certain over ambitious proprietors employ advertising writers who do not know the composition of the remedies they write about, and even if they did, they are not expected to know the therapeutic action of the various ingredients. Two very familiar and oft-repeated statements are, that the hair must be watered and fed just like a plant, and that the color of the hair, once destroyed, can be restored, by natural process. While both of these statements are false in every particular, it requires some little knowledge of the hair follicle to understand why the statements are false.

The hair follicle is a pear-shaped sack in the scalp that holds the hair root. At the bottom of the hair follicle and extending up into it for a short distance, is a nipple shaped projection that remains in the scalp when a hair root is forcibly pulled out. This projection is the hair papilla from which the hair "root" grows. The continuous addition to the bottom of the hair root, forces the hair proper out through the scalp.

The hair papilla is surrounded by the hair root, which thus takes a bulbous form. Above the hair root or bulb—which occupies about three-fourths of the entire follicle—is the neck of the hair follicle, below which the most penetrating fluids known to Medical Science can not penetrate. Therefore, the story of feeding the starved and impoverished hair roots with an external application is all a myth.

The short portion of the hair follicle above its neck opens somewhat like a funnel and is filled with the outer scalp skin. Opening into this outer portion are the highly important oil or sebaceous glands which, from their location, are most exposed to disease. When these oil glands become infected with a certain microbic growth (the cause of dandruff) there is hair disease and finally hair death. Fortunately this outer portion of the hair follicle can be treated by carefully rubbing into the scalp a suitable remedy. What remedy should be used? Manifestly one that will destroy the growth that causes dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.

Newbro's Herpicide is the first remedy that was prepared for the particular purpose of destroying this invisible vegetable growth. In fact, it is called the "ORIGINAL remedy that kills the dandruff germ." Newbro's Herpicide was not made until after Prof. Unna, of Hamburg, Germany (ask your doctor about him) discovered that dandruff is a highly contagious disease caused by a microbe. The almost marvelous success of Newbro's Herpicide has caused advertising writers to claim germicidal properties for other hair remedies, many of which were on the market years before Prof. Unna's discovery.

Do you think that this new claim for old remedies is a reasonable one? Remember, that the hair gets its life, color and strength direct from the blood, and that good blood, deep breathing and sunlight favor hair development. Outdoor exercise, to insure free circulation in the scalp, also scalp massaging for the same purpose, are very helpful. Worry, indigestion and sedentary habits oppose hair growth, while the dandruff germ will actually destroy the hair, unless it is eradicated and kept out of the scalp with Newbro's Herpicide.

Herpicide is delightfully cooling and refreshing to the scalp, and almost marvelous results sometimes follow its continued use. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

I have been treated by Dr. Schiffman for years. I have tried all his different methods, and I can say unhesitatingly no dentist or physician has ever operated with such success or skill. In extracting my teeth he did it without any pain to me. It is a great pleasure to me to recommend him and his method of treatment.
MILO M. POTTER,
Prop. Van Nuys Hotel and Hotel Potter, Santa Barbara.

Ten years ago a reputable dentist of Va. told me that a certain molar tooth could not be satisfactorily saved, and that it would probably not be of service for one year. It has not only served me for ten years, as Dr. Schiffman saved and crowned it, and comparatively speaking without pain. I sing his praise.
OWEN M. ANDREWS,
Pastor M. E. Church, South, Cor. 6th and Mateo Sts.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth, I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain. D. K. TRASK,
Judge Superior Court, Los Angeles.

Several years ago Dr. Schiffman did some crown work for me which has proved entirely satisfactory. The work was done painlessly and with great skill. It gives me great pleasure to recommend him.
IRIVING R. SMITH,
L. A. Times.

Dr. Schiffman has done a large amount of bridge and plate work for me, which was done in a very satisfactory manner.
A. J. BRADISH,
Chief of L. A. Detectives.

Flexible Rubber Dental Plates
Have many advantages over the old thick, cumbersome, ordinary rubber plates and even over gold plates, being much lighter and thinner. These plates are flexible, only a trifle thicker than heavy writing paper, fit closed and adhere better to the roof of the mouth. Particles of food and small seeds cannot get under them. They will last longer, are stronger than any others and will not break, as they will give first, being flexible. Dr. Schiffman's own process, and made only by us.

Our Guarantee Is Good
We refer you to the Merchants' National Bank as to our reliability and responsibility.

No boys or students to experiment on you. With us you are not experimenting. We have stood a 14-years' test in Los Angeles.

There is no Need of Paying High Prices

FOR FINE Dental Work. Our modern methods enable us to do the very best dental work of all kinds without pain at prices within the reach of all.

Dr. Schiffman extracted eight teeth for me without a particle of pain, and afterwards made me a full upper flexible plate, which fits me perfectly.

I have given them a good test, as it has been a year and a half since they were made. I gladly recommend the doctor to all who are in need of dental service.
MRS. EMMA BIRKLE,
420 South Moline avenue.

Dr. Schiffman's hours at the chair are now 9 to 5, and he can be consulted personally any time during those hours.

ALL our work is guaranteed to be the very best. None better can be had anywhere, no matter how much you pay.

CAN SHONTS GIVE RELIEF?

New York's Congested Railroad Problem.

Militiamen Caught Padding Shooting Scores.

Triplets Come in Answer to Prayer for a Son.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Theodore P. Shonts, of railroad and canal fame, has come to New York to try and solve the local transportation problems. If Mr. Shonts succeeds in his efforts he will have accomplished something which no other man has been able to do, and the population of this city will rise up as one person and bless him. There is much speculation among the people in general as to what methods the new head of the street railway systems will adopt. They have been accustomed for many years to these changes of heads to "improve the service," but have failed to note the improvement. In fact, as New York increases in population the conditions grow worse. Even with the addition of the subway to the system, fractured ribs and bruised arms during the rush hours are not a novelty.

Mr. Shonts admits that he is not a street-railway man and is altogether unfamiliar with the conditions here, but he is full of confidence in his ability to bring order out of chaos.

Mr. Shonts made a flying trip to the city recently. About the most noteworthy feature, as far as the public are concerned, of that trip, is the fact that during Mr. Shonts's visit, which was for the purpose of gaining information, he used cabs to the exclusion of the cars of the company he will head. This is in sharp contrast to the action of Gov. Hughes, who, just before going to Albany to take the oath of office, went through the whole experience. He got on the street cars at the most complained-of points. He got on the elevated and subway roads at the most congested stations, and he made it a point to go across Brooklyn Bridge during the worst of the daily crush.

ELEVATORS KEEP CITY SMALL.

As though New Yorkers did not have enough trouble without borrowing it, some one has figured out what it would mean to the city to be without elevators in this age of skyscrapers. The person who started this discussion did not take the trouble to figure out just what it would mean, but left that to the other fellow to worry about. He merely suggested that if you had a week of spare time you might sit down and try to determine how many miles New Yorkers travel in elevators—daily, weekly, monthly and yearly. In the opinion of most persons in the controversy there would be no skyscrapers if there were no elevators; that they would be impossible even if citizens were willing to climb the stairs, on account of the valuable time lost by the process. In the event of no elevators it would be a question of substituting area and great horizontal distances for the present vertical tendencies of architecture made possible by the elevators, which now permits floor orea even forty-six times the ground area of a skyscraper. In this man's opinion, New York would be a great city without a single elevator—a city of gigantic area, occupying far more than the present 324 square miles of municipal territory. The present city, in his opinion, would be devoted almost solely to six-story business houses with solid residential sections far out on Long Island, and taking in Yonkers and much territory to the north on the mainland.

MILITIA SCANDALS.

One of the results of President Roosevelt's hobby—improvement of marksmanship among enlisted men—and his offer of increased pay for good scores made by individuals, has been scandal and charges of conspiracy. The entire score of Cos. L and M of the Fifth Infantry, shot on the range at Plattsburg last summer, has been wiped out by the Secretary of War "without honor."

The results for these two companies were remarkable. In the history of the army never before had men in a single season of practice shown such improvement. About all the marksmen became sharpshooters, all the sharpshooters became experts, and the few who had worn the expert medal won their "distinguished expert."

Men who previously could barely, without coaching, get on the target at 500 yards, all at once became sharpshooters, and the riflemen, about sixty in all, who had worked so hard and done so nicely, held their heads still higher and proudly wore their honors, while each month they pocketed the extra $2 from Uncle Sam. They were held up as an example to the men who simply plugged away at the targets, ruffling up the dust back of the butts and depending solely upon their natural ability to shoot.

Army officers became suspicious, and there was a large volume of correspondence on the subject. They soon had evidence that men in the two companies, as one company alternated with the other at marking and scoring, had entered into a conspiracy to elevate their averages.

Secretary Taft has announced, in addition to wiping out the scores, that the extra pay awarded the men will be withheld from their monthly pay. One of the companies is still at Plattsburg Barracks, and the other is in Cuba.

SAFETY APPLIANCES.

The American Museum of Natural History has been a center of interest lately, owing to the international exhibition of safety devices. About everything ever devised to save and protect life and limb and health is on exhibition there. There are devices whereby the rural visitor may blow out the gas with perfect safety, and fenders for street cars which pick up the victim so gently that it is a pleasure to be run down. There are elevators which cannot start until the door is locked, and brakes for trains which make runaway cars absolutely impossible.

There are lifeboats and other life-saving apparatus, safety couplers for railroad cars, and never-failing signal systems for the railroads.

ITALIAN TRAGEDIAN COMING.

The most interesting dramatic announcement of the week was made by a well-known firm of theatrical managers, to the effect that they had signed a contract with Ermete Novelli, the noted Italian tragedian, for thirty appearances in various parts of the United States. The tour will begin at Boston on March 4, next. The leading lady of the company will be Olga Jiniani, who is said to have won many triumphs. Novelli is now playing in the City of Mexico, where he was engaged by the Department of Arts and Public Institution.

PRAYERS ANSWERED.

While Charles Catroppa and his wife have been praying for years that they be blessed with a son, little did they dream how liberally their prayer was to be answered. They are the parents of four splendid little daughters, who were anxious for a little brother. Mrs. Catroppa presented her husband with three sons the other day, and the joy in the Catroppa home is without bounds. Catroppa also threatens to write to President Roosevelt upon the subject of race suicide.

It has been a great many years since the children of New York have had as much "country fun" as they have had this winter. There has been snowfall after snowfall, so close together that the street cleaners have found it impossible to remove all of it, and this has given the little folk a chance with their sleds. This means much to them for the snow is usually removed so quickly in this great city that many winters pass during which they do not get to use their sleds at all.

THE OPEN SHOP IS PROSPERITY.

BOTH TO WORKERS AND TO OPERATORS OF THE COUNTRY.

The Closed Shop Stifles Ambition, Prevents Young Men from Learning Trades and Gives Ignorant Men a Power That Is Dangerous to the Best Interests of the Country.

[The Square Deal:] There can be no doubt in the mind of any thinking man as to the desirability of the open shop over the closed shop, for many reasons. The closed shop is unlawful and has been so decided in all of the courts before which the matter has come. It destroys ambition and individuality in the workman, and gives union leaders who have no financial interest therein absolute control of the business of the employer. It destroys ambition because under the union rules of the closed shop the slowest man sets the pace, and the decent workman who honestly desires to give a fair day's work for a fair day's pay is obliged to forego that privilege under fear of expulsion or fine from his union, and he is therefore unable to show what is in him that he may merit promotion. It destroys individuality because the union, to sustain its power, demands collective bargaining, thus giving to the walking delegate the power to control the workman and demand his discharge and replacement by others whom he may favor or who pay him money to obtain them a job; and last but not least, the closed shop means the restriction of the output, thereby causing an increase in cost of all the necessities of life, and it means the outlawing of our American youth by the restriction of apprentices. Under the union rules, only one boy in eight on an average may learn the trade of his father. The cause of this is obvious and is merely for the purpose of creating a labor trust by the failure to grow skilled mechanics to take the place of those who die off, but the harm done to the youth of the country is the greatest crime ever committed by any organization of men that the world ever produced. There are today in New York City 150,000 young men from 17 to 21 years of age who have not been able to learn a trade, and not knowing how to do anything, they have become loafers and criminals. The warden of a large penitentiary wrote us not long ago that over 60 per cent. of his convicts were under 21 years of age. The closed shop puts in the hands of ignorant men a power that is dangerous, not alone to the employer, but our very system of civilization. It creates contempt for the law, than which there can be no greater menace to our institutions.

On the other hand, the open shop or merit system encourages ambition and individuality. A visit was made to one of the largest manufacturing plants in America the other day, the owners of which have lately "open-shopped" their works. The superintendent stated that under union domination many of his men, and he employed some ten thousand of them, would on pay-day draw from $40 to $60 and be absolutely broke the next morning, all of their money having been invested in cheap whisky and similar vicious indulgences, but that now these very men were buying homes and paying for them from their savings, the money that formerly went into whisky and loose living because of their restored ambition through the knowledge that merit would count and that they would be properly paid for what they properly did, and that they need have no fear of losing their job through the interference of a walking delegate to whom they were no longer obliged to pay tribute.

There are 32,000,000 people in America who obtain their living through gainful occupations, or, in other words, are wage-earners. Of these less than 2,000,000 belong to what is known as organized labor, but these 2,000,000 are led by cunning agitators who make such a loud noise that the people have come to believe that all who work for wages belong to organized labor and are speaking through them for a betterment of their condition. As can be seen, nothing is further from the truth; but public opinion has gone off on the wrong tangent, and as a result, these 30,000,000 wage-earners are harassed to death by the paid outlaws in the employ of the modern labor trust leaders. They are driven from pillar to post and not allowed to exercise the right given them by the Constitution to earn a living in the sweat of their face. The Constitution is trampled in the mud by such eminent leaders as Mr. Gompers, who said in a speech in the Mechanics' Pavilion in San Francisco four years ago: "I tell you men here present tonight that every non-union man in this city must get out of it." How well his hearers carried out his orders is amply illustrated in the condition that San Francisco finds itself in today. It is the worst misgoverned city in the Union, every office is held by a union leader, and lawlessness runs rampant.

To understand thoroughly why the open shop is needed, all the causes that lead up to it must be thoroughly understood. It is the salvation of America, but in seeking that salvation the greed and commercialism of the employing side must also be guarded against in order that they may not acquire power, that they can use for evil, as have the labor leaders. Every one believes in unionism of the proper sort, which has for its object the obtaining for its members of better wages, better sanitary conditions and help in case of sickness or death. Unions of this kind in England are alive and doing business and securing these things; while every single one of the militant unions working along the lines of those in America are crippled and hobbled, the closed-shop principle has been condemned by popular opinion. And that is exactly what will happen to the closed-shop unionism of today in America. They are weakened by the fatal error of the closed shop; their aims and objects are good but serve only to deceive because their practice in no way resembles their precepts. Every true American citizen should have a proper understanding of the situation and use it for the creation of a public opinion that will compel cowardly politicians and public officers to do their duty in the enforcement of the laws now upon our statute books, and thus give equality to all and special privileges to none.

INTIMIDATE LEGISLATURE.

ILLLINOIS LABOR UNIONS PLAN A CAMPAIGN.

They Propose to Show the Members of the Legislature Evidence of Their Strength and Have It Understood That Laws Must Be Enacted in Their Interest.

[Chicago Chronicle:] Like crusaders of old, an army of labor men is preparing to march on Springfield the latter part of this month or early in March and lay siege to the Legislature, with the purpose of forcing the passage of laws favorable to the unions.

The movement, as conceived by the Federation of Labor, is intended as a great demonstration—probably the most spectacular thing of the kind ever attempted by union labor in the State.

Several hundred labor delegates from all over Illinois will join in the crusade. Meeting in Springfield, they will hold a convention, march through the streets to the Statehouse, and there will exhibit themselves in a body for the benefit of the legislators. The local labor leaders say there will be no effort to intimidate the lawmakers, but that if the latter are intimidated it will be so much the better.

PLAN OF THE CRUSADERS.

Probably a request will be made for the appointment of a special "labor day" in the Legislature. Then it is the plan of the labor men to have the score or more of bills in which they are interested brought up for discussion. The programme provides for a statement of labor's views on these measures by representatives of the unions on the floor of the Legislature.

The crusade was devised by Secretary Edward Nockels of the federation, seconded by Miss Margaret Haley and President John Fitzpatrick of the labor body. It was adopted as a substitute for the usual labor lobby, which was voted too expensive.

Miss Haley furnished Secretary Nockels with the inspiration for the idea when she gave the delegates at the federation meeting some of her pointed views on "How to Treat Legislatures."

MARGARET HALEY ON WARPATH.

"The thought of begging things of these legislative people is extremely distasteful to me," said Miss Haley. "I don't like to go down on my knees to politicians. It's shameful. It isn't right that we have to do it."

What the labor men ought to do, Miss Haley said, would be to march boldly up the Statehouse steps and say: "Gentlemen, we want this bill passed. Now pass it or not, just as you choose. But take warning, because we mean business."

Miss Haley said she thought that plan would "scare" some of the legislators.

The scheme "caught" with Nockels. He proposed the holding of a "legislative labor convention" at Springfield. Each central labor body in the State, he said, might send two delegates, and the local unions could send one or more. The labor interests of the entire State thus could be brought together and a labor "hammer" forged which might be effectually used on the Legislature.

NO "MUSH AND MILK" AFFAIR.

"This ought not to be a mush and milk affair," suggested one delegate.

"No, it must be made a moral lesson to every lawmaker in Springfield," said William McPherson of the carriage makers. "We should attack the walls of Springfield en masse and sound a blast of labor's trumpet through the legislative halls."

Miss Haley declared the plan was "excellent." She then suggested that a special "labor day" be arranged, if possible, in the Statehouse, when the unions might have full sway for twenty-four hours.

The notices for the call of the "convention" will be sent out to all labor organizations in the State if a definite date can be agreed on.

AN IMPROVED PROPELLER.

A Grand Duke Combines the Screw With Propeller Blades With Good Result.

German shipbuilders are beginning to believe that royalty has made a considerable contribution to the speed of steamships. They are beginning to give serious attention to the Nikki screw, which for some years after its invention was treated rather as a joke or at best an amiable fad of a ruler with a taste for mechanics.

The inventor is his Royal Highness Frederick Augustus, Grand Duke of Oldenburg, and the invention is named in honor of the heir of the Grand Duchy, the hereditary Prince Nikolaus, Nikki is the Prince's pet name.

The fundamental difference between the Nikki screw and the ordinary propeller, says the New York Sun, is that all its blades are not set in a circle around the core. They are arranged spirally, the pitch of the spiral, and that of the blades being mathematically related. The pitch of the spiral is not very great, so that the length of the core has not to be very greatly increased, but the effect upon the action of the blades in the water is said to be amazingly great.

As the four blades do not turn in one ring, each secure an independent hold on the water. This added hold on the water makes it possible to diminish the pitch of the blades, and so no accumulation of dead water is carried around in the concavities, reducing the driving power of the blades. Greater rapidity of revolution is also secured, and so the propellor is more in tune with the high-speed engines now in use. This is largely due to the fact that the screw constantly throws the water out from itself much more rapidly than the old-fashioned propellor.

Theodore Zeise, a prominent builder at Ottenesn, has made further developments in the idea, regulating the pitch and ascertaining the metal most favorable for the construction of the propellor. With his improvements it is called the Zeise-Nikki screw. The combination was tried on a tugboat, the Bremen, and an increase in efficiency of one-third was secured. The verdict was that the screw was a great advantage in river navigation. It has been tried at sea also. The North German Lloyd steamship Seydlitz used it on a voyage to East Asia and reports increase of speed with diminished coal consumption. One marked feature was said to be the reduction of vibration, due to the greater ease with which the propellor travels through the water. It is expected that the Nikki screw will be found adaptable to warships and that it will combine well with turbine engines.

Caught Owl on Engine.

As the earliest morning express train from Glasgow to Aberdeen and the Highlands was passing Alloa Junction about 5 o'clock some time ago a bird, in the act of flying across the track, was intercepted by the locomotive, which was traveling at a speed of more than sixty miles an hour.

The driver's quick eye noted the incident, and at Stirling, the first stopping place some six miles further on, he found a magnificent specimen of the barn owl clinging in its death grip to the hand rail of the engine smoke box. Strange to say, not a feather was ruffled.—[From the World Wide Magazine.

MAS THE PLEADER.

of the Most Interesting Men in fornia—Stirring Adventures in Life of the Lion of the Thaw —His Hoodoo.

BY EDWIN EMERSON.

as Abraham Lincoln. He was the kind of a lawyer whose office furniture consisted of an old rickety table, a threadbare carpet, two chairs and a spittoon. Delmas, on the contrary, loves luxury and ease. After his wedding to Judge Hoge's daughter, he fitted up a sumptuous suite of offices, with divans, oriental rugs and marble busts of Cicero and Demosthenes. These are the statues, by the way, whose marble brows the enraged adventuress bumped together until she broke their noses. When old Judge Hoge was shown Delmas's legal apartments he strode silently through room after room, with his hands in his pockets and a big quid of tobacco in his mouth. Finally, at the inner sanctum, he halted and surveying all the divans and plush curtains contemptuously, he spat on the floor and drawled: "Well, Delmas, where are the girls?"

FRENCH BY BIRTH.

Delmas is a Frenchman by birth, having been born in France, the son of French parents. He himself pronounces his name Delmah, and in his early days resented any other pronunciation. He is proud of his likeness to Napoleon, and for this reason prefers to let but one portrait of himself get abroad. This is a photograph which was taken many years ago in San José, showing a stray curl over his forehead after the manner of a certain famous portrait of Napoleon.

D. M. DELMAS,

Delmas's people came to California in the days of the gold rush and settled in the Santa Clara Valley. In the town of San José a street bears their family name. Delphin was educated at the Jesuit College of Santa Clara, one of the best classical colleges of America. Delmas was graduated from it with the highest honors and received a gold medal for his proficiency in the classics. Only one other man in California holds the mate to this medal and that is the president of the college. Delmas, according to the college authorities, was the brightest pupil ever graduated from Santa Clara. Afterward he was graduated from the Yale Law School and was admitted to the Connecticut bar.

They tell this story of his schoolboy days at Santa Clara: Delmas, the better to perfect himself in Greek, solicited the favor of private readings with Father White, the best Greek scholar of the Santa Clara faculty. For the first lesson he brought his own copy of Demosthenes' orations, whereas Father White brought none. "Will you read from my book, father?" asked Delmas.

"No," replied Father White. "I need no book. I know my text by heart." For the next lesson Delmas came emptyhanded. "Where is your book, my son?" asked Father White.

"I need no book," said Delmas. "I have learned my text by heart."

A WORKER.

Any one who has ever toiled through Demosthenes' endless orations may well doubt this tale, but I have it from the lips of Father White himself. His story is thoroughly characteristic of Delmas as a student and lawyer. In Delmas's own words, "there is no such thing as genius. So-called genius merely means hard work." If this definition be true, then Delmas is a man of genius. His former partner, Sam Shortridge, who is now defending the San Francisco boodlers, told me that Delmas never made a speech in court which he had not thoroughly written out before and memorized word by word. One of these speeches alone covers 263 printed pages in the court records. In some of Delmas's important cases his closing arguments lasted several days. Mr. Shortridge also told me that Mr. Delmas never put a witness on the stand whom he had not previously examined and cross-examined in person. Never in his legal career has Delmas been known to ask an adjournment on the grounds of having been "taken by surprise;" but many times, on the contrary, he has been known cleverly to prolong an examination or an argument on some special point until a recess or adjournment, so as to gain time for further fortifying his case during the recess. California lawyers have observed with delight that these same tactics were employed by Delmas from the very outset in the Thaw trial.

Some idea how this lawyer prepares his cases may be gained from this reminiscence of one of his former law partners, Franklin J. Bull. One day, so Mr. Bull told me, Delmas showed him an old walnut tree standing on the banks of Coyote Creek in San José. "There stands my first jury," said Delmas. Then he told, how years ago, when he received his first retainer he had anticipated all the possible points in this, his first case, during long afternoon walks in the course of which he used to address himself to that walnut tree as if it were a jury box. When the case came up before the judge, it never came to trial because the very first motion for dismissal was so forcibly argued by Delmas that the court granted the motion. As Delmas put it,

Inventor of the Bidwell Cold Motor.
Inventor of the Water Electric Generator.

I never made an unsuccessful invention. My first invention was the electric fan, just as it is run over the country in hot weather. I didn't get a patent on it, but see what a tremendous success it is!

I next invented the trolley car system, just as it is run today. I made it perfect and successful right from the start. It has never been improved since I invented it. Look at the millions of money it has made for the stockholders. The stock of the trolley manufacturing companies sold below 15 cents a share in 1893 and 1894. Poor men could buy that stock then. Thousands of them did buy it, and every one who held onto it is a rich man today.

No Man on Earth Ever Lost a Penny He Invested With Me.

Next I invented the railway car telephone system. It is a system by which passengers or train crews can telephone from still or moving cars anywhere the same as if seated in an office. It is a more perfect system in operation than any other telephone you ever saw. This is on the road toward millions for the stockholders.

This is My Greatest Invention

Now I have invented something bigger and greater than either of the above. It is called the Bidwell Cold Motor. It is guaranteed not to burn out and is exactly the kind of a motor the steam railroad people have been looking for. It will change all the steam railroad systems over to electric roads, because it will be cheaper to run than steam and can be run faster and more safely than any present method.

The only drawback the railroads have had in changing over to electricity has been that no motor as at present made can be run 150 miles at 60 miles an hour without burning out. It would melt the very wires.

By using a Bidwell Cold Motor a train of cars could be run from New York to San Francisco without a stop at the rate of 60 to 80 miles an hour and not even warm up and without a hitch.

Besides running faster, they would be more safe and sure than steam, cost less to operate and would last longer than any other motor now known.

The Bidwell Cold Motor is the greatest invention out since I invented the trolley car.

The Opportunity of a Lifetime

I want to give every man and woman a chance to come in with me on this, for I expect to make millions for the stockholders out of this new patent.

The stock will be sold on the square. There will be no hocus-pocus about preferred or common stock, nor any other scheme, trick or wrinkle by which anybody can be frozen out.

Every dollar invested will represent one hundred cents of the best stock. Every share will be exactly like every other share. The profits on every share will be the same as the profit on every other share. In short, there will be nothing but a square deal all around.

I have made a lifelong reputation for square dealing. I will personally see to it that every stockholder gets a square deal on this. The stock is fully paid and non-assessable.

In order to make it possible for every man and woman to get in with me on this big deal I have decided to sell the stock until Feb. 23 only at the following prices:

50 shares, cash $37.50; 100 shares, cash $75.00; 150 shares, cash $112.50; 200 shares cash $150.00; 250 shares, cash $187.50; 300 shares, cash $225.00; 500 shares, cash $375.00; 1000 shares, cash $750.00; 5000 shares, cash $3750.00.

Don't hesitate about this stock. It is absolutely safe and sure.

Here is a Vital Point to Remember

There never has been a failure of consequence in electrical manufacturing. Stop and think of that. All are immensely successful. All pay big dividends and have made their investors wealthy.

This company will soon be one of the biggest in electrical manufacturing in the world. This is bound to be so, because there is not a place now where a motor or generator is used but it will have to sooner or later change for the Bidwell cold motor or generator. Why? Because we make something better than any other kind now known.

I firmly believe that within a short time this stock will be selling at $3 a share. This is your opportunity. It is a case of come quick or not at all.

"My whole campaign was won in the first skirmish."

Bull tells another story illustrating the keen painstaking methods of Delmas as a pleader. One time Delmas was engaged in a suit at law with Hall McAllister, his most formidable rival for the leadership of the California bar, representing the other side. Hall McAllister was a man who was seldom, if ever, known to smile. His stern features have been immortalized in a statue of the grim old man that stands before the shattered City Hall of San Francisco. On this occasion Delmas instructed his junior counsel, Bull, to devote himself to nothing else throughout the case than to watch McAllister's features. "Watch him closely," said Delmas, "and make a note of it, if he smiles but once. When he smiles make a note of my point of argument at that instant." Bull watched the old man intently day after day as the trial wore on. One time only, when Delmas had made a particularly happy point, Hall McAllister glanced at the jury and after suppressing a yawn, appeared to smile superciliously, if such a scornful look could be called a smile. Delmas was jubilant. "That's where we've got the old fox," he exclaimed. "Now that I know where he is wounded, watch me stick my knife in that place and turn it round."

When it came to the closing address Delmas centered all his argument around that one damaging point. And again Hall McAllister smiled at the jury. And then Delmas smiled. Hall McAllister lost his suit on that point.

SO PAINSTAKING.

Some of Delmas's most famous speeches and orations have been collected and published in book form by Alec P. Robertson of San Francisco. This is a very rare book. Only a few copies of it have survived the great San Francisco fire. The publisher himself owns but one. This copy, he said, he would not sell to me for $5000. It is a rare book not only on account of its scarcity but in the highest sense of the word. The publisher says it is the only absolutely flawless book that has ever issued from his press or that of any other press in San Francisco. Delmas was determined that it should be so. Both in the preparation of his manuscript and in his revision of proofs the author showed himself so excessively painstaking that the publisher determined not to be outdone. From title page to back cover there is not a single error or printer's flaw.

To attain this perfection one entire edition was sacrificed. When the book was first printed both author and publisher believed they had turned out a perfect piece of work, but it was Delmas who first discovered a fly in the amber. He found one small letter, a lower case "s," which had accidentally been set inverted. Only the trained eye of a printer ordinarily would detect so trifling a slip. The publisher was willing to let it stand, but Delmas would not have it. The whole edition had to be reprinted. This meant an outlay of over a thousand dollars, but Delmas offered to defray all additional expense. This so stung the pride of the publisher that he reprinted the edition on his own account.

"Of course it did not pay," he said to me, rather ruefully, "but that was a great lesson to me."

HIS BEST HOLD.

Delmas's greatest arguments in court have been delivered on occasions when he championed such fundamental causes as free speech, a free press, or the rights of widows and orphans as against corporation greed.

Perhaps the best exposition of the rights of a free press that has ever been presented in America was made by Delmas in defending the editor of a newspaper in San José for publishing a report of a divorce trial after all such reports had been expressly forbidden by the court. Of course the editor in question, who happened to be the brother of Delmas's former law partner, Shortridge, was haled before the judge for contempt of court and was sentenced to pay a fine. Delmas fought this case against the united judiciary of California way up into the Court of Appeals, and finally won it. He won it on the broad ground that a free people have a right to know what is going on in their courts.

Magnificent in this case was his answer to the formidable array of old court precedents from the common law of England, cited against him by the attorneys on the other side: "The stride of a full grown man," was his peroration, "is not to be cramped into the footprints of the child. The flight of the eagle, soaring above the clouds and measuring the distance from mountain peak to mountain peak, is not to be circumscribed wihtin the bounds of the nest which limited the first fluttering of its callow pinions. So might we as well guide our footsteps by the lamp of the dead past, snatched from the charnel house where the forgotten judges of Plantaganet, or Tudor, or Stuart dynasties lie buried."

Down to the time of the Thaw trial the most sensational cases ever tried by Delmas were a fake widow's suit for the Fair millions, which he lost, and a newspaper libel suit for $250,000, brought by one Baron Von Schroeder against John D. Spreckels, the owner of the San Francisco Call, whom Delmas successfully defended.

This trial, which lasted for many weeks, had all the objectionable features of the Thaw-White murder case, and worse.

The case, in brief, was this. Baron Schroeder owned a large summer resort hotel at San Rafael, near San Francisco. One day in October, 1898, the San Francisco Call published a leading article on its front page under the headlines, "Breath of Scandal Lies over San Rafael." The article then told of immoral practices and scandalous doings in that hotel with the owner of the hotel figuring in the worst light. Baron Schroeder promptly sued for $250,000 damages. John D. Spreckels, on behalf of the newspaper, pleaded justification and the truth of the story in defense. When the case came to trial the attorneys for the newspaper proved that there really had been scandalous doings at the San Rafael Hotel. Indeed "scandalous" is a mild word for what they proved. In the end Delmas argued that John D. Spreckels and the San Francisco Call had performed a commendable service to the public in exposing such iniquity. He pleaded the cause so well that he won the suit, and the baron had to pay enormous costs.

From the memorable peroration of this case, ending in an impassioned denunciation of the villain, meaning the plaintiff, patterned closely after Cicero's famous denunciation of Cataline, one may gain a fair idea of how Delmas may deal with the memory of Stanford White in the Thaw case.

A FAMOUS PERORATION.

Addressing himself to a jury of San Rafael townsfolk, who might naturally be supposed to take concern in preserving the fair fame of their town and the value of a good hotel in it, Delmas delivered himself of the following invective:

"If you are indeed afraid that an adverse verdict rendered by you may result in the financial ruin of your most valuable public house, I will say this to you: Let the house be fired by the torch of an incendiary until naught but a heap of smouldering ashes remains, rather than that girls of tender age shall continue to drag their vestal robes through the slime of its midnight orgies, until overcome with wine they surrender the treasures of their purity into the arms of heartless traducers!

"Let he tornado with its whirling arms seize upon the structure and scatter it to the winds! Aye, let the spot be blotted out until its very ruins shall have perished, rather than continue to be a haunt from which the young bride, her lips still tremulous with the vows pronounced at the altar, her brow still bound with the blossoms of her hymeneal crown, shall be taken out at midnight to adulterous assignations!

"Aye, let it perish, and this community will be all the healthier, all the stronger, all the better for it."

Having dealt thus with an insignificant German hotel keeper, how will Delmas deal with a Stanford White?

ANOTHER RACE BARRED.

No Citizenship for Hindoos Even Though They Have Filed First Papers.

A Hindoo cannot become a subject of Uncle Sam. The matter has come to the attention of the Department of Commerce and Labor through the stories printed in the newspapers of Oakland concerning the application of Veer Singh, the alien who refused to remove his turban, in taking the oath of citizenship.

Upon hearing of the event, H. H. North, the United States Commissioner of the Immigration Department, sent the following letter to County Clerk Cook:

It has been noted that a Hindoo declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States in your office recently.

"In this connection your attention is called to Section 2169, of the Revised Statutes of the United States, which reads as follows:

"The provisions of this title (Title 30, Naturalization) shall apply to aliens, being free white persons and to aliens of African nativity and to persons of African descent."

In other words, no alien is entitled to citizenship unless he be of the white or African race.

Several Hindoos have already taken out their intention papers of becoming citizens, but according to the regulation from the Federal authorities, the willing-to-be citizens will be denied the privilege when they come for the final papers.—[Oakland Tribune.

PROMISE OF FAIR SKIES.

Honolulu Preparing for Los Angeles Visitors.

Tremendous Rainfall During the Past Month.

Items of Interest from Mid-Pacific Territory.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—There should be fine weather for the Los Angeles visitors because it has been raining here almost steadily for two months, with high winds and low barometer, which touched 29.46 at New Year. There was hardly a day during January without rain, not ordinary rain, but floods of it, last month contributing just twelve inches of moisture. On January 30 a whole inch of rain fell between 4 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon, while during a period of five minutes there was rather more than one-third of an inch. At this rate it should all have come down before March 1, when the Los Angeles excursionists are expected to arrive.

The Standard Oil Company wants to change the laws of this Territory as far as they affect the business they are doing here. There is no objection to an inspection of oil and the company says that it "is always glad to obey any laws passed by the authorities, if such a thing is possible." In return for such concessions as it would like to get it promises to make Honolulu one of the principal seaport towns of the world. This will be good news for Washington, where appropriations for dredging, fortifying and lighthouses for this port can be eliminated. The Merchants' Association has been asked to assist in having such laws established so that the Standard Oil Company can do business in a legitimate way, although it professes to be always glad to obey any law passed by the authorities.

The first frame building ever erected in Honolulu is to be restored to its original appearance for the purpose of keeping the relics of the early missionary days. A movement having this object in view has been started by Gov. Carter, C. M. Cooke and other sons of the early settlers, in fact, the old building has already been secured. The lumber for its construction was brought from Boston, the material being sawed and ready to put together before leaving the eastern port. When it arrived here Honolulu had just been made the capital of Lunalilo's kingdom and he would not allow the missionaries to erect a building of such importance, which surpassed in size and luxuriousness his own palace, until they had proved to his satisfaction that they were not here for conquest or as the advance guard of an invading people.

At the end of next June there will be a tract of 172,780 acres reverting to the Territorial government, which now yields a rental of only $1200 a year. There are 7000 acres of forest reserve, 743 acres of cane land, 50,000 acres of grazing land, the remainder being lava flow. It has all been held under a very long lease by the Hawaiian Agricultural Company, and the people are wondering what will be done with it and whether the present administration will again lease it for ¾ of a cent an acre per annum.

The great fight over the sale of the island of Lanai was brought to a prompt termination by Gov. Carter. Within less than six hours after the Supreme Court had decided that the Lanai deal could be made, the Governor carried it through, effecting an exchange of property whereby the Territory secured city and suburban property for the 47,669 acres of public land on Lanai, which is assessed at $107,000, the property secured being worth $114,000. The transaction had been opposed by former Senator McCandless, who claimed to be acting in the interests of citizens. The majority of the island is absolutely worthless, and the soil is gradually being blown into the sea. It was mainly owned by the government and by Charles Gay, who now secures the whole island. The pastoral and grazing portions of it are so located that they could not be turned to good account without the expenditure of large sums of money for irrigation purposes, money that the Territory has not available. Gov. Carter placed the whole matter before the President, who approved his course of action as long ago as October 10, saying at the conclusion of his letter: "I do not care a rap what the politicians say about you, still less what they say about your course. You are doing all right, and you can be certain of my unqualified support."

The report of Queen Liliuokalani's engagement to Prince Alexander of Tahiti, which appeared in the San Francisco Examiner recently, is denied on absolutely reliable authority. When Mrs. Atwater, formerly one of the Tahitian princesses, passed through here on the Mariposa, she left a letter for Queen Liliuokalani, saying that she was sorry that she had not met her. Mrs. Atwater also informed the Queen in that letter that her brother, Prince Alexander, was at his home busily engaged with his own private business. Queen Liliuokalani was then at Lahaina. When Prince Alexander and his sister, now Mrs. Atwater, visited Hawaii in the days of the monarchy, they were entertained by Queen Emma, Princess Likelike and the then Princess Liliuokalani. Since then they have always been on friendly terms, but nothing more.

Naturally the intimation from Washington that Japanese immigrants to the United States may be restricted has caused some discussion in this Territory where, for ten years or more, the entire available supply of plantation laborers has been secured from Japan. Twenty-five years ago Portuguese laborers were brought here freely from the Azores. This was in the days of the monarchy, when sugar sold at a much higher price, and plantations could afford to pay all the way from $240 up to $400 for every laboring man that came here in specially chartered steamers. This business was suspended until last year, when a steamer arrived from the Azores with plantation laborers, which cost $155 to the plantations for each man. Since then there has been difficulty in securing another steamer, but the agent of the Board of Immigration in London has just chartered the steamer Heliopolis, a new steel screw boat built last year. She will bring about a thousand people from Malaga, which is a sugar-growing district in the south of Spain. The Portuguese make good laborers, although very many of those who were brought here twenty-five years ago have now taken up land and do farming on their own account. This, however, will be the first experience these islands have ever had with Spanish laborers in the cane fields.

Between Lehinch and Lisdoovarna will be at least one very bad stretch of road near the cliffs of Moher. Some other parts are only fair and others excellent. In this will be seen the homes of some of the very poorest of the Irish peasantry.

From Galway there are a number of interesting side-trips to one with time to spare, including one by boat to the Arran Islands. One day will more than suffice for seeing the town.

From Galway one can either go west to Clifden, through Connemara, passing twenty-four beautiful lakes and a succession of wild scenery for fifty miles and thence up the coast to Westport through as wild a region as one could wish to see, or proceed due north to the lake region stopping at Cong for a rest. From here the trip may be continued north into Ulster through Sligo, Donegal and across to Londonderry and then by way of the Giants Causeway to Belfast, the largest, most prosperous and up-to-date city in Ireland, the only one in fact, that can be classed with the great manufacturing or seaport towns of America, England or the Continent. From here one can go down the eastern coast to Dublin and there, after viewing Ireland's capital, cross over to England. This is, of course, a bare outline and it can be varied in scores of ways, extended, cut short or altered according to one's fancy.

Landing at Liverpool from Ireland or from America as the case may be, an excellent tour may be taken to the north through the lake regions of Cumberland to Carlisle and thence to Glasgow. In Scotland, if the tourist have time and inclination, there are scores with beautiful scenery and historic associations to attract but under no circumstances should one miss Edinburgh, the ancient capital of Scotland, a city famous for learning, and as great a contrast to Glasgow as can be imagined. The sights of these two great Scotch cities are far too numerous to attempt to detail. At Glasgow there are great manufactures, shipyards and all the usual things seen in a great commercial city, in Edinburgh universities, churches and various schools give the city an intellectual air and an appearance that is unique. It is a remarkably pretty city. About Glasgow on all sides are the Scottish coalfields, through which one passes on his wheel both when entering from the south and in going to Edinburgh.

Leaving Edinburgh for the south, a good route is through the historic town of Berwick-upon-Tweed, that stands on the boundary of Scotland and England, thence to Newcastle-upon-Tyne and York. At the last-named place the famous cathedral should be seen. From here a good trip is through the lake region of Derbyshire.

The distance covered between Liverpool and Glasgow, allowing for side trips through the lake region, will be between 250 and 300 miles. There are some stiff hills in the lake region. Between Glasgow and Edinburgh it is about forty-five miles and from Edinburgh to Berwick fifty-eight miles.

When at Liverpool Manchester should be visited. It is only about forty miles distant. By all means one should go from Liverpool to the ancient city of Chester, one of the curiosities of England. The distance is only sixteen miles from Birkenhead just across the Mersey by ferry and the road is as nearly perfect as can be imagined. On a pleasant afternoon hundreds of cyclists ride over it.

From Chester there is a road into North Wales affording a very pleasant trip or one can proceed south to London so arranging his itinerary as to pass through the great manufacturing city of Birmingham, Coventry (famous for manufacture of bicycles,) Stratford-on-Avon, the birthplace of the great Shakespeare, filled with memorials of the immortal bard; Oxford, with its great university; Henley, famous as the scene of the great regattas, and a score of pretty little places along the river Thames.

In London bicycles may be profitably used in the suburbs, but while some ride in the crowded thoroughfares of the old city, they must be skilled indeed to do so, and to my mind the work is such as to rob it of all pleasure.

From London there are scores of beautiful side-trips to be taken. Brighton and the south coast resorts should be seen at all costs. Canterbury, the site of the primate church of England, famous for the martyrdom of Thomas a Becket, and immortalized by Chaucer, should be visited without failure.

So many are the profitable and pleasant trips to be taken that to tell of them all would take a volume and to take them all would require more than one season, therefore a careful selection must be made.

Excellent roads will also be found on the Continent, in France, Germany, Belgium and elsewhere. If one speaks French so as to be able to get along bicycling here is profitable. It is well before going to France to obtain membership in the British Cyclists' Touring Club, whose membership card permits you to take your machine into France for a pleasure trip without depositing the amount of duty. Without this credential you must put up the money, take a receipt and present it to call for a refund when leaving.

OPEN-SHOP FIGHT WON.

[Milwaukee Sentinel:] Admission of the defeat of lithographers in Milwaukee is made by members of the union. Some of the strikers have left the city to secure employment in other places, and others are preparing to follow their example. Of the forty-four men who went out about thirty are still in town.

The local strike was part of that declared all over the country August 1 last. The only demand made was for the eight-hour law, which met with a general refusal. In Milwaukee the Milwaukee Lithographing Company and the Greve Show Printing Comopany acceded to the demand; while the American Show Print Company, the Gugler Lithographing Company, the Northwestern Lithographing Company, and Wilmanns Brothers Company, refused. The entire forces of these five establishments walked out. The shops continued in operation, using their office forces and salesmen until they were able to get men competent to do the work. Employers declare that the real fight was for the "open shop," and that from now on this policy will be in force in their establishments.

Red Tape in France.

France may be republican, but in red tapedom she surpasses even the most effete of monarchial countries, as Baron von Pawel-Rammengen, husband of Princess Frederica, of Hanover, discovered, to his great annoyance, the other day.

Having called on a friend and not finding him in, the Baron sent his visiting card to him in an unsealed envelope, with a five-centimes stamp.

Unfortunately, he had written a few words of greeting on the card, and this made it a letter, calling for fifteen centimes postage. The envelope was opened in the postoffice, and the Baron was ordered to appear in court to defend himself against a charge of trying to swindle the government.

The poor man had to make no less than four trips to the other end of Paris to clear himself of suspicion.

Only after the German Ambassador had said a good word for the Baron and he had sworn that he had sinned from ignorance, was he let off with a fine of four francs, because, as the judge said, he was an ignorant foreigner, of whom one should not expect too much.

The remarks of the court made the Baron very angry, especially as the whole audience roared with laughter at his discomfiture, but he bit his lips, paid his fine and left the courtroom in a hurry.

The Selby Smelting and Lead Company has decided to erect an acid plant in connection with its plant at San Bruno, at a cast of $300,000. PEOPLE OF THE COAST.

Col. Henry E. He believes the State can be so advertised that thousands of settlers will be one of the chief results.

Gee Nom, the lottery king of San Francisco, says he has been notified that a price has been set on his head by the highbinders, and he only visits Chinatown in the daytime for fear of being shot from some dark doorway.

Frank Chester Pease, recently a student in the University of California, will start this spring, in the uniform of a private of the United States army, on a tour of the world. He will visit the great military camps of England, the continent and Africa for the purpose of studying the personnel of the enlisted forces of foreign institutions. Mr. Pease served in the Philippines as a private in the Army Hospital Corps, but is not now attached to the army.

PROMINENT PERSONS.

"Grandma" Early, believed to be the earliest settler in Kansas, is still living in Atchison. Mrs. Early arrived at the famous old Shawnee mission, in what is now Johnson county, in 1839.

Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin told a friend the other day that he had made $16,000 clear during the last lecture season, which was a short one because Congress did not adjourn until July and the political exigencies in Wisconsin demanded much of the Senator's time in that State. Mr Lafollette will resume his lecture tour early in the spring and keep at it until the close of the season. He expects to make not less than $25,000 on the platform this year.

Jeffries Davis, who has just retired from the Governorship of Arkansas, issued 1778 pardons during the six years he served as Chief Executive of the State, or one pardon for nearly every working day of his term. This record is believed to stand without an equal in any State in the Union.

Norris Brown, the new United States Senator from Nebraska, is both a seeds Joseph H. Millard, who was the opposite, both elderly and rich. Mr. Brown's father was a farmer, and his boyhood was largely devoted to the farm. For several years he rode eight miles to school on one of the farm horses. In 1879 he entered the State University of Iowa and was graduated four years later.

BITS OF VERSE.

Life's Ladder.

Only in dreams is a ladder thrown
From the weary earth to the sapphire walls;
But the dreams depart, and the vision falls,
And the sleeper wakes on his pillow of stone.

Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit, round by round.

The Call.

Because the night is dark and lone,
Because the fields are bleak and bare,
Because the clouds are dark above,
Shall we forget the stars are there?

Because the way is steep and hard,
Because our hearts are wavering, weak,
Because the heights seem hard to win,
Shall we neglect our tryst to keep?

Not so did He in Galilee,
Not so did any one who dared,
But mindful only of the right,
Through sorrow, suffering, onward fared.

Ours was the fault; we who forgot
That all was ours; we who were still,
While wrong traduced the nation's right,
And giants stole the nation's will.

We who forgot our children's rights;
We who forgot our legacies,
Bought with the best blood of the years;
We who are masters, one and all,
Ours is the duty, we who can
The hour has come: Where is the Man?

—Joseph Bondy in National Magazine for February.

Inspiration.

Where shall I seek or find it, tell me where?
In azure heaven or in sunny air?

Not in the shadowed mystery of woods,
Where flitting song enchants; or silence broods;
For in its heart is noiseless change and death,
A flash—a glow—a memory—a breath.

Not where the pageant of the blushing flowers
Wakes ecstasy to charm the slumbering hours!
For shadows creep and shrivel each delight,
Paling upon the trail of solemn night.

Not where the mountain peaks may woo the skies!
And sunset paints the heaven with mystic dyes;
Not in the flames of morn that only seem
The passing mirage of a fleeting dream!

Not through immortal gates of starry ways,
Where trackless glories mock our human gaze;
I cannot reach infinity sublime,
The worlds that march unto the end of time!

But in my darling's heart and in her eyes,
I find the inspiration that I prize;
In the pure depths of her sweet soul I see
The inspiration that must come to me!

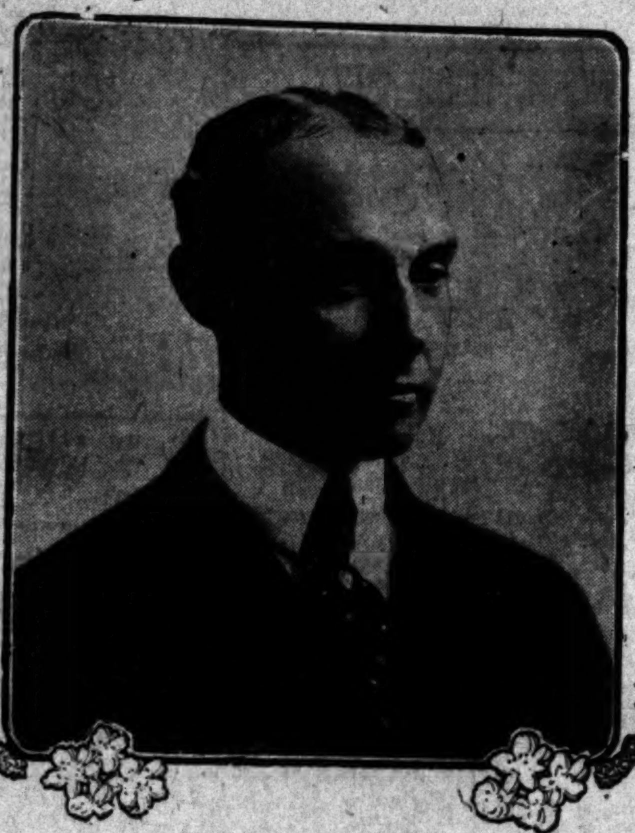
The "New" New Mexico.

A BRIGHT FUTURE FOR THE TERRITORY—GOOD POINTS MADE IN MESSAGE OF GOV. HAGERMAN.

By William M. Allison, Jr.



Gov. Hagerman of New Mexico.

SANTA FE (N. M.) Feb. 10.—It is better, for advertising purposes, to have a good Governor than a Bureau of Publicity and Promotion. California has on numerous occasions tested the truth of this assertion, positively and negatively. And now New Mexico is about to garner the fruits of the honest and businesslike message of Gov. H. J. Hagerman to the Territorial Legislature. His message contains about 20,000 words, but is not a sentence too long. Now that its contents have been digested by the intelligent citizens of the Territory, there is a great demand for copies of the document, as it is being recognized as worthy of circulation out side of the Territory.

Among the disadvantages pointed out in the message of Gov. Hagerman, which are likewise obstacles to Statehood, may be mentioned sparsity of population and high percentage of illiteracy; confusing and contradictory general laws, wide-open corporation law; inequalities of assessments, careless and incomplete collection of taxes, and licensing of public gambling.

Like California, even long after Statehood had been conferred upon her, New Mexico has within her borders a large number of "native sons." Some of these, like the Pachecos, the Sepulvedas and the De la Guerras, of historical note in Southern California, are among the noblest and most high-minded men in the United States, and, taken as a whole, the Mexican population constitutes an element which must be reckoned with, politically and morally, for a long time to come. A few years ago New Mexico was a wilderness in which life and property were perpetually in hazard; today she is a peaceful, energetic commonwealth; and pulsing mightily in the throes of impending great developments; a few years hence she will be recognized as "an empire in herself"—rich beyond computation in natural resources, climate, intellect and manhood—a worthy accession to any galaxy of States, however enterprising and cultivated. "New Mexico is all right," and is "working out her destiny" with a courage, a patience and a hopefulness that will one day arouse the admiration of the entire American nation.

HAVE BEEN SLANDERED.

The people of New Mexico have been wilfully and maliciously slandered by those from whom they, and seekers after knowledge concernig them, had a right to expect fair treatment. Her best citizens bitterly resent the superficial and supercilious manner in which her people and internal affairs have been glanced at by Senators and Representatives in Congress. They are still smarting under the damaging allegations and imputations made by members of the Senate Committee on Territories a few years ago. This committee, on the occasion of a flying trip, made "a Poultney Bigelow report" on conditions then prevailing, which was so deliberately unfair and unjust as still to rankle in the breasts of men who feel pride in the land of their nativity or adoption. This long-cherished anger is directed especially against Senators Beveridge and Dillingham, who were the spokesmen of the party. It is claimed that they slighted and repulsed the friendly overtures of the most intelligent citizens of the Territory, who wished to enlighten them, and confined their investigations mainly to the capital city, Santa Fé. Here they interviewed with glee a justice of the peace who happened to be drunk, and a half-witted boy whom they encountered on the street. When they called for "papers," they selected those of counties and judicial districts officered by Mexicans, while the public records of localities in which Americans had control were ignored. This "cut-and-dried" snapshot has greatly injured the Territory and curdled the usually sweet tempers of its ambitious, justice-loving residents. Scarcely more satisfactory was the "junket" of Congressmen, under the leadership of Representatives Tawney and Madden, who bestowed barely a glimpse on the manhood or the resources of the Territory, and openly proclaimed that they were "on their way to Arizona to look at a mine." One cannot help liking and admiring this brave, patient people, and joining with them in the loving toast: "New Mexico is all right." They are pursuing the patriotic development of their vast mineral and agricultural resources with a dignified indifference to temporary misfortunes and obstacles that is bound to triumph eventually. Without enumerating in detail these sources of wealth, it may illumine the subject to say that in some portions of the Territory there are veins of bituminous coal forty feet in thickness, and that in other sections anthracite and bituminous coal are simultaneously extracted from the same mine.

AS TO EDUCATION.

The sweeping charge of wholesome ignorance is not well founded, and is a species of misrepresentation based on the influx of negro and foreign-born coal miners, and the existence within her borders of a large number of Mexicans who, while they have not acquired the English language, yet read and write Spanish with ease. According to the reports of the United States Commissioner of Education for 1900, New Mexico stood forty-seventh in a column of fifty, for illiteracy. The proportion of illiterate population above 10 years of age in New Mexico was 33.2 per cent., while the average for the whole United States was about 10 per cent. of the entire population. Between 1890 and 1900, however, the percentage of illiteracy decreased from 44.5 to 33.2. No one can live among the English-speaking settlers in New Mexico and truthfully assert that their standard of intelligence is low, while only a "tenderfoot" would attempt to underrate the intelligence of the average American miner or prospector. Town for town, gauged by population, to be the highest of any State in the Union.

The Bar Association has just taken preliminary steps toward straightening out, harmonizing and codifying the hodge-podge of Territorial statutes, and the Governor has recommended the enactment of new election laws as a matter of urgent necessity. The present election laws were enacted piecemeal, commencing with the Legislature of 1865, and afford almost unlimited opportunities for fraud. One of the most important of the Governor's recommendations is for the selection of impartial election boards, the judges of election now being appointed by partisan county commissioners. Among other political reforms advocated by the Governor are the appointment of challengers at the polls of each county central committee; personal registration; a system of primary elections, and the adoption of the Australian ballot. On these points the Governor says: "It is a well-known fact that under our present system, while the nominating conventions are supposed to emanate from the people, they are controlled by a few. . . . And our present system of balloting in elections is open to many abuses. In some counties it is reported that there were no printed ballots containing the names of candidates for Delegate to Congress, or for members of the Legislature. In others, 'stickers' were placed over the names of the regular nominees on every ballot before leaving the hands of the county central committee."

RICH AND CARELESS.

New Mexico is very rich—and correspondingly careless. But, despite years of abuses by office holders, the territory is in good condition financially. Its total bonded debt, November 30, 1904, was $950,000, and on the same date in 1906 it was $843,000, a reduction in two years of $107,000. The reductions during the last seven years aggregated $407,000. There are now in the various sinking funds $103,000, leaving a net debt of $740,000. Between now and May 1, 1908, there will fall due current expense bonds to the amount of $140,000, for which funds for payment are, or will be available. Thereafter no bonds will become due until 1919.

TAXES.

The tax levy for 1906 was fifteen mills, and for 1907 it is fourteen mills. This apparently high rate is directly due to inequalities of assessments and carelessness in collections. The assessed valuation for the entire Territory this year is $42,000,000—at the lowest fair rate it should be $250,000,000. Quoting from the Governor's message again, "there are areas of timber land in New Mexico which are classified as grazing land, and assessed as low as twenty cents an acre. The valuation of timber lands, as fixed by the Board of Equalization, is from $2.50 to $5.00 per acre, according to location, and of grazing lands, from thirty cents to $1.25 per acre. There are large areas of coal and mineral lands, the real values of which are many hundreds per cent. higher than the assessed valuations under erroneous classifications. The timber lands of the entire territory were returned last year at the insignificant figure of $231,000, when the amount of lumber taken out during the year was $1,250,000. The coal and mineral lands were returned at only $1,119,000, when the value of their product alone for the year was $4,677,000." The same recklessness characterizes the collection of the poll tax. In 1904 there were more than 43,000 votes cast, and about 65,000 voters were registered. Yet less than $12,000 was collected, which elicits this comment from Governor Hagerman: "From this showing it is apparent that a large amount of money (more than $40,000 per annum) does not find its way into the hands of county treasurers for the benefit of school funds, either through failure to collect by clerks of the different school boards, or, if collected, not properly accounted for."

JAPANESE FREE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

RAPID PROGRESS MADE IN EDUCATIONAL METHODS.

Male Teachers Are Generally Employed Because of Social Conditions—Medical Inspection Provided for All Schools and Every Child Is Enrolled in the Schools.

[Boston Transcript.] "The difference between the Japan of 1864, wholly at the mercy of what power might choose to insult or despoil her," writes Principal Peiters, of the Steele Academy, Nagasaki, "and the Japan of 1905, the mistress of the Pacific, may be summed up in one word—education." The magic force of education has impressed itself on the entire East through the progress of Japan. This progress is nothing less than that of the bright and diligent pupil who in twenty years' application makes himself master of a fund of knowledge which it has taken the human race as many centuries to acquire painfully. The number of Chinese students in Japan rose from 2406 to 8600 in 1905. Whoever first inspired popular education in Japan, it is now largely in the hands of the ex-feudal military class who were dispossessed and deprived of their livelihood by the reorganization of society in the revolution which has made Japan a modern nation. Thus, the code of knightly conduct known as Bushido, which had been a distinction of the few, has become, through the medium of the public schools, the inspiration of all. One of the most important differences between the Japanese school system and ours is that, as in Germany, the large proportion of the teachers are men. The average percentage of women employed is only 15 per cent., as against 72 per cent. in the United States. One reason for this state of affairs is the backward condition of female education in Japan; another is early marriage; and "still another is found in the social conditions which limit free intercourse between the sexes, making it inadvisable to employ women as teachers in middle schools, or even in the higher elementary schools for boys." In the lower grades, however, as well as in the higher schools for girls, the employment of women is constantly on the increase, just as it is in the employment of women as clerks in postoffices and other public places.

We say "free" schools in speaking of Japan's system, because, beginning with the year 1900, in view of obligatory attendance, it was ordered that, wherever possible, elementary education should be free, and by 1905 only 5 per cent. of the whole collected any tuition, and that a mere trifle. Primary common school education is, therefore, already practically free. In Massachusetts, we have just introduced medical inspection in our schools and are vaunting ourselves considerably on that account as in the van of progress again, as usual. But in 1898 in Japan an imperial ordinance was issued providing all public institutions of the middle grade and one-third of the elementary schools with school physicians. They look after hygienic conditions, the cubic feet of air allowed for each pupil, the height width and length of seats, and the three sorts of cleaning, viz., "the usual cleaning, the periodical cleaning and the cleaning after floods." The teachers, too, are paid well, according to the standards of wages in the country. Taking the average carpenter's pay in each country and the lowest figures in each case, the Japanese teacher receives in a year 243 times and the American 210 times the carpenter's daily pay. The government protects him in his position so that he cannot be discharged without cause nor can his salary be arbitrarily reduced. It also secures his position and dignity in the community by giving him official rate of real consideration in the eyes of the Japanese. Finally, when he can no longer work, it pensions him, or, in case of death, his family. Every child throughout the empire of 47,000,000, who has not a valid excuse for non-attendance, is enrolled in the schools. The national determination is to make the country as successful in improved methods, in agriculture and the industrial arts, through the growing intelligence of the people, as it has shown itself to be in war. All classes feel the same expectancy as to the future.

PACKWOOD TURNED TO COAL.

An Interesting Result of the Action of a Turbine in Six Months' Time.

A curious case of transformation of packwood into coal has been reported by G. Arth to the French Academy. A Jonval turbine was running with its steel point on a pivot of packwood. It was a twelve-horse-power turbine making 112 revolutions per minute, and the mass in motion weighed nine hundredweight. The packwood was not exactly under water, but it was always wet; it was a wood of best quality. After six months' running the turbine was dismounted, and it was observed that, while the lower part of the block of wood was apparently unchanged, the upper portion, on which the turbine shaft had been rotating, was turned into a black mass, full of fissures, and brittle. The fracture was brilliant, as in coal. The mass was analyzed in the wet and dry states, and it proved that this charred packwood occupied by its composition as well as by its heating power a position intermediate between lignite and coal. It gave 7394 calories, against the 8000 of an average coal. The observation is interesting on account of the short time which the change had required. The pressure and friction were, no doubt, considerable, but the temperature cannot have risen to a high degree. The author of this paper believes that this observation should modify our views on the length of the geological periods generally considered necessary to explain the formation of our coal beds.

Senator Pettus's Responsibility.

The punctilious standard of responsibility set up for himself by Senator Pettus of Alabama was illustrated a few days ago. A dapper young man called upon him, the grandson of an old southern friend, long dead. The caller talked Mr. Pettus out of $50, promising to return it in a few days, but the Senator learned that the young man had immediately deserted his wife and gone to parts unknown. The fine old gentleman lost no time in hunting up the deserted wife, gave her enough money to meet her pressing necessities and also paid her way back to her girlhood home in Alabama. "If I hadn't loaned the young scamp money," said Senator Pettus, when asked about the incident, "he would not have been able to get out of Washington and desert his poor little wife. I, therefore, hold myself responsible for her unhappy plight, and, of course, there was nothing for me to do but send her back home to her people."

The Lemon a World Fruit.

Lemons to all the world are being handed out by California and Florida. The same is also true of limes, but they are not used nor talked about as much as lemons.

Formerly all the lemons used in the United States came from Sicily, but Consul C. M. Caughy, writing from Messina, has advised the Department of Commerce and Labor that Italy's fruit trade with the United States has dwindled to almost nothing. The only country the California and Florida lemon has not yet been able to reach is Russia, where there is a duty of $3.00 a box.

whose photograph appears herewith has a most beautiful head of golden hair, thicker than the crown of glory of most mature women. Frances is only four years old, and her hair hangs within 12 inches of the floor. The extraordinary hair strengthening qualities of Danderine has grown for this little girl the most admirable head of hair ever possessed by a child of her age in the world. The other two ladies whose photographs are shown here are certainly delighted with the results they are gutting. Neither of them having hair that would reach to their waists before beginning the use of Danderine.

IT IS POSITIVE AND PERMANENT IN ITS RESULTS.

When applied to the scalp on either old or young, it makes the hair sprout and grow thick, long and beautiful, and there is no waiting around for weeks and months to see results, either. Any druggist will refund the price if it does not accomplish every result we claim. NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

(BY A TIMES REVIEWER.)

LITERARY STUDIES.

Ibsen and His Work.

IBSEN. By Haldane Macfall. Morgan Shepard Company, New York and San Francisco.

Haldane Macfall's study of Ibsen is neither an even piece of literary work nor a very deep-going and thorough analysis of the spirit of the great dramatist's plays; yet it shows a large measure of appreciation of the man; and in the present dearth of good biographical matter, the present lack of understanding of Ibsen's genius, and especially of the courage to write truthfully of this, even yet, the book will stand as admirable, so far as it goes. "If I shall have turned some eyes to that masterwork," says the author, "if I shall have aroused at least a few from the dull groping for life amid the hypocrisies and the narrow ways of the sordid wayfaring that respectability has narrowed within the meager hedge of lies and humbug that hem the mean and stilted path of the convention-ridden world—even though they awake to find that at first only by trespass over hard and forbidding and stony ground may they reach to the broad highroad where real men and women walk, thinking out life fearlessly for themselves, not in subjection to Ibsen more than to any other man—the labor of this little book will not have been in vain."

The man Ibsen, Mr. Mcfall analyzes in part thus:

"At bottom his was a candid and genial nature hid under an armor of brusqueries. But that face could take on a look of cruelty and fierce severity when we was stung to impatience or wrath or biting scorn or righteous indignation. And the world, plucking at his magnificence, railing at his honor, sneering at his powers, called him to show that scowl, and saw it, by consequence, nearly always.

He was trained in the gray school of adversity, and the hair-shirt of the purseless brotherhood was thrust upon him.

"Ibsen saw life as the most sacred of all things. He saw that life was a thing to be lived: not to be denied and starved and balked. He saw that under a state, society made laws which it thought, or pretended it thought, were for the public good; but that in reality these laws were often cowardly and contemptible tyrannies that ground down all originality and genius and freedom out of the individual, weakening his will, killing his initiative, making him a hypocrite for fear of vexing his fellows. . . . The individual has a right to complete freedom—to live his own life full. It follows that to be free, he must allow the like freedom to others. Therefore it is a part of freedom that he shall also do nothing that threatens the freedom of others.

"Ibsen had utter contempt for any part of a man's creed or ideals which he did not try to make his own life realize. Indeed, such part of a creed or ideal is a lie, a dead thing. His belief in deeds makes the blood leap as at the bugle's call. 'For storms a man must not alter his course—that were cowardice.' He set himself a lonely wayfaring; and even his stout courage came near to reeling at the loneliness on occasion. His life and work proclaimed the glory of the man who sacrifices everything to his own development.

"At 36, with half his natural span of life gone behind him, at an age when most men are winning the prizes of life in a state of penury, dependent on the charity of friends, fretting under the lack of recognition, galled by bitter attacks from the commonplace jacks-in-office of public opinion, disgusted with the dullard self-complacence of his stupid day, angered and ashamed at the faint-heartedness of his countrymen, who drank allegiance at banquets to their brothers of Denmark, yet shrank from striking a blow when Germany assailed, he shook the dust of his country from off his feet, and went into exile.

"Bitterly disliked and unpopular in his own country for the best part of his life, he lived to see himself its chief source of pride—boasted of as a national possession that gave Norway her best title to fame—his dramas the glory of Scandinavian literature—the publication of a new play from his hands a European event. He spent the greater part of his life in exile, flinging stones at the windows of society; he returned in his old age to be rapturously welcomed by the folks whose windows he had shattered."

"He often thought clumsily," adds Mr. Mcfall toward the close of his analysis. This statement of fact and one other statement—"The individual has a right of complete freedom, to live his life full; therefore it is a part of freedom that he shall also do nothing that threatens the freedom of others," constitute the key to much that is dim and apparently self-contradictory in Ibsen. The last statement voices a principle that Ibsen taught by the intuition of a great heart, but sometimes lost sight of when he tried to reason. It is not an expression of anarchy at all, although Mr. Macfall calls Ibsen an anarchist—although Herbert Spencer has been called "the Great Anarchist" for the expression of the same idea. For if every freedom that trenches in anywise on the freedom of others, on their full living of their lives, is wrong, then all deeds that bring evil to others, even in the most distant consequences, must be wrong; then only the most high-minded shaping of one's life to the good of the whole of society, even while one demands freedom exactly for the self-development that shall accomplish this end, absolute freedom from mere convention for all innocent expressions of individuality, is right. Rightly construed, such individualism calls for the highest self-consecration of every man as a part of the general scheme of things, to the good of all, and calls for all innocent freedom as a means of self-development to the good of all—as a step for that general freedom demanded by Carlyle (and by Kipling and a thousand other geniuses in lesser degree, according to their own independence,) where each shall think for himself to the benefit of all. It is a restatement of the Kantian principle of responsibility to society on modern and higher ground; or otherwise, the principle destroys itself. It is as much altruism as egoism; it merges the two in an evolutional ideal. This is a fact that Spencer makes very clear in generalities—but also occasionally loses sight of in detail; therefore a man who is primarily an artist and not a subtly-reasoning philosopher, may well be forgiven for having groped in darkness sometimes over the carrying out of the thought.

As before said, Mr. Macfall's analysis of Ibsen's plays is not very deep-going—and chiefly through failure to perceive exactly this self-contradiction and to distinguish by it among them; to discern where the humanitarian found the truth intuitively through his broad sympathies, and where, on the other hand, the bitter hater of mere creeds followed blindly his prejudice against these and fell into a short-sighted egoism—into narrow errors of his time. The biographical sketch of Ibsen contained in the volume is, on the other hand, good and fairly elaborate—though we need a longer biography.

FICTION.

Mary Wilkins-Freeman.

BY THE LIGHT OF THE SOUL. By Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman. Harper & Bros., New York. (Price $1.50.)

Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman's newest book is not likely to add as much to her reputation as the preceding excellent one. It bears the marks of careless or hasty writing—not simply in the fact that Mrs. Freeman describes one of her characters, on page forty, as a "stout, elderly woman," while on page forty-eight, she speaks of the repulsion felt by a child for that same woman's "thin body" (a piece of forgetfulness that reminds one, by analogy, of the very rapid changes of the moon in one of Hall Caine's novels) but in other ways. Perhaps this is the result of delivering the work piecemeal for serial publication, although Mrs. Freeman has done the like before; at any rate, the book lacks a little in finish and falls considerably short in interest. This last fact is no doubt in a measure due to the choice of a subject. The girl heroine is singularly ordinary, and this Mrs. Freeman's heroines are not wont to be, however ordinary their setting. The story lacks somewhat, too, of the emotional warmth that usually distinguishes Mrs. Freeman's novels; and as her dramatic action lies more in inner than in outer effects, this is a serious fault.

The story is that of a girl married very young and under peculiar circumstances—through the stupid interference of others, who think that she has been compromised by untoward events—delayed till late at night in company with a boy a little her senior while searching for a lost sister. Neither of the parties to the marriage desires it, and it is kept secret for years, a marriage in name only, until the love of the younger sister for the boy, now grown to manhood, brings about a crisis. The elder sister sacrifices herself for the other, though she has come to care for the man; and the story closes with an Enoch Arden scene, in which the one sister watches through a window the happiness of the other.

The book is good work; it suffers only in comparison with Mrs. Freeman's better and more finished stories—not in comparison with those of any other writer in similar field.

Tom Masson.

THE VON BLUMERS. By Tom Masson. Moffat, Yard & Co., New York. (Price $1.50 net.)

Of course a story by Tom Masson is light (in distinction from heavy;) and of course it is amusing. Perhaps "The Von Blumers" is not quite so amusing as "A Corner in Women," but it is sufficiently entertaining. It is somewhat of a novelty as a tale, since it concerns not so much the ante-nuptial love affairs of a young couple as their experiences in early married life, and the experiences of their friends. The book is very charming reading and may be heartily commended to the attention of all who care for bright comedy.

Mystery Plots.

DOUBLOONS. By Eden Philpotts. McClure, Phillips & Co., New York. (Price $1.50.)

THE TREASURE OF PEYRE GAILLARD. By John Bennett. The Century Company, New York. (Price $1.50.)

THE SLAVE OF SILENCE. By Fred M. White. Little, Brown & Co., New York. (Price $1.50.)

Of the three stories of mystery named above the first, by Eden Philpotts, will probably best please popular taste. It concerns a murder and a long hunt for the murderer. There is also a lost treasure concerned, and of course a love story runs side by side with the development of the mystery, and ends in the good old-fashioned way. The skill of the hero in the use of jiu-jitsu takes the place of swordplay as used in the now moribund historic novel and adds unexpectedness to many a situation.

"The Treasure of Peyre Gaillard" is the sort of book to interest the chess player—and all others who like to figure on deep problems and enjoy a slow hunt after the solution of a mystery. The puzzle will be likely to present itself as too intricate and a little wearisome, to others; there is so much of it, unrelieved by any special adventure interest. Of course there is a love element in this novel also, and in spots it becomes prominent with a sudden and somewhat hectic warmth, unaccountable on grounds of previous development. It hangs more than ordinarily loosely together with the rest of the story, which is as a whole not as well constructed as might be possible.

"The Slave of Silence" is of lighter, more even plot, than either of the other stories, its parts are more coherent, and the plot is more original; it makes, indeed, somewhat too great demand on the imagination to be everywhere convincing. However, it is a fair mystery tale and will fill the need of those who seek entertainment and rest in the diversion furnished by such.

JUVENILE BOOKS.

Book by a Boy.

A BOY'S VACATION ABROAD. By C. F. King, Jr. The C. M. Clark Publishing Company, Boston.

This is a book, unfortunately, without much to recommend it, except that it is good work for a youth of the age of the young author. It may amuse the young people simply for the reason that it is written by one of their own age; but the chances are that they will find more interest in "A Tramp Abroad" or some of the newer travel stories written for them by older people. The best thing in the book is the preface, in which the ingenuous author announces:

"This is my first book. I have worked awfully hard to write it. It is the first time I ever tried to write a book, and, of course, I do not know how well I have succeeded. It may be a terrible 'frost,' and then, again, it may 'catch on.' I hope it will 'catch on.' I lost a lot of fun writing it. Every page represents good, hard work, and for the most part it represents work put in when the temperature was up hig and the weather very hot. A great dea lof it was also written when I had to fight mosquitoes with one hand while I was writing with the other. In Rome, Brindisi, Athens and Constantinople I had to do this. Rome is a bad place to be mosquito bitten, too."

If the author is not sure how the text of his book will "catch on," he is sure about the pictures, which he announces that he made with his own camera. "I am proud of the pictures," he says, "because they are good. That much of my book I feel sure will not be criticised very severely, because I had a good camera, and everybody who has seen the pictures says that they are all right."

Boy's Historic Plot.

COMRADES THREE. By William R. A. Wilson. D. Appleton & Co., New York. (Price $1.50.)

"Comrades Three" is a story for boys, the plot laid in the New World of the time of Louis XIV. Two boys, coming from England to their uncle in the wilderness, find strange plots at work in the forest and have many adventures—at the end of which they find an old and lost happiness, discovering one thought dead. The story is excellent, and the historic plot is perhaps particularly commendable for young people, since it at least interests them in the period and gives them some idea of its customs and conditions.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

ANGELICA WOLTER,

The Wonderful German child actress who, some critics predict, is destined to become the greatest actress of the age.

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—Fraulein Angelica Wolter, now 8 years old, who has been a regular memebr of the theatrical profession for more than two years, has already accomplished so many remarkable things in the dramatic line that German critics declare the little girl is on her way to the front rank among the world's actresses. Some even go so far as to say that she will, if she develops in the future as she has in the past, become the greatest actress of all time.

Angelica began her dramatic career in babyhood. Her parents, recognizing the emotional and dramatic tendencies in their child, did what they could to foster the talent. At the age of 5 years and 10 months she made her first public appearance on the stage. It is said that she displayed the histrionic powers, not of a child, but of a mature woman, and many experts puzzled their brains to understand how the little girl could portray such emotions so far in advance of her age. So far she has had nearly as many press notices to her credit as the "Divine Sarah," and the former employs no press agent. The prohibition against the appearance of children on the stage, which obtains in most countries, is never enforced in the case of the wonderful Angelica—so exceptional are her extraordinary abilities.

The little prodigy, during her two years' career, has provided out of her profits a sufficient sum to give herself the best of educations in the next ten years.

Busy All the Time.

When the youth in the city wrote the old man that he had been "playin' of the 'devil an' a-doin' of nuthin'," the old man replied: "Ef you've been a'playin' of the devil you shorely must a been a-doin' of something, kase the devil is no loafer. He keeps busy six days in the week and don't go to sleep in church on a Sunday!"—[Atlanta Constitution.

THE PRISONER AT THE BAR

Sidelight on the Administration of Criminal Justice. By Arthur Train, Assistant District Attorney, New York County.

The prisoner at the bar is a figure little known to most of us. The only information available to most people on this important subject is that offered by the press—in most instances unreliable. The object of this book is to correct the very general erroneous impression as to certain phases of criminal justice. Mr. Train has handled the subject in a way which eliminates dry facts and statistics. It is one of the most readable books of the year. Price, $2.00.

THE FAR HORIZON

Lucas Malet, the author of "The Far Horizon," stands among the foremost novelists of today. She is the daughter of Charles Kingsley, the famous poet. If the quality of readableness alone can give large distinction to a new work of fiction, this novel will easily take its place as the book of the year. Price, $1.35.

The PORT of MISSING MEN
MEREDITH NICHOLSON

THE PORT OF MISSING MEN

Manly men, beautiful women, intense situations, sparkling dialogue and a wonderful atmospheric charm enter into this latest success of Meredith Nicholson's. The tale involves the succession to the throne of Austria. The hero—an American-bred Austrian, dominating the situation throughout. Truly an absorbing story. Price $1.35.

BETTINA

If a man is standing at the ferry and is suddenly greeted by a charming girl he has never met, and told to run for the boat with her, is it fair to expect that he should sternly undeceive the young lady who has mistaken him for an unexpected chum of her brother? Thereby hangs a picturesque tale of love and piquant adventure. Price, $1.15.

Not a Guess Or a Gamble

WE KNOW that Wingfield and Nixon, two of the gold kings of Goldfield, have lately bought the Pittsburgh-Johnnie and the Globe-Johnnie mines. These buyers are but the advance couriers of bigger capitalists, and their purchases are but the initial steps for the consummation of one of the most sensational mining deals in Nye County, Nevada.

Every one in Los Angeles knows of that treasure vault, the Johnnie Consolidated mine, which is owned by local capital, and upon which eight leasers are operating. Our property, BOSTON-JOHNNIE, is as close to the Johnnie Consolidated as Globe-Johnnie, upon which the fabulously rich strike of ore recently was made.

Look at this map and see the relative positions of the choicest properties in Johnnie.

SEE SHADED LINES

BOSTON-JOHNNIE is making history faster than we can write it! Five Los Angeles capitalists bought the four claims which compose this property, after it was proven to be a mine and a shipper of paying ore. Then the company acquired two gilt-edged leases, one of them the BOWLER lease on the Minnie Mae claim. The ore here will average between $20 and $50 a ton. Next, the company is taking up the bond on the BOONE claim, which has a direct continuation of the ledge of the MINNIE MAE, in fact the Bouregard lease on the Minnie Mae, which adjoins the BOONE, uncovered the ledge on the BOONE property. This purchase will give us the ownership of five of the best claims in the Johnnie district, besides two leases, under which it is estimated we should take out between $600,000 and $800,000 during the life of the leases.

As soon as the title of the BOONE claim passes to the BOSTON-JOHNNIE MINING & MILLING CO., the price of stock will be doubled. That means an advance from 20 cents to 40 cents a share within ten days.

The allotment of stock placed in our hands at 20 cents is likely to be exhausted before the ten days are up. We therefore emphatically urge all who are tacit or expressed intentions of taking stock in this enterprise to communicate with us at once.

You must buy this week to be sure of getting in at 20 cts.

WE ACCEPT ONE-FOURTH CASH DOWN
Balance in 30, 60 and 90 days. Thus, if if you have $125 which you can spare this week to buy 500 shares, of a par value of $500, you may buy the 500 shares for $25 down and three monthly installments of $25.

The Making of a Successful Wife.

IX.—THE FIRST BABY.

By C. S. Yost.

[SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

MY DEAR LITTLE GIRL: I am just plum tickled to death. I'm so pleased I don't know which one of the boys I am. I'm so puffed up I don't know whether I'm coming or going. I met an old friend down the street a little while ago, and he says to me: "John Sneed, what's the matter with you? You're steppin' as high as a filly just off the grass. Been elected Governor, or somebody leave you a fortune?" I reckon that's the way I look, and I'm sure it's the way I feel. Somebody leave me a fortune! Well, I guess yes. Not a measly bunch of money. Oh, my, no! Something better than gold or greenbacks or checks. I've always heard it said that there's no fool like a young father except an old grandfather, and I'm beginning to believe there's something in it. I went around this morning and bargained for a box of candy, a red balloon and a drum before I tumbled to the fact that I was a few year's premature, but you can eat the candy yourself, and the other things will keep. That telegram really knocked me off my feet. Of course, I was expecting it. And also of course, I knew the chances were about six to a half dozen that it would be a boy. Still, when I opened that yellow envelope and my eye dropped on the word "boy" I felt like throwing up my hat and hollering like a kid. Maybe I did. Anyhow, I know I had a $5 gold piece in my pocket that disappeared just about that time, and I have a hazy recollection of a messenger trotting away with an ecstatic grin on his dirty face. I wonder if Bill is taking it as hard! Probably not. Probably he's just standing around with his hands in his pockets, rising up and down on his toes and beaming like a seraph upon everybody, from the cook to the man with a gas bill. I never saw a Cheshire cat and never saw anybody else who had, but if there is such a thing I bet it would go out of the grinning business for keeps if it could get a square look at Bill's face just about now. I know how it is. I was just that way when your brother came. But a grandfather's feeling is different. When a fellow finds that he is a papa for the first time his delight is so mixed with embarrassment that he just looks silly and feels more so. Grandpa isn't troubled with embarrassment. He may act foolish, but he doesn't feel that way, and in consequence he gets a great deal more fun out of the situation than papa does.

And you're going to name it John William. My, my, but that's a combination that ought to conquer the world! There are a good many Johns and Williams scattered around, and there's some of them I wouldn't be proud to have in my family, but, take them as they run, the fellows with such handles are a little bit above the average. I don't care what Shakespeare or anybody else says, there's a whole lot in a name, and when you saddle a kid with Algernon or Alphonso or something like that he's got a handicap that's pretty sure to place him with the also rans unless he's got more get up and git than the majority. Many a good man has been held below his level by the weight of his name. But John or William! Everybody knows what they are and what they stand for. There's no nonsense about them. They don't make you think of curling irons, or ruffled shirts or spats. No, indeed! They give you an impression of backbone, strong arms, and a broad chest, with a head rising above that is full of common, everyday brains, the kind of brains that does things worth while. The first impressions of other people have a good deal to do with a man's success or failure in life, and a fellow's name has more to do with fixing first impressions than most people realize. I've always been mighty glad that my name was John. It's been a whole lot of help and I'm sure pleased that my first grandson can start out on the road without any dead weight to carry. Likewise I'm proud that he's named after me. Bill can toot his own horn.

It's a great thing to be a grandfather. It's even a great thing to be a father. But greater, much greater, than either it is to be a mother. There isn't anything on earth as fine or as beautiful as a young mother, my little girl, and I'm certainly glad that my daughter has joined the ranks of the canonized. You've started out right, honey. I don't care a continental ding what they say about woman's mission. They can get up in the clubs and twitter all they please about women doing this or women doing that for the uplift of humanity. That's all right enough, but it shouldn't obscure the divine fact that woman's greatest and grandest and holiest mission is motherhood. Let all the other little missions trail along behind if they want to. Lots of them are fine, mighty fine. Your old daddy may be a little old-fashioned, but he ain't a knot on a dead log. He don't believe in scotching wheels of progress of any kind, and whatever will help the women folk to keep away up at the head of the procession will find me a backing it. But all the same, they shouldn't be allowed to get in the way of the main business of the sex. And that business, my dear, is likely to give a woman about all she wants to do for a few years. The unmarried woman and the old married woman, as well as the maidens all forlorn, can put in all the time they want on side issues, but the young mother has her work cut out for her, and I'm pretty sure the Lord's going to be satisfied if she attends to that. She can do more to uplift humanity by raising her share of it at home than she can do in a hundred years of effort in any other direction. That's the way I look at it, little girl. Wifehood is a grand and noble thing, but it's just the introduction to the real purpose of a woman's life. Wifehood without motherhood is a good deal like a person going into the vestibule of a church and stopping there. It may be a beautiful vestibule, with floor of mosaics, with marble columns and imposing arches, but nevertheless it's only the entrance to the great auditorium.

Anybody who gets no further than the vestibule, misses the crowning glory of the edifice. That reminds me of a story I've heard about an old couple who came up from Arkansas to St. Louis to visit the World's Fair. They were a nice old couple, but they hadn't been around very much. However, they got out to the grounds all right, bought their tickets and went through the gates. Then they paused in some bewilderment. There was so much before them that they didn't know which way to turn. After twisting his neck for a few minutes the old gentleman spied a lofty portal over to his right. There were many people passing through, and above the arch he read the big-lettered word "Exit." "Well, Maria," he said finally "that looks pretty nice. I reckon we'd better see the exit first." Then they joined the crowd and found themselves outside. They say the old man is still talking about the way them fellers down at St. Louis swindled him.

Yes, little girl, I'm glad you have started right, and not alone because you are thus filling the highest mission of womanhood. I am glad because you are laying solid the foundations of happiness. You and William might get along swimmingly together all of your days, but you would miss most of the pleasure, most of the beauty, most of the glory of life if you passed down the great road unaccompanied. For home, my dear, is never truly a home until its walls echo to the prattle of childish voices. The love of a husband for his wife or of a wife for her husband never wells up from the deepest depths of the heart until their hearts are filled and expanded by a love of their little ones. Love without children is like a song without words, beautiful it may be, but meaningless and incomplete. I don't set myself up for an authority on matrimony, but if I was going to write an essay on how to be happy when married I would put down just one word as the sum and substance of the first principle, and that one word would be "children." They are the tie that binds harder and faster than any words the greatest preacher on earth can say; theirs is the love which cements and makes perfect that other love, and down at the room of most of the domestic dissensions which have their culmination in the courts is the lack of that bond which nature demands.

And that isn't all, little girl. A home without children is like a rudderless ship drifting aimlessly from no place to nowhere. It may be stanch and it's cargo may be gold, but it has no destination and it never gets there, as a Milesian friend of mine would say. It is children, my dear, that gives purpose to life. It is children that takes its bearings, sets its course and fixes its haven. Little John William has given you something to live for, something to work for, something to spur your ambitions. Without him you have simply existed from day to day; with him you have a definite aim. Already I can see you planning his future, and it is the working out of such plans that makes the perfect man and the perfect woman. There is no discipline for the character like the joys and troubles which go with the responsibilities of fatherhood and motherhood. Oh, yes, the troubles will be there, along with the worries and the vexations and the tintinnabulation of the slipper on the—oh, yes, they're on the programme. But bless your heart, little girl, that's part of the game, the diversions which drive monotony away, which keep you keyed up and watchful. When things go too easy a man's likely to go to sleep on his job. Likewise a woman. Therefore the good Lord invented trouble.

Present my congratulations to Bill, keep oceans of love for yourself, and tender my most profound regards to John William. My, my, my, how anxious I am to see him! But, say, whatever you do, don't tell me it looks like his grandfather. Not yet, my child, not yet.

Your loving dad,
JOHN SNEED.

P.S.—I almost forgot something I particularly wanted to say and that is, while I believe in children, I'm pretty well convinced it's possible to get too much of a good thing. I have always felt more pity than admiration for the celebrated old lady who lived in a shoe. J.S.

When Entering a Room.

"The first lesson I was given," says a public reader, "was when I entered the school to learn elocution. My teacher took me into a room and told me to re-enter the room we were just in and properly walk to the opposite side. I started. Before me sat a half hundred girls; all had gone before me; and never in my life did I feel more awkward. I did not know how to enter a room in a pleasing manner, so then and there began the first lesson. It took considerable nerve to face those girls every day, yet each had to take the exercise, and we soon acquired the proper manner. You may be surprised to know we had to learn to look at people. Now I suppose every woman imagines she knows how to look at folks, yet we were taught to look people squarely in the eyes and avoid a shifting gaze. The worst proposition I had to face was taking care of my hands. They are not so large, are they?" she inquired, as she held up two dainty white hands. "Well, when I was being taught how to use my hands they felt like they were as large as my body. I can not see why all girls do not learn the simple rules, for, do you know, it makes a wonderful difference when you enter a room where people are congregated, and have their eyes upon you."

Arms and the Woman.

INFORMATION THAT MAY BE VALUABLE FOR MANY LADIES.

[From the New York Sun.]

"There ought to be a pretty arm club," said a girl who wears elbow sleeves. "Women need instruction in the art of taking care of their arms.

"At a dinner the other night half the women wore long sleeves. The other half snuggled their arms down tight at their sides or tried to get them out of sight somehow. They covered them up with bracelets, draped them in elbow ruffles and endeavored to conceal them generally.

"All this could have been avoided if they had had pretty arms. They would have been anxious to show them.

"The prettiest arms I know of belong to working girls. The girl who shampoos my hair has the arms of a conventional angel. They are plump and round and beautifully white. Another pretty pair of arms belongs to my housemaid, who handles a broom, and whose arms, though a trifle red, are plump and beautiful.

"The arms of the society women are often thin and badly shaped below the elbow. The forearm looks like a stick and the elbow resembles a knob.

"The worst arms are those covered with down. Such arms should be treated to a dose of peroxide of hydrogen.

"They should first be scrubbed. Then they should be rubbed well with peroxide, into which there is put just a drop of ammonia. This bleaches the down and makes it less conspicuous.

"Then should follow a vigorous rubbing with very fine pumice stone. The most obstinate arms will not require more than a few weeks of this treatment before they become smooth.

"Arms that are rough and unpleasant to the touch can have a little skin food rubbed into them. This will make them smooth after they have been treated with peroxide and ammonia.

"Most of the trouble with women's arms is due to lack of exercise. Window washing is very fine for the girl with poor arms. It develops the muscle and makes the arms firm and round.

"Typewrting also is good for the arms. Queen Victoria had lovely arms which she attributed to the fact that she practiced the piano many hours a day when young.

"There is a woman in town who could not wear short sleeves simply because her arms were rough and without shape. She went to an arm specialist and in a few days her arms were as beautiful as they could be.

"The specialist sent out for a stiff scrubbing brush and some pumice and ordered the arms scrubbed. She followed this up with a natural fruit bleach, and then she applied some paste made very much like glove paste.

"When she had smoothed her client's arms off and bleached them white they looked very nice indeed. But they were undeveloped. She then gave her client some arm exercise to do.

"They were all from the elbow and from the shoulder. They were calculated to bring out the muscles without making the arms knobby.

"Most women, when told to exercise, will go to work and bring out their arm muscles. They will cultivate knobs upon the arms. Now arms of this kind are not pretty. Women's arms should be very feminine, soft and pretty.

"The arm is usually very well developed between the shoulder and the elbow. It is the part between the elbow and the wrist that is out of shape.

"To develop this part there are three exercises. The first is a hand exercise.

"Open and close the hands rapidly. The hands should be limber and flexible, and they should swing easily from the wrists.

"The second exercise is the wrist exercise. The arms should be lifted at the sides as a bird lifts its wings, and the hands should be flapped back and forth. That is the only way to express it—just flapped. Try it and see how easily the wrists will work after a few minutes.

"The third arm exercise is a wavy one. The arms are lifted but the hands are dropped at the wrists. The arms are swayed and the hands are dragged after them.

"The Delsarte people describe this as the motion of the hands through water. The arms are vigorously moved, but the hands follow them in a dragging manner. They are lax at the wrists.

"Arms that are flabby as to the flesh need flesh food. Take a good oil of the sort that penetrates the skin and warm it slightly. Then massage it into the arm.

"It is much better to do this yourself than to have any one else do it for you. It exercises the arms and makes the flesh warm.

"The electric current is a good thing to wake up poor arms. Take a weak battery and apply the current to the arms so gently that there is only a tingle. There are massage rollers that come for this purpose.

"Arms that are red can be bleached with oatmeal and soft water. This is the way it is done by a London specialist:

"Take enough oatmeal to fill the hand and throw it into a big basin. Pour in half a gallon of boiling water and add a teaspoonful of borax and about ten drops of ammonia. When cool apply to the arms with a scrubbing brush and let it dry.

"Arms that are blotchy and poor as to complexion should be exposed to the air, and they should be rubbed with a cut lime. They need sunlight, air and the pure fruit juices.

"The arms of the Irish girl are perfect. They are plump and white, and they are fat right down to the very wrist, where they show a slight depression, as though a string was tied around the wrist.

"This is the natural bracelet. Irish girls have it, and all babies have it. But it disappears soon.

"Red arms and red hands usually travel together. They can be traced to one of several causes, but usually they are caused by tight collars. If the collar is tight, the hands will be red.

Wrists with bony joints are caused by lack of flesh rather than by too much bone. The only remedy is to develop the arm until the bone is covered.

"Where there are bones and veins and all sorts of unsightly things the flesh must be spatted and the arm must be rounded. The arm spatter is a wonderful thing. It is used in Paris a great deal.

"It is a stick with a pad upon the end. It resembles a greaser, just such as is used for the pancake griddle.

"The spatter is dipped in warm flesh food and is then spatted upon the skin. After a course of spatting the arm will be moist, oily and warm. In a short time it will begin to plump out.

"There are arms that seem to be crooked, but really there are very few crooked arms. The trouble is in the way they are handled.

"Most women handle their arms badly. They are awkward and they bring out the bad points of the arms instead of the good ones. The arms look ugly and gnarled and crooked simply because they are not handled gracefully.

"Look at an actress. Note how she does not pin her arms down to her sides. She holds them freely and gracefully.

"The amateur always pins her elbows to her belt, so to speak. She has no free movement of the arms. The arms should be relaxed, and this will give the shoulders the long Gibson curve.

INDIANA A HOT STATE.

Representative Landis Says His Constituents Are Always "Raising Hell."

A Washington special to the New York Herald contains the following graphic description of how the people of Indiana secure what they want from their representatives in Congress:

Gen. Sherman once said that "War is hell." Representative Fred Landis of Indiana today remarked that "raising hell" had supplanted golf and poker as the national game of the United States. Gen. Sherman spoke from the experience of a hundred battlefields. Mr. Landis spoke from an experience of two terms in Congress now drawing to a close. There was not such a disparity between these quoted remarks as might appear at first glance.

Representative Landis came into the House today with a four-word telegram in his hand signed by seventy-five citizens of a small Indiana town. It was an indorsement for a candidate for postmaster.

"They get two postal cards a year in that town; the salary is about $1000, and the air of that town is charged with electricity. I'll bet the operator who sent this telegram is now in a sanatorium," said Mr. Landis.

"Do you know raising hell has supplanted golf and poker as the national game of this country?" he resumed. "There is nothing on earth that will drag a candidate for postmaster in Indiana out of the race short of nitroglycerine.

"Last year I had four men from the same town come down here to see me about the postmastership. I got them together and said, 'Now, gentlemen, tell me what you want and I will do it.'

"It developed that those four men had met at the depot accidentally, and all taken the same train for Washington and were all candidates for postmaster of the same town. I suggested that they spit at a crack, shack dice or do something else to settle the fight. They just put it up to me, and when I did not settle it they went home and raised hell.

"The other day I got a letter from an inmate of a soldiers' home in Indiana, telling me to go up and see the Attorney-General at once, telling him there was a woman hanging around the home trying to blackmail said inmate, and threatening to raise hell if I did not.

"A day or two ago I got another letter from an old soldier asking a raise in a pension, and telling me I would 'k-e-t-c-h' hell if I did not get it. The letter concluded by saying that I would not only 'k-e-t-c-h' hell from the writer of the letter, but from the other boys in 'b-l-e-w' who lived in the community.

"I might cite a lot of instances in the same strain. I have been forced by experience to conclude that raising hell and 'ketching' hell as a pastime has really risen to the dignity of becoming our national game."

AIRSHIP TO WIN SUPREMACY.

BERLIN PROFESSOR'S "PIPE DREAM" AND LURID BOOK.

Dreadful Scenes of Carnage When the "Nation's Aerial Navies" Meet in Battle—Cities Pulverized by Falling Bombs—A New Napoleon Arises.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Jan. 23.—Recent progress in aerial navigation has greatly stimulated the imaginations of those authors who delight in waging bloody wars—on paper. When in "Locksley Hall" Tennyson many years ago "dipt into the future far as human eye could see," his prophetic vision beheld "the nations' aerial navies grappling in the central blue." But according to the poet that awful conflict is to bring about the era of universal peace—"the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

According to Prof. Rudolf Martin of Berlin, it is to make Germany the mistress of the globe. He has just published a book entitled, "From Berlin to Bagdad; the German World Supremacy in the Coming Era of Aerial Navigation," in which he tells how it is to be done. The perusal of it ought to afford some satisfaction to the Kaiser, who just now is fighting hard to maintain his own supremacy in Germany. And it should afford no little solace to the thousands of his poorer subjects who yearn to exchange a diet of horse flesh and dog meat for the roast beef of old England. For, of course, it is England which is to suffer most at the hands of the German despoiler.

When airships can travel faster than railway trains now move, Great Britain, the professor says, will be deprived of the present strategic advantages of her geographical position. The British navy will be reduced to comparative insignificance. The Himalayas will no longer protect India from land attack. The professor admits that England and America may build aerial navies, that, ship for ship, may be quite as good as those of Germany, but they will have no armies fit to cope with Germany's highly-trained legions with which, conveyed by aerial transports, she will overwhelm hostile countries.

The narrative of events which the professor relates takes place between 1913 and 1930. Germany adopts an improved form of the airship invented by Count Zeppelin, who thus far has merely succeeded in spending a large fortune in abortive attempts to conquer the air. The Zeppelin airship consists of a cigar-shaped balloon, with an aluminum deck, and fitted with powerful motors and steering apparatus. In the death-dealing perfected form it takes in Prof. Martin's book, the balloon has a capacity of from 60,000 to 100,000 cubic meters, is divided into something like 150 air-tight compartments, carries 600 men on its aluminum deck, and among other weapons of destruction is provided with 400 or 500 aerial torpedoes. The professor predicts that by 1916 Germany will have 2000 of these fighting airships in commission. Without armament he figures it out that they will cost only $75,000 each—about what it now costs to build a torpedo boat. In addition Germany is to be supplied with aerial trains, consisting of four airships linked together, the front airship alone being supplied with motors and towing the other three after it at prodigious rate of speed. Each train will suffice to transport 1000 fully armed and equipped German soldiers.

The universal shindy starts in 1913 with another war between Japan and Russia, in which the Japs administer a crushing defeat to the Colossus of the North by means of their magnificent aerial fleets. It is followed by a revolution in Russia, in which the Romanoff dynasty is overthrown. The Czar, besieged in his palace, appeals to the Kaiser by wireless telegraphy to save him from the mob which clamors for his life. The Kaiser responds to his appeal by carrying him off in one of his matchless airships.

Anarchy ensues in Russia. Out of the chaos emerges a second Napoleon in the person of Suvaroff, a young Russian engineer, who is a master of the art of aerial navigation. He is made President of the Russian republic, and goes in for airships wholesale. By their means Russia again becomes a mighty power which threatens to dominate Europe. Suvaroff gets himself proclaimed Czar of Russia under the name of Michael and sets about preparing to subjugate the rest of the world.

Then the Kaiser takes a hand in the game by declaring war on Russia. The imagination of the most lurid dime novelist never depicted such awful battles as take place between the flying warships of Germany and Russia. From dizzy heights they drop destructive bombs on hostile armies. They riddle one another with shells, they ram each other in midair and the wrecks, falling from heights of 10,000 feet, are smashed to smithereens. The combatants are provided with parachutes in lieu of life belts, and thus many of them, after their airships are destroyed, succeed in reaching terra firma safely and renew the struggle there.

One scene describes the raid of a Russian air fleet in Berlin, led by the usurper Michael, who pulverizes the German capital by raining bombs of tremendous explosive power upon it and destroys thousands of German troops. But, of course, the new Napoleon ultimately meets his Waterloo, through the superior courage and skill of the German warriors of the air, and Russia has to accept the terms of peace dictated by the Kaiser. Then, having walloped Russia, the Kaiser proceeds to make himself master of the world. England, stripped of her colonies, becomes a mere dependency of Germany.

For the comfort of those who may be disposed to take this German professor's "pipe dream" seriously, the comment of Sir Hiram Maxim, the Anglicized American knight, is worth quoting.

"I do not imagine that we need lie awake at nights troubling ourselves about the Germanization of the planet on which we happen to live at the present moment. I think the Rev. R. J. Campbell of the City Temple is in a much better position to work a revolution in the western world than the Emperor William, whose flying machines have not yet been built. There is no question about it, however, that flying machines will soon be in the air, and we shall then have a new problem to solve, but I am willing to bet my bottom dollar that the Anglo-Saxon race will not be left completely out in the cold."

BOY CHAUTAUQUA PROMISES FUN.

WILL ALSO GIVE INSTRUCTION TO YOUNGSTERS.

To Be Established at Lake Winona, Ind.—Plans Include Self-government With Mayor, Aldermen and Council—Lads Will Operate Stores, and Have an Orchestra.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

RICHMOND (Ind.) Feb. 4.—Boys of Los Angeles and throughout California will be interested in the fact that the boys of the United States are to have a city all their own at Lake Winona, Ind., a community of 5000 persons, ranging in age from 11 to 17 years, organized as a complete municipality, with wards, city council, mayor and administrative departments. Such is the plan for a boy Chautauqua to be associated with the Winona Assembly, which has been formed by philanthropists of that body. The boy city is to be conducted during three weeks in next August.

The movement was started a short time ago at a meeting attended by thirty prominent business and professional men who are connected with the Winona Assembly and Winona Technical School. J. M. Studebaker of South Bend, Ind., is chairman, and Judge Willis Brown of the Juvenile Court of Salt Lake City, is director of the venture. The 5000 boys who otherwise would spend their vacation time sweltering in cities, will be taken to the Indiana lake and taught coöperation and discipline, together with the more academic subjects of the lecture room.

There will be eight wards in the city, each one of which will elect a representative to the city council. The council will meet once or twice a week. A grocery, a notion and candy store, a soda water fountain, a restaurant and a photographic supply shop, are to be owned and operated by stock companies of boys, each venture in charge of an adult. At the end of the season the profits will be distributed as dividends. These various enterprises will be organized by the management, and will be ready for business on the opening day.

Each boy will be expected to provide his own provisions. He may bring them with him or buy them at the grocery. He may eat his meals at the restaurant, where the prices will be only a little more than cost. Fuel, laundry, and other necessities will be supplied by the management.

The boys will live in tents holding four and eight occupants. These will be set up by the management without cost of the boys, but a small advance fee will be charged for the three weeks residence in the city, including tent, cot, light, fuel and water. There will be five permanent buildings in the city—the assembly, hall, general store and supply house, gymnasium, band stand and electrical and photographic shops.

One of the features will be a telephone system, by which the boys will be taught the rudiments of telephone engineering. This will be an adjunct of the electrical department, and the boys interested in this branch of work can purchase and install instruments in their tents at a nominal fee. It is arranged that the electrical class shall have a monopoly on the telephones, charging all others 1 cent for each call. Any abuse of this monopoly will be thrashed out before the City Council, to the development of boy oratory.

All boys who own cameras will be urged to bring them. A camera club will be organized to hold competitions for the best pictures. Once a week the best picture taken during that time will be shown with a stereopticon. This department will be in charge of an experienced photographer and suitable dark and printing rooms will be provided.

Every boy who possesses a musical instrument will be expected to bring that with him also. A boys' band and a boys' orchestra will be formed out of the musical talent which the management expects to discover. A chorus of from 300 to 500 voices also is a probability. This department probably will be in charge of Dr. L. P. Christiansen of Salt Lake City.

A gymnasium will be constructed with the aid of the boys, working under the direction of expert carpenters. An athletic field will be laid out along the lake and all kinds of competitions held under municipal auspices. This department probably will be in charge of Prof. George Ehler, formerly physical director of the Chicago Y.M.C.A., and now in charge of the physical work of the Cleveland (O.) public schools.

Classes in nature study will be formed, in which competent men will instruct the boys in all the interesting lore of trees, rocks, birds, fish and flowers that are to be found in and around the lake. Programmes for further entertainment and instruction will be framed by the management of the Winona Assembly. Judge Brown, the director, will have charge of the religious work, with Dr. Shaw of Indianapolis as assistant.

UNDERGROUND WATER POWER.

A Florida Mill Owner Runs His Mill With a Water Wheel Supplied by an Artesian Well.

To see a large water wheel supplying power to machinery while not a vestige or even a hint of a mill race, dam or body of water of any size is to be found near the wheel by which it could possibly be revolved seems incongruous, to say the least. One might as well imagine a steam locomotive propelled without the necessary fuel.

But such a condition is frequently met with in certain parts of the Florida peninsula where sections of the country are underlaid with bodies of water of a high pressure. On the outskirts of St. Augustine, under which area is known to be one of these subterranean streams, the proprietor of a mill decided some time ago to try to coax a flow of water to the surface, thereby supplying his machinery with perpetual power which should always be ready for instant use, could eliminate the cost of fuel and

IS THERE anything more miserable than to sit through a play or opera with one's best hat dangerously tilted on one's lap—in imminent danger of falling under the seat in front instead of being in its legitimate resting place?

No considerate theatregoer wants her hat on her head; neither, be it said, does she want it in her lap; therefore, it is welcome news to hear that the opera hood is steadily gaining in popularity. The stores are showing them in charming forms, and already they are seen on most well-gowned women when in evening attire.

"Yes, for carriage women," says some one who knows what it is to be conspicuous, when tired of being annoyed at the theatre she defied conventionality and rode, scarfed or bareheaded, in a street car.

No, not for carriage women exclusively, but for every woman who has money enough to buy one of these fascinating new hoods, or cleverness enough to make one. Fashion has decreed them good form for evening wear, whether one goes theatreward behind horses or must patronize the people's conveyance.

Too expensive? Perhaps, if you buy them. But then, why buy them? Any woman can make one for herself if she but tries.

For instance, any one of the beautiful and becoming evening hoods shown today can be easily copied by the girl on nothing a year. Can't be done? Yes, but it was done, and for this paper, too—just to show you how easy it is.

After all, it is only a matter of a filmy scarf, a few pins, a bunch of artificial flowers and knacky fingers that can turn and twist simple materials into becoming shape. Artistic drapery is the whole secret of this charming headgear.

Most women own a pretty scarf of some kind. Perhaps it is an old lace one, black or white, that has been handed down in the family for years; perhaps—and this more probably—it is one of those fringed Canton crepe shawls, a mass of rare embroidery; again, it may be a simple liberty scarf, or even a yard or so of accordion-pleated chiffon left over from a ball gown; any of them can be utilized.

Should you not own a scarf, still need you not go hatted. Odd lengths of net, chiffon, soft silk tissues, or even cotton mulls can usually be found on a bargain counter, and there are many cheap sales of narrow lace by the piece; also of artificial flowers—should you not have been provident enough to keep a box for all your old hat posies that the sun has not hopelessly faded.

The fascinating hood with the long ends of chenille fringe was in the beginning not a hood at all, but a long scarf of corn-shirred chiffon, gathered at the back for a short distance, and caught into a pompon in the middle of the front, a pompon through which is twisted tiny pink roses. The ends are thrown carelessly around the neck.

The very graceful hood worn with the new peplum cape of white broadcloth, with its square collar of cerise velvet—these cavalier or peplum-shaped wraps are much in vogue just now—is slightly more intricate. It is made from a shaped bertha edged with an accordion-pleated ruffle. It was caught to the shape of the head with small bunches of roses. Long chiffon ends were added.

Very easy to arrange is the net scarf with its chenille trimming. The back edges are sewed together and gathered at the neck line to form a hood, the folds are caught here and there on top to prevent slipping, and the ends are so arranged that after being draped around the neck they can be held in place by a bunch of large white roses.

The other dotted net scarf is even more simple. It, too, is sewed together for a short distance at the back—in fact, this is the favorite method of converting a scarf into a hood—and is laid in soft folds caught at one side with a spray of gauze flowers.

The Madonna-like drapery of the white crepe shawl shows how becomingly and easily such a shawl can be twisted into a head wrap. The model was in five minutes converted into a hood by pinning it into a point with a bunch of roses and throwing the ends loosely around in front.

The long, straight scarf of accordion-pleated chiffon, lace-edged, was also quickly draped into a specially lovely headgear. A becoming effect of height was given by catching up the lace quite high on the left side and pulling it in and out through a bunch of flowers.

The quaintest and loveliest of all for a young face is the Dutch hood, made from a long straight piece of lace-edged shirred chiffon. This was gathered above each ear to fit the head, with a large bunch of roses on one side and a single rose on the other to hide the sewing. Simple, isn't it, but wonderfully charming?

Lovely and even cheaper hoods can be made from straight pieces of colored mull, finished with narrow lace ruffles. Or one could have a poke-bonnet effect of ruffled mull (provided it is to be worn over a very young and pretty face) with broad fluffy ties.

Yes, it is easy to have a hood, so dainty and lovely that men, who, remember, will be moved to wonder why women ever consented to disfigure themselves in the knitted nubia atrocity that once did duty for evening. However contrived, and of whatever materials, there are two essentials to the new opera hood: it must be soft and fluffy, and it must be becoming.

Some women may think "It is too late in the season to bother with opera hoods now. Lent is at hand, and theatre-going and parties must make way for devotional pursuits." Not a bit too late is it, for the dainty, filmy head coverings that have done duty for fair theatregoers all winter need not be abandoned at the Eastertide when the round of frivolities are once more resumed.

When the fur-lined or heavily padded opera cloak is safely packed away in camphor and blue paper, not to emerge until another winter is at hand, the dainty opera-hood that accompanied it will be just as useful and ornamental with the lighter unlined wraps of spring. Indeed, one of these charming little head coverings can do duty on many a summer night outing from summer resorts or country homes. So start one of the new hoods for yourself at the earliest opportunity. It will prove as fascinating in the making as on the wearer.

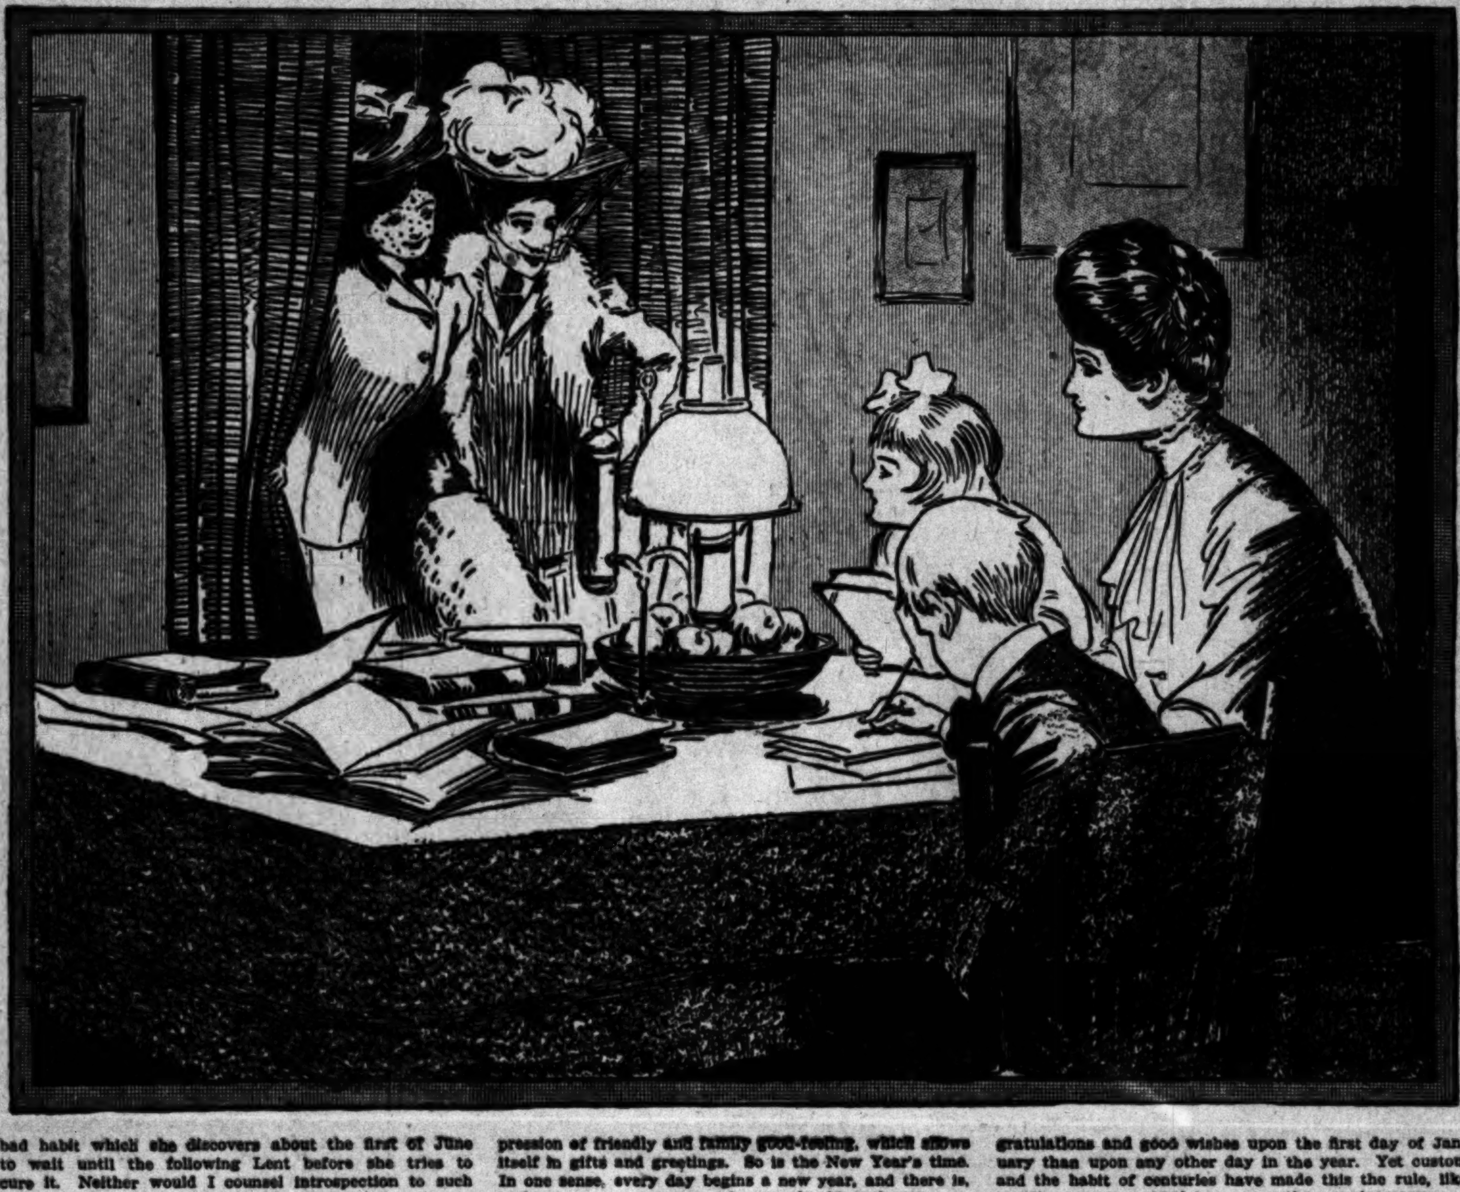
The Lenten Spirit of Our Pledg



I HAVE been wondering how many of you girls mean to keep Lent this year.

At this point some one—perhaps several some ones—will be very sure to say, "Oh, dear! is Mrs. Herrick going to give us a pious talk?"

No, my dear girls, nothing is further from my thoughts. I have too much respect for the religious views of others to attempt to force my own upon them. Each has a right to her own opinion. None the less, I think it is a good idea to keep Lent, although not perhaps in the way in which it is usually accepted.

There are many different ways of keeping it, you know. Certain persons make it a time of fasting in a number of lines. They abjure meat except on the so-called feast days, they give up dancing parties, they stop going to the theatre and deny themselves a quantity of other things either from having had the habit of doing this or because they really feel they need the discipline of going without that which they enjoy. They very often eat less than is good for them, and literally fast. Others "abstain" instead of fasting, and they, too, turn their backs on worldly joys and diversions for the forty days of Lent.

I do not criticise either of these modes of keeping the fast. Each one should be the best judge of what helps her spiritual growth, but I wonder sometimes with just what object the fasting and abstinence are practiced. Is it merely as a mortification of the flesh, or is it in order to put something better in the place of the indulgences?

Let me illustrate what I mean. I know of one family who always forego desserts and sweets during Lent. As a family, they have their fondness for such things well developed, and their desserts are elaborate and expensive. The money they save by the non-appearance of dessert on their tables between Ash Wednesday and Easter is always given to some good object in which they are interested and helps some deserving person or charity.

WHEN SOCIETY GIVES WAY TO CHARITY

Several women whom I know give up all social dissipations during Lent and devote the time thus saved to charitable work and to helping those to whom they can be of real service. It is thus that they secure time to visit the sick, to look after the lonely and to do other work of the same kind.

On the other hand, I recall very well a family where they all gave up in Lent the things they liked best. The grandmother renounced her afternoon nap, on which she was very dependent; the mother drank hot water instead of tea and coffee, and the man of the house abjured tobacco. They were all rather nervous, and the havoc wrought among them by giving up the various articles on which they were more or less dependent may be better imagined than described. They were so cross! And, then, they were so much ashamed of it that the mortification threw them into the depths of despair, and they felt they were the greatest sinners in the world, when a little common sense would have showed them that they would be much wiser to return to the things they had abandoned and take their abstinence in another form, which would be just as real, but would tell upon them less physically.

But all this time I am telling of how other persons keep Lent, and not coming down to my especial reasons for talking to you girls on the matter today. I have said I think it a good idea to keep Lent. The way I mean is none of these to which I have referred. But have you ever thought what a good time Lent is to try to break yourself of bad habits?

As a matter of course, any season of the year will serve to do that. I would not advise one who has a bad habit which she discovers about the first of June to wait until the following Lent before she tries to cure it. Neither would I counsel introspection to such an extent that one is always pulling one's soul up to see if there are any bad habits clinging to its roots. But there are certain seasons of the year that we devote to certain enjoyments or states of feeling. For instance, Christmas is the time for good-fellowship, for the expression of friendly and family good-feeling, which shows itself in gifts and greetings. So is the New Year's time. In one sense, every day begins a new year, and there is, perhaps, no more reason why we should exchange congratulations and good wishes upon the first day of January than upon any other day in the year. Yet custom and the habit of centuries have made this the rule, like greetings upon a birthday or another anniversary.

So it is as well to have one time of the year when the mind turns in a little on one's self and when we take any account of stock, so to speak. And I do not know a better time than when Lent begins. The appropriate season would, perhaps, be the first of the

What the Various Workers Are Doing

A Position and a Sofa Cushion.

I HAVE a box of reading matter I will gladly send to any of our shut-ins who would like to have it.

If I can be of help to any one in the study of bookkeeping or the common school studies, I will gladly give my services. I wish to secure a position as bookkeeper in Pittsburg or elsewhere. Can any of the girls help me in this? I would also like to exchange squares of silk for an EACH AND ALL cushion, with the sender's name and address plainly marked on the silk. Mine are four inches square, of soft silk, the colors matching our pin. I will send first to any one wishing to exchange if she will tell me which color—the blue or the gold—she prefers.

PANSY BLOSSOM (Pittsburg, Pa.).

Can any of our girls help "Pansy Blossom" about her position? And who will exchange quilt squares with her? There are others interested in this object.

Who Wants a Biscuit Pillow?

I have a "biscuit pillow" started in bits of silk. I cannot get a chance to make it. Perhaps you know some one I can send the biscuits and silk scraps to. If so, send her name.

WHITE RIBBON BEE (Lawrence, Mass.).

Who will accept this offer?

An Offer of Quilt Pieces.

Will you please say that I have quite a lot of pieces suitable for a quilt, and will give them to anybody who will just let me know? B. H. S. (Brockton, Mass.).

A Plea for a Chapter.

I wish there was a chapter here in Brockton. I am not situated so that I can start one, but I would do as much as I could. I also have pieces of silk, vest or woolen that I will gladly send to any one who wishes them.

Mrs. E. F. F. (Brockton, Mass.).

We have the flourishing Walk-Over Chapter of Brockton, but no other that I know of. Cannot one be started there?

She Gives Up Her Quilt.

Please take my name off the quilt exchange, as most of the blocks are sent worked in red cotton in exchange for blocks sent worked in silk in any color requested. I do not wish a red quilt, so give it up.

EMMA (Philadelphia, Pa.).

I am sorry the quilt pieces were not returned as requested. It does not seem quite fair, does it?

Another Los Angeles Chapter.

We girls have organized an EACH AND ALL chapter of our own on Pico Heights. We wish to be known as the Pico Heights EACH AND ALL Chapter—not the Los Angeles. We found we couldn't meet with the older girls downtown. We meet at the different members' homes after school on Fridays. We first have our business meeting, then a programme which consists of readings, recitals and music—each member has to do something—then we sew for half an hour or more, while some one reads. Our meetings last about two hours. Our members' ages range from 10 to 15 years, and our dues are 10 cents per month. We have eight members; more want to join. GRACE H. (Los Angeles, Cal.).

This in no way interferes with the older Los Angeles Chapter, and I trust the two may work together when occasion arises.

A Call for Clippings

I would like to exchange clippings of verse, humorous and holiday recitations, scenes of foreign countries and photographs of prominent people (especially Presidents); also biographies.

I am interested in vocal music and sing a good deal, and will exchange cards.

"BROWNING" (Los Angeles, Cal.).

There should be some one who can supply this member's need.

A "Rover" Desires Correspondents.

I am a sort of a "rover," as my husband's business takes him all over the country, and so I am a little lonely at times, and perhaps cherish friendships made by correspondence more than one who lives in one place all the time. Last winter I spent in Alabama and Georgia, the winters previous in Nova Scotia and New York, respectively. I can send patterns of all sorts of embroidery and silk pieces for patchwork; also have magazines I would be glad to give to any one who would care to read them, and would like correspondents. I am young, even if an "old married woman," being but 24, and have not forgotten how to be sociable. I am very desirous of filling my postcard album, and will be sure to return any cards sent me. I shall always be watching out for our badge, and how delighted I shall be to see one! It will ever be a sight for joy to a stranger in a strange land, and I shall surely claim acquaintanceship.

F. M. R. (Avondale, Pa.).

This plea for correspondents will meet with a prompt answer, for the writer offers help and pleasure that are sought by many. She would make an interesting friend.

ANTI-GOSSIP LEAGUE

SOME weeks ago I wrote my plans for an Anti-Gossip League. I was not sanguine about its membership, you may recollect, and I even went so far as to say that I would probably be the only member. But I find I am mistaken. Many have written to me expressing their desire to join such a league and defining their own position with regard to gossip. I have grouped some of the letters together below:

Seeing your article on our page about the Anti-Gossip League, I am writing to tell you that I want to join, and really try to live up to the motto. Although I am only 14, I guess I manage to say as much about others that I shouldn't as a person of 40. Again, I'll say that I will do my part toward making the new league a success. ALFREDA M. (Pasadena, Cal.).

I think this new Anti-Gossip League will be just fine, especially for schoolgirls, for you know when a pupil is in disgrace how all her bad points are looked at, instead of viewing her good points. So I am writing to apply for membership in the Anti-Gossip League, and think "Hear no evil, see no evil and speak no evil" would be a very good motto. ELIZABETH (Ehrenfeld, Pa.).

I will ask for membership in the Anti-Gossip League, if I may join on the condition that I try my best not to gossip at first, and then, perhaps, gradually, I can break myself of a bad habit. Otherwise I would not like to say I'd join and then break my pledge. But if I can join by trying to stop it, I will.

BETHEL (Shamokin, Pa.).

May I join your Anti-Gossip League? I will be honest and say that I have been fond of gossiping myself and of hearing other people gossip. It is going to be very hard for me to refrain from indulging in this sometimes pleasant, but always dangerous, pastime. I will try earnestly, however, to be a creditable member of the society, and to live up to its motto.

MONICA (Everett, Mass.).

The idea of an Anti-Gossip League impresses me very much, and I wish to join. I hope to get a pin soon, as I think that will be a good reminder. I am a married girl. Mrs. M. S. (Los Angeles, Cal.).

I must certainly take the opportunity of joining the Anti-Gossip League. I must confess it is from a rather selfish motive, for I want the help derived from it instead of giving help. I have often deplored my tendency to say things of people that I do not like in more of a criticising manner than otherwise, and I think that belonging to such a league will help me to overcome the habit—for it is nothing but a habit.

GRACE DARLING (Long Beach, Cal.).

We both want to join the Anti-Gossip League. I think it is a grand association, and though it may be rather hard to "see no evil, hear no evil, and speak no evil," what a world of good it would do if we could only live up to it! At least, we can try, and if we sincerely try, surely we can accomplish some success.

Mrs. HATTIE S. and Mrs. C. F. E. (Los Angeles, Cal.)

I have seen a call for members to join the Anti-Gossip League. I am with you, and want to be among the first members. I wonder if you or any of our sisters ever saw that saying, "See no evil, speak no evil, and hear no evil," illustrated by the little Japanese monkeys. I bought a set of them to keep before my eyes as a reminder of the principle. Perhaps you have not seen them. They are a group of three monkeys, dressed in fancy colored coats. One has his hands over his eyes, one has his over his mouth, and another covers his ears with his hands. I have been trying for a year to live up to this. At first it was about the hardest thing I ever tried to do—not to gossip when a neighbor came to call and not to offend when the evils came up. The way I found easiest was to find an excuse for the offender, and not add one word to the story, but to say: "Perhaps if we knew all sides it would not look so bad; we ought not to judge without knowing both sides." Allow me to say, we must expect many rubs the wrong way, but if we can only live up to this truth we will be happier than ever before.

Mrs. G. M. B. (Pasadena, Cal.)

Count me a member of the Anti-Gossip League. Thoughtlessness, more than real unkindness, prompts a great deal of the trouble, and I want to pledge my word that I will try to think in the future.

"JEAN" (Pasadena, Cal.).

I wish to join your Anti-Gossip League. I think that a league of that sort is much needed. It seems to be a common fault with almost every one. I know it is one of my leading ones, and I fear it will be one hard to conquer; but I shall try very hard to conquer it.

"DIMPLES," (Charlemagne, Mass.).

I would like to join your Anti-Gossip League, and at least try to live up to it, but as I always speak without thinking how it may be taken, I may not be a very good member. But I will try.

GERTRUDE A. B. (Boston, Mass.).

I quite agree with you in taking the stand you do about gossip. I do not allow my children to carry stories, either about any of their schoolmates or themselves, unless they come right to me if it is anything very wrong.

MILLY C. (Vancouver, B. C.).

I was much interested in the talk you gave on girls carrying news and listening to idle tales. I think that is my failing, and I wish to sign the pledge and join the chapter of girls who do not say of others what they don't wish said of themselves.

Mrs. B. M. V. (Philadelphia, Pa.)

Will Help With Stenography.

I am working as a stenographer. If, after I begin to get acquainted, I can be of any help to any of the girls, I shall be more than willing to do anything I can.

C. A. T. (Gloucester, Mass.).

Our stenographer girls are always prompt with their offers of help.

OBJECTS AND AIMS OF EACH AND ALL

PERHAPS some of you, seeing this page for the first time, wonder just what the Each and All Society really is; what there is about its aims and objects to create so widespread an interest among "young girls of all ages."

The society was founded in February, 1905, with Christine Terhune Herrick for its president, and with an almost instant membership of girls in nearly every State in the Union and in Canada.

Its object is to help girls help themselves by developing their talents into something the world wants; to solve difficult problems—the sort a girl wants a calm, unbiased, out-of-the-family opinion upon—and to promote the exchange of general help.

Any girl may belong. There is no red tape about it. The sending of your name for membership gives you the range of every opportunity the society boasts. And Mrs. Herrick stands ready to welcome, to advise and to help.

Thirty-five Miles From a Railroad.

I am 16 years old, and am interested in music, especially the violin. I have been studying the violin for four years, and am pretty well advanced, and I would like to help any girl if she would correspond with me. I would like also to have assistance from some girl further advanced. I live in the mountains, and I haven't any musical friends, and I live so far away from a city that I have not had many musical advantages. We live sixty miles from San Diego and thirty-five miles from a railroad. We are now snowbound—about two feet of snow has fallen. You can have a clear idea of the place I live in. We have a high school here. I attend that, and am in the second year. If some schoolgirls would like to correspond with me, I would be pleased to answer them. I am very fond of good literature.

A. M. (Julian, Cal.).

Our music-loving girls would do well to write to this member, both for the help they could exchange and for the pleasure they could gain from her letters.

Studying for the Stage.

I was a junior at college when I left last year. I am now studying for the stage, as I intend to make that profession my life's work. This summer I expect to travel out West, just for pleasure, and I would like particularly to hear from girls living in Western States on ranches. It would be so pleasant to meet these girls after corresponding.

I am 23 years of age, a graduate of a private school; also a Drexel Institute graduate in domestic science. I am fond of reading, and can enjoy almost anything in moderation. I sincerely hope I shall secure some correspondents, and it will be my pleasure to assist them, if possible. BERYL (Philadelphia, Pa.).

This looks like a friend for "A. M.," of Julian, Cal., and for some of our Western girls. There are plenty who ought to meet "Beryl's" views.

COMFORT

By Margaret E. Sangster.

Comfort one another,
For the way is often dreary,
And the feet are often weary,
And the heart is very sad.
There is heavy burden-bearing
When it seems that none is caring,
And we half forget that ever we were glad.

Comfort one another
With the handclasp close and tender,
With the sweetness love can render,
And the look of friendly eyes.
Do not wait with grace unspoken
While life's daily bread is broken—
Gentle speech is oft like manna from the skies.

TWO BELATED REPORTS

I AM so proud to tell you of our wonderfully successful Christmas tree, which proved to be even more successful than my anticipations. The girls made twenty-four skirts for little girls, two of which were given to each of the twelve children who were invited to the Christmas tree. There were also drawers, stockings, garters, shirts, caps, dresses, coats, and such a host of toys. Each little girl received a large doll in a box, fully dressed. There were dolls' go-carts, tables, chairs, beds, washing-sets, trains, milk carts, iron banks, and many other toys too numerous to mention. All these things were new. Do you wonder that I am proud of my girls! Each child, besides sharing these pretty gifts, was presented with a little net stocking, made by the girls, and filled with candy and sugared popcorn. There were apples and paper horns also filled with candy. Oh! I forgot to tell you that a real Santa Claus presented these poor little ones with these wonderful things. I wish, Mrs. Herrick, you could have seen the pinched little faces of the children as they marched into the hall. They were a study. They looked almost frightened, for they could not believe it was true. I shall remember those children if I should live to be 100. It was a triumph, and I thank our Heavenly Father for the loving hearts of my Utopian girls who contributed to the joy of these little ones, whom Santa Claus had forgotten until that evening. There is something else of which I wish to speak. The girls dressed twenty-four dolls and presented them to the children of the Little Wanderers' Home on Christmas morning. Don't you think the girls have found it "more blessed to give than to receive"? S. M. D., Chairman Utopian Chapter.

Dorchester, Mass.

It gives me much pleasure to publish the following Christmas report of one of our Invalid Help Chapters:

This chapter has sent out "Wonder Bags" to the invalids at Christmas time. There were nine remembered in this way. Two helpers united their efforts, and sent out one bag. One of my helpers wrote me she would help to fill three bags, but she was taken sick, and succeeded in getting two only attended to. She wrote me a few days ago that she had not gotten the gifts for her home folks off yet, but wanted, first of all, to do for her invalids and shut-ins. Isn't she a dear? The bags contained books, hair pins, combs, fancy pins, aprons, views of places, handkerchiefs, towels, soaps, stationery, stamps, postals, postcards, albums, stockings, fancy bags, sachet articles, and almost everything you could think of. Besides the bags, my helpers sent gifts to the invalids on their lists, such as calendars, collars, books, night dresses, aprons, kimonos, etc. I could not begin to tell you all. Oh! I am so proud of my helpers, they have done nobly. Then a great many Christmas letters were written on the invalids, and dozens of Christmas postals sent them. E. P. D., Chairman Invalid Chapter,

Aspinwall, Pa.

Can You Earn Your Pin?

I think it would be a nice plan for each girl to earn her own pin in some way, and then let the EACH AND ALLS know on the page how they did it. I have never seen a girl with a badge yet.

GRACE (Los Angeles, Cal.).

Again I ask for the whereabouts of the badge-wearers. I like the suggestion of earning the pin. Several of our girls have already done this.

"A Course in Kindliness."

I am interested in embroidery work, and would help any one learning shorthand and bookkeeping, as I am a graduate of the same.

MARGUERITE S. (Los Angeles, Cal.).

Another of the many generous offers of help in shorthand. Do the girls take a course in kindliness along with stenography? It looks like that.

She Burns Leather.

I have to help earn my own living, and if any of the girls would like anything in the line of sofa pillows of leather, or anything in the leather line, and if you would give them my address it would help me a great deal. I am 16 years old, but have had considerable experience in burning both leather and wood.

"LOS ANGELES LOIE" (Los Angeles, Cal.).

This notice is sure to interest the girls who are already planning for their Easter gifts.

Where Do You Wear Your Bee?

Here are more complaints about the non-appearance of the badge:

I want to say something about our pin. Every Sunday I see letters on our page from members who say they never see the pin. I have the same complaint to make. I have always kept a lookout for the little gold bee (especially last summer, when I visited an "EACH AND ALL" in Boston), but have never seen a sign of it on another girl. I, too, ask where do the girls wear them? I wear mine always (would almost as soon forget my handkerchief as my "bee") on my left shoulder, or else right in the front of my waist. Lots of people notice it and ask about it, but I have never seen another. Surely there are plenty of girls who own the pin. Do they forget to wear them, or are they ashamed of their colors?

B. M. Z. (York, Pa.).

More About the Club Flower

Has the club flower been decided on yet? I think the pansy would be appropriate, as pansies stand for thoughts, and we are supposed to be thoughtful for the comforts and pleasures of others.

FLORENCE (Malden, Mass.).

The club flower is not definitely adopted yet, but it probably will be the pansy. The votes vary between that and the clover, beloved of bees.

Pet Dog in Family Tomb

"BOODLE" is the name of a pet dog belonging to the Crans family, in New Orleans, who died not long ago and was given a grand burial, just as if he were a human member of the family.

Heart disease took the little fellow off, and his sudden death proved such a shock to his mistress that she became too ill to attend the funeral.

But she insisted on arranging his body for burial, and she personally saw to all the arrangements for his interment, which included the purchase of a silver-mounted baby casket, and the hire of a handsome hearse and a number of carriages.

"BOODLE"

When the casket was carried out from the house, the neighbors supposed one of the children of the family was dead.

"Boodle" was laid to rest in the family vault in the cemetery in a special space, side by side with the spaces reserved for the human members of the family.

Games for Nights at Home

ALMOST every one is ready and willing to join in a jolly game; and these evenings many of us are compelled to spend at home, for one reason or another. So it will be nice to have some good games suggested for our entertainment.

"I Apprenticed My Son" is a jolly game.

The first player thinks of artichoke (a word beginning with A) and commences thus:

"I apprenticed my son to a green grocer, and the first thing he sold was an A—"

Second player: "Was it apples?" "No."

Third player: "Was it almonds?" "No."

Fourth player: "Was it asparagus?" "No."

And so on, until some player asks, "Was it artichokes?" "Yes."

The correct guesser may now apprentice his son, and so the game goes on, no player, by the by, being allowed more than one guess in his turn, and not more than two turns.

Another jolly game is "Cross Questions and Crooked Answers."

To play it, it is best for you all to sit in a circle, and until the end of the game none should speak above a whisper.

The first player whispers to his neighbor, asking some such question as "Do you like roses?"

The second player must remember this question—it belongs to him. He answers "Yes, they smell so sweetly," and the first player must remember this answer—it belongs to him.

The second player now asks his neighbor a question, and he listens closely to the third player's answer—for it belongs to him. Suppose his question were "Are you fond of potatoes?" and the answer were, "Yes, when they are fried."

In this way each player will have one question and one answer belonging to himself which he must remember. The game continues until each one has both answered a question and asked one. Each one must bear in mind that the question he was asked and the answer his neighbor returned are the ones belonging to him.

At the end of the game, each one is required to announce aloud his question and answer. For example, player No. 2 says:

"My question was 'Do you like roses?' and my answer was 'Yes, when they are fried.'"

No. 3's announcement would probably be in this wise:

"My question was 'Are you fond of potatoes?' and my answer was 'Yes, when they are very pretty, but they don't wear very well.'"

Hilarious laughter will greet these crooked answers to the cross-questions.

Another jolly game requiring ready wit is "Why and Because."

Seat the players in a ring, a lady beside a gentleman, alternately. The lady asks the gentleman what object he would prefer to become if he had the choice.

Suppose he replies "A necklace," then she promptly asks "Why?"

Without a moment's hesitation he must reply "Because —," and give some reason. (A good reason would be "because I should be worn about your pretty neck.")

Each gentleman on being asked a similar question by the lady next to him must state an object and then a reason wholly different from all that preceded.

When all the ladies have had their turns, the gentlemen have their chance to ask questions and the ladies must answer.

Charge a forfeit for any hesitation on any one's part. This is a splendid game for shy or slow-witted boys or girls. It gives them much needed practice and promotes nimbleness of thought and tongue.

THE WHISKTAILS GET EVEN

IT HAD been a trying summer for the Whisk-tails. Their trouble had begun in May, when Harum Scarum, Helter Skelter, Hurry Scurry and Hi Spy Whisk-tail were wee, furry babies, curled up snugly in the Hollow Hickory House.

First, a gang of giants had taken possession of the grove which had belonged to the Whisk-tails for generations, and had banged into shape something they called a Rustic Cottage, directly beneath the Whisk-tails' indifferent noses. And worse was to follow. After the carpenters came a laughing, barking, tree-climbing, shouting mob of children and dogs and cats and people old enough to know better.

For three long months the Whisk-tails had lived in daily terror of life and limb. They had tried valiantly to scare the intruders away. Father Whisk-tail had barked and chattered himself hoarse; Mother Whisk-tail had stolen down at night to bite vicious little holes in bathing suits left out to dry; and the youngsters had even played tag over the cottage roof before sunrise, and pelted the red shingles with green hickory-nuts.

Harum Scarum always insisted that it was the hickory-nut bombardment that finally routed the enemy. Certain it is that one fine September day there was a great bustle and confusion about the cottage. Trunks and valises, bags and bundles, tennis racquets and fishing rods were packed into a huge wagon. Doors and windows were fastened tight, and then, with many a backward look, the children and grown-ups and cats and dogs climbed into the wagon and were driven away.

HI SPY'S DISCOVERY

"Dear me, how blessedly quiet the grove is!" sighed Mother Whisk-tail. "It's a wonder there's a red hair left in my tail!"

"Seems sort of lonesome to me," said Hurry Scurry. "Let's have a game of tag to liven things up, Harum, old boy!"

"Me, too!" cried Helter Skelter; and away went all three around tree trunks, out to the tips of bending branches, frisking and leaping from bough to bough.

Father and Mother Whisk-tail, freed from their long anxiety, retired to the hollow Hickory House for a nap; and that is how it happened that little Hi Spy, the small and only daughter of the family, was left to her own devices.

Now, Hi Spy had a very large, well-developed bump of curiosity. All summer she had been wondering what was under the roof of the Rustic Cottage. And now was Hi Spy's chance! Boldly she scampered about the deserted porches, sniffing at windows and snuffing at doors, but not a crack could she find large enough to squeeze her inquisitive little self through.

Perching on the porch railing, she curled her tail over her back and thought the situation over. A brilliant idea popped into her head. With a leap and a scramble, she reached the cottage roof. Over the shingles she darted and up to the top of the big brick chimney.

"Ah, ha!" laughed Hi Spy, flirting her tail saucily as she peeped down a sooty, black hole. "I guess they forgot to lock this door."

When Harum Scarum and his brothers came romping home to supper they found their parents listening to the excited chatter of a little person so rumpled and sooty that they hardly recognized her as their pretty sister, Hi Spy. She had to begin all over again, then, and tell of all the wonderful things she had seen under the red roof.

"Come on and see for yourselves," she continued; "it's as easy as running up a tree to get in!"

"Yes, let's!" cried the Harum Scarum. "Let's go down and paint their old house red to pay them back for the hot time they've given us this summer."

"Harum, dear!" protested Mother Whisk-tail, plaintively, "why do you pick up their dreadful expressions? Besides, it isn't right to revenge yourself on your enemies. It's much more—"

THE WHISK-TAILS' MOVE IN

"Ahem, my dear!" coughed her husband. "This would not be revenging ourselves—not in the least. It would be simply—well, getting even, as you might say. Perfectly justifiable under the circumstances. Daughter, lead the way!"

"Strikes me it's pretty dusty down here!" sneezed Hurry Scurry, landing in a bed of light wood ashes.

"And so dark!" complained Mother Whisk-tail, shaking the soot from her dainty paws.

In a few minutes their bright eyes became accustomed to the darkness and they could see quite plainly by the light that streamed through cracks in the window shutters.

"What a dandy place to live!" exclaimed Helter Skelter. "Let's move in!"

"Let's!" shrieked the other children, galloping about like mad.

"Suppose we do, Mrs. Whisk-tail," said their father, and so the matter was settled.

It was a delightful autumn that followed the harrowing summer—clear days and frosty nights and fine high winds to hurry the falling nuts. The Whisk-tails worked early and late. By the time the first snow flew beech nuts and walnuts, hickory nuts and chestnuts were tucked away in every corner of the Rustic Cottage, on shelves and in cupboards, behind beds and under tables.

Now that the cold weather was setting in, there was no more for the Whisk-tails to do except to rest and eat and explore their winter quarters. Mother Whisk-tail, by the way, shed tears of joy over the treasures of the pantry and storeroom—delicious cornmeal and delightful rice and cereal coffee and breakfast foods, all conveniently left in tempting paper sacks and pasteboard boxes.

As the weather grew colder the Whisk-tails felt the need of snug beds to sleep in. Hurry Scurry dug a deep hole into the very middle of a fine hair mattress, and lined it with bits of paper, pieces of window curtains and scraps of bathing suits that hung in his room.

Helter Skelter, always a bit reckless, chose a down pillow for his bed, and came out every morning sneezing and coughing, with the white fluff covering him from tail tip to whiskers. Little Hi Spy found a great bunch of cat-tails tacked up above the mantel, and it was no trouble at all to gather from them any quantity of soft, warm, yellow down to line the snug hole she had excavated in the living-room couch.

Father and Mother Whisk-tail, after considerable discussion, decided to occupy the copper teakettle, that had been left lidless on the stove. Several comfortables and quilts, nibbled to bits, yielded abundant cotton batting to make this a most delightful retreat.

As for Harum Scarum, who loved variety, he made a new bed every day, and boasted that each was warmer and more comfortable than the last.

WINTER OF GOOD TIMES

By this time the house was, I regret to say, just a trifle mussy, but Mrs. Whisk-tail, between you and me, was a naturally untidy housekeeper, and didn't distress herself a bit on that score.

Such a happy winter as the Whisk-tails had! Plenty to eat, warm beds to sleep in, and a never-failing supply of things to interest the children and keep them out of mischief. There were books and magazines to be devoured, furniture to be nibbled, all sorts of boxes and cupboards to be broken into, and, when everything else failed, the young folks could always find some amusement in playing wild games of tag, upstairs and down, over shelves, behind curtains and along the tops of the low partitions.

There were so many things to be knocked down that these frolics were generally accompanied by a deal of smashing and crashing, especially when the one who was "it" took to the crockery cupboards. But, as Father Whisk-tail, indulgently stroking his whiskers, would remark, "Children will be children."

So the weeks rolled away until it was spring. The youngsters were full grown now, fine, handsome children, with sleek red and white coats and long, graceful, plumy tails.

Harum Scarum, Hurry Scurry and Helter Skelter were beginning to talk about going out into the world to marry and make homes of their own, while little Hi Spy, so her father and mother suspected, was more than half inclined to listen to the suit of Reddy Rustler, the good-looking young bachelor who had moved into the Hollow Hickory House soon after they had left it vacant.

"Taking everything into consideration, my love," remarked Mr. Whisk-tail to his wife, "I think we may say that our happy home is about to break up. The winter is over. I, for one, am beginning to find feather beds too warm for comfort. Suppose we take to the tree-tops!"

It was on the first day of June that the original inhabitants of the Rustic Cottage returned. The Whisk-tails, safe in the top of the Hollow Hickory, watched the unloading of the wagon—grown-ups and children, dogs and cats, bags and bundles, tennis racquets and fishing rods. There was a great noise of ripping loose nailed window shutters and pulling open long closed doors.

WRATH OF THE COTTAGERS

"Husky hickory nuts!" exclaimed Harum Scarum. "Won't they be mad when they find how we've left things?"

"Who cares?" cried Helter Skelter, cheerfully. "Let's play tag!" With a wild leap he was off, and after him in hot pursuit went Harum Scarum and Hurry Scurry and Hi Spy and Reddy Rustler. Even Father and Mother Whisk-tail caught the excitement and joined the chase, pell mell, over the red shingles, along swaying branches, from tree top to tree top, chattering, squeaking, shrieking, in a very abandon of mirth.

Down below, inside the rustic cottage, disgusted, horrified people were rushing from room to room, exclaiming in new wrath and dismay at each new evidence of the Whisk-tails' getting even.

"Those wretched creatures!"

"Those hateful little beasts!"

"Those outrageous squirrels!"

Six pairs of furry ears ought to have been burning furiously. But the Whisk-tails were playing tag!

An Exciting Game of Curling

Two Exciting Winter Sports

TWO exciting winter sports are curling and iceboating.

The former is played for the most part on the lakes of Switzerland and Germany, and the curling piece is shaped something like a flattened ball with a handle attached for the player's use.

It is said to be full of excitement, and although an especial favorite of Englishmen, to be popular also with both the Germans and Frenchmen.

Iceboating is a sport more familiar to American boys. This picture shows a number of these fascinating boats speeding across a splendidly frozen lake in one of the great races for a cup.

The rigging, you will notice, is quite simple. You could almost construct a boat from these as models.

Cupid's Target

A FINE game to end up a St. Valentine's party is Cupid's Target.

For this game prepare a heart-shaped target cut out of red cardboard. It should be 24 to 30 inches in diameter.

Next prepare half a dozen small strips of wood and stick pins into their ends. This makes them serve the purpose of darts.

Let each player, blindfolded, hurl his dart at the target. When she has done so, the scorekeeper draws out the dart and pins in its place on the target a tiny red heart, on which his name is written.

When all have played, the one who struck nearest the centre gets the prize.

An Effective Cure

THE present Crown Prince of Germany had as a child a great dislike of being washed. The Emperor tried various means to cure him, and at last hit on the right one. The young Prince came running to him one day in a great rage, saying the sentry had not saluted him as he passed.

"To be sure," said the Emperor, "I gave orders they were not to salute a dirty Prince, but only a clean one."

The child's pride was hurt, and he took to the bath. He never again objected to being washed.

How Many Feathers?

A VERY unique feather-guessing contest was recently conducted by a prominent company that manufactures poultry food. Five hundred dollars in prizes were offered for the best estimates as to the number of feathers on a hen. The first prize was $100.

Thousands of guesses were received, including some very amusing ones. One person, who was probably looking for some catch scheme, estimated, "None at all."

Many estimates in the hundreds of thousands were received, several in the millions, the highest estimate being 600,060,017. The correct number was found to be 8120.

The company says: "We feel a pardonable pride in having contributed to poultry science an item of information actually new."

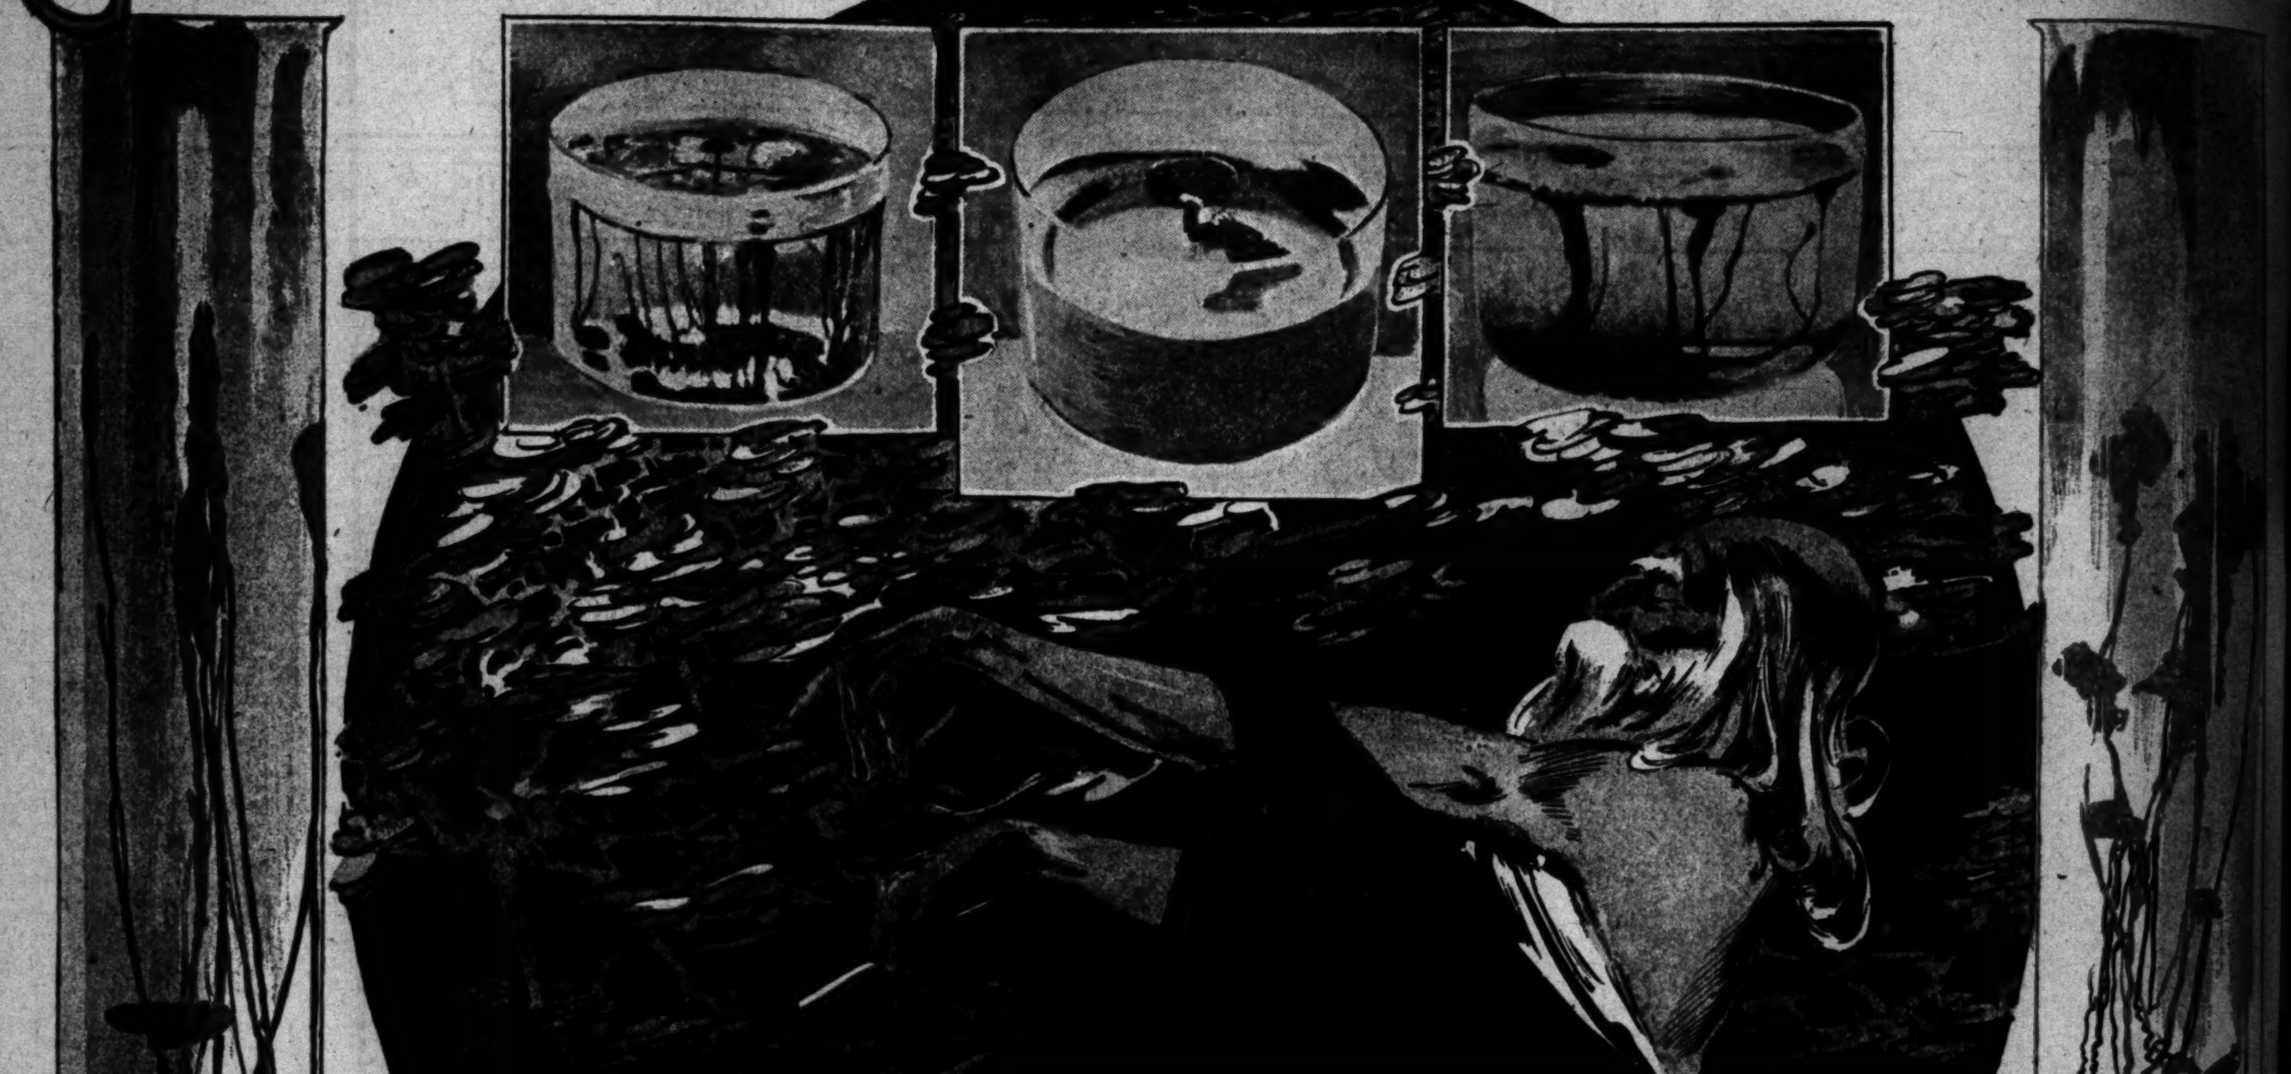
A Capital Trick

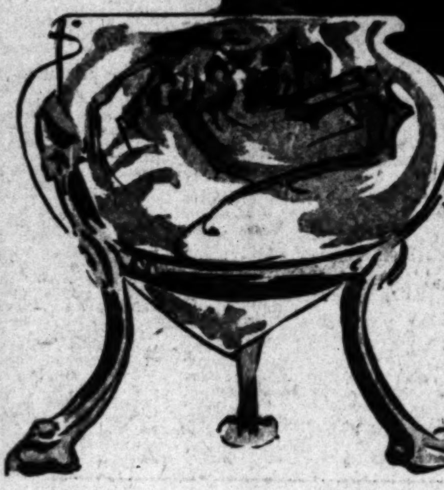
TELL your friends you will show them something which you never saw, they never saw and no one else ever saw.

Let them try to guess what it is, then—for no one will succeed, unless he has heard this before—produce a nut from your pocket, crack it, show the kernel, and ask if any one had ever seen it before.

Then eat it. Certainly no one will ever see it again!

GROWS PLANTS from CHEMICALS





Seed Cultures in Tubes and Vases

French Scientist Makes a New Approach to the Production of Life.

ALWAYS one of the most alluring subjects open to scientists and philosophers, the origin of life—whether in animal or plant life—still remains an unsolved riddle.

Perhaps it will never be discovered by man—perhaps it is inexplicable, and will continue to be the one great secret separating the human from the divine; but, as the children would say, the investigators are getting "warm."

And "warmest" of them all, just now, seems to be Dr. Stephane Leduc, a physician of Nantes, France, who has actually created seeds from which grow plants having every appearance of being real.

They are not real, although they possess some of the characteristics and phenomena of living plants. For instance, although not in the strict sense alive, they die; like living plants, they are sensitive to poison and atmosphere, and they are susceptible to grafting.

Disclaiming any discovery by which life might be created artificially, Dr. Leduc contends, however, that he has thrown valuable light on the early development of life; that he has shown a close relation between chemical and physical laws, forcing the admission that the cause which operates in the growth of living cells is doubtless very near akin to that which works in the artificial cell.

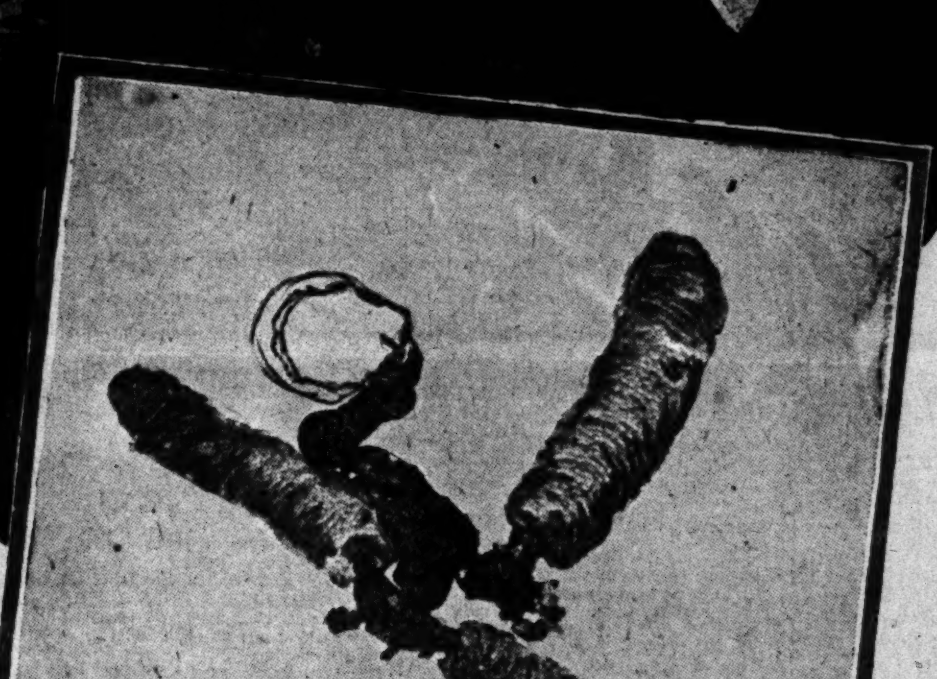
"What song the sirens sang, or what disguise Achilles assumed when he hid himself among women, although puzzling questions, are not beyond all conjecture."—Browne.

FOR the time being, animal life is almost generally conceded to be beyond the pale of investigation; but there is a large following who contend, with some show of color, that plant life is but a lower phase of animal life—and who believe, consequently, that if the man-made plant should become a reality, the man-made animal life would follow.

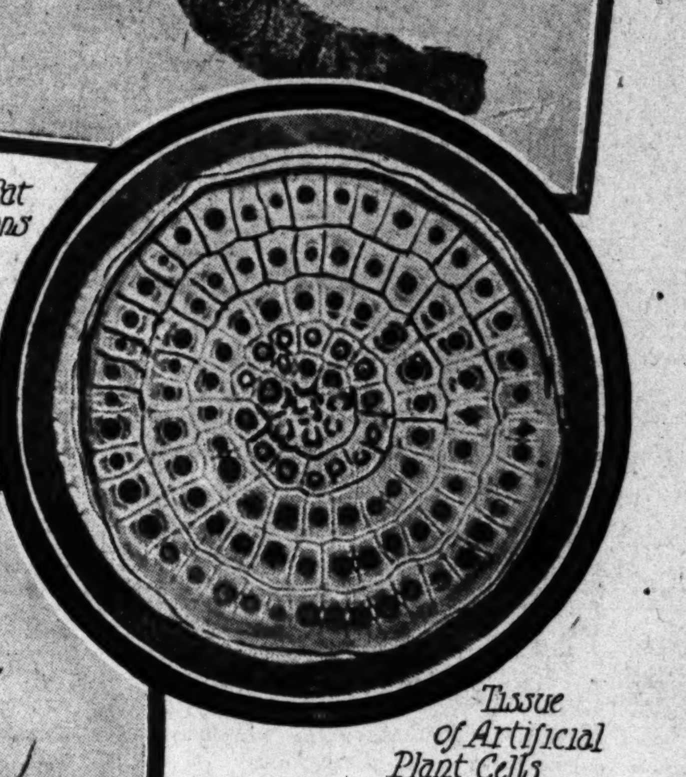
In all seriousness, M. Leduc believes that his discovery may serve at least as the threshold to a solution of the great problem.

Most important of his arguments, in his own opinion, is that in which he points out the same phenomena in one of his seed creations as are found in an egg which has been fertilized.

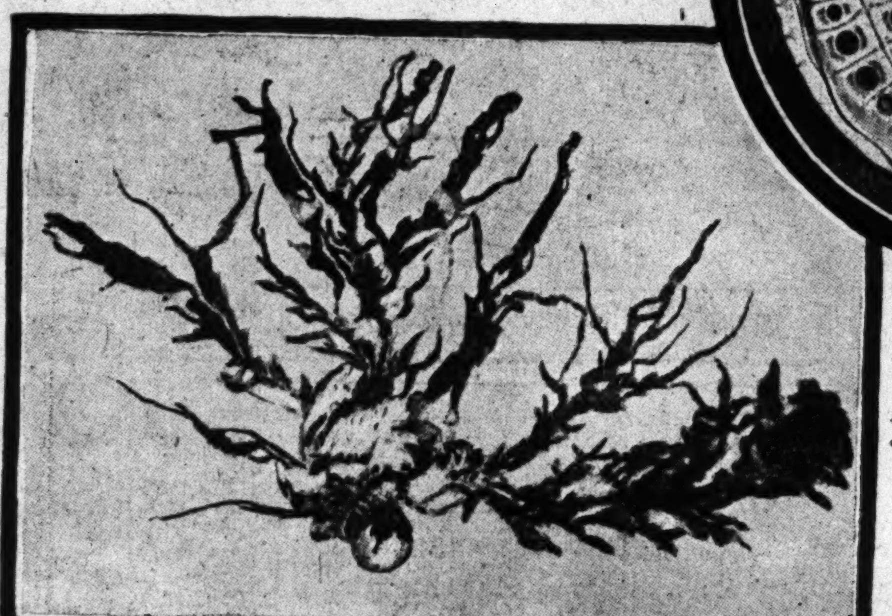
On such an occasion, the single cell of which the life-giving part of the egg is composed breaks up (from what cause has never been explained) into numerous cells. This is called segmentation. The wisest naturalist, up to the present, has been able only to say that this is so; he cannot tell why.



Growth with Cat Tail Terminations



Tissue of Artificial Plant Cells



SeaWeed Growth of an Artificial Cell

Now this French physician recently, in one of his experiments, made an egg-like culture from chemical composition which he thought might show interesting results when treated with one of the seeds of his own make.

It did. It actually seemed to become fertilized by the seed, and broke up into cells—underwent the phenomenon of segmentation—just as the fecundated egg does.

It didn't grow into a chicken or an ostrich or anything else, but it did show the same action as a hen egg or ostrich egg shows at the very beginning of growth!

To understand just what this may mean in the solution of the puzzle of life, one must comprehend not only the co-relation of plant and animal life, but of living matter and inanimate matter.

There are animals which look and act so much like plants that it requires very expert judgment sometimes to say which is which.

Now, in like manner, there are phases of plant life so closely allied to the inanimate that it is impossible for the untrained person to say that they are plants.

Perhaps, then, there is a form of life in the earth itself, in a stone, in a piece of copper, in the refined grain of sugar—in eve you could mention—and that thi we call inanimate matter is sim plane of the life we are conscious of.

If so, how easy to believe that rious spark in those substances is of the great life-giving force perva verse—the same spark that und life, only in a lower stage of dev lution, some would call it.

Now, as to what Dr. Leduc h accomplished in the way of makin structures grow entirely by artificial

But you couldn't stick that seed and expect it to shoot up. It needs element in which to grow. This ture, it is called—is prepared by common water, and adding to it a ferrocyanide of potassium, 2 to 4 chloride of sodium, 1 to 10 per tine, 1 to 4 per cent. This makes a somewhat resembling the protopla —full of condensed nourishment.

In a few hours these stalks have length of ten to twelve inches—if th that long; for they will not rise abo ture.

When the growth arrives at th the liquid, it still further follows aquatic plants, and spreads out in leaves and water lilies.

The form taken by the growth different if it be in a jar instead of a weed and mushroom forms are the in this case.

But, Dr. Leduc says, there is life in it. There is no trace of liv of protoplasm, with its many albu any other matter which is now regarded taining life.

The scientist has given his own of how the thing is done. The sugar is in condensed form, and susceptible when moistened. Water, forcing its wa the copper sulphate, affects the sugar it to lengthen into stalks—the growth aided by the nourishment taken from along the way.

The fact that the growth spreads form of leaves at the surface is saying that there is nothing else since it cannot support itself above factions carried the question to the before Mr. Lincoln's assassination, and insight into the very soul of things and practical way of looking at every question statesman saw that this was a problem solution. He said: Why, this contention It might go on for all eternity and no reached at the end. There is one fact must all agree, and that is the practical to consider. None of us can dispute that of the States in rebellion against the Federal authority are irregular as regards the Union. Furthermore, we will all concede that the work in hand consists in finding out some plan by which the relations of these States to the Union can be once again made regular.

Of course no attempt is made by Mr. Blaine in his work to quote any one's exact words, nor is there any effort made here to quote Mr. Blaine's exact words.

Here we have a division of the human mind which has existed through all ages, and will probably exist to the end. You have on the one hand the academician or dialectician, the man who, too philosophical to be useful, spends his mental energies and the time of his life in hair-splitting, chopping logic, working out fine distinctions, refined definitions, and too superfine attempts to get to the lowest foundations of thought. It is the difference between Plato, with his imaginary model republic, and Aristotle, with his practical studies seeking from known facts or effects to learn the underlying laws of nature. The one studied the world as it was and occupied himself with hard and enduring facts. The other wasted his energies in dreams of the imagination.

The schoolmen of the Middle Ages, instead of doing the work of a Wiliam P. George or a Rev. Dana Bartlett to make human beings in the concrete better morally and happier in their life, wrote, talked, thought and disputed as to whether an angel or other purely spiritual entity could pass from one point to another in space without traversing all the intervening points. Bartlett or George would have jumped to the conclusion that wherever the devil came from and through whatever space the devil traveled, he is here, he is ruining these boys and men and women and girls. If you undertock to dispute with either of them as to whether the devil was a principle or an entity, he would refuse to discuss that point as well as the other, and again jump to a practical conclusion: there is evil here, and that evil is eating the heart out of people young and old, and it is our business to teach them to resist the evil.

Plato's dreams have scarcely left a trace of influence upon the history of following ages. Aristotle's practical work has given to the world chemistry and geology, the theory of gravitation, the theory of light, and the practical benefits of electricity. It led to the discovery of the circulation of the blood, to inoculation to cure smallpox, and to antiseptic treatment of wounds and sores. The hair-splitting refinements of the statesmen who wanted to go to war again to decide whether the seceding States had seceded or had only had a dream that they were out of the Union left no trace behind and would be forgotten but for the pages of Mr. Blaine's book. Lincoln's practical treatment of the great question of reconstruction has given to us a restored Union without a missing star in the blue field on the flag, and in which the people of the seceding States are today as earnest upholders of the Union as Webster or the men who shed their blood to prevent a rent being made in Old Glory.

But the dreamers, the dialecticians, are as numerous in the world today as when the schoolmen almost came to blows in their attempts to settle the question as to how many angels could stand on the point of a cambric needle. We have our recallites and referendumites, and all the ites and all the isms wasting time and perplexing the world in seeking for political and moral panaceas, automatic in their action, taking no thought whatever of poor old human nature, forgetting that the virus of old Adam's sin works forever in human blood, and never writing or uttering a word, turning a hand or taking a step to bring about some practical reform. Moral and political panaceas are as vain to seek as the veriest nostrum a quack physician ever advertised to cure headache, colic, bunions, corns and toothache, to make hair grow on bald heads and toes on amputated feet. There is only one nostrum against all diseases. That is good health. There is only one practical reform that will ever work in this old world of ours. That is to teach every man to do his individual duty. Laws, creeds, theories and plans which must all lie outside of the individual will prove as fruitless as the dispute of the statesmen on the question of the actual secession of the States. There is only one way to make men better. The work must be done from the inside. The seed must be planted in the human heart. The individual conscience must be awakened and enlightened. No reform theory can be made which is automatic. The individual must do the reforming within himself, and all that the outside world can do is to lend him a sustaining hand, a cheering voice and an encouraging look.

Thou Troubadour, roaming from land to land,
Singing, indeed, we grant, one endless theme,—
Thy lady's praise—and striving to redeem
The pledges laid on thee by Love's command,
We are the true lovers, we who stand
Beside our mistress, though no silver stream
Of song escape our lips. Thou art the dream,
We the realities her eyes have scanned.

"Know ye," he answered, "how those lilies grow
That on the lake's breast seem to float apart
And free, though fastened firm their roots below?
Thus do I seem before the wind and tide
Of chance and change to sway from side to side;
But still my heart is anchored to her heart."

PRACTICAL ETHICS.

REVERENCE FOR THE DEAD.

IF we carry our inquiry into certain forms of religious observance back of the particular phase of religion under contemplation, such as ancestor worship, we shall find more than a mere sanctifying of petrified traditions and reverence for meaningless superstitions. For, while such unswerving devotion to, and rapt adoration for departed ancestors as manifested by the adherents of Confucianism, the most important of Chinese religions, and by the followers of Japanese Shintoism, seem at a first glance nothing more than the coils of tradition fastened relentlessly upon a hopelessly unprogressive people—there is, nevertheless, a practical purpose traceable in this worship of patriarchal spirits which cements religion and life, and thus is of eminent ethical value.

Indeed, the late success of the Japanese is directly due, as intimated by the author of "Japan, an Interpretation," to the cumulative moral force gathered by the "little brown men" from the precepts and practices inculcated and incumbent upon them by their religion. Thus Japan, in reverencing the dead, learned how to deal with the living. Hence in respecting and venerating the noblest ideals of their departed religious leaders, statesmen, scholars, and patriots, they perpetuated many potent moral qualities that unite a people, give purpose and stability to its actions, and lend fire and zeal to its patriotism.

Whatever we may have to say against ancestor worship as a religious cult, its moral and political efficacy cannot be denied. Moreover, there is no more spiritualizing influence than that emanating from reverential memories of the noble deeds, the inspiring thoughts, the human touches of love and tenderness of rare, departed souls. All too soon, though they live in the consciousness of the race through eons of time, are the great ones of earth forgotten! And how much sooner, how very, very soon, and ofttimes all too soon, do we bury not only in the earth, but in oblivion, the humble ones once near and dear to us!

However, so inexorable are the established laws of the universe that the past and the present, seemingly incalculable ages apart, are really very near together. Hence we delude ourselves in turning a deaf ear to the teachings of tradition, however primitive, and no matter how ultra-progressive our own civilization. For in order to advance safely, we must look before and after: we must proceed Janus-faced with one visage turned toward that which has preceded us, the other directed toward the oncoming time.

"The dead," we say, "belong to the past; let us forget them." And this idea of the utter worthlessness of the past as an important factor in building the future, leads to a deplorable lack of reverence for the departed, and which spirit of irreverence toward the dead has its counter effect in a dire lack of reverence for the living!

We need no weird spiritualistic philosophy, no imported occultism, or vague, impenetrable mysticism, to harrow us with nebulous theories of the "living dead," nor bogus demonstrations to convince us that the dead, notwithstanding their corporeal absence, are still spiritual forces in the world according to the degree of potency or impotency of every personality in life.

Jesus of Nazareth is more vitally alive today than He was 2000 years ago, although his teachings are obscured or distorted by spurious interpreters. Moses and the Old Testament prophets still mightily lead, warn and direct the activity of the foremost nations of the earth. Plato and Aristotle, to say nothing of a score of other notable founders of religion and systems of philosophy prior to these, have sent their thought filtering down the ages through the mind of man, coloring each succeeding generation until it reached our own, where its tints and tones are easily recognized in religion and politics, in governments, and in the unconsciously absorbed words and phrases ordinarily passed from lip to lip.

Hence to "forget the past," in our estimation, is not to become irreverent toward the dead; it is rather to slough off the weight of sorrow or despair crowded in upon us by failure or affliction, that we may stay the paralyzing of effort so sure to follow a life without hope. Yes, forget the past that hangs like a pall over your being; that casts a shadow upon the sunniest day; that flattens life into a joyless plain of desolate desert. All such troublesome and ill-foreboding images which clamor for admittance on the threshold of consciousness, say sternly nay; but on the other hand, gladly lift the latch of recollection to the happier things of the past, and welcome all the noble examples, the stern but virile lessons taught by the saints and sages long gone by; look earnestly, lovingly, sympathetically, and hopefully, into the trials and achievements of the great galaxy of martyrs and heroes of our own and other lands; thus finding strength and refreshment in the retrospect. Especially let the spirit of American patriotism glow with a new fervor when at this time regarding the moral and political ideals of our national ancestors, Washington and Lincoln, whose spirit is ever present to us in the American republic which they so gloriously established, and whose names recall us to our patriotic duty. Surely, the memorable record of these noble sons of Freedom must thrill every liberty-loving heart and mind, inclining every one to bow in reverence for the loyal dead with the poet's promise upon their lips:

"Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us
Footprints on the sands of time."

In Spanish Africa. By Frank G. Carpenter.

LAST OF COLONIES.

AN ODD CONVICT SETTLEMENT ON THE COAST OF MOROCCO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

MELILLA (Spanish North Africa.)—I am in what is about the last of Spain's colonial possessions. In the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries she owned the best part of the New World. She had the cream of North America, if we include the Louisiana purchase, which we got by way of France, and she had almost the whole of South America excepting Brazil. The best of the West Indies were hers. Cortez poured the treasures of Montezuma into her royal coffers, and Pizarro, shoeing his horses with solid silver, robbed the Incas of Peru of their gold by the shipload. The Philippines added to these sources of wealth, and for a long time two great golden streams rolled across the Atlantic and Pacific to benefit the Spaniards. Spain was then the richest of all the powers in her colonial possessions. Today by mismanagement and oppression she has become the poorest, and since her war with us, when she lost Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, there have been none so poor to do her reverence.

Indeed, all the land which Spain has left outside her own boundaries is in Africa, and even here her possessions are the rag-tag and bobtail of the continent. They may cover perhaps 200,000 or 300,000 square miles, but they are all desert, sand or fever swamps, and the tillable lands suitable for white men which they contain are not as big as an Ohio county, and their total population will hardly equal that of Washington City.

In contrast with this the other great powers of Europe have been quietly gobbling up the fat things of this mighty continent. France has the biggest share, if we include the Island of Madagascar. She has almost 4,000,000 square miles, or more than one-third of all Africa. A vast deal of her territory, however, is in the Desert of Sahara; it is made up of stone and sand which might form good building materials, but which are of no value where they lie. Great Britain comes next among the national land owners. She has close to another third of the continent, if we consider Egypt and its Soudan as a part of her possessions. Germany has not quite one-eleventh of the whole, and Portugal almost one-thirteenth, while Turkey itself, in Tripoli, has about as much land as Spain.

What Spain Owns

Before I describe this God-forsaken spot where I now am, I would like to tell you just what Spain has in Africa. She owns the Island of Fernando Po and a small tract on the mainland on the Gulf of Guinea. Her country there contains, I believe, about 9000 square miles, or a little more than the State of Massachusetts. The land is swampy and so unhealthful that it has become known as the "White Man's Grave." It is covered with a luxuriant vegetation, and produces some India rubber and palm oil. The only foreigners there are a few Spanish, French and English merchants. The natives are among the most degraded of the Africans. They are negroes of the lowest type, and slavery is common. Fernando Po itself has convict settlements, and the criminals sent there seldom return.

North of the Gulf of Guinea, between Morocco and the French Soudan, Spain has a wide strip of land which is ruled by the Governor of the Canary Islands. It stretches for several hundred miles along the Atlantic coast, but it is one of the worst parts of the whole Des-

The English Tired of Gibraltar.

Speaking of Spain, I understand that there is a bare possibility that it may some day again have possession of Gibraltar, and thus regain its old stepping stone to Africa. The English are said to be tired of spending money upon the fortifications there, and that especially since a commission of Parliament has reported that the place as far as the Atlantic side is concerned is practically defenseless as a naval base and that it would not be of great good in time of war. England has already spent upon these fortifications about $250,000,000, which is almost as much as we will spend upon the Panama Canal. In 1904 the military expenses of Gibraltar amounted to more than $2,000,000, and costly improvements in the way of new docks and a large coaling island are now being made. These new works are all on the side of the rock facing the Atlantic Ocean. It is there that the town of Gibraltar lies and there also are the bay and the landing places for ships.

I spent some time at Gibraltar on my way to Morocco, and had a good chance to inspect the outside of the fortifications and the new improvements. A deep harbor of 260 acres is being formed, and about fifty acres of water area has been reclaimed for a new dock yard. The largest of the naval war vessels can be drydocked there and the harbor is big enough for the whole British Atlantic fleet.

Eighty Miles of Tunnels.

The rock of Gibraltar lies at the end of a narrow neck of land which connects it with the Spanish peninsula. One could walk across this neck in a few minutes. The town of Gibraltar, which contains something like 30,000 people, is situated upon it, and its houses extend from it along the lower sides of the rock itself.

This rock is a gigantic piece of solid limestone, which rises almost straight from the water on the side facing the Mediterranean Sea, to a height almost as great as that of the Blue Ridge Mountains, in Virginia. If you could put two Washington Monuments, one on the top of the other, and on the top of these a spire as tall as the dome of the Capitol you have just about the height of Gibraltar. The rock is about three miles long and less than a mile wide at its widest part.

As one approaches it from the sea one sees many port holes here and there along the sides. They come out from the tunnels within. The whole rock has been tunneled. It has eighty miles of galleries burrowed through it, and it is a honeycomb of chambers. The fortifications have, of course, the finest of modern guns and other war machinery. Only a few parts of them are shown to visitors, and only the British soldiers and War Office know just how the works are constructed and defended. There are undoubtedly some big twelve-inch guns and some which could probably land shot in Africa across the way. The strait is something like twelve miles wide at that point, and there are modern guns which will shoot twelve or thirteen miles. Among the guns known to be at Gibraltar are two of 100 tons each, so heavy that it would take about 200 horses to haul one of them. Those guns are each thirty-two feet long, and each will throw a shot weighing a ton a distance of eight miles.

Dogs as Smugglers.

Gibraltar is practically a free port, and tobacco and everything else is cheaper there than in Spain, which is only two miles away across the isthmus. The land between is called "the neutral ground," and there is now a high woven-wire fence across it, which is guarded day and night by the Spanish customs officers. The fence was put up in order to prevent tobacco being carried across without paying duty. The smugglers had trained dogs to carry parcels from one side to the other. The way they did it was to dress up one of their number as a Spanish customs officer, and then having tied a bag of tobacco to the neck of the pup they wished to train, they would drive him in the direction of this bogus official. As soon as the dog came near the man in the customs uniform would run for him, and if he caught him would give him a good thrashing. The pup soon learned that all men so dressed were his enemies, and he naturally gave them a wide berth. The dogs were brought from the Spanish side to Gibraltar and there loaded with tobacco. They would start home on the run, and no customs official could get within a mile of them until this fence was erected.

The British have now 6000 soldiers at Gibraltar. The place is a crown colony, and it has a governor-general, who is also commander-in-chief. In proportion to the area which he rules, the Governor of Gibraltar is one of the best paid officials on earth. His principality covers about two square miles, and his salary is $25,000 a year. That is half as much as President Roosevelt gets, and he governs about 3,600,000 square miles. If our President was paid at the same rate per square mile as is the Governor-General of Gibraltar he would be receiving the enormous sum of $45,000,000,000 a year.

SUCCESS STATISTICS.

Prof. E. G. Dexter, of the University of Illinois, has studied success as astronomers study the heavens. The following are success facts that he has accumulated:

Musical talent matures the earliest, and therefore musicians achieve success at the earliest age.

Inventors must wait long for success. They rarely attain it under 45.

Scientists succeed early, if at all. If they are not noted at 40 they never will be noted.

The actor's success comes to him at 30.

Authors achieve success between 30 and 35.

A business man's success is usually assured at 40. Thereafter, unlike the success of the writer, which is apt to wane, the success of the business man grows steadily till his death.

Only one-fifth of the world's successful business men are college graduates.

To Help Consumptives.

A PLAN TO SET THEM AT WORK IN FOREST RESERVES.

From New York Tribune.

THE brain of a thinker in the Keystone State has evolved a plan for the utilization of natural advantages in the cure of consumption and the safeguarding of the community from tuberculosis infection.

Pennsylvania combines among its public utilities large State forestry reservations, a State school of forestry is devoted exclusively to training young men for its forest service, liberal forest laws which allow of improvement cuttings as well as improvement plantings, and a camp for consumptives, to which ailing persons may go if they cannot, for want of funds, go to more expensive health resorts. Thinking over this combination of State institutions, it occurred to Dr. J. T. Rothrock of Mount Alto that it would be a good plan to unite them in the interest of the great body of consumptives and of the community at large as well. His argument in favor of the plan is thus set forth succinctly by himself:

"The unguarded consumptives are probably more dangerous to the community than the insane persons who are now under State care would be if liberated. The latter would be restrained to a certain extent by their friends, whereas the public is seldom so guarded against consumptives, who are scattering the germs of disease in all directions.

"I believe a wide-reaching, economical system is possible, by which most, if not all, of such persons may be provided for. Pennsylvania has nearly a million acres of forest reservation land. Most of it must be replanted in young trees. To do this work not less than a billion seedlings must be raised and transplanted into the ground where they are to grow. It would require a large force of men to raise and transplant annually a million trees. Even if this were done the task of reforesting the State would require a thousand years. A work so slowly done would fail utterly to meet the economic exigencies which demand for the prosperity of the commonwealth that all our rocky watersheds should be devoted to the growth of timber. It would be only a drop in the bucket if the State transplanted annually four million forest seedings. That would simply cover four thousand acres or six and one-fourth square miles.

"Little of the labor required in raising and transplanting seedlings is of a hard or exhausting character. Most of it is very light. It is all out of doors, and it would be in our health belt where the air is pure. Life under such conditions would be for the convalescent consumptive more desirable in every way than life on a farm, and I believe it would be safe for the community. In addition to this, willow culture and the manufacture of baskets and other wicker work could be extensively conducted. Small articles of rustic work would furnish an endless opportunity for those who had a constructive turn."

As a practical beginning, Dr. Rothrock points to the work of the Mountain Camp Sanatorium, in Franklin county, Pennsylvania. There the consumptive unable to pay for treatment is received and treated free. The proposition is to send all the convalescent patients from this sanatorium to the State school of forestry, and from there to the open reservations, where the life of the forest ranger, a pure, healthy, outdoor occupation, would not only serve to keep the convalescent from falling back into the old condition of ill-health, but would prevent danger to the public from the spreading of germs that might still be dormant in the system of the consumptive. Dr. Rothrock ends his plea for the consumptive with this significant argument:

"It will cost something less than any other plan proposed, and bear in mind, if you will, that, whether you cure these persons whose poverty appeals to your generosity or whether you support them in hospitals or county homes and finaly lay them to rest in a plain coffin, you must and do ultimately bear the expense. It is cheaper to cure them and restore them to the ranks of productive citizenship than to board and bury them."

It will be an interesting sight when the nation witnesses the forests of the country being built up by the army of sufferers from the great white plague, who themselves, in restoring the wasted ranges to their natural state, are being restored by the bountiful nature whose work they are assisting. Dr. Rothrock estimates that ten thousand citizens of Pennsylvania are now in the early stages of tuberculosis, and could be restored to reasonable health under proper conditions. "Turn them loose in our forests," he urges, "and let them restore themselves while restoring the wooded ranges. A plan so economical, safe and beneficial to all is not likely to find a single opponent."

TOOTH FASHIONS.

"The fashionable color in teeth," said the wholesale dentist, "depends on the locality. America, I believe, favors a pearly white tooth.

"We employ 1100 hands here, and our annual production is 24,000,000 teeth. Most of these teeth, I'm glad to say, go abroad. Americans take such good care of their teeth that a false tooth is more of a rarity among them than among other people.

"We ship to the English a dull white tooth of a very long, thin shape.

"Italy and Spain get a small, squat tooth of a bright china white.

"South America demands a yellow tooth of broad, solid structure, suitable for chewing the tough beef of the pampas.

"China gets from us a tooth of ugly, bluish hue."

Washington in Art.

WASHINGTON THE MOST PICTURED OF ALL AMERICANS.

By a Special Contributor.

ARTISTS have traced every important incident in the life of George Washington, the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of whose birth Americans celebrate this week.

It would be possible for a person entirely unable to read to get a good idea of all that happened from the days when as a young man Washington entered into life as surveyor until that pathetic instant at Mt. Vernon, when, surrounded by his family, he ended a life that had for its greatest work the foundation of the world's mightiest republic.

Inauguration by J. R. Chapin

No man of modern times, excepting only Napoleon Bonaparte, has been pictured as often as George Washington. Painters, sculptors and engravers all have devoted their art to preserving to the future not only his features, but incidents of history that had him for a principal actor.

They show him surveying the estates of Lord Fairfax, in the Virginia Valley, when this region was wildest territory; again he is pictured a valiant soldier, fighting on the side of England, under Braddock during the French and Indian war. His marriage to Mrs. Martha Custis, a wealthy widow, gave another chance to the painters, and Washington family groups a legion, showing the Father of his Country, the sweet-faced Martha, and other members of the group, even down to the general's dog, have helped to preserve the names of artists who might otherwise have been forgotten.

Washington in his Masonic apron, is another picture for which all Masons are profoundly gateful, and the original of which is carefully preserved in one of the finest temples of the order.

Washington, in 1774, a member of the Virginia Assembly, speaking seldom and briefly, but, according to Patrick Henry, being in "point of soundness of judgment and extended knowledge by far the ablest man in the body," has been committed to the canvas, and from this time on when his espousal of the American cause made him an international figure, he could scarcely move without inspiring some artist.

They have him first hearing news of his appointment to be commander-in-chief of the army that was to fight for independence; he is shown at the moment of taking command, and in various battles—Trenton, Monmouth, Germantown and Brandywine, and at Valley Forge.

One of the most popular of the Valley Forge pictures shows Washington kneeling in prayer in the open woods, on ground covered with snow, at a moment when the fortunes of the colonies seemed hopeless. The sentiment of this picture, although the canvas is by a little-known artist, has caused it to hold a high place in public esteem.

Right after the Valley Forge prayer came the incident that nerved the heart of the colonies and gave them one of the dramatic victories of the war, Washington's descent on the Hessians at Trenton. To make this victory possible, he had to cross the Delaware at a time when floating ice was believed to make it impassable. This inspired the German artist, Emanuel Leutze, to execute what is probably the most popular of all Washington paintings, "Washington Crossing the Delaware," a canvas that has been reproduced hundreds of thousands of times, and can today be purchased from a five-cent post card to a fine steel engraving at $100.

One of the reasons why Washington was so much painted was that during most of the struggle for freedom he was surrounded by artists. Fear of the coming French Revolution had sent scurrying to the United States many noted Frenchmen, among whom were painters and sculptors, and these naturally turned their art to picturing Washington, then und est figure in the New World.

Some American painters also took part in for independence, notable among whom was bull of Connecticut, a Harvard student, wh start of the war had executed several ings. He turned his talents to prompt gle against Britain, and made drawings of that attracted him to the attention of W the result that place was made for him the commander-in-chief.

To Protect the Birds.

AUDUBON SOCIETY URGING MEASURE AT SACRAMENTO.

By a Special Contributor.

WITHIN the last year or two there has been a large increase in the number of hunters, and the birds of all species in California are rapidly becoming fewer. The professional hunters, or "pot boilers," are more numerous, as California is one of the few States that does not impose a license. The increased number of tourists is also partly the cause of the gradual extinction of the birds. No sooner do they get off the cars than the destructive instinct prompts them to go out and kill something. It matters not to them whether the bird be protected by law or not. It is the livelihood of the one and the pleasure of the other, and they are not concerned for the future. According to the reports of the Audubon Society, at Pasadena, many of the Italians, Portuguese, Greeks, and Japanese are sparing nothing with feathers, whether in or out of season. These are the greatest offenders. They openly violate the law, when out of its reach, and even kill nesting quail which they sell to the restaurant-keepers. The Audubon Society will urge at the present session of the Legislature several amendments to the law protecting wild birds and game. One of these will strike at the depredating Japanese "pot-hunters" and other alien classes who ruthlessly and defiantly slaughter our songsters and other birds of value to the fruit-grower and the farmer. The proposed law is to tax alien or unnaturalized inhabitants $25 a year. The tax for non-residents is fixed at $10. This would hit the tourists and deprive many of the "one-lungers" of much of their sport. The tax for citizens of California would be only $1. This would also cut short much of the vicious sport of the small boy with the shotgun, and the farmer who is ignorant of the fact that the birds protect his crops from insects. This tax, the society holds, would not only lessen the eternal shooting. but furnish funds with which to protect game, in addition to any funds that the State may appropriate for that purpose. There are only nine States in the Union that do not require a license from hunters, and California is one of these. In this State, also, birds are being more rapidly exterminated than in any of the States requiring a license.

The right of a State to protect its game by imposing a heavier fee upon aliens than upon others, has been decided in the affirmative by the Supreme Court of California, and the United States Circuit and United States Supreme courts. The wild game within a State belongs to the people of that State, and they may prohibit any one from killing it. Arkansas does this and Washington imposes a tax of $50 each on aliens. Both Oregon and Washington tax non-residents $10, and residents $1 each. Thus it seems to be the experience of every State that aliens are the worst offenders in the destruction of game. An application of the Arkansas prohibition law would exterminate these alien "pot-hunters," who make no distinction between protected or unprotected birds, or the open or closed season.

The Audubon Society will also propose an amendment limiting the open season on doves to one month—August; also one protecting the wild, or band-tailed, pigeon.

There is a strong popular sentiment against the killing of doves, and it does not seem that there should be any open season, even for a day. Any one who, after listening to the plaintive cooing of this innocent bird, is not moved to spare its life, certainly must have a heart into which pity cannot enter. The wild pigeon, which it is proposed to place on the protected list, is a rare species, and is rapidly becoming extinct in this State. It would be better, evidently, not to have an open season.

A bill has been introduced in the California Legislature for the protection of the meadow lark. This is one of the most useful, if not the most useful bird in the State, and it is rapidly becoming extinct. The aim is to protect it absolutely, and to prevent even the farmer from taking a shot at it. Strangely, many farmers, vineyardists and orchardists, believe that the western meadow lark destroys their crops, when it really protects them from the ravages of insects. It eats largely of grasshoppers, crickets, caterpillars, wasps, spiders, beetles, bugs, and flies. Crickets and grasshoppers constitute about one-third of its yearly diet, and during August, when these insects are most numerous, they furnish about three-fourths of the food of the lark. When the cut-worm begins to work in May, the lark also begins its work of destroying that insect. The lark seeks out the caterpillars, which other birds often overlook, and destroys them by the acre. It has been shown, frequently, that the meadow lark does not eat grain, and is, therefore, not an enemy of the farmer. Its destruction of the green caterpillar, which in some seasons seriously damages vineyards, alfalfa fields, and gardens, should insure its protection from this quarter. But, many of the proprietors, ignorant of this fact, shoot the bird while it is doing them a service. Italian and Japanese laborers in vineyards shoot the meadow lark for food, and this slaughter has been going on for years. The lark also makes a special war upon the dreaded Fuller's rose beetle, so destructive to strawberry-growers. It is an ally to agriculturists, horticulturists, and vineyardists, and is the bird most numerously destroyed by them—that is, by those who are ignorant as to its usefulness.

There are several varieties of lark in this State, one being the "horned lark," and this comprises three species. They are differently named according to locality, but all are of the same family, and the description is similar. The species known as the "Mexican horned lark" is found along the Coast from San Diego to San Francisco. It is so named because the bird has tufts of feathers on each side of the head which, when it is angry, stand up like the ruffled feathers of a chicken, or the hair on a cat's back, and thus looks somewhat like a "horn." These birds are said to be more numerous on the desert than along the Coast, as they have fewer enemies among their own kind. They nest in the arid, sandy regions amid the stunted growth. Their nests are made in a saucer-like hollow in the ground, close to a clump of sage, or in the open. The material used is usually buffalo grass. While the female prepares the nest, the male is flying through the air, turning and tumbling in joy, and thrilling a melody. The mate answers, and perhaps takes a fly upward to that blue speck in the sky that is calling her. As is known the lark is an early riser, and it is in the early morning that the male gives singing lessons to the young, while also teaching them the use of their tender wings.

The California meadow lark is a sweeter singer than the eastern species. Its notes are wild and sweet, tinged with a liquid mellowness, and have a carrying quality. They are longer and more varied. and are clear and faultless. Its alarm notes are more of a remonstrance against the intruder than a scold, and are less harsh than that of the eastern lark. Its plumage is also a little paler, but its habits are somewhat similar—living in the clearing along the streams, or mostly in the meadows; hence its name. It builds its nest in the tangled long grass in a hollow in the soil, and lines it with grass, and roofs it with the same material. As its color "matches" that of the grass, it is thus protected by nature from the vandal behind the gun. The lark hunts grasshoppers, beetles, and crickets, and bores in the ground for what may be found underneath. The birds scatter over a district, and each one is seen driving his bill into the earth where it has been softened by the spring rains. It pegs away until the hole has been made large enough to bring up the worm or the eggs of the locust that are found just beneath the surface.

The dusky warbler, the hooded oriole, and the roadrunner, are also becoming scarcer under the deadly work of the tourist and the professional "pot hunter." These species will soon become extinct in California unless the slaughter is stopped.

The dusky warbler was once numerous in Los Angeles and on the islands in the Santa Barbara Channel. Its gradual extermination is owing to tourists, and to the small boy who seems to think it is his mission to take a fling at anything that flies. On the islands the warbler builds its nest on the ground at the base of a weed stalk, but, in the parks of the city the nests are built higher up. This, however, does not seem to protect them. The warblers leave the islands early in the fall, swarming at San Pedro, and then migrate down to San Bernardino. Many of them, however, turn their wings toward Los Angeles at an earlier date, arriving here in August, where they do missionary work in the parks.

The Hooded Oriole, which is also seen in Southern California as far north as Santa Barbara, is also becoming much scarcer, not because of the hunter's gun, but because of the war of the larger birds against the weak. Here, it is not a survival of the fittest, but of the swiftest. They eat grasshoppers and all species of insects, and are a great benefit to ranchers who, ignorant of this fact, permit and encourage their boys to trap and "sling-shot" them. The male is the sweeter singer, and he usually sings from a concealed perch. The female imitates him in low tones of sweet soliloquy. He is an ardent wooer, and in harsh notes scolds or threatens, and is as persistent as a fledgling youth after the maiden who has upset his reason. When he triumphs he assists in building the nest, which is usually hung on the under side of a palm leaf, in willow or gum trees, or in a bunch of mistletoe, and not more than twelve feet from the ground. At Monrovia a pair hung their nest to a banana leaf.

The roadrunner is one of the most peculiar birds in California, or perhaps anywhere. Having wings, he does not fly; or, at least, very seldom, and his flights are short. He prefers to use his feet, and almost always takes to the middle of the road, like a Populist. When the roadrunner sees danger, he will run out of a thicket into the middle of the road, and trot off at a lively gait, occasionally turning his head to see what is coming. If the danger is nearer he darts into the brush and, with such quickness that he frequently loses his balance and turns a somersault—tail over head.

The roadrunner is found in the valleys and on the mesas, and on the Mojave Desert. He is shy, suspicious and unsocial, rarely more than two or four being found in a neighborhood. The female builds her nest in the cactus plant, or in an oak near the ground, and is select as to the place and the material. Some nests are built of cow hair, snake skin and feathers, interwoven with roots. No two nests are exactly alike, each pair selecting its own style of architecture. These birds eat snakes, especially the garter snake, young birds, field mice, and reptiles of all varieties. They are especially fond of lizards, which they swallow. It is said that the roadrunner will hop upon a rattlesnake, and with a few whacks of his bill vanquish the reptile. The roadrunner is very inquisitive, and will run up to a ranch house, when there is nothing edible in sight, merely to see what is going on, apparently, and then give the rancher a foot race down the road. If fired at, he spreads his tail and runs the faster, still keeping to the middle of the road.

Alienists' Tests.

SCENTING OUT INSANITY FAKERS IS DELICATE WORK.

By a Special Contributor.

TO the reader who diligently follows the daily reports of a great murder trial the methods of the alienists—who, more often than not, try the defendant before he comes into court—have ever remained a mystery as deep as the riddle of the Sphinx.

The alienist advances further and further into the limelight as the years grind on. The growth and elaboration of his science of detecting the real lunatic from the simulator has been noteworthy in the past decade. "Our skill in the detection of simulation is increasing from year to year, but the skill of the simulator is also increasing," says Prof. Spitzka, the eminent alienist of New York.

Insanity Dodge Known to Homer.

The "insanity dodge" appears to be as old as civilization itself. It was known to Homer, who depicts Odysseus as feigning madness; and the Bible tells us that David posed as a lunatic, by aid of the very tricks resorted to by the counterfeit madman of today. Contrary to the common supposition, the skilled alienist almost always makes himself and the object of his visit known when he visits a cell to examine the criminal tenant. He rarely acts the part of a spy, although he frequently has the suspect placed under the surveillance of the jail keepers, who note his movements when he imagines that he is not seen. At such times the simulator will generally relax from the strain of his acting and behave naturally.

One of the first points noted by the insanity expert is whether the accused avoids looking him straight in the face when he enters the cell. The simulator generally looks away. Delay or drawling in answering questions, although the face shows intelligence, is another point against the subject. Having heard the oft-repeated rule that the real lunatic is sure that he is sane, the skilled feigner contends that his mind is perfectly balanced, but here he frequently overacts his part.

Lunatics Sometimes Feign Insanity.

Really insane criminals have been known to sham insanity, and be convicted on the strength of their feint. The typical make-believe lunatic when tired by his active performances generally pretends not to recognize his family or friends, whereas the true maniac is lucid in these very periods and recognizes those about him perfectly well. The simulator generally makes a botch of it, also, in flying into his fit too rapidly. The spasms of a real lunatic, as a rule, develop gradually. The shammer almost always has the notion that the insane do not reason. A woman prisoner in a noted case made a failure of her masquerade by absurd contradictions and the feint of not remembering such an important event as the violent death of her husband. But what betrays most counterfeit maniacs is the fact that after performing all day he sleeps soundly all night and awakes with a good appetite, whereas in real insanity there is almost always chronic insomnia and impaired digestion. When the simulator is accused of shamming he will undergo some unnatural change of symptoms, while the real lunatic on such occasions generally acts like a sane person and remains unchanged.

"The feigning of acute confusional insanity alone presents many chances of success," said an eminent alienist discussing these problems. In such cases the physical signs of insanity are not important to the expert, and the patient reasons with an incoherence which is easily imitated. What the specific symptoms of this form of insanity are had best not, however, be published indiscriminately.

Feigned Insanity Five Years.

The record for feigned insanity was made in France by Picard, a man convicted of fraudulent bankruptcy. He played the part of a lunatic for five years, without interruption. Like that of the professional faster, however, his strain was greatest at the beginning of the ordeal. The first period of simulated insanity having been passed, alienists say, the sham becomes second nature.

Those noted are of course but a meager fraction of the general observations made by the alienist. Going deeper into the case, he makes careful physical tests, frequently with instruments of precision. He carries into the cell an elaborate kit, comprising calipers of various sizes, tape lines, strips of lead ribbon for preserving the shape of the head, instruments for testing sensitiveness to pain, the acuteness of the and so on. His portable amanuensis is a little cylinder which he connects to some of the and which reproduces their measurements lines marked upon paper.

Among the first physical symptoms sought now recognized signs of degeneration. In this question of degeneracy is coming into greater prominence, owing to the elaborate of numerous investigators in asylums, prisons and other institutions sheltering tunate brethren. Such specialists are discovering and more how insanity in ancestors becomes tage of children.

Studying the Head.

The shape of the head is as important to the day alienist as it was to the latter-day Every segment of the skull represents gion lying beneath it, and it is believed by ists today that groups of brain convolutions shape of the skull.

"The great recent advance in cerebral paves the way to a newer and more more limited phrenology," says Dr. Frederick the well-known Cincinnati alienist. Skull now generally accepted as denoting degeneracy cessive flat-headedness or narrow-headed "steeple-shaped skull" or keel-shaped top skull tilted to one side of the base line, with forehead very narrow, but great Generally regarded as the most serious physical degeneration are deformities of the skull, ear, limbs, and of the body in general. importance are ranked lack of symmetry formities of the teeth, nose and eyes; and skin. Washington's Way.

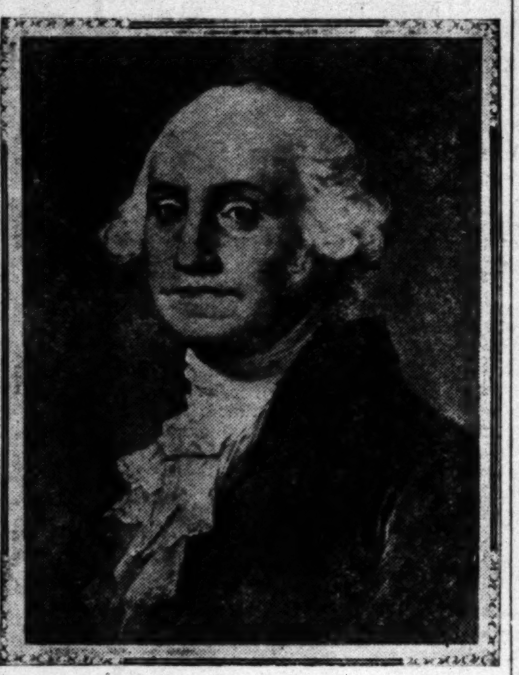
CELEBRATED HIS BIRTHDAY BY THE DOING OF GOOD DEEDS.

By a Special Contributor.

ONE hundred and seventy-five years ago on the 22nd of this February the "father" of our country first saw the light of day, and 107 years ago on the 14th of last December he looked his last on the land which he had made a free and independent country.

Since then the nation each year has marked the date of his birth in various ways; first by holding religious ceremonies in the churches throughout the land at which the pastors, many of whom had fought under the great commander or had known him in private life, talked feelingly about the big heart and the broad soul of the departed hero; then as the years rolled along and those who knew Washington had joined him in the silence the day was marked by a great flying of bunting and waving of flags and playing of bands and parading of soldiers. Still later the day was held as a national holiday on which the banks were closed and the schools gave entertainments at which patriotic songs were sung, fiery speeches made and the great deeds of our first President recounted in dramatic manner; now the day is still a national holiday, but the schools are closed and churches, charitable organizations, clubs and individuals, make the occasion an excuse for giving colonial teas, Washington birthday parties, hatchet suppers or Revolutionary plays. The shop windows are full of hatchets, miniature cherry trees, cocked hats and cherries real, candied and for decorative purposes.

All this display and fun and frolic makes the thinker wonder how George Washington kept the day, and the investigator who takes the pains to look into the matter will find that from 1745 to the date of his death, February 22 was a day of importance not only to Washington but to his friends and all those who did him service.



THE FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY.

When Washington was 13 years old he wrote for his own use 110 maxims of civility and good behavior and added one resolution which read: "Resolved that on the 22nd day of February, the day on which I was given the gift of consciousness, I will, each year, do some good deed or deeds, as many as come within my power, to show my gratitude for the life given me for a little space."

From 1745 until the date of his death Washington never broke the resolution made on his 13th birthday. On this first anniversary of which there is any record he tramped fourteen miles, seven there and seven home again, to the house of an aged woman who had been kind to his mother during an illness, carrying a large package of provisions and remaining for several hours to stack her woodpile and build her fire.

Later in the day he drove two cows nearly two miles to the farm from which they had escaped and, finding the farmer laid up with rheumatism, set to work to mend the pasture fence and so keep the cows at home.

He returned at night to a good birthday supper, and the evening was passed in merriment. No doubt young George slept the sleep of the righteous that night, for his resolution was working splendidly.

Several years later he wrote to a school chum early on the morning of the 22nd of February: "This day I enter upon a new epoch—the year stretches before me—for what? Only he who benefits his fellow-man has the right to enjoy the glories of life. I shall endeavor to commence my new year clear from debt in this respect."

There is no record of how the day was marked in 1748, but judging from the tone of the letter his life was fuller by several good deeds.

"Some Personal Remembrances of Washington" tells how, on February 22, 1751, he hired some half dozen sleighs, rented a hall, and gave all the young people of Mount Vernon, where he was then visiting his brother, Capt. Lawrence Washington; a fine afternoon and evening frolic, with a big "spread" to crown the event. To this "party" were invited not the young bloods of Washington's own class, but those less favored, and it is recorded that although they stood about in shyness at first, it did not take George many minutes to set the fun going.

It was on the following year that Washington made his only ocean voyage—to the Barbadoes—and that he enlisted in the Seven Years War.

He spent his 22nd birthday amid warlike scenes at Fort Duquesne, now Pittsburgh, where he commanded a regiment against the French. On the eve of that birthday Washington gave a bountiful supper to all the men of his regiment, and gave a good-sized sum of money to one of the men to be sent home to the wife and little ones whom the soldier had left in almost destitute circumstances.

There are many lapses in the records of Washington's birthdays and how he spent them, but in 1755 he writes to a friend: "I am growing old apace, Alfred, (he was only 23 then) and today I turn another year. So far I have been true to my resolution made when I was 13, and I want you to help me to keep it unbroken this year. Will you be so kind as to give the inclosure to Welmont Hardy of your village with my kindest remembrances?"

There is no record of what the "inclosure" was, but we are lead to believe that it brought comfort to both the sender and recipient.

On January 6, 1759, at the age of 27, Washington married Martha Custis, and for the time being all the austerity of the young patriot was sunk in the tenderness of the lover. He marked his birthday that year by distributing gifts lavishly among his slaves and by ordering that a certain poor widow near the Washington estate should be served with two quarts of milk and three eggs daily, free of charge as long as she lived, the bill, of course, to be met by Washington.

For a time after his marriage, Washington withdrew from public life and set about cultivating his acres. It was on the 22nd of February, not many years after he had turned Benedict, that he and Lady Washington were sleighing and making unusually merry in honor of the day. As the hour neared noon, both George and Martha discovered that they were "monstrous hungry," and that they were miles away from inn or tavern. Pulling up in front of a little cottage, George made bold to ask the little lady who appeared at the door in answer to his rapping, for a "bite and sup" to stay their pangs.

The stranger proved hospitable, and after showing them the way to a tiny barn, where there was feed for the horse, she spread the cloth in the kitchen and invited her guests to partake of her simple fare.

She had been cutting carpet rags when interrupted by her unexpected guests, and Washington had soon drawn from her the fact that she and her husband, who was then off in the village with the horse, delivering some strips of floor covering, kept the wolf from the door by sewing carpet rags and weaving.

The young aristocrat whispered a few words to his lady and she laughingly nodded consent. Washington then snatched a huge apron which he saw hanging on the door and, tying it around the laughing Martha, handed her a pair of scissors and told her to commence. He begged the protesting dame, their little silver-haired hostess, to get him a pair of shears, and soon the three were cutting and sewing carpet rags right merrily. The pair remained at the cottage until dusk, leaving behind them a great basketful of gay carpet balls and a substantial evidence of well wishes. As the Washingtons drove home, George expressed himself well pleased with the way in which he had spent his birthday.

Just one more record we have of how the general kept the resolution made on his thirteenth birthday. It was in the year 1778, while at Valley Forge, that Washington marked February 22 with a deed of kindness which indeed made one man grateful that the general had been given the "gift of life for a little space." A young sentry was sent to him under the charge of having been found asleep at his post. He was scarcely more than a boy, ill-clad and half-starved, and even though he was badly frightened, his eyelids were heavy with sleep.

The great general questioned him kindly, found that he had given his last rations to a suffering comrade and relieved a sick man of sentry duty. Instead of reprimanding the boy, Washington spread a blanket, told him to lie down and get an hour's sleep. When he awoke it was past noon, and the general had laid the table. He was ordered to partake of the "birthday" feast of cheese, some stale bread and good hot coffee, or what passed for that beverage. The next day the boy was sent to the hospital with a fever, and he never saw battle after that.

Although this is the last record that can be found of how Washington kept his birthday, undoubtedly later anniversaries were marked by deeds of kindness equal to those of his early years.

AN AFTERNOON RAMBLE IN THE CRATER OF KILAUEA.

By a Special Contributor.

AMID all its wealth of color of sea and sky and hilltop, its verdure of rice field, taro patch and cocoanut grove, the most wonderful thing which Hawaii has to show the world is its volcano of Kilauea, which, unlike any other active crater in the world, has never been known to endanger life or property in its eruptions.

This noted volcano is situated on the Island of Hawaii, the largest of the Hawaiian group, about a twenty-six-hour trip by boat from Honolulu, on the Island of Oahu. The trip is considered a rather hard one, for the channels are usually rough and the small inter-island boats toss madly about upon the waves in time of gales, but the beauty of the scenery along the way quite makes up for the unpleasant features.

The first island passed is Molokai, one portion of which is devoted to the leper settlement. After passing from the lea of that island it is not long till the outlines of Hawaii show shadowy blue in the distance and before one realizes it the blue has changed to green, and this great tropical island arises before one. Cocoanut trees line the shores, looking lik esmall ferns compared to the great height of the precipitous sides in some places rising a sheer thousand feet.

For miles the sides of the bluff are lined with mammoth ferns, trees and in many places waterfalls add to the grandeur of the scenery, while at the top shows the bright green of acres upon acres of cane fields waving in the breezes. Occasionally a native grass hut surrounded by a clump of trees is passed, and there are frequent plantation landings along the way. For this reason the boats are lowered to take passengers or freight ashore. There are some places where landing is rough and the passengers have to watch their opportunity and spring from the small boat to the rocks, trusting to a propitious fortune to keep them from falling into the water.

At one point on the island is passed an ancient sacrificial stone, where in years bygone the native Hawaiians offered human sacrifices to their gods. Even now after the passing of the years, the stone, on a close view, shows dark stains which are supposed to be those of human blood. At another point not far away are the ruins of an ancient temple said to have been built in a night by the natives many years ago. The stones from which the temples were built are found many miles from the site and the natives must have dragged them a long, long way.

In the afternoon of the second day, the steamer lands at Hilo, the principal port on the Island of Hawaii and the only rival of Honolulu. As you enter the harbor, you pass Cocoanut Island, a small bit of land covered with a picturesque growth of old cocoanut trees and wild tropical verdure. The natives, whose legendary lore is among the richest of the world, attach to all natural phenomena some mythical explanation, and they have a quaint legend of this island. It seems that many years ago one of their gods came to earth, assuming the form of a pig. He decided that the islands of the group ought to be joined together, and determined to begin the good work by drawing Hawaii over to Oahu. To do so, he fastened a mighty chain to the slender point of land at the end of Hawaii and started to swim through the ocean, towing Hawaii. But he had undertaken a too Herculean task, and pulled off the end of Hawaii, which has ever since been some distance away—a tiny chip from the old block.

At Hilo the weather is much cooler than in Honolulu, because it is higher, but there is more rain, and the growth is far more tropical. Before continuing on the volcano trip visitors are always driven out a charmingly picturesque road to Rainbow Falls, where is found a great cascade of foaming water pouring over the cliffs into an immense pool, the rainbows arching through the gleaming water being never absent and always gorgeous in color. The road winds through a tangle of wild ginger, whose great clusters of white and cream-tinted blossoms are most beautiful, and fill the air with their heavy tropical perfume. Starry white blossoms dot the long grass and the roadsides are bordered by great clumps of wild lantana with its bright orange and scarlet bloom. This lantana is one of the great pests of the islands. It was brought in a few years ago by the means of one little root which some woman brought in her trunk from the States. It spread very rapidly, and does more to injure the ground than any other one thing.

Tall coffee bushes with their shining berries are common adjuncts of the humble back yards, and whenever you come to a grape arbor, of which there are many, you know a Portuguese lives in the house. The dwelling may be ever so poor and lowly and utterly inadequate to hold the swarm of barefooted urchins who cluster on the dilapidated veranda, but there will also be a grape arbor, a little reminder of the fatherland across the seas.

Every pond and pool is filled with exquisite lotus plants and wild hyacinth, the latter in great stalks of pale lavender blossoms.

Sugar and coffee are, as is well known, the two principal products of this island, with the former largely predominating. Off in all directions stretch the fertile plantations over the undulating hills down to the water's edge and again onto the mesa lands far, far away.

At Hilo the traveler takes the train, for some distance going through a wild tropical forest of mammoth banana trees, cocoanut trees, with their tufted fronds rising high against the blue sky, wild grapevines clambering in prodigal growth from tree to tree, wild berry bushes heavy with scarlet berries, great, regal tiger lilies splashing the background of tangled green with gorgeous bits of color. It was rainy the day I took this trip, and I shall never forget the wonderful rainbows we saw. Some of them lay on the ground so that no sky could be seen beneath the arch. Others spanned the heavens high up, and there was always a reflection nearly as bright as the original. It gave one a very strange feeling to see the rainbows lying on the ground, as though we were at the edge of the world, close up against the sky.

At the end of the railroad a stage road leads through a wonderful tropical forest to the famous Volcano House, situated on the bluff overlooking the crater of Kilauea. Along the sides of the road in the thickets grow mammoth fern trees with trunks several feet in circumference. The kukui trees with their shimmering silver-green foliage and tufts of crimson bloom are found in abundance, and their nuts are considered [illegible] cacy. Here, too grows a kind of fern [illegible] eaten at luaus and considered particularly [illegible]

Father of His Country.

GEORGE WASHINGTON AS SEEN BY HIS CONTEMPORARIES.

By a Special Contributor.

THE public's opinion of a great man as expressed by the contemporaneous press is often the best reference history of the time. The historical facts in the life of the first President of the United States are too well known to require repetition, but these give only the statuesque and stately presentation of the man. For a record of the real life and character, we should go, if possible, to the pages of the contemporaneous newspaper. This is especially true of the papers published during that period when Washington was President.

I have before me, as I write, a valuable volume, comprising one year's issue of the "Columbian Centinel. Printed and published on Wednesday and Saturday, by Benjamin Russell, in State street, Boston, Massachusetts."

Washington was first inaugurated as Chief Executive of the United States of America, on the 30th day of April, 1789. The paper I have in hand was published during the triumphal progress of the President through the Northern and Southern States—the year being 1791. In this reproduction I have not attempted to preserve the antique form, but only the spirit of the context.

The first article cited is an essay, a copy taken from the "Massachusetts Magazine." It reads thus:

"The most faithful and scrupulous historians would be the best panegyrists of the President of the United States. I pretend to be neither. I only attempt the outlines of his character, which even jealousy, envoy and malignity are forced to admire, and which more impartial posterity, if it can believe, will almost adore.

"By the mere natural strength and superority of his genius, he broke out at once, a general, a hero. He distinguished with precision, what inferior minds never discover at all, the difference between great difficulties and impossibilities, and being never discouraged by the former, has often seemed to execute the latter. Indefatigably laborious and active, cooly intrepid in action, he discerns, as by intuition, seizes with rapidity and improves with skill, the short, favorable, and often decisive moments in battle.

"Modest and magnanimous after victory, he becomes the generous protector of his subdued and captive enemies. Resolute and undejected in misfortune, he has risen superior to distress and struggled with difficulties, which no courage nor constancy but his own could have resisted or surmounted.

"Arriving at a situation far more dignified than a king, you yet find him a citizen and a patriot. The arduous duties of his important station lose their weight in his hands, because of the comprehensiveness of his mind, and the clearness of his preceptions.

"Indulgent to the various errors of the human mind, because tainted with so few himself, universal toleration (that decisive characteristic of true religion, natural justice, social benevolence, and good policy) is a sentiment congenial to his nature.

"Greatly above all the narrow local prejudices, he encourages and rewards the industrious of every persuasion; he cherishes and honors the learned; and man, as man, wherever oppressed by civil, or persecuted by ecclesiastical tyranny, may find a sure refuge in his sentiments of justice and humanity.

"A philosopher, undazzled with splendor of the heroic parts of his character, may inquire after the milder and and social virtues, and seek for the man. He will find both the man and the philosopher, too, in the President of the American States: unalloyed by the exalted rank, and unsullied by the warrior. A patron of all liberal arts and sciences, and a promoter of whatever tends to adorn the human character.

"Neither the toils of war, nor the cares of government have engrossed his whole time. He enjoys a considerable part of it, in familiar and easy conversations, with his friends and those to whom he gives the endearing appellation of 'fellow-citizens.' There the President is unknown, and what is more, unfelt.

"Not the casual, and often undeserved, superiority of rank or birth, can flatter a mind formed like his. Merit only makes a distinction in his eyes, whither it be found in the domes of wealth and grandeur, or in the more humble walks of life.

"But not to swell an essay toward a character, to the bulk of a finished character, still less to that of a history, I will conclude this sketch with this observation—many a private man might make a great President; but will there ever be a President who will make so great a private man as Washington?"

In the Columbian Centinel of June 11, of the same year, is the following:

"NORTH CAROLINA.

"WILMINGTON, April 27.—On Saturday, the 23rd inst., authentick information was received here of the approach of the President of the United States, and that he might be expected in town before noon of the next day. The succeeding morning the Wilmington troop of horse, commanded by Capt. Toomer, which was ordered out on the occasion, met the President about twelve miles distance from here, and the gentlemen on horseback about six miles. He then alighted from his chariot and, mounting one of his horses, was escorted into town in the following order:

Four dragoons from the horse with a trumpet.
The President and his aide-de-camp, Maj. Jackson.
The High Sheriff of the county, with the committee appointed to attend on the President during his stay.
The troop of Horse.
The gentlemen of the town.
The President's equipage and attendants closed the procession.

"At about 2 o'clock the procession entered the town, when the artillery company, commanded by Capt. Huske, had previously paraded, and immediately a triple Federal salute was begun from the saluting battery, where the flag of the United States was displayed. The President was then conducted in the same order to the house provided for his reception, through an astonishing concourse of people of the town and country, whom, as well as the ladies that filled the windows and balconies of the houses, he saluted with his usual affability and condescension.

"Upon his alighting, the acclamations were loud and universal. The ships in the harbor, all ornamented with their colors, added much to the beauty of the scene."

His triumphal journey is still further chronicled. The following occurring in the issue of July 6.

"CAMDEN, May 30.—The President dined at this place Wednesday last with a numerous company of ladies and gentlemen. On the morning following he viewed the places where the British redoubts had been erected, and after pausing a few minutes at the grave of Baron De Kalb, he set out from our village. On his way he viewed in a very particular manner the ground on which Gen. Greene was attacked by the British troops commanded by Lord Rawdon on Hobkirk Hill; from thence he was accompanied by several gentlemen as far as the plains on which the action happened between the Americans commanded by Gen. Gates, and the British army, under the command of Lord Cornwallis, in the year 1780; when after thanking the gentlemen that accompanied him for their polite attention, he very affectionately took leave of them, and pursued his journey to Charlotte, North Carolina."

Then we come to the founding of the great city which is and ever will be, the pride of our nation. The clipping is selected from the Columbian Centinel of Saturday, July 16, 1791.

"GEORGETOWN, July 2.—On Monday last, being the appointed day, the President of the United States arrived in this town, and on Wednesday put the finishing hand to the location of the Federal City. Misunderstandings had prevailed after his departure in March last on his southern tour, respecting the extent of the lines; and fears were entertained that he might be thwarted in some part of his designs, and not able to obtain a cession of country equal to the great national object in view. But the moment he appeared, all difficulties vanished. The proprietors of lands between this place and the eastern branch, resigning all narrow considerations, cheerfully entered into the necessary business of making the proper conveyances; which being completed to the utmost wishes of the President, he then submitted to the inspection of the proprietors, and a large number of gentlemen attending, a plan of the city, which had for several weeks occupied the time and talents of Col. L'Infant, assisted by the Baron De Graff, and which, with some small alternations, he had determined to adopt.

"By this plan, according to the President's explanations, it appears that the buildings for the Legislature are to be placed on Jenkins Hill, on the land of Daniel Carrol, Esq., of Duddington, about two miles from Rock Creek, and about one and a quarter from the eastern branch; and that the houses of the President, and for the great Department of State, are to be situated on the rising ground adjoining Hamburgh, within one mile of Georgetown, and about one and a quarter from the houses of legislation. An arrangement, which afforded the most general approbation, satisfying each interested individual that his particular interest was as much consulted as a due attention to publick conveniences, and the publick interest, which was the primary object, would any way warrant."

What could be a more graphic commentary on the character of our first President than this item on the laying out of the Federal city, "But the moment he appeared, all difficulties vanished?" And again, "An arrangement which afforded the most general approbation, satisfying each interested individual that his particular interest was as much consulted. As a due attention to publick convenience, and the publick interest which was the primary object, would in any ways warrant?"

And now we reach the end of the journey chronicled in the issue of Saturday, July 16.

"The President of the United States arrived at Philadelphia the sixth inst. from his southern tour, in good health." GRACE ADELE PIERCE.

GERMS AS HIRED MEN.

The farmer emptied a white powder into a pail of water, and added thereto a tiny wad of cotton.

"I'm getting ready to vaccinate my land for the spring," he said. "This is the virus. The government gives me the virus for nothing, and the vaccination increases my crops from 50 to 300 per cent."

Stirring the fluid, he went on:

"Dr. G. T. Moore, of the Department of Agriculture, is the inventor of soil vaccination. Thanks to him, you can fertilize for 4 cents as much soil as $40 worth of nitrate would cover.

"You see, the thing that fertilizes soil is nitrogen. Well, there is a lot of nitrogen in the air—seven-tenths of the air is nitrogen. And Dr. Moore has bred a germ, a little living germ, that all its life long works like a Rockefeller at extracting this nitrogen from the air and storing it in the soil around it.

"This germ is what I vaccinate my land with. This germ, put in my soil, toils day and night—a fine little hired man. To it the air, the free air we breathe, is a perfect guano bed, and from that guano bed I draw all the profit.

"And the result? Well, a potato field yielded 50 per cent. more potatoes after vaccination; an oat field yielded 300 per cent. more oats; a wheat field yielded 52 per cent. more wheat; a rye field yielded 400 per cent. more rye."

The Lesson of "Salome."

MUST NOT MIX IMMORALITY AND HORROR WITH BIBLE THEMES.

By a Special Contributor.

"SALOME'S" experience in New York ought to teach dramatists and composers the lesson that to be welcome a Biblical play must not outrage moral laws.

The product of Richard Strauss, the greatest musical genius of his day, it might have been expected that no fault of Oscar Wilde's lines and plot would be strong enough to overcome public interest in the music.

The production was one of the finest credited to the Conried regime. It represented many weeks of painstaking preparation. In the title role Olive Fremstad scored a remarkable dramatic and vocal success, and gave an impersonation that caused not only her audience to marvel, but also won her the enthusiastic praise of all the rival sopranos of the company.

Herr Conried felt so confident of the complete success of the opera that he chose it for his benefit.

Never was a more auspicious opening, yet the curtain had hardly fallen on the first performance before action was under way to make sure that it was the last performance. The Metropolitan Opera and Real Estate Company, composed of men of wealth, who own the big temple of music and occupy the boxes in the brilliant horse shoe, are not notably squeamish, but the sight of Salome licentiously fondling the severed head of John the Baptist, was a little too much for them, and at once they directed a letter of protest to Director Conried, insisting that as "Salome" was not a proper opera for the Metropolitan, they wished it withdrawn.

Mr. Conried and directors of the operahouse protested. "Salome," they argued, was a work of art, and it would be unjust to the composer, the public of New York, and to the management of the house that spent so liberally on the production to have it stopped. But the owners of the house continued obdurate, and Mr. Conried was compelled to yield a reluctant assent.

The future of "Salome" in its original form, at least, in the United States, looks dark indeed. Yet it is a mistake to say that it is refused because it brings biblical characters into the action. A host of plays of this character have preceded it, and far from exciting adverse criticism most of them have been big successes, artistically and financially.

Within the last five or six years popular preference has caused a whole flood of plays of a religious nature.

"The Holy City," depicting some of the most hallowed events of Christian history, has been one of the best patronized plays presented in Los Angeles during the present season.

Nobody became angry over Wilson Barrett's "Sign of the Cross;" in fact, Christian people all over the United States, the kind who are rarely seen within a theater, flocked to the production, and enjoyed the story of the struggles of the early Christians in Rome when the power of a Nero held over them the rod of persecution. The story of the love of Marcus Superbus for the beautiful Christian girl was really the biggest hit of the closing ten years of Barrett's achievement-filled career.

"Quo Vadis," with its fair Christian bound to the horns of a bull and sent into the arena, from which she is rescued by a giant slave, who breaks the neck of the bull by sheer strength, also made a big appeal no less by the humanity of its emotion than for the realism of the picture of what early adherents of the faith had to endure.

Nobody thought to take offense at these plays for the reason that they dealt reverently with religious subjects; they preached the triumph of virtue, the glory of martyrdom.

"Ben Hur" comes in a similar classification, and its thrilling chariot race in which the Jew wins from his rivals, made Gen. Lew Wallace's story as a big a success on the stage as in its form of novel.

These were all good dramatic stories. They had in them the element of passion, of the attraction of the evil men of a lascivious age toward the beautiful Christians, but the main purpose was ever dominant, a sort of action sermon that virtue must triumph.

Nothing like this entered into "Salome." Vulgarity reeked from curtain to curtain. Not a single pure or decent love came into the plot.

Herodias, the horrible wife of Herod, hated John the Baptist. She had sought to instill that same sentiment in her daughter, Salome, but the latter, on seeing John, develops a passion for him. Not a genuine love, for that might have redeemed and saved the story, but a physical and sensual desire that gloated on the beauty of his person. Failing to win his love, she dances for Herod, a dance so sensual that after the private rehearsal, where fifteen hundred invited guests had a hearing of "Salome," it was thought cautious to tone it down considerably.

New York was shocked at the dance in its expurgated form; what it would have thought of the original is hard to say.

As a reward for dancing, Salome has a right to exact from Herod what she will. Her choice is the head of John the Baptist. An executioner descends into the cistern where John is imprisoned. The bloody head is passed up to the infamous pervert and for full twenty minutes she fondles and kisses the lips that were denied to her in life.

No wonder this horrible spectacle chased spectators from the operahouse and forced "Sal ment.

Another "Salome," this year, was much fully handled, and hence excited no protest.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe, as a repertoire, have virtually the same story,
"John the Baptist."

It has been seen in a number of the

At sight of the King in his European clothes, under his Asiatic umbrella, the people sink on their heels and remains in a pose of reverent humility until he has passed. Then the people, who have enjoyed the holiday to the full, take a fresh betel quid, tuck up their panungs, paddle away or wade the stream, and Ayuthia becomes again but a busy water village near some ruined temples in the jungle.

A Paid Sunday-School.

AN EXPERIMENT IN PROGRESS IN NEW YORK CITY.

From New York Sun.

SO far as is known the Sunday-school which meets every Sunday morning at Teachers College, in West 120th street, is the only one of the kind in the country. It is called the model Sunday-school, and it is intended to help to solve the problem of filing the empty benches at other Sunday-schools and to keep benches now filled from becoming empty.

One difference between the model Sunday-school and others is that pupils there pay tuition fees and the teachers are paid. In the latter respect it is not unique. The Sunday-school of a downtown Presbyterian church recently installed several paid teachers. Another school has now a paid dirrector of Bible study, and two or three others are agitating the question of putting in a corps of paid teachers next fall.

The model Sunday-school has not escaped adverse criticism. There are persons who don't consider it model at all. Some of these are pained because the catechism is not taught there.

Others are more or less disturbed because the school is undenominational. A third set of critics dislike the idea of charging tuition fees. They also say that a paid teacher cannot be expected to bring to her work the degree of love and enthusiasm which the volunteer teacher brings. The paid teacher, it is suggested, will fall behind the volunteer in translating the spirit of Biblical instruction even if more successful in transmitting its letter.

From Benjamin R. Andrews, director of the model Sunday-school and of the school extension work of Teachers College, it was learned that the inception of the school was due to two or three families who conceived the idea that the character of average Sunday-school instruction could be improved. They reasoned that the religious education of their children merited at least as much care as their secular education, and they hired for pay a competent teacher and arranged to have her come to the home of one of them every Sunday morning to instruct the children there.

At first the school was a family affair with not more than half a dozen pupils. Twenty children were enroled at the end of the first season. Arrangements were made to use the chapel and some of the classrooms at Teachers College for the school, and professors at Columbia University and other educators began to take interest in the plan.

The school grew slowly. At the end of the second year forty children were enrolled, each of whom paid a tuition fee of $15. At the beginning of the present term nearly 100 children were in attendance, representing grades ranging from kindergarten to high-school age, all of them under the care of women having a thorough knowledge of the subjects taught and trained in the art of giving instruction.

With one exception the teachers in the model school are women. A small amount is paid to every teacher and to the superintendent's assistants in order that they may bear a business relation to the parents and supervisors, and also that they may set aside more time than otherwise they could afford for the work.

The head of the school is Frank M. McMurray, professor of the theory and art of teaching; Mr. Andrews is the director; Herbert T. Coleman, a graduate student of Teachers College, is the superintendent, and Dr. Richard Morse Hodge of Union Seminary is lecturer on religious education. Prof. John A. MacVannel and Dr. G. Drayton Strayer of Teachers College are supervisors.

The pupils belong mostly to well-to-do families, only a few children taking advantage of the free scholarships. The school costs annually $2000 for rooms, salaries of twelve teachers, music and incidentals. Two-thirds of this sum is met by tuition fees, the balance by subscriptions from outside sources. Mr. Andrews said of the plans of the school:

"Special care is had for the educational character of the school, but before it is a school for the religious growth of its members. The school is earnestly Christian.

"The spirit of the teaching is more important than the facts taught. But to get the best results a pupil's interest in the Bible and Bible study must be awakened and kept awake—no easy task—as many Sunday-school teachers will admit, and naturally a man or woman who has been trained to teach, who has acquired the best methods for imparting instruction, is likely to have more success in teaching the Bible than the average volunteer teacher.

"Contrary to what some people imagine, we have no examinations here, no system of marks or awards, no diplomas."

In the school, cildren are graded as in the weekday school, and the same course of study, with its parts arranged for children of different ages, is followed year after year, pupils going from one grade to another till they reach the high school grades represented by boys and girls from 14 to 18. The first two grades represent the primary, which meets in its own rooms under the care of two teachers who adapt secular kindergarten activities and give religious instruction by the medium of Bible stories and Sunday-school songs for one hour.

The first of the elementary grades, grade 3, studies the patriarchal period beginning with Abraham. Grade 4 studies the Mosaic period, which includes the history of the exodus and the conquest of Canaan. Grade 5 covers the period of the Judges from the time of David and Solomon down to te division of the kings.

Grade 6 studies the remaining period of Old Testament history. Grades 7 and 8 study the life of Christ and the high school grades pursue the same subject and study also the life of St. Paul.

Interspersed with these topics are biographies and autobiographies of modern religious leaders and practical illustrations are given of how Christianity applies today in everyday life. There is no cut and dried lesson for every Sunday. Every teacher is free to follow individual methods, to cover as much or as little of the portion of history assigned to her grade at one sitting as she sees fit, to digress on this and that occasion according to her judgment.

Each grade includes from half a dozen to ten or twelve children, and has a separate classroom equipped with a large map of the country under discussion, a blackboard, pictures, etc. Even a casual visitor discovers at once that far more attention is paid to verbal than to purely objective teaching.

Before going to the classrooms the boys and girls and their teachers assemble in the chapel for general religious exercises conducted by their superintendent. The Bible is read responsively, there is singing, prayer and an easily understood talk on some religious topic with application to home and school life or a discussion of some happening in the religious world by both children and superintendent.

There is no uniformity about the general exercises, strangers alternating with the superintendent or the director or the pupils in contributing the leading feature. At all times, it is declared, the interest and animation of the children and adults present is remarkable.

At 11 o'clock the classes retire to their classrooms for a fifty-five minute session of Bible study, following which they meet again in the chapel for brief closing exercises.

When the teacher of grade 4, which is composed of boys and girls of 8 and 9, was asked if she could teach the lesson in the same fashion were her class sandwiched between other classes in a large room after the manner of most Sunday-schools, she answered:

"I am quite sure I could not do it. Were there no other quiet spot available I would take my class to the basement rather than teach them in a crowded room.

"No," she went on, "I do not give my pupils any work to do at home; no memorizing, no looking up references, no reading of the lesson even. All I ask is that they will repeat some time during the next week the lesson story I have told them to some one at home—to a relative, a playmate or an acquaintance.

"Why do I ask this? Because the effort to repeat it generally fixes a story in the mind and also shows the child how many links he or she has forgotten and inspires him or her to ask on review the next Sunday to have them supplied.

"I can't say that all my pupils always follow my suggestion in this particular, but the percentage which does is good."

The review on that particular morning was about Moses and the children of Israel fed by manna in the desert. The children sitting in a semi-circle around their teacher told the story to her and one another in conversational style without referring at all to their Bibles, and they also discussed the point their teacher wanted them to catch, that the Israelites in their wanderings showed a propensity for faultfinding amounting almost to a talent. One small girl gravely explained that boys and girls who grumbled and made a fuss over every little hardship never did get on very fast, and a still smaller boy was of the opinion that the Israelites would have got to the promised land sooner had they complained less.

The review finished, the story of the Israelites' battle with the Amalekites was taken up by the teacher. The pupils interrupted when they pleased to ask questions. The story was not read from the Bible, nor did the children follow the narrative in the Bible. Said the teacher:

"With children of this age I consider it better to give the lesson in narrative form, emphasizing the salient points and passing over some others less important for the reason that when the children later on read it in the Bible they will be more apt to give attention to the points I have brought out, the facts they have discussed and let the others go."

"Had you twenty minutes instead of fifty in which to teach the lesson would you follow the same method?" was asked.

"I think so. And I would devote at least five of the twenty minutes to an informal chat with my pupils before beginning the lesson.

In another classroom a group of six boys and girls 10 and 11 years old were studying about the captivity of the Jews in Babylon. A map hung on the wall which showed the situation of Babylon and the territory from which the Jews had been carried. Two boys of 10 vied with each other in answering questions and giving information bearing on the subject. Their enthusiasm, their knowledge of the subject, their apparent reluctance to stop when the bell rang were marked.

In this grade, it was learned, pupils are encouraged to look up at home historical data and to write down points of interest they may discover, but to do this is not obligatory.

The Doctor paused to brush back an angry live coal that had flown from the fire and landed on the tiles, and then, settling himself down into his big Morris chair took up his story.

"It was back in the winter of 188— that this little incident happened. I was not giving all my time to practice in those days, but was devoting about half of my time to work that carried me back and forth through miles of country lying around Los Angeles. Of course, I had only the saddle and the choice between in those days, and I always took the saddle when it was so I could.

"On the afternoon of the last day of December, I rode old Bayard into the city, tired out, and planning to house up here for a good rest. We had been through many stormy days in that particularly stormy month—particularly wet and windy that is to say, and well deserved a little comfort. The first thing I found in my room was a letter requesting my presence, the next day, at the home of an old business partner of mine who lived up in La Cañada. Ours was a partnership of money and brains, and, as he represented nearly all of the money end of the affair, I knew that it was best for my interests to be right on hand on the morrow. I was too young in those days, too, to put comfort before business, so after several hours' rest for my horse and a supper for both of us, we started on our way.

"It had been raining steadily for a week, and the roads leading down to the river were mudholes. There was no choice to be had, so I gave old Bayard the rein and he plodded steadily along through the slush, despite the torrents of rain and the strong wind that assailed us. When we reached the river, I found that the bridges near by were swept away—they didn't build bridges in those days like the ones you see standing now, and the snows in the mountains and the rains combined to play havoc with them time and

"By this time, I was in a state of hardened resignation and would have stopped at nothing, so we plunged in and fought our way across the fierce current. My! I was proud of old Bayard in those days, and, I can tell you, I had good reason to be, too.

"When we turned into San Fernando road we found the water from the foothills, in hundreds of small streams rushing madly across it, on their way to the river. The sky was now inky black, and the cold wind accompanying the rain carried a chill that was insistent. The lights that burned in the few homes along that road and the Verdugo road were welcome sights to me—something like companions on the lonesome trip—and, several times I was almost tempted to turn in at some of those places and ask shelter for the night. I wished that I had seen Juan in Los Angeles, just as he was leaving, and sent word out to a family in Verdugo Cañon that I would put up with them for the night. It had always been my custom to stop there, as the dishes of Señora C—— were worth riding miles to enjoy, and I knew that she would keep something on the fire for me, and I was in that state of mind and body where I could do ample justice to anything spicy, burning, and hot, so I kept on my way.

"Verdugo Cañon was as black as midnight, and, I'll confess, I looked back with longing for a last glimpse of the lights shining on the hill at the Judge's. Talk about a weathered cañon! That night it was the playground of the demons of the storm! If old Bayard had not had an extraordinary instinct for a horse, and an almost human intelligence, he could never have kept his feet. I soothed him all I could with pats and words of encouragement. Suddenly he snorted and jumped to one side with a start that nearly unseated me. A lantern flashed in our faces, and a voice cried out in Spanish: 'Stop, señor! For the love of Mary—stop!'

"'Who is it, and what do you want?' I called in astonishment.

"'It is Josepha—I knew you, Señor Doctor, when you spoke to your horse. Oh, there is so much trouble—Rosa is dying!'

"'Rosa is dying?' I interrupted in amazement. A vision of this beautiful Spanish girl, the belle of all the country 'round, as she had looked, but two weeks before, in the Old Plaza Church, came back to me. She had always been a favorite of mine—she was so bright, so unaffected, and so warm-hearted.

"'Yes, it is mostly her heart, señor. My mother doctors her, but it does no good. They told her Miguel was married, and she grew worse. It is a lie, señor! I know it is a lie!'

"'Why didn't you tell her so?'

"'Oh, but she is sick, and she believes. It is so easy to believe wicked things when you are sick, señor.'

"'Come, we must get in, somewhere, so you are out of the rain, and then we can talk.'

"'No, I must stay here to stop Miguel—I was waiting for him when you came. I am all right—I have this rubber thing all wrapped about me.'

"'Stop Miguel!' I cried. 'Why don't you let him go on and prove that he is not married? It would be the best thing!'

"No! no! señor! You do not understand. Listen! They hate him and they will kill him. Two weeks ago he killed Philipe. My father had said that Rosa must marry Philipe because he had much land and money. But Rosa did not say much—she and Miguel were planning to run away to the priests in Los Angeles. Philipe knew she liked Miguel, and he tried to kill him, but he was not quick enough for Miguel. I was glad, señor, but the men were wild with rage at Miguel, and drove him away, and he has been hiding in Tia Juana ever since.'

"'How will he be here tonight, then?' I asked.

"'I sent Chico for him,' she answered. 'I said I would not marry him unless he went. He went last week, and he promised to have Miguel here tonight. I planned it all so well, señor—I would be alone with Rosa and I would slip Miguel in. He could whisper to her—she would know he was here and that they had told her a lie, and she would get well. Then he could come back some night and carry her off to Old Mexico and they could be happy.'

"'That sounds all right,' I said.

"'But, oh, señor, it all went wrong,' she sobbed. 'Rosa grew so much worse—she is dying—they have sent to Los Angeles for the priest, and are all in her room now, watching and waiting. But Miguel won't listen—he will go in anyway—and they will kill him and Rosa will die.'

"'What doctor have they had, Rosa?' I asked.

"'None, señor; my mother and the old women have given her medicine,' she answered.

"'None!' I cried. 'Then I must go right on to the house. Perhaps I can help her. I would have gone on before, but I thought there was a doctor there'

"Just then a shrill whistle came from down the road, and Josepha, with a startled 'That's Chico's signal,' waved the lantern around in a circle.

"Chico rode up to us. 'How is she? Miguel is here! We rode like the wind! Is it safe to bring him up?'

"Then Josepha broke down and began to cry. How she could ever explain to Miguel, and keep him from the house were questions that were entirely too big for her in her present worn-out and excited condition, so I felt called upon to step in and take the lead. I had Chico bring Miguel up, and then we explained the situation to him. As Josepha had feared, he wanted to go right on to the house anl demand admission. If that failed, as ten to one it would, he would then force an entrance. Not being a hot-headed young Spanish lover myself, I couldn't grow so very enthusiastic over a plan that was certain to include a free-for-all fight, and accomplish nothing. So I counselled thinking up something that would be less rash. I well knew that my slower Anglo-Saxon brain must evolve the plan if it were to be a practical one. Many ideas had gone surging through my mind while Josepha was explaining things to me, and now they were forming themselves into definite shape.

"'We must waste no time, as I feel I am needed in the house,' I said. 'I have a little scheme that is rather risky, I'll admit, but I think it will work out all right if you will promise me to do exactly as I tell you. It all depends on that.'

"Miguel was only too willing to promise anything if I would only hurry, so I quickly explained the main points of my plan. I gave him my gloves to put on, and my big black silk muffler, which he was to tie about his head and face so as to conceal his features as much as possible. Then we rode on to the house, and I dismounted and knocked.

"They fairly dragged me inside when they learned who it was. They said Rosa was sick—dying—and I must go at once to her. Heaven must have sent me to be of help. They took me through a front room filled with relatives, and into the room where Rosa lay. The place was stifling, the windows were all shut tight, and the family sat about the bed, taking for themselves all the fresh air that blew in through the cracks. It was just as I had pictured it—just as I had found it dozens of times before, in my visits to the sick in Spanish families. After a careful examination of the sick girl, whose lips repeated over and over again, 'Miguel! Miguel!' I turned to the mother and said:

"'Yes, I think that I can help her—I do not think she will die—but it is her heart that is bad, señora, and it is a good thing that I have a friend outside who is a better doctor of the heart than I. I shall bring him in, and I am sure he can make her well; but, first, I must tell you that he has his head all wrapped up, and so it must be quiet in here, and no one must speak a word to him. All the people must leave this room and the front room there, and go to the kitchen. I shall open this window a little—too many people and no air are very bad for the sick. And, senora, you look very tired, you had better rest and send Josepha in to get the things we shall need. There will be nothing but what she can do for us, and if we need you, we will call.'

"The señora had always liked me; she believed that I was a man who knew many things; so now my word was law with her. She drove all those people into the kitchen in a hurry, and then came back to say: 'That bad Josepha, Señor Doctor, has been out in the rain—she does such crazy things, sometimes—but she will put on a dry dress and be in soon.'

"I waited by the bedside a few moments to give Josepha time to get ready to come in, and then I sent the señora into the kitchen with particular directions for making a certain kind of plaster which must be very carefully put together. It must not be hurried, I told her, and must be watched every second. This, I felt sure, would keep her out in the kitchen for some time, and give me a chance to bring in Miguel.

"'The way is clear,' I whispered to him as I brought him in, through the empty front room, to where Josepha stood alone by the sick bed.

"With a low passionate cry of 'Rosa! Rosa!' he ran to the sick girl, and, leaning over her he kissed her again and again, all the while murmuring loving, tender phrases.

"She roused a little from the stupor, opened her eyes, and murmured: 'Miguel!'

"Just then I heard the senora's footsteps. 'Careful!' I whispered to Miguel, as I hurried to the bedroom door.

"'The doctor is listening to her heart, señora. He is very wise. He thinks she will be better soon,' I said.

"She had come to see if I had brought my doctor friend in to see her Rosa, and, now that he was there, she was satisfied, and could go back to the kitchen, and to the plaster. She had seen Miguel's back, and, as his head and face were well covered with the large muffler, I felt that all was safe.

"And so we kept it up for hours—either Josepha or I standing between Miguel and the mother whenever she would come into the room. Most of the time, I kept her busy in the kitchen, but her anxiety brought her often to the bedroom. Meanwhile, I doctored the sick girl, and Miguel caressed her, and tried to call her back with the sheer force of his love. After all, he was the greater doctor that time, for it was a broken heart that was causing most of the trouble. Between us, we at last brought her back to consciousness, and then my work was over for a time, and Miguel's began anew. Her happiness was beautiful to see when she realized that Miguel was really there, and she soon fell asleep with a peaceful smile on her face.

"She was lying thus, with one hand in his, when the señora entered the dim room—'he was watching her breathing and feeling her pulse,' I explained. The mother rejoiced to find her daughter sleeping so calmly. I insisted that she go to bed and sleep, and assured her that I would call her if Rosa should grow any worse.

"In the early morning hours, Rosa awoke with a clear brain, and her first thought was of Miguel. She was surprised to find him really there—she supposed that she had been only dreaming of his presence. In whispers he explained it all to her. He told her that he must leave soon, before it grew very light, but that he would stay in Los Angeles until she grew well and strong again. Then he would come for her, some night, and they would go to the priest's in the city, and then on to Old Mexico, to live. She promised to try to grow well fast, and to be able to ride horseback soon.

"The storm had spent its fury about midnight, and the beating of the rain upon the roof had gradually changed to a timid pattering of rain drops, and then ceased altogether. As the early morning light began to break in the east, we could see that a clear day was before us. Miguel stole out to the barn, saddled his horse, and rode away toward Los Angeles. Josepha gave me some blankets, and I rolled up on the floor of that empty front room, and was soon sound asleep.

"About noon, the next day, I awoke, stiff and sore in every muscle. I found Rosa bright and happy, and on the high road to recovery. Josepha had explained that the strange doctor had gone back to the city—'poor fellow, he had his head all wrapped up so.' The señor overwhelmed me with expressions of gratitude. She was greatly concerned about me, was so sorry that I had slept on the floor, and tried to make amends by preparing a royal breakfast—one of the very best that I ever tasted.

"After leaving instructions for the sick girl, I started on toward La Cañada. As I rode out of the yard, I exchanged greetings with the priest, who explained that he had been unable to get there any sooner.

"When I made my next trip through Verdugo Cañon, several months later, I inquired after my friend Rosa.

"A dark frown clouded the señora's face, and she answered: 'Your medicines were wonderful, señor. She grew well very fast, and we were so happy, but that wicked Miguel came one night and stole her. They were married in Los Angeles, and rode away—no one knows where. I would rather she had died when she was sick, señor.'

"I praised the hot tamales, which, truly, none could make better than she, asked for more of the chili sauce, and discreetly refrained from mentioning Rosa's name again. But I was very glad that my little friend, my "bonita Rosa,' as I used to call her, was happy at last.

"Toward the close of that year, I was surprised to receive a fine lariat from Miguel, down in Old Mexico. Every year since then he has remembered me, and as he has grown richer right along, his presents have become more and more valuable. As I said before, that splendid hand-carved Mexican saddle came about five years ago."

And the Doctor, his story ended, settled down farther in his Morris chair, and gazed into the yellow flames—lost in thought.

Wild Life of the Philippines. By Hamilton Wright.

QUEER BIRDS AND ANIMALS.

MANY NEW SPECIES DISCOVERED WITHIN THE LAST TEN YEARS.

By a Special Contributor.

OFTEN in the Philippines have I seen strange birds. Huge pigeons, as large as barnyard fowl, and heavier, coo to their mates from the lofty summits of giant trees, doves of alluring and brilliant colors, rivaling those of a macaw or pheasant, of golden yellow, red, iridescent green, or of an almost purple tint, fly swiftly through the dense foliage; and, when they have gained the shelter of their hidden resting place, send forth their melancholy plaint. Jungle fowl, hardly to be distinguished from our game cocks, flit like shadows across the trails; great callao birds, large as turkeys, with enormous red bills eight or nine inches long and often several inches in diameter, set the forests ringing with their thin hoarse roaring.

At first the timorous man might take it for a wild beast, so unlike that of a bird is the note of the mysterious and rarely seen callao. At night flocks of huge fruit-eating bats, whose spread of membrane equals that of the eagle's wings, fly in countless thousands toward some great natural forest orchard. Even domestic fowl have caught the note of wildness, and in the Igorrote country, I have seen a tame hen, a speckled biddy with a dozen chicks, desert her brood and fly 500 feet acress a cañon at my approach. Quail there are, some of them as small almost as English sparrows, ducks, heron, and brant of familiar and unknown types crowd unexplored lagoons in vast flocks.

To get some accurate information on the rare birds of the Philippines, I recently interviewed Maj. Edgar A. Mearns, a surgeon in the United States army. For thirty years Maj. Mearns has made a study of rare fauna and flora. He has discovered many new specimens, and was for some years actively connected with the Smithsonian Institution.

"I'm a cranky bird man," said Maj. Mearns; "I have been studying birds nearly since I was born, as did my father and grandfather before me. I have been in the army nearly twenty-five years. My services were nearly all in the western part of the United States; I was three years on the boundary line between Mexico and the United States, at Chihuahua, Sonora, Lower California, etc. I spent about eleven years on the Mexican border altogether.

"I never had but two jobs in my life. I began making a bird collection when very young. This I gave to the Natural History Museum, which had a large collection; but it was in a heterogeneous mix-up, without much order, having their birds separated by countries instead of by classifications. I started in to label them and get them in better shape; labeled the European birds, etc. I began the study of bird skins, which is really the amateur part of the business; then I came direct from there to the army.

"There are about as many species of birds known now in the Philippine Islands as there are in the United States," said Maj. Mearns. "There are as many different kinds, but there are not so many in number. You can tell a good deal of the history of a country by a study of the plants and animals. For instance, we know that Benguet, in the mountain region of northern Luzon, the largest island of the Philippines, has not been submerged since it belonged to the Asiatic continent. Real pines and oaks are found in Benguet, and the only bird that is adapted to live on the seeds of the pines is the crossbill found there. This bird has probably been in that portion of Luzon ever since the island was separated from the main part of Asia by the submersion of the connecting mainland. The rule of animal distribution has been affected in many cases by destruction of fauna by the advance of the glaciers from the cold regions toward the tropics and by their animal life being driven before the glacial flow. In some cases the fauna which were driven down from the cold regions toward the tropics have still survived, although from very remote periods. The distribution of birds and animals is affected by this at the present day. Some of the mountains of the Philippines contain fauna, birds and animals, which do not, so far as is known, exist anywhere else in the world. They were probably driven down by the advance of the glaciers and escaped to the mountains on account of their more congenial temperature, where they can still be found. As the glaciers receded the birds would descend from the mountains and go to temperyate climes which suited them, and remain there.

"The Philippines," continued the Major, "have been subject to many remarkable volcanic and glacial changes. As a consequence, they have many varied fauna. We have two distinct fauna on the two islands of Luzon and Mindanao. These islands are near together, and in any other parts of the world they would have the same birds; but it is surprising that we find a great many distinct forms of bird life in Mindanao which are not found in Luzon.

deer hunt, we were met by an old Igorrote Di Di, who is the wife of an Apo, or chief, Alamit, above Banaue. With her seven dogs, Di Di hunts deer and wild carabao on shares for as much venison or carabao beef as she can pack away, and her rations of rice during the hunt.

This woman, who is over sixty years of age, can carry over seventy pounds of dead weight on her head, and will move up a steep hill at a pace which cannot be maintained by an unincumbered white man.

Greater sport than deer hunting is the pursuit of the wild carabao or water buffalo. Though a clumsy-looking animal, the carabao can move with incredible swiftness when once he is aroused. If once hit, or even if fired at and he sees his enemy, the wild carabao will immediately charge him. Lieut. Louis C. Dean, of the Philippine Constabulary, had an exciting adventure with a carabao near Echague, a city in the Cagayan Valley. Dean was out with an expedition of constabulary, and about thirty miles west of Echague they sighted a small herd of carabao. The constabulary soldiers selected a large bull carabao and fired a volley into it; Dean then went closer, and fired seven shots from a Springfield rifle into the animal, most of which hit him. The carabao fell, then go up and ran into a patch of cogan grass, which is higher than a man's head. Dean, thinking that the carabao had gone in to die, dismounted, and, taking a 38 Colt's revolver, followed the animal's track into the edge of the jungle patch. He had no sooner reached the edge of the patch than the carabao, who had circled around, charged him from the rear. The soldiers hallooed, and Dean turned, and by dodging managed to shoot seven times into the carabao; but the shots had no more effect than so many mosquito bites. Finally the carabao caught the young lieutenant, tossed him up until he was unconscious, then prepared to kneel on him as a wild elephant does. But life seeming to have departed, the carabao abandoned his intention, sniffed the body, walked away about 300 yards and died. Dean was frightfully mauled, and was disfigured for life. After being taken to Manila he was an incurable invalid, and died from the effects of an overdose of morphine taken to allay his pain.

There are thousands of wild boar in the Philippines, and you can shoot them anywhere. The natives usually drive them into nets with dogs; sometimes they are caught in pitfalls or traps. No one ever heard of the Philippine wild boar attacking any one, although they grow to a great size and look very fierce. Like the wild jungle fowl, which will breed with domestic poultry, the wild boar will breed freely with the native pigs.

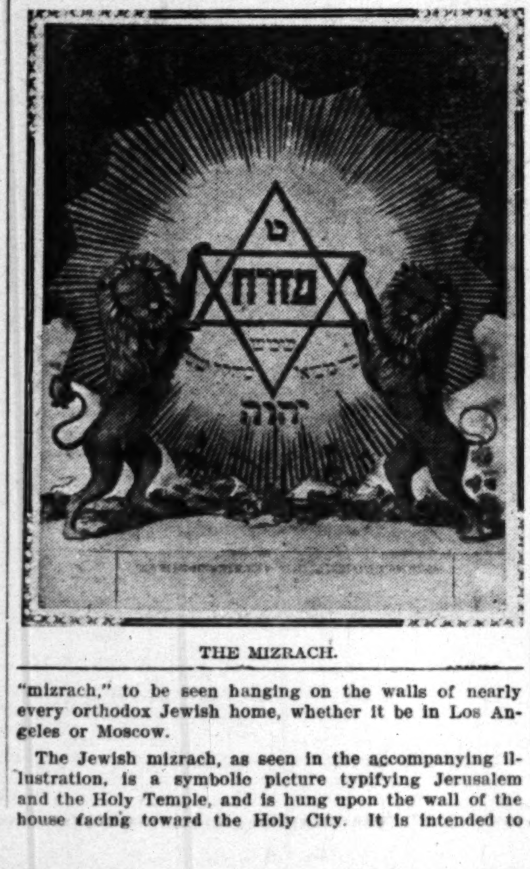
A peculiar animal found in the Philippines and thought to be limited to the island of Basilan, not far from Zamboanga, is the monkey stoat. This animal grows to about twice the size of a big cat. It has wings like a bat, and is covered with a thick red-brown fur spotted with white. It lives solely on insects. To the layman the head resembles that of a weasel. The monkey stoat is exceedingly tenacious of life, and about the only way to get a specimen is to have it trapped. The writer saw a specimen of flying lemur in the Museum of Natural History, New York. The lemur is only one-third the size of the unknown monkey stoat.

The Jewish Mizrach.

SYMBOLIC PICTURE CALCULATED TO AID IN DEVOTION.

By a Special Contributor.

IF THE pious orthodox Russian Christian has his sacred icon, which he displays in his little household shrine, and toward which he directs his multifarious devotions, the orthodox Jew, on the other hand, has something akin to it in his sacred and time-honored "mizrach," to be seen hanging on the walls of nearly every orthodox Jewish home, whether it be in Los Angeles or Moscow.



THE MIZRACH.

The Jewish mizrach, as seen in the accompanying illustration, is a symbolic picture typifying Jerusalem and the Holy Temple, and is hung upon the wall of the house facing toward the Holy City. It is intended to serve the pious purpose of reminding the orthodox Jew that the most sacred spot on earth is that little land where Abraham, Isaac and Jacob lived, and consecrated it by their devotion to monotheism, where the glorious kingdom of David and Solomon arose and flourished, where the Holy Temple was erected on the height of Mt. Moriah, where his forefathers fought and conquered the Syrians, and where, in the year 72 A. D., the glory of Israel departed in the Roman conquest under Titus and Vespasian.

From the moment that the Jews were vanquished by the power of imperial Rome, and were spread abroad among the various Gentile peoples of the earth, the pious Son of Abraham has looked back with mourning and lamentation to the scene of Israel's departed glories, and from that day to this, whether domiciled in Russia or America, in England or China, he has always prayed toward the Holy Land and the holy city of Jerusalem.

The mizrach—the symbolic chart with its queer delineations—was invented, so to speak, just to serve to intensify the Jew's memory of Jerusalem, its glory and its final doom, and for this purpose he pays his devotions to Jehovah, today, standing before his mizrach, hanging on the wall of his house in the direction of Jerusalem. His devotion to his mizrach is not that of the Russian's worship of his sacred icon, which latter abounds in gross superstition, but is rather a means of concentrating his prayers toward the most sacred spots, in the universe to him—Jerusalem and the site of the temple of Solomon.

The position of the mizrach of course varies with the relative position of the Jew toward the Holy City. Thus, the American orthodox Israelite hangs his mizrach on an east wall, while the Persian Jew suspends it toward the west, these widely separated devotees of the Jewish faith thus facing each other, in that both are praying toward Jerusalem as they stand before their respective mizrachs. On the other hand, if we go to Copenhagen and northern Russia, there we find the Jewish mizrach hanging up on the south wall of the house, while the Jews of India pray toward the north, the mizrach before them on the north wall of the dwelling.

The mizrach is of various sizes, and is of widely differing symbolism. The one presented in the accompanying picture is perhaps the most interesting and truly typical of any I have ever seen. On a partially black background is seen a representation, in yellow, of the sun rising above the horizon, while in the center is the six-pointed Star of David, upheld on either side by a lion. In the center of the star is the Hebrew word "mizrach," which means "rising," and gives its name to the whole picture, the real meaning of the smymbolism, as a whole, being reflected in the quotation from the Hebrew psalms: "From the rising (mizrach) of the sun unto its setting, the name of the Lord is being praised."

The picture and the biblical quotation thus carry back the thoughts of the Jews to the glorious days of old, when Jewish kings reigned at Jerusalem, and the sacrifices were offered every day to Jehovah in the temple on Mt. Moriah.

The lions typify Juda, or Judea, since from the days of Jacob this tribe or division of Israel has been known as the lion's whelp, while the term "lion of the tribe of Juda," is quite familiar to everybody acquainted with Jewish history. They, of course, convey the ideas of strength and courage, the tribe of Juda having developed into the strongest of all the twelve. Indeed, so prominent did Juda become as to evolve into a strong kingdom by itself, and finally it conferred the distinctive name of "Jew" upon all the sons of Israel.

The monogram of David, the six-pointed star, is one of the most ancient that has descended to us from bygone ages. Its origin is lost in the haze of remote Jewish antiquity. It appears, ever and anon, in Jewish literature, and is exhibited today in the mizrach, and on the white field of the modern Jewish, or Zionist flag, adopted at Basle, Switzerland, in 1898 by the Jewish Zionist Congress.

Other forms of the mizrach often display stereotyped forms of the menorah, or seven branched candlestick, with figures of Moses and Aaron and a smoking censor.

The use of the mizrach in the orthodox Jewish home, for display on the east wall, is but a reflection of the Jewish synagogue worship, in which the congregation face Jerusalem, the Holy Ark in American synagogues being always at the east end of the building, whenever possible, while in other countries it is at the south, west or north end, according to the respective points of the compass.

THE DAILY VOYAGE.

In a rocking chair we journey,
  You're the captain, I'me the crew;
Rocking, rocking, sailing onward
  O'er the billows deep and blue.

To a tropic land we travel,
  To the dreamy Isle of Nod,
Where the palm trees wave and beckon
  Springing from a flower-strewn sod.

See the sunbeams lightly dancing
  On the water to and fro,
Hear the ripple of the wavelets
  Whispering, murmuring sweet and low.

Little eyelids drooping, drooping;
  Gliding smoothly o'er the tide
See! we've almost reached our harbor,
  Soon at anchor we will ride.

Slowly, slowly glides our vessel
  Safe into the mystic bay;
Softly, softly drops the anchor
  And our journey's o'er today.

A STRANGE STORY OF AN ADVENTURE IN AFRICA.

By a Special Contributor.

"WHAT a lot of fool notions there are in the world nowadays!" I exclaimed, throwing down the fragment of paper I had been reading, which only a short time before I had rescued from around the tin of potted ham we had consumed for our supper.

"What's the trouble now?" Campbell asked, looking up from the gun he was cleaning.

"Only that Lady Rounsley, whom I always credited with better sense, has come out with a statement that she has suddenly found her former memories and can recall every life she has passed through from the time she was a sacred cat in Egypt. Did you ever hear of anything more ridiculous?"

Campbell laughed, then he became more serious.

"I don't know but what there may be some truth in it, after all."

"I looked at him in amazement. "You don't mean——" I began.

"No," he went on as I paused, "I can't say that I have Lady Rounsley's faculty for remembering past events, but I do think that there is something in this theory of our having lived more than one earth life; call it evolution or reincarnation or what you will."

My amazement increased. That such a level-headed, matter-of-fact chap as Richard Campbell should make such a remark in all seriousness was little less than marvelous.

"Since when have you joined the Society of Psychical Research or whatever they call it?" I asked, half in derision.

"I'm not affiliated with any society," Campbell answered calmly; "in fact, I'm not grounded enough in my beliefs to belong to any sect, but certain ideas or doctrines I believe in so thoroughly that they have become a very part of my being. For instance," he continued, laying down his gun and clasping his hands around his knees, "ever since I was a child I have felt that reincarnation was a fact. Of course I didn't know it by that name, but the idea was there all the same, and if you like I'll tell you how it came to me."

I gladly assented. It was always a pleasure to hear Campbell talk.

"I don't suppose," he began, after we had lighted our pipes, "that you know anything of the dreariness of a coal-mining town. I don't think there is a place on the face of God's earth to equal it for cheerlessness. In comparison, the desert is a dream of beauty. Imagine a collection of nondescript houses and rude shacks clustered around the openings of two or three shafts, and, rearing their swarthy heads high above them, huge gray brown breakers sending their clouds of blackish dust to darken and mar the entire landscape, while on all sides, like huge blots, rise immense mounds of dust and refuse, called culm. Not a single green thing to be seen anywhere; for not a tree, not a bush, not a single blade of grass even, can grow near the colliery. Nothing but dreary grayness and soot and dust.

"My father was superintendent of such a mine in Pennsylvania, and we had our home at a little distance from the colliery, but even there the soot reached us, and it was in this gloomy atmosphere I was born and lived until I was a goodsized lad. I suppose that is the reason this sort of thing appeals to me so," he added looking around at the matted fringe of jungle that encircled us and came almost down to our camp fire. "I don't believe I'll ever get enough of it, poisonous though its breath may be. But to go back: I had a lonely childhood; there were no children around the colliery excepting the breaker boys and the children of the miners, and these I was not allowed to associate with My sole companion and confidante thus became a thoroughbred pointer who came as near to being human as it is possible to be—more human, in fact, than many of the beasts that worked in the mined and called themselves men.

"All my plans for the future, my hopes and joys, my boyish sorrows and disappointments, I confided to Duke. I'm sure he understood me, in a way, and I know I loved him more than anything else on earth.

"One day, when I was about nine, I was sent on an errand to the nearest village. It was late in the afternoon when I started, and I should not have been allowed to go alone if I had not had Duke for company. As it was a long walk to go around by the highway, I took, instead, the track of a branch road that connected the colliery with the town. During the day it was dangerous to use this, for it was a gravity road, and the loaded cars were released from the breaker, rushed down the track with lightning-like rapidity, but at that time in the afternoon I knew it to be perfectly safe, as no more cars would be sent down until the following morning.

"The track, as we neared the town, was buttressed on both sides by heavy woods, shrouding it in almost impenetrable gloom and making it difficult to see at a distance. This short stretch of forest was always my fairyland; it was the one spot of living green that had escaped contamination, and it was here that I loved to tarry for a moment. On this afternoon I had barely reached this spot when I heard a faint, ominous rumble, and Duke instantly pricked up his ears. The rumble increased to a deafening roar; the rails trembled under my feet, and then I felt myself suddenly caught by the arm and either dragged or flung, I don't know which, off the tracks and into the bushes by the side.

"For a moment I lay dazed; then I called to Duke. A low whine was all I received. I rushed back to the tracks, and there lay my dog, crushed and mangled and dying. I took his head in my arms and laid my face down on his. I couldn't speak, for my heart was breaking. He had saved my life at the sacrifice of his own, snatching me out of the path of the runaway car. I sat there in the deepening shadows as long as there was a breath of life in him. Just before he died, he raised his head, and his eyes looked into mine with human intelligence, and the idea that I should some time see him again was borne then and there into my mind, and it has never left me. If reincarnation is true, our paths will cross again, and no matter in what shape or form he may be, our souls will recognize each other. I am as firmly convinced of this as that the Cape to Cairo Railroad is no longer a chimera but a realized fact."

For some moments after he had finished we both remained silent. I had often read of an animal's devotion to its master, and vice-versa, but I don't think I ever recalled its being carried to such an extent before. It was a phase of Campbell's character which, long as I had been with him, I had so far never suspected. He rose finally and stretched out his arms lazily.

"I suppose," he said, "we'd better turn in and get all the sleep we can; we've got ugly work ahead of us tomorrow, I'm afraid, and we must break camp early."

He made the rounds of our tiny camp, personally seeing to it that all was secure for the night, then without another word we both threw ourselves fully dressed on our beds of dried grass.

We were surveying for the Cape to Cairo Railroad. Nearly three thousand miles of the track had already been laid, when it was discovered that the plans for the stretch leading through British East Africa were not practicable and a new survey would have to be made. The work was given to Campbell, who was one of the company's head surveyers, and he had chosen me to assist him. So far, our work had been easy, and we had met with only good treatment from the tribes we had encountered, but on the morrow we would be obliged to traverse the country of the Mauavi, whose King, Sabadhu, had risen in revolt since the taking of the first survey, and whose treatment of us, if we were unlucky enough to stumble across his path, I could only surmise. It was merely a question of time when the English government would call him to an account, but at present we were obliged to fight our own battles. Our one hope lay in the fact that Sabadhu knew nothing of our coming, and it was our intention to cross the narrow strip of his territory so quietly that we would be gone before he was aware of our arrival.

It was hardly light the next morning when we were on the way, Campbell leading and I bringing up the rear. Our tiny caravan consisted of nine men, and our luggage, light as we could make it, was evenly distributed between them.

We entered the Mauavi's territory about 10 o'clock in the morning, and though we passed through several villages during the day's march, no hostile demonstrations were made. Toward evening we discerned in the distance a slight knoll, and it was here that Campbell proposed to camp for the night. We quickened our pace in order to reach it before nightfall, but in crossing a deep gully near the knoll our tiny column became confused in the tall cany grass, and we were trying to reform when we heard a storm of discordant, triumphant cries, and a body of about four hundred exulting natives came rushing down the slopes, wild with the lust of blood.

In an instant every man abandoned his pack, and the shots from our rifles rang out as one; we made a brave though futile fight, but the arrows fell about us in showers, and only a few moments sufficed to make us prisoners. Three of our men we left dead in the gully; several more were injured, and one arrow penetrated to a depth of two inches in Campbell's arm. With a wrench he extracted it, but the barbed point left an ugly gash in the firm flesh.

All night we were forced to march, and a halt was made only when we had reached Sabadhu's unpretentious capital. We were immediately brought before him. He was an ugly-looking specimen, with true negroidal features and kinky hair; his face was brutal in the extreme, and my heart sank when I beheld him, for there was no hope for mercy there.

Campbell, fortunately, knew a little of the Mauavi dialect, and he began immediately to negotiate terms for release. He promised Sabadhu cloths of many hue, also beads and copper wire, if he would set us free; assured him that they would be sent to him as soon as we could return to Zanzibar. He even offered to remain as hostage while I went to procure them, but the wily old chief would not listen to him. After a little more fruitless talk, Sabadhu waved his hand as if in final decision, and we were taken away and given in charge of a native guard.

This man, who we afterward learned, was named Mabruki, was a splendid specimen of his race. He was tall and robust, manly of bearing, though probably not more than two and twenty, and his features, which were of a more regular cast, lacked entirely the ferocious expression which characterized the face of the chief. His countenance was rather pleasing than otherwise, and I was thankful that we were placed in his charge.

Our hands and feet were bound securely, and we were put in a rude little shelter made of the leaves of the palm tree, which, crude as it was, served to protect us from the fierce tropical sun. Campbell's arm had stopped bleeding, but the kakhi cloth of his coat had adhered to the congealed blood, and I was fearful of the result.

"What do you think they'll do to us?" I asked him, as soon as we were alone.

"Probably starve us to death," he replied; "that is the favorite method of treatment with the Mauavi. The chief and all his court will come to see us every day to learn how we are progressing, and then, when the end has nearly come, they will have a war dance to enliven the occasion."

"Don't joke, man, at such a time as this!" I exclaimed in horror. "You can't surely mean the

[illegible] could reach there in five days, if nothing happen, and in ten days from today relief should [illegible]

[illegible] was a fearful commotion in the morning when [illegible] absence was discovered. During the time when we were alone [illegible] Mabruki's departure Campbell managed to extract [illegible] breast pocket of his coat a tiny box of beef [illegible] these we ate with the voracity of wild beasts, [illegible] served not a little to appease our hunger.

When I [illegible] Stanwood was bending over me, and I heard [illegible] fervently: "Thank God, we arrived in time at [illegible] Maitland!"

THE PHILANTHROPIC VENTURES OF FLORENCE.

From the Westminster Gazette.

"I CALL it simply the most horrible thing I ever heard of in my life!" said Florence.

The worst of my cousin Florence is that you can never be absolutely certain that she isn't speaking the truth. If her statements were invariably as mendacious as they most frequently are, one would be on firmer ground; as it is, however, they demand investigation, often at the cost of much wasted labor and patience.

"What's the matter now?" I asked.

"Well," said Florence, looking at me in a way that she knows I only pretend to detest, "you may not have noticed it, but ever since the bishop was here last I've changed. Entirely."

"If you mean," I said, "that you've worn nothing but expensive-looking simplicity and done your hair lower and taken to Bach, I have noticed it. Being shut up with you in a limited rectory for three mortal weeks, I could hardly hope to avoid doing so."

"That is rude," said Florence, "and not at all funny. You know I meant something very different. No, I've been thinking lately that it was time I began to do some of the real work of the word."

She paused. "Exactly," I said encouragingly; "I've thought so myself—often." Florence endeavored to wither me with a look (which had not at all that result) and continued, "so I determined to start by taking an interest in some of Aunt Agatha's poor women. You know; the cottages by the railway where the engine people's wives live. I thought if I could just go down among them myself, and try, however humbly, to bring a little sympathy into their homes, something to show them what life really might be made, it would at least be a beginning."

"Yes," I said, "it would. If Aunt Agatha caught you interfering with her engine people, as you call them, it would be the beginning of a row that you wouldn't forget in a hurry."

"As usual, you are both vulgar and stupid," said Florence. "I might have known that you wouldn't understand. Of course I shall say nothing about it now." She turned away with a creditable imitation of a stifled sigh.

"Oh, yes, you will," I said cheerfully. "You can't help yourself, and I realy do want to know what this horrible thing may be."

Florence wheeled round again, suddenly radiant. (This is one of her best effects.) "Do you?" she said eagerly. "Then I will. It's that poor woman in Jubilee Terrace—Mrs. Noakes her name is; I dare say you've heard Uncle Henry speak of her?"

"Noakes?" I said, "Noakes? The name is vaguely suggestive. Hasn't Mr.—er—Noakes some connection with signals? I seem to remember being told so."

"Yes," said Florence. "How they can choose a man with a character like that to entrust the lives of innocent passengers to I can't understand. Don't you agree with me?"

"Quite," I said promptly; "it's simply the most horrible thing I ever——"

"How he could bring himself to do it, either," interrupted Florence, "with such a pretty, quiet little woman as she is, passes my comprehension."

"Amazing," I said. "By the way, what exactly is it that he did bring himself to do?"

"Didn't I tell you?" said Florence. "Why, he's deserted her—that's what he's done. Simply left the house more than a month ago, and never a word has she heard from him since. What do you think of that?"

Privately I thought that this might after all be one of the rare occasions on which Cousin Florence's emotions proved to have some genuine cause. But of course I couldn't say so. Instead, I expressed indignation in such suitable terms that I was promised a visit to Jubilee Terrace on the following morning as a reward for my sympathy.

"Then we can think out what's best to be done," said Florence, with the manner of an overworked curate. "Only you mustn't tell Aunt Agatha, because she'd be certain to interfere and spoil everything. She's kind and well-meaning, of course, but she wants tact."

So next day we went. I confess that the result of the visit was to puzzle me. On the one hand there was Mrs. Noakes, a soft-voiced and effusive little person, whom I should have hesitated to trust with a pocket handkerchief; on the other was the obvious fact of the deserting husband, and a bill announcing the sale by auction of the contents of the cottage.

"Being the only thing I could do, mem," said Mrs. Noakes, applying a large handkerchief to her perfectly dry and very intelligent eyes, "so as to get a little money to carry me on till I look round a bit; though hard it is, too, to part with the memories of happier years."

"How long have you had the things?" I asked thoughtlessly.

"Six months come October," said Mrs. Noakes, "but I take affections rapid. Noakes was the same—or seemed to be," and his forsaken bride wept afresh at this mention of the faithless one.

Florence, however, was far too much engrossed with herself in the role of Lady Bountiful to notice anything suspicious.

"It's a splendid idea," she said; "and I shall certainly get all my friends to help. We must make a record sale for you, Mrs. Noakes; you shan't be left destitute!"

Mrs. Noakes, still keeping a watchful eye on my own, sniffed pathetically, and said: "Thank you, mem!" Ten minutes later we were back at the rectory, and Florence was sending urgent post cards to half the neighborhood, begging them, in the name of justice, and as a personal favor, to attend as competitors for the Noakeses' effects.

They all came. Florence enjoys a fluctuating popularity among the male population of Uncle Henry's parish, which happened just then to be at its height; so they not only came, but bought things. The new curate in particular was a host in himself, and accounted single-handed for an ironing board, two window boxes, and a mangle, the last secured after a spirited competition with the doctor's assistant. Florence, who was delirious with enthusiasm, rewarded him with a look that I feel he had fully earned.

The net result of the sale was a sum representing about sixteen times the value of the goods disposed of. "And I hope," said Florence, gently triumphant, "that you are satisfied now that I really can do some good when I give my mind to it."

I apologized in the abject manner that was expected of me. "Mrs. Noakes should be satisfied anyhow," I said.

"She is," said Florence; "you never saw a poor woman so overcome. "She's going away tomorrow to live with a friend. She said she should never forget my kindness till she was carried to the silent grave. After all," continued Florence, "it's a splendid and noble work to have made one fellow-creature realy happy."

"Not to mention the curate," said I.

On the day following I had to leave for Oxford. Waiting on the platform at Bletchley, that depressing antechamber to the universities of England, I fancied that I saw in the distance a figure vaguely familiar to me. Later, when the Oxford train stopped at a small wayside station and the same figure alighted, there could no longer be any doubt on the subject. It was Mrs. Noakes. She did not look so heartbroken as might have been expected. Instead of the varied impedimenta of travel customary with her class, the worthy woman carried only a small handbag as neat as herself. I surmised that it contained the results of the auction. On her face was the peaceful expression of one who can look back upon a good deed well done.

I was dismissing the matter from my thoughts, when happening still to follow her progress with idle curiosity, I was startled to see her embraced with every symptom of affection by a man in railway uniform, who had clearly been waiting for that purpose. Was this, then, the friend with whom she proposed to spend the remainder of her days? At the sight a sudden revelation flashed upon me. Hastily opening the door, I leaped out on to the platform and confronted the couple, who were walking arm in arm toward the entrance.

"Mr. and Mrs. Noakes, I believe?" said I.

It was a reward to catch the lady for once without her self-possession. The face that she turned toward me was a study in astonishment and alarm. Not so, however, that of the absconding Noakes, who, without releasing his wife's arm, merely beamed inquiringly.

"I remembered seeing you in my uncle's parish," I explained, "and couldn't resist congratulating you—on your promotion."

I accompanied the words with what I intended for a glare of virtuous indignation toward Mrs. Noakes, which, however, a sudden memory of the curate somewhat robbed of its severity.

"Aye," said Mrs. Noakes, shaking hands affably; "I cleared out in rather a hurry like, consequent on getting this here so unexpected. So, as house and furniture was provided, I left the missus to get rid of the old stuff. Wonderful well she did it too. I was fair astonished when I heard of the prices at that sale!"

My train, to the obvious relief of Mrs. Noakes, was already beginning to move. There was no time for explanations. "Yes," I said as I jumped in again. "It was one of the best sells—I mean sales—that I ever attended!"

WEARY WILLIE ON SOCIALISM.

A Socialist, a Socialist, that's what I pine to be,
With lodgings at the Waldorf while I set the pee-pul free,
With motor cars that do a mile in sixty seconds flat,
In which to run the errands of the pro-le-ta-ri-at;
With private secretaries and a valet at my side,
To help me as I toil to bring about the Grand Divide.
Sassiety is to the bad and things is getting rank;
I want to be a Socialist with millions in the bank!

I want to rise at 10 o'clock and slave away till noon,
Fer work—I've never done a stroke—"is man's most precious boon."
And when I've sheared the coupons from a peck o' bonds or so,
I'll put in all the time that's left to give the poor a show.
There's Happy Jack and 'Frisco Pete—they've often said to me
That wealth was not divided up the way it orter be,
And I am for a divvy, though the kickers call me crank,
I want to be a Socialist with millions in the bank!

I want a quiet summer home to rest in when it's hot,
A bungle-oh at Lenox er a humble Newport cot,
And when the blamed reporters come, with shy, reluctant air,
I'll tell 'em how poor father made more dough than was his share;
I'll tell 'em how he left the coin to me one tearful day,
And how—not yet, but soon, you know—I'll give it all away.
So when the job is open, here's my application blank—
I want to be a Socialist with millions in the bank!

The King and the Cobra.

A BRITISH SOLDIER'S ADVENTURE IN INDIA.

From London Telegraph.

SERGEANT TILDEN, D.S.M., was not afraid of many things, but among the few exceptions was anything in the shape of a serpent. Nor does the word afraid, although the nearest in fitness, quite describe the feelings with which he regarded the whole snake kind—shuddering repulsion, horror, and rage—all had place in him as well as fear, so that the presence of any of the scaly abominations never failed to excite him to quite a surprising extent. And it was the contrast between the sergeant's normal sedate dignity and the bedlamite excitement shown by him on these occasions that suggested to "The King" a lovely little lark. If the sergeant, on retiring to his bunk some night, should find a cobra in his bed, would he not be likely to lift up his fog-horn of a voice in fair imitation of a steam siren? Of course the cobra would be dead, but—blimy, yes; the very thing!

As the foregoing to some extent indicates Corporal Vallance was in no way averse to practical jokes—indeed it was to one of the latter that he owed his nickname "The King," and "thereby hangs a tale." Down at Poonah the histrionics—amateur—of the station had on one occasion gone in for maltreating Shakespeare, and had selected "Hamlet." The man cast for the part of the King had a bad attack of mullygrubs at the last minute, and in their desperation the committee fixed on Vallance as a substitute. This would have been all right—if it had not occurred to the corporal to add a liberal dose of paraffin oil to the "wine" in the goblets in the banquet scene. In view of the heat it had been arranged that the goblets were to contain shandygaff, in which fond belief the "queen"—a hot-tempered young lieutenant—took a mighty swig. Then there were developments. Her Majesty bounced up out of her seat with a yell, swore like a bargee, and flung what was left in the goblet slap in Hamlet's face. Then, seeing nothing short of immediate death before her, she streaked for the hospital with both hands on her stomach. The dramatic club never asked Vallance to play again, but he got the title of "The King" over it.

Having decided that a shake up would do the sergeant all sorts of good, Vallance began prospecting for a cobra; a task which he found not at all easy of accomplishment. There would have been no trouble had he been able to employ a native, but as it was imperative that the cobra-catching should be kept secret, he was compelled to rely on his own efforts and those of two chums.

The result was not encouraging, and after about a week of steady, though furtive, hunting, the trio were obliged to own themselves defeated.

"Hang it all," said Vallance; "one 'ud think the brutes know all about it; they're keeping out of the way so——"

"Well, they've never been thick in or round the cantonments; too many adjutant birds and mongooses about for that," replied Corporal Hickson. "Strikes me we'll have to get the natives, after all."

"Not much," said Vallance. "There's one place we haven't tried yet."

"And that?" said Hickson, inquiringly.

"The Tomb of Abdul."

His two hearers, plucky though they were, stared at him in something very like consternation.

"Great Scot! you'd never think of going there?" asked Rice, the third of the trio.

"I would—and do, sure as you are Corporal Rice," replied Vallance, coolly; "as you know, snakes of all sorts are swarming just round there, and it should be easy to knock one on the head—all I want."

"Easy enough, though mighty dangerous," said Rice, "but, as it happens, the snakes don't make the worst risk. It's——"

"Oh, yes, I know all about that," interrupted Vallance. "I know that the natives attach extraordinary sanctity to the place, and even hold the serpents haunting it sacred, too. I know there 'ud be a blazing row if it came out that a son of the accursed had gone up there—but then, you see, it need not come out. The place is lonely and deserted—even the natives don't go near it often in daylight, and never at night. Too many djinns about, I suppose. Anyway, I'm going. The prospect of seeing the D. S. O. rushing out of his bunk in his shirt and a panic is worth a good deal of risk."

"But——"

"No buts about it. I'm going."

And go he did that very evening. In spite of the warnings and remonstrances of his more cautious chums, he set out just an hour or so before sunset, armed with a clasp knife and a six-foot-long bamboo. In their irritation anent what they called his folly, the two objectors did not offer to accompany him, but before he had been gone an hour they changed their minds, deciding to follow and see the thing through.

"He's a pig-headed fool," said Rice, "but all the same, we're chums, and that's got to count, you know."

"Right O," was the answer. "Come on," and after a preliminary hunt for bamboos—the most effective weapon for dealing with the smaller serpents—the twain started.

Meanwhile Vallance had reached the tree-clad mound, on the top of which was the Tomb of Abdul. Who Abdul was in life, or what he had been, no one seemed to know, but those who chose his last resting place paid him no compliment, for a more dismal, eerie, sinister-looking spot it would have been hard to find anywhere. In a great saucer-like depression among bare, stony hills lay that rarest of Indian phenomenon, a swamp, and out of the middle of this swamp rose a low mound thickly dotted over with low-growing somber trees.

On the summit was the tomb, or what had at one time been the tomb, for most of it now lay on the ground in heaps and ridges of fallen masonry. Enough remained standing, however, to show that when perfect, the building must have been as large as a small temple, and as Vallance picked his way through the swamp toward it, he almost expected to see the shaven skulls and angry eyes of outraged priests thrust out from under its crumbling arches.

But there was no one about, and having got clear of the swamp, he began a slow and alert ascent of the mound. Danger, real and terrible, was all round him now, and every action had to be wary. No passing under low-hanging branches without making sure that they were untenanted; no careless brushing aside of lianes and air roots without making sure that they were what they seemed to be; no setting down rash or hasty feet among the stones. Not even letting the hands hang by the sides was safe in that grisly place, so the snake hunter kept them up beside the bamboo on his left shoulder, as, step by step, he drew nearer and nearer to the ruins, now gleaming redly in the fierce flare of the sinking sun.

He was nearly at the top when he heard, coming from somewhere in front, a sharp, whistling hiss. It was not repeated, but it was so unusually loud as to strike him with surprise, and when, after a pause of intent listening, he went on again, there was a noticeable increase in his caution. Then he heard, also ahead, a faint rattling as of scuffling among loose stones, andafter a while decided that it came from beyond a broken arch, low and dark, lying on his left front. Approaching he looked through the archway—then stopped and half recoiled, even his reckless face paling a little, while the words "king cobra" sprang to his lips.

Now, the king cobra has certain characteristics, marking it out as the supreme terror of all its evil kind. In the first place it is the largest venomous serpent known, having been found to attain a length of ten or even twelve feet. In the second place, its bite is certain death; and in the third, it is fiendishly aggressive. All the other poisonous serpents try to avoid conflict with man, and only strike when provoked, but the devilish malignity of this special creature leads it to attack man on sight. And then, to crown all in the way of horror, it is a cannibal, living by devouring its own kind—alive.

Beyond the archway was an open space flooded with sunlight, and in the middle of this a king cobra, over eight feet long, was locked in deadly conflict with a smaller but even stronger snake, of a hue almost black. The comparatively slender head of the latter was in the cobra's jaws, and the watcher could see that the cannibal was exerting itself to the utmost to draw its victim farther into its infernal gape. But so great was the dark snake's strength, and so furious its convulsive efforts to free itself, that the huge brown body of its terrible foe was flung about like a toy, nor could either prevail to gain or lose by so much as an inch.

So deeply had the uncanny spell of the thing influenced Vallance that the possibility of either of the demon serpents having a mate did not once occur to him—until a long, arrowy form, with gaping jaws and eyes like live coals, shot across from the farther side of the open, and, passing the combatants, came straight toward the archway. Then like a flash he realized his danger, and, wheeling, ran down the mound with the speed of a deer, trailing the bamboo behind him. Such as it was, it was his only weapon, and he was unwilling to let it go, but to attempt to carry it through the clustered tree trunks would only have hampered him.

In what seemed to him but a matter of seconds he reached the foot of the mound, not even taking time to look back. He knew that the crossing of the mud and water must delay his pursuer, and that upon what he could thus gain in distance would depend his chance of ultimate escape. With this knowledge urging him on, he made a record race of it, until, with a final flying leap from a shaking tussock, he regained firm ground again. And even as his feet touched the earth, something thrashed into the shallow pool behind him, sending the muddy spray flying over his head. He wheeled then, and was just in time to see the malign brown head swing up out of the water into which its missed stroke had dashed it.

At the sight, whatever of fear the man had felt vanished, giving place to a rush of perfectly demoniacal rage. And from that very rage—out of its blind fury and utter recklessness of consequences—came the idea that saved him.

Whirling the bamboo round, he dealt a lightning stroke at the balancing head, and by a piece of rare good fortune, stunned the serpent slightly. Then, before it could recover, he leaped into the pool, and fixing both hands with an iron grip on the scaly neck, he forced the hideous head under water. And even as his grip tightened and the muddy flood strangled the shrill hissing of the infuriated monster, the soldier knew that if ever he fought he would have to fight now—or die. Only let the reptile get its head free, even for the tenth part of a second, and it was all up with him; he would be dead before morning.

It was a very nightmare of a struggle that followed—to look back upon, that is. The pool was fairly broad and about three feet deep, but of this depth only a shallow upper stratum was water, the rest being mud, and this, churned up by the convulsive fury of the combatants, rapidly filled the hollow with thickening slime, of which the stench was suffocating—and in this hell both man and serpent fought, now under, now over, with the unrelenting ferocity of fiends. There was no firm footing obtainable on the slippery bottom, and again and again the soldier went down, to rise gasping and half choked—but never once slackening his strangling hold on the enemy's neck—until at last the serpent began to weaken, and with a yell of triumph Vallance was able to force its head down among the

His Place Was Filled.

PROF. JAMES H. HYSLOP of the American Society for Psychical Research, said in a discussion of mediums:

"Genuine mediums being so plentiful, I can readily sympathize with those who ridicule false mediums. I heard of an amusing incident in this line the other day. A medium, after evoking Lincoln, Washington and other seasonable spirits, said in a thrilling voice:

" 'I see a man of middle age, with black hair parted in the middle, a black mustache, and a tip-tilted nose. Handsome, distinguished, stately, he is hovering persistently about you, sir.' And the medium nodded toward an elderly man with white whiskers.

"This elderly man started, and then burst suddenly into tears. His frame shaking with sobs, he cried:

" 'John, John, why, oh why did you leave me to the misery of these past years?'

" 'You knew him?' the medium asked gently.

" 'Knew him?' moaned the elderly man. 'I communed with him daily. Oh, John,' he burst forth again, 'why, why did you have to die?'

" 'Courage,' said the medium. 'Calm yourself. Though his loss was a great one, you may yet find another friend to fill his place.'

" 'No, no! Impossible! His place is filled.'

" 'Filled? What do you mean?' asked the puzzled medium.

" 'The elderly man, shaking his head sadly, answered:

" 'He was my wife's first husband.' "

Not Fit to Live in.

A PHILADELPHIAN said of the late Baroness Burdett-Coutts, whose husband, Ashmead Bartlett, was a native of the Quaker City:

"I once dined with the aged peeress at her house in Picadilly. She talked about the poor and their sufferings—she seldom talked of anything else—and she narrated an incident that had once befallen her friend Charles Dickens.

"Dickens, looking for local color for his novel of 'Hard Times,' visited Manchester. He went through the hovels of certain Manchester cotton spinners, and these foul houses filled him with pity and horror. Meeting the Manchester manufacturer who owned them, he said:

" 'And do your employés really live in such houses as these?'

"Jackson," he said, "married, one after another, five sisters. The thing is incredible, but it is a fact. When, for the fifth time, Claiborne Jackson broached a marital proposition to his father-in-law, the old man was 80 and quite deaf. This is the conversation that ensued:

" 'I want Lizzie.'

" 'Hey?"

" 'I want you—to give me—Elizabeth.'

" 'Oh, you want me to give you Elizabeth, do you? What for?'

" 'For my wife.'

" 'For your life?'

" 'I—want—to—marry—Lizzie!'

" 'Oh, yes. I hear you. You needn't rouse the neighborhood.'

" 'Well, do you consent?'

"Yes, I consent,' said the old man. He shook his head and added slowly:

" 'Yes, you can have her. You've got 'em all now, my boy. But for goodness sake, if anything happens to that poor, misguided girl, don't come back here and ask me for her mother.' "

A MANAGER was praising Henry E. Dixey's talent as a mimic.

"One summer day," he said, "Dixey and I were strolling down the main street of a New Engalnd village when a pretty girl of 18 or so passed us with a baby coach.

"Dixey, putting his hand to his ear and adopting the dull, lifeless tone of a deaf man, said to the girl:

" 'Can you tell me where Mr. Pegleg Johnson lives?'

" 'No, sir,' she answered. 'I don't know any such person.'

" 'What?'

" 'I say I don't know any such person.'

" 'Thank you,' said Dixey. 'That will do just as well.' And he turned away, when the baby caught his eye. He patted its head and said:

" 'I guess you feel mighty proud of this little man, don't you?'

"The girl flushed and bit her lip.

" 'It isn't mine,' she said shortly.

" 'Twins, eh?' said Dixey. 'Where's the other one?'

" 'It isn't mine!' shouted the girl.

"Dixey walked on beside her. 'I suppose their father's very fond of them, isn't he?'

" 'It isn't my child, I tell you,' she cried, blushing and frowning.

" 'I think that is a mistake,' said Dixey. 'Cow's milk,' in these days of adulteration, is a dangerous thing.'

"The girl shook her head, opened her mouth, and then, in despair, set off on a run, pushing the coach before her.

" 'Our children were all twins,' Dixey called after her, 'and if you want any advice about bringing up——'

"But she had already entered the gate of her garden. Turning there, she made a face at him.

"Dixey shook his head. 'I hope insanity won't break out among the twins,' he shouted as he walked away."

Held to His Bargain.

A. H. SMITH, the general manager of the New York Central Railroad, said of a financier the other day:

"It is no wonder the man has succeeded. For the sake of money he would do anything. There is a story they tell about his youth. They say that when he was a burly young farm hand in Pennsylvania, a back tooth fell to aching, and he tramped in to Wyalusing to have it out. The dentist pushed him back in the operating chair, stuck a cork between his jaws to keep them open, and examined the sore tooth carefully. Then, frowning, shaking his head, he selected his biggest and most substantial pair of forceps.

" 'Is this going to hurt, doctor?' said the farm hand, looking anxiously at the tremendous forceps.

"The dentist answered with a smile:

" 'Well, if it doesn't, we won't charge you anything.'

"And he rolled up his sleeve, hooked the forceps on to the tooth, put his foot against the arm of the chair for a brace, and—ah, it was horrible.

"But all through the horrible ordeal the young farm hand neither howled nor groaned nor grunted. Like an image he sat. Indeed, a kind of smile flickered from time to time over his face.

"When the tooth was at last out, the dentist said compassionately:

" 'It didn't hurt so very much, did it?'

" 'Hurt? Why, it didn't hurt at all,' said the farm hand.

"And he took leave without paying, holding the dentist to his bargain."

The Nature Student's Cat.

JOHN BURROUGHS, the famous nature student, is never tired of ridiculing the new school of nature writers, the school that attributes a quite human intelligence to animals and insects.

"Mr. Burroughs dined with me one night," said a magazine editor of New York, "and among my guests was a young nature writer of the new school. This young man told a wonderful story about the intelligence of oysters. He said he was going to put the story in his new book. Mr. Burroughs gave a dry laugh and said:

" 'Let me tell you about a cat. This story is quite as authentic as the other one, and it should do for your book nicely.'

"The venerable student paused impressively, then said:

" 'A Springfield couple had a cat that age had rendered helpless, and they put it out of its misery by means of chloroform. They buried it in the garden, and planted a rose bush over its remains. The next morning a familiar scratching took them to the front door, and there was the cat waiting to be let in, with the rose bush under its arm.' "

Brakeman Cussed the President.

THE late President A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania never lost his temper except under the greatest provocation.

His consideration for others was shown once on a train where he was not known to conductor or brakeman. The train came to a standstill owing to some trifling accident, and after ten minutes Mr. Cassatt asked the brakeman if it was not customary to send a man back with a red flag to warn trains behind. The brakeman admitted it.

"Then why don't you do it?" asked Mr. Cassatt.

"If you will mind your own business," was the reply, "the railroad men in charge of this train will attend to theirs. We know what to do, and want no interference from you.."

When Mr. Cassatt arrived in the Broad street station, Philadelphia, he hunted up the superintendent and related the circumstance. The superintendent started to have the brakeman discharged, but Mr. Cassatt restrained him.

"Don't do that," he said. "Just call him into your office and tell him he cussed the president, and that hereafter he should be more polite to passengers."—[Baltimore News.

PLANT STUDY.

NEED OF COMMON SENSE METHODS OF TEACHING.

By Ernest Braunton.

HAD we more books on plant study or lessons with plants we would not only have more plant lovers but many, many more who understood something of the science of plant life. Botany, to most people, means a long study, with close application, of a long list of dry and musty plants, designated both as a whole and in detail with equally dry and musty terms or names.

The pupil taking up the study of botany for the first term, is loaded down with a lot of bosh about stamens, pistils, anthers and stigmas without the slightest idea what one looks like or what its purpose in the world. The pupil should first be brought in contact with the plant at maturty and be given all the general knowledge about plant life obtainable. Especially should the functions of the plant and its organs be explained, so that a desire to know more about the subject is created. The child first wishes to know what, before he inquiries how, or why.

After the children fully comprehend what plant life is, the proper time has arrived to take up the intricate study of botany, but this should never occupy the first term in plant study; plants should first be grown from seeds in the schoolroom, and hundreds of flowers, fruits, seeds, branches and leaves studied that the pupils may know one plant from another and that no two are alike, before he is forced to absorb all the technical knowledge of what one unknown plant is composed.

PHOENIX SPINOSA (LEONENSIS.)

The writer has never heard botany taught even along commonsense lines in any school yet. Nothing is done to really interest the children in plants, but the study of botany, as a science, is thrust upon them as a task—a prescribed course—from which there is no escape. Too many young people are heard to exclaim: "Oh, I don't expect to learn anything about plants, I had to take so many studies, anyway, and I thought botany would be easier than some others." These young folks never look at a plant after leaving school. The writer feels that he could teach more of plant life in a month—far more—than any teacher of botany in the State could in a year. His pupils, instead of brushing past a plant without a glance, would never pass one without an intelligent survey, mingled with love, noting some characteristic of habit, leaf, blossom, or its health, rate of growth, desirability, etc. Not all, perhaps, could be so interested, but it is natural for every person to be interested in plants, natural for all to love them, and all that is needed to span the gulf which our so-called civilization has made, and bring the pupil back to his natural relationship, is a teacher who understands plant life to the point of knowing something to teach.

Chrysanthemum Culture.

Chrysanthemums, where large bushes are desired, may be propagated at once, either by dividing them to single shoots, or by rooting the tips in the sand. Cut them about four inches long, to a joint, press firmly in the sand, keep them moist, but not too wet. As soon as they are well rooted, put them into three-inch pots and allow them to remain there as long as possible without becoming potbound. They are then planted in rows in their permanent positions, about eighteen inches apart, leaving sufficient space between the rows to give the necessary attention.

If the soil is sandy, it needs a liberal supply of cow manure, which must be quite rotten, or it will burn the roots of the plants as soon as the hot weather commences. During July all chrysanthemums should be cut back. If your plants are not so treated, you will probably get flowers before the hot weather is over and they will be small. If cut back in time, and given plenty of food and drink, they will produce flowers in October. As the plants grow up they should be staked and tied, one stalk or stem to a stake. Some sorts often run up to eight feet, but this is not general and is most inexcusable. Plants should be tied with raffia, procurable at any seed store, or with strips of cloth torn into quarter-inch widths, or with some very large soft twine, like candle wicking.

Good flowers cannot be obtained without disbudding. All the buds except the few on top which you wish to flower should be removed. This is easily accomplished as soon as the lower buds show, by "rubbing" them out with the finger; they are very brittle. Keep the plants fairly well watered and feed lightly, but so soon as the first buds appear, feed heavily. If you can get plenty of good stable manure, and nothing is better for general feeding. As growth continues, feed more and more. If you wish to get unusual results, feed a small quantity of bone meal twice a week, worked into the soil around base of plants. This feeding must stop when the buds show color, or you will "burn" the buds. Heavy watering must continue until the flowering season is over.

Mildew on Roses.

Experiments in the control and suppression of mildew on roses by the use of dilute sulphuric acid are said to have been very satisfactory, and this mode of warfare against this ever-present disfigurement bids fair to immediately become popular because of the ease of application and extreme low cost of materials. One who has tried it says: "The fungicide was tested on plants growing outdoors as well as in the greenhouses, and the application of a solution, containing approximately one part of sulphuric acid to 1000 parts of water was employed. The roses were uninjured by the acid solution and they began immediately to develop new leaves and young shoots entirely free of mildew after three to six applications on alternate days. Should subsequent experiments confirm these observations, the use of sulphuric acid will have certain advantages over the use of sulphur, as it does not discolor the foliage and its employment is more easily controlled."

authority on street trees says: "All things considered, the best tree for the semi-urban and the suburban parts of the city, where it will have enough room, and where the soil is at least fairly good is the American elm. Its advantages are a high but not too dense shade, the ease with which wires can be passed through its branches, its rapidity of growth and the beautiful gothic way in which its limbs overarch a street. Its advantages are its lateness in putting out its leaves, its habit of shedding them continuously from about the middle of the summer onward, its earliness in losing them altogether, and its liability to attack by the elm leaf beetle. Although the habitat of the American elm is a moist locality, it does well even if planted where the ground is somewhat dry, seemingly having the power to send its roots a great distance in quest of water."

Carnation Fertilizers.

Pulverized sheep manure will make an excellent top dressing for carnations, but it must be used carefully. Mix the manure with any good soil, using equal proportions of both. After thoroughly mixing together, spread it on about half an inch thick. Ordinary liquid manure will prove a better stimulant than blood and bone. As to how often the mixture should be applied, it depends altogether upon the condition of the plants. Should they be growing vigorously, it may be given once in three weeks; but if growth is not free, the fertilizer should not be applied so often.

Carnation soil should not be heavily manured, and above all else is the importance of having what manure you apply well rotted. Large quantities of fresh manure will be sure to induce stem rot—a trouble quite prevalent in many places. The best plan is to use a limited quantity of manure in the soil and then top dress with the same material just as you discover the first flower buds coming. Two very valuable additions to carnation soil are air-slaked lime and wood ashes—either may be used liberally without injury, but should be thoroughly worked in. Just at present the writer has some very fine carnations, grown on what were, but a short time ago, very indifferent plants. They have, during the past few months, received several rather light applications of wood ashes.

School Gardens Practical.

The school garden is a protest against the impractical in our school system. Man was first placed in a garden and was happy so long as he dressed and kept it. Agriculture is only nature and halter-broke. The school garden is intended for children who are old enough to see and ask "why." The little tots of four and five years now have their kindergarten schools or child gardens, where practical things are taught. Why not keep the child in touch with real life all of its school life?

Seasonable Seeds to Sow.

For summer and fall flowers an early sowing of asters, Phlox Drummondi, dianthus, arctotis, summer flowering stocks, salvias, etc., may be made now. The seedsman can give you an idea of what will be better for you to sow now. Tender annuals would be risky at present if you have no greenhouse or protection for them. Hardy varieties can be sown at any time. Gladiolus for early flowers may be planted now, using rich ground, and plant at intervals of two or three weeks for the next four months, to get a succession of blooms.

Practical Poultry Culture in the Southwest.

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF STANDARD-BRED POULTRY AND THE PEOPLE WHO GROW IT.

A FAMILY FLOCK.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR THE AMATEUR POULTRY RAISER.

By Henry W. Kruckeberg.

NOTE.—Short articles of a practical nature are cordially solicited from breeders and fanciers, relating their experience with poultry, giving their successes as well as failures. The writer will be glad, in so far as lies in his power, to answer inquiries of public interest bearing on any phase of an enlightened poultry culture, such as feeding and management, disease and its prevention, market conditions, fancy points, etc. The co-operation of utility breeders and fanciers is cordially solicited, to the end that the best thought and practice in an enlightened poultry culture may find a healthy expression in these columns.

THERE is one good way to start a family flock of hens, viz., buy a good sire of the desired breed from another man, with from three to five-year-old hens, or hens three years old, and the remainder pullets. Buy pure-bred stock, and as fancy as you care to pay for. The start is everything, although one does not know a thing about chickens. The less he knows the better chicks he should buy. It is not a hard matter to find honorable men selling poultry, who will take all the interest in one permitted. Breeders of fancy stock are a generous sort of people with a nice sense of justice. The man who is in the poultry business merely for the money in it may be expected to indulge in smart practices, and as any business dicker, one has to choose the seller who delights in the things he sells apart from the act of selling. Ten dollars buys a good sire, and two to three dollars a good hen, though prices for fancy stock run up even to hundreds of dollars. A breeder will not sell his breeding stock at any price.

If one buys ten hens at $2 each, and a $10 sire, he puts $30 into live stock. He can house them well for $10 more, but could easily spend $50. There is almost no limit to what a man can spend on fancy chicks housed becomingly, and for the man of leisure and money it becomes a responsive pastime along with being family economy. With $40 a man may start with good pure-bred poultry housed. To keep them up is the ambition to be cultivated, to make profit first and get pleasure making it.

The eastern man is amazed at the price of wheat here, and thinks poultry cannot pay where wheat is so high unless a man can grow it. A family man of business on a suburban lot cannot grow wheat, and wonder how a family flock can be made to pay its way. Where people do not live upon great plains of grain fields, and in a south country like ours other foods adapt fowls to the environment. It would surprise many an eastern newcomer to tell him no wheat at all need be fed whole. Many a successful flock is being fed no wheat in the kernel, and many a flock will eat no wheat if thrown them with other grains. There is egg food in wheat, oats and barley, and wheat must reach the layers in some form. Get the best wheat bran and feed it in a morning mash made dry. Wet it with boiling hot water in which all kinds of table leavings have been cooked—potatoes, turnip or onion parings, bits of meat and soup, coffee and tea, and all sweet things fit for man's table. Feed the mash hot upon clean feeding boards. This starts the flock out with wheat that is not expensive, and with the better part of wheat. Oats are a muscle-maker, and should be fed, but fowls do not like whole oats. They can be ground and fed in the mash if there are a few table leavings of oatmeal. One can soon learn the amount of water to boil for a mash for eleven fowls. He should have mash enough to feed a crop full to each fowl, and little more, because a few gluttons will eat a little more than their share. Cracked corn fed at night, a crop full to each fowl, and little more, will give the fat-forming ration for the layers. Green-cut bone, freshly made, should be added to the mash three times a week. Nothing so tends to promote fertility of eggs as freshly-ground green bones. Of all greens alfalfa cut up short is the best for layers, and the hay or meal is the next best. If the morning mash is not rich in table bits, add a pint of alfalfa meal for the eleven fowls; for fresh greens to be given at noon, the bits of family lettuce given whole as other leaves, bits of cabbage and cauliflower, turnip or beet tops cut up with a "green cutter," or any fresh green from the kitchen garden.

The one great failing which often arises from feeding family table leavings is, things sour and tainted are fed. A bit of rotten potato cooked in the mash will make the entire flock sick. A sour mash induces fever in three hours. Nothing can be too pure and clean to feed fowls. The fowls should be fed regularly, and not be given table bits any time of day. To make the hens lay is the first ambition to have, and regular feeding makes more regular habits in hens, and if fed egg-making foods, eggs will make and have to come. One need buy only cracked corn, best of wheat bran, and oats to grind, for the family flock's food, if he feeds carefully the family food leavings. Ground oyster shells must be fed and pure water always be beside the fowls. The expense of this mode of feeding is so small each hen will pay for herself in a little while and thrive, and in the future be profit above the little one pays for feed. If a sitting of her eggs is sold at breeding time for $2, what quick returns she can make! It pays to start with good stock and make it a point to sell one sitting of eggs for each hen at once, if one needs quick returns. It is better to incubate the early eggs and get out early chicks and then sell sittings. The ten hens ought to lay fifty eggs a week late in February or early in March, and in two weeks 100 eggs could be put in an incubator, and, with a poor hatch, get out fifty-five chicks. Fifty-five chicks will soon pay for their incubator and brooder.

If one does not grow alfalfa and greens in a kitchen garden, he will have to buy alfalfa meal. He can buy fresh-cut bone of a butcher for 3 cents a pound, and buy his oats ground, or buy a bone cutter and cut up the bones he can buy with the family meat, and the whole oats. He can cut the greens with a butcher knife easily for eleven fowls and not buy a green cutter until the fifty chicks arrive.

Eggs for Breeding.

When one bargains for a sitting of eggs and pays the price asked, the deal is closed, the merchandise delivered. Faith entered into the deal. The man buying wanted the best, and expected to get the best for the money he paid. The man selling had tried all known best methods for a year to get his breeding stock into fine condition, hoped he had done so, felt sure he was selling the best eggs procurable, but there is no way of telling a fertile egg except by giving it material heat. A man who has not tried selling breeding eggs cannot quite grasp the situation when half his eggs turn out infertile. He feels he has been treated lightly, while it really was a serious and honest transaction.

If a seller tells one to let him know how the hatch comes off, and a stranger writes that he got but two chicks, that all the rest were infertile, what should he do? Breeding stock does not put out fertile eggs today and none tomorrow. One man cannot get fertile eggs today and infertile tomorrow. The breeder who finds his breeding stock not virile quits selling eggs till he can fortify it in some new way. There is only one thing to be said of buyers who complain of infertile eggs bought of a reputable breeder, viz., they are falsifiers. A man is foolish to complain to reputable people. One may not know a fertile egg that does not hatch from an infertile one, but innocence does not excuse him. An ignorant fellow should get wise. If his eggs do not hatch well, ascertain why so of somebody who knows. An infertile egg broken will be found to be like a normal egg, the yolk full and unbroken in the clear white. A fertile egg may start to incubate and a slight fall or sudden jar terminate proceedings, when the egg will sour, the yolk run into the white and look when broken like pale coffee with the milk in it. In the East a thunder shower has many times spoiled a whole sitting of fertile eggs.

When one bargains for a sitting of eggs and, paying the price, gets the eggs, he should consider it a just deal. What he does with the eggs is a self-effort generally. If they turn out poorly, he may quietly change his opinion of the breeder of them, buy of another breeder, or learn of his lack of information in handling them properly. The average breeder usually exercises every precaution to send out eggs coming from strong and vigorous parentage.

Fancy Utility Birds.

February is a time for serious meditation over the ups and downs of poultry farming. Of course we made some mistakes last year, and have ambition to avoid making the same this year. We hear a great deal about fancy birds and utility birds, as if the two involved diverging lines in breeding. Do they? We have asked many breeders, and there are two opinions. The breeder of fancy fowls is sure that the better form of hen according to the standard, the better layer of best eggs is she; and that perfect coloring according to standard requirements does not in the least undo the endeavors. Why not, and why should it? The breeder of utility fowls is equally sure that if one breeds for color he sacrifices form, and that to breed for form is only a second thing of pleasure for the eye, with eggs if they will be kind enough to form an output. His one thought is eggs or meat, generally one or the other, and not having bred fancy fowls does not know from experience that he is right. The man is to be pitied who has to learn everything from experience, yet experience does give one a perception of existence nothing else can. The children learning the multiplication tables are a true study of realism. The child in the twos struggles away or delights in the really simple work, while the child in the sevens with joy or grief knows what is coming to the little fellow, and apprehends a little of the work there must be in the nines and elevens. The man who has not bred the fancy fowl has not tackled "nines and elevens," and cannot be expected to know really about utility of the fancy fowls. He is led by hearsay. The boy who will not concentrate and learn the nines can add and put down nine, nine times, and add them up, but it is a slow process, and due to not starting life right with the multiplication table. The breeder of so-called utility fowls may be making a similar mistake.

The poultry industry is going ahead fast, and the big breeders generally are breeding fancy stock as a starter. In breeding the fancy there are enough common-looking fowls to constitute the utility bird, yet the pedigree is of the best at all times. A 95-point hen is just as likely to lay 250 eggs a year as a so-called "utility" bird, and when she does the wise breeder incubates all of her eggs. Wise breeders are not scarce any more, and are going to control the markets with a higher utility bird, and the breeder of so-called utility birds will have to begin over, and with a belated childhood study nines and elevens.

Precautionary Measures Standing for Success.

To prevent disease among poultry, take every precaution lest you bring disease into your premises. Do not buy poultry showing the slightest trace of disease, or regarding which you have the slightest suspicion, for a mild case may introduce serious trouble. Keep your flocks away from those of your neighbors, especially if they have or have had any disease. Isol infect all such fowls the moment they show vorable symptoms. Do not let them remain others. Kill off the runts and unthrifty spec they become disease distributors. By making mortem examination on fowls first taken trouble may be discovered. Burn the bodies of birds, or bury them in quicklime. If buried ground they may be unearthed by dogs or the disease spread. Doctoring fowls already pays, but prompt preventive treatment of a ward off the disease. The quicker you learn of the trouble the better. Do not feed the animals to fowls unless well cooked, as they to contain germs of disease.

As he grew older and more ambitious, he became a great deal of trouble, and would insist on sitting on our shoulders when we were engaged in some piece of work that he could disturb. It was useless to put him back in the spare room on his perch. We would no sooner get back into the other room, than in would come the mocker and light on the shoulder of the one that he preferred the most at that particular time, usually Betty, as he could blandish her into letting him stay and pick at everything that looked good to eat.

The first thing in the morning, the bird would wake us with his noise, and he had two distinct calls—one of them a loud, insistent chirp, such as the wild birds use when angered, and the other a little "peep" that Betty used to call "baby talk"—and he certainly knew how to use it when he wished to persuade her to give him some particularly desirable morsel that he wanted.

One day the bird sat in the sunlight and began a sweet little song away down in his throat that one could only hear by careful listening, and every morning when the sun would come in through the windows, he would sit and practice bird music scales all by himself, and it was evident that the wild bird was stirring in him, and he was growing tired of the inside life. Every day we left him out, and every day he would come back to the house and perch on door knob or window casing, and chirp to be let in.

He would sit on the top of the door or the picture molding, and watch whatever was going on with the greatest interest, and whenever he saw anything that he thought he would like, there would be a soft fluttering, and down would sail the bird, and sit on the table, and flutter his wings, and beg like a spoiled child until some of the desired food was given him. He was an invaluable assistant to Betty, and she declared she could not make a cake unless the bird was on hand to sample the ingredients and chirp approval.

His plumage had developed, and he had grown until it was difficult to tell him from the other birds, except from the fact that he would not associate with others of his kind at all. I knew that this would not last long, however, and that he would find bird company preferable to that of humans, even though we were his foster parents.

He became more and more independent, and often would not come home at night, but would prefer to perch out in the pepper tree; and while he still came at Betty's call, we realized that our little tame bird was gone, and that this handsome, spotted fellow who had gradually taken his place was not the same bird at all.

One day he refused to answer Betty's call, and offers of food, so, while he still lives in the peppers around the house and is tamer than the rest of the mocking-birds, the fear of being again shut up in the house seems to possess him, and we have lost our little bird

A BASKET OF JAR-HANDLES.

In a mound in Palestine identified as the site of the ancient city of Gezer was found a large number of jar handles. Enough to make a basketful were collected by the excavators. Each bore a potter's mark—the name of its maker—with a legend. A basket of jar handles might be expected to have some interest for the philologist, says Mr. Macalister, the author of "A Record of Excavation and Discovery in Palestine," but could hardly be expected to be of historical value. Yet this collection of sherds enabled its finders to revise and make plain a baffing passage in the Bible, and to establish a connected story through several other isolated passages.

The obscure passage is in First Chronicles, fourth chapter, sixteenth to twenty-third verses. A list of names, so disarranged as not to appear a true genealogy, had been widely accepted as a mythical account of the descent of tribes. "These were the potters and the inhabitants of Netaim and Gederah; there they dwelt with the King for his work," is the end of the passage.

Each of the jar handles dug from the ruins of Gezer bears the inscription: "For the King," and the names of the makers are the names of those in the Bible verses, except where a copyist has made an error, which frequently occurred. Revised by the new knowledge, the passage becomes a complete genealogy of the family of the potters, and makes plain the story of their wanderings. On each handle also is a scarab, or beetle, which explains the reference to a "daughter of Pharaoh"--an allusion to the fact that the potters followed the religion of Egypt.

It becomes evident, therefore, that here is the story of the Menuhoth, the descendants of Menahem, and eventually of Caleb, son of Jephunneh. They long inhabited a region south of Hebron and followed many crafts, but principally that of pottery making. This, in the reign of Joash, brought them to the notice of the King of Judah, and royal patronage followed, possibly in connection with the restoration of the Temple. In the days of Uzziah one of the family, Shebaniah, son of Ezrah, rose to be steward of the royal estates at Carmel.

The family "trade mark" at this time was the scarab, but under the righteous kings, Amaziah, Jotham and Uzziah, this was suppressed.

In the days of Hezekiah a raid of the wild, semi-barbarous tribe of Simeon was made into their territory, and they were forced to seek another home in the south of Moab or the north of Edom; and driving out the Amalekites, they settled there and lived in semi-independence.

After the return from the captivity they settled in Bethlehem, and under the name of Pahath-Moab assumed a position of considerable importance under Ezra and Nehemiah.

All this story is in the Bible, and most of it in the books of Chronicles, but in isolated fragments to which the jar handles gave the connection. But their whole significance is greater than that, for they indicate that the chapters of Chronicles contain simply what they appear to contain—the real genealogies of real men; and in them one need seek no mythical or symbolical meaning.—[Youth's Companion.

FEEDING LONDON GULLS.

There is a man to whom the sight of the coming of the sea gulls on the Thames has suggested possibilities of trade, and for several hours every day he promenades the Embankment with a tray, on which are set out small paper bags full of sprats.

"They sell like hot cakes," he told a reporter. "People will always spend a penny on a bagful to feed the gulls with. They like to see them dart on the fish and catch them before they reach the water.

"I'm just a hawker, and make my living this way. It's a brisk trade while it lasts, which is most of the winter, and I'm not denying it pays pretty well. Even giving ten for a penny I'm able to make a living profit out of them."

It may be added that he provides a considerable amount of amusement for those who patronize the Embankment during the luncheon hour also. The feeding of the gulls is now a recognized pastime, and one which attracts a large number of visitors. The birds fly around the buttresses of the bridge in flocks, emitting a continuous chorus of hoarse cries. By Blackfriars Pier they perch on the railing of the deserted gangway, not single spies, but in battalions, all facing upstream, all keenly awake to the chance passing of a morsel of bread or a sprat.

The fast ebbing tide carries the floating birds down with it. They shoot, passive and uninterested in their fate, through the arches by dozens, but once below the bridge they rise on the water, their wide wings spread out, and up they swoop over the mass of cabs and 'buses, drays and trolleys that streams across the bridge, away to the edge of the Embankment again, where a newcomer has just opened a bag of sprats.

A fish is thrown up into the air, three birds dart simultaneously from different sides in its direction. A collision seems inevitable, yet apparently by mutual consent two of the birds turn aside with a sharp flick of the wing, and the third catches his prey with a downward flash. His gray back shimmers in the sunshine, a moment and he is lost to sight again, indistinguishable in the swirling mass.

Some of the birds are tame enough to stand upon the parapet on the Embankment and pick up crumbs while men stand by and watch. But the weather is not yet severe enough to have taught them all fearlessness. For the present they wait until the food is thrown out to them, over the dancing water, with which at least they are thoroughly familiar.—[London Daily News.

BIRDS AS SENTINELS.

The Rev. W. J. Joyce, chaplain of the House of Representatives of the State Legislature, encountered many hardships in the earlier days of Texas, when he was a circuit rider upon the frontier. In speaking of his experiences he said the other day:

"I hope that I may be pardoned for saying that it required courage to be a Methodist circuit rider in Texas in the early days. Forty years ago I traveled the Uvalde Methodist mission circuit, which was at that time 300 miles around and from thirty to sixty miles between appointments. Every mile of the distance was beset with dangers from Indians.

"In traveling the 300 miles of the circuit, of course, I got very lonesome and weary. I adopted some odd methods to get a little sleep and rest at midday.

"Being alone, I could not post sentinels while I slept, and I knew it was dangerous to lie down without taking some precaution to warn me in case Indians made their approach. I frequently used birds and animals as sentinels.

"If I could locate a drove of buzzards in a tree I would make my way to a point as close to them as possible and lie down. I knew that if Indians should approach the buzzards would flop their wings and fly away from the place and that the noise would awaken me.

"On one occasion I slipped as near as I could to a herd of cattle and allowed them to act as sentinels for me while I slept. Another time I carefully worked my way through the brush in a very narrow cow trail that led to the Leona River, and there, closely hidden from the searching eyes of any Indians that might be prowling about, I had my nap.

"On another trip I found the same resting place, and when I had been refreshed by a good sleep, I mounted my horse and rode three or four miles further up the river and stopped to get a drink of water at a little shack where a lone settler lived. He had located at that spot, far from civilization, in the hope that he could make a fortune in raising cattle and then return to his old home and marry the girl he loved.

"I saw the fresh skin of a big Mexican bear lying in the yard. I asked the man where he got it, and he replied that he killed the animal in the thicket where I had just taken my nap."—[New York Sun.

CLAY BUTTER.

"Our Southern clay eaters," said an ethnologist, "are not such fools as you would think. Clay is a kind of salt; salt is an essential ingredient of human fare; and in salt's absence certain kinds of clay will take its place.

"Nor is clay eating confined to our own South alone. There are German peasants who spread clay on their bread, calling it stone butter, and clay is mixed with the dough by certain bakers in Sweden, Sardinia, Persia and Nubia.

"I have myself partaken sparingly of southern clay with actual enjoyment."

Close Business Margin.

I ASKED a San Bernardino fruit grower the other day to what he gave credit for his signal success in his business. "To reasonable intelligence, a close observation to detail and economy?" Yes, those were the main elements of success. But he came of a thrifty New England ancestry. His grandfather was a farmer in Connecticut, and was a close trader. So were the merchants in those olden days, and they doled out their salt, sugar and molasses in fair measure, yet never erring in liberality. His grandfather took an egg to market one day and traded it in for a darning needle. It was the custom of the merchant to tap the rum cask lightly at the conclusion of a sale, and the old gentleman asked the storekeeper to break an egg into the glass with the rum, as the day was a little sharp for an ordinary treat. The merchant took the egg he had just received from the farmer, broke it and found it double-yolked. "Grandfather made him dig up another darning needle," said the Colton man with pride. But I will say that my Nutmeg friend is a very liberal and enterprising citizen. Verily the Yankee race is degenerating.

Concerning Small Fruits.

A FRUIT gardener living a few miles east of the city wishes to know if the "Black Loganberry" is a desirable variety for the markets. He has an option upon a large number of vines and had made arrangements with his neighbors to take the lot if it was of a profitable kind. I had never heard of this berry before, so I could give him only the advice to be cautious before investing $150 in an unknown fruit. But there are a great many things one does not know about alleged new fruits. A Pasadena inquirer asks for the Mammoth blackberry. This fruit will soon be hard to secure, and the inquirer may be lucky if she fails to get any of the plants. Some of the growers have already abandoned its cultivation in disguest. Better remain with the listed varieties, unless an experimental garden is contemplated.

For Tree Seed.

WHEN the Agricultural Appropriation Bill came before the House of Representatives a few days ago the farmer Congressmen had their innings. The amendment striking out the free distribution of seeds was defeated, the members from the rural districts reversed the ruling of the chair by a vote of 136 to 85 and restored the paragraph as it was drawn some time later than the voyage of the ark. So the free-seed incubus is fastened on the country again, or rather it was not unfastened. The same vote that will worm $260,000 out of the revenues for this foolishness, refused to raise the salary of the chief of the Bureau of Chemistry $1000 a year, and Dr. Wiley, whose burdens have been made so great by the pure-food law will have to work away for a clerk's wages. I still have a dozen packages of free seed for distribution among my enemies, and will try to get some more of the vintage of 1870 for those who despitefully use me.

President Wheeler's Conversion.

SMALL men change to something different very rapidly, yet they may be back again, and on the other side and all around again so often that it really doesn't matter. But when a man of great power and achievement becomes converted to a cause all its adherents should rejoice and be glad if the cause is a good one. Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler gave testimony at the Riverside Citrus Institute that will be worth millions of dollars to the agriculturists of the State of California, for, in that testimony the farmers realize that a great force has come to their aid, and an influence has come to the front that has now a wide understanding of the agricultural needs of the State. I think it is more of a naturalization that Dr. Wheeler has experienced. He has been growing into this attitude for some years, but the farmers did not realize that it was so positive and helpful as foreshadowed in the president's Riverside address. When this address is published it should be read by every farmer, for it contains the most hopeful view of the requirements of the times, agriculturally, ever expressed by one of our people. Some [illegible] should write a book upon "The Agricultural Evolution of the University President." Beginning in New York and soon spreading to Illinois, Iowa and one or two other States, the agricultural bee began buzzing in the presidential bonnet, and, behold, the legislators tumbled over themselves to supply the funds asked for by these great leaders of men. Confession of this kind is good for the soil, and Dr. Wheeler is now in touch with it as he never was before—in touch with the practical needs of the farmer as he has always been with the general educational requirements of a great school.

New Alfalfas.

AN Orange county farmer came all the way to Los Angeles recently to get a publication devoted to the progress in alfalfa culture and the introduction of new varieties. Unfortunately the latter phase of alfalfa culture is in its infancy. The Department of Agriculture has been busy with this proposition for several years. It has been known for years that the alfalfas of the world comprise a number of very diverse races, each of which has fought out its right to live under the conditions surrounding it. These types differ materially in their soil, climatic and cultural needs, and even more markedly in their ability to withstand drought, extreme heat, alkali and bad drainage.

While the investigations regarding the foreign kinds of alfalfa give promise of rich results when completed, it has been found that Utah has produced a type of great drought-resisting qualities in some of the older centers of dry-land farming. Years of struggle against drought seems to have led to the survival of the most resistant plants, from which have sprung a quality of peculiar value upon lands of scant rainfall. The results that are sure to follow this line of investigation can scarcely be estimated. Another factor of the greatest importance has been encountered in the dry culture of alfalfa. It has been found that even when the most drought-resistant forms are grown the margin between success and failure is so narrow as to be wholly determined by the cultural methods employed. No staple crop has gone forward with such great bounds as alfalfa. It is perhaps the most-talked-of crop in the United States at the present time, as all practically new crops are as they come into notice with such future prospects. But with all this, it is a fact that little has been published of late that will give the farmers a clear understanding of the new varieties that are coming into notice.

Sensible Talk.

WE are not given to boasting but we are proud of the farmer boys of this vicinity. They are, with rare exceptions, a healthy, intelligent and happy class of young men. We feel like taking our hat off when we meet them upon our streets, and no class is more welcome to our office. Too many boys leave the farm where they would have made good and substantial citizens, and go to the city where only one in a thousand succeed in life's battle. Young men, you who till the soil and earn your bread by the sweat of your brow, we are proud of you; our latchstring is always out to you and you will always have a friend in this paper.—[Antelope Valley Gazette.

Horticultural Inspectors.

AMONG the many bills which have been introduced during the present session of the Legislature, is one of especial merit, and one which will appeal to the fruit growers especially. This is to provide for the increase in the compensation of the horticultural inspectors from $2.50 per day to $3.50. When the present law was passed the smaller sum was fair compensation, but in the years which have elapsed, wages have been steadily on the increase, until the compensation of the horticultural inspector is below that of the common farm laborer, and as men with some knowledge and skill are required for the work, and very much depends upon them, it is evident that the pay is absurdly low, and the natural result has been that it is very difficult to get men who are willing to do the work for the rate provided. Assemblyman Prescott F. Cogswell of El Monte is the father of the bill which will undoubtedly become a law.—[California Cultivator.

Pointers on Cream Testing.

TO take a fair sample of cream see that it is mixed thoroughly and warmed to 100 deg. Fahr. Use only tested bottles whose graduations have been found correct. Weigh the cream out accurately on scales sensitive to one drop. Nine grams is the best quantity, using an equal amount of water, then the reading multiplied by two gives the cream test. Weighing the cream is necessary because of the gases it contains, and the difference in weight between thin and rich cream. Don't attempt to use a pipette for cream testing.

Let the cream and acid stand in the test bottles until the mixture turns dark colored, before whirling. Cream tests must be read as rapidly as possible after whirling and as near a temperature of 120 deg. Fahr. as may be. In cream tests the fat column is so much longer than in milk tests that it contracts quickly on cooling and shortens the readings. If the fat column is dark colored and specked with black, the acid used in testing is too strong. On the other hand if the fat is light colored and has white specks the acid is too weak. If the acid is of proper strength the fat will be clear and yellow.—[Farming.

Eucalyptus for Windbreaks.

W. P. D., of Camarello writes that he expects to plant about 3000 eucalypts on the east line of his farm. He has some of the oldest trees of the blue-gum species in the State, many of which are twenty feet in circumference. They have spreading tops and the limbs are twisted, making them unfit for anything but wood, and very hard to split for fuel. "I see a variety that grows very tall and straight, and think they would be valuable for piling. You will favor me by naming the last described tree, also which you would recommend as a windbreak and for lumber," concludes the letter. The presumption is that all the trees in question are the eucalyptus globulus, or common blue gum. Like most other trees their older appearance is influenced by their early habits of growth. The cottonwood of the Mississippi Valley is a stately tree, straight and easily split into rails or puncheons; the same species along a Kansas water course is a dwarfish, flat-topped tree and its trunk will resist a row of iron wedges driven as close together as possible.

I do not know of any sub-species, or variety of the large packages of ramie roots arrived in a few days ago for planting at Moneta, city. The promoters of this experiment grew ramie the plants produced reaching a high degree and stature, but the growers find it pays roots grown in some established ramiefield. that from this effort Los Angeles county Chinese "grass cloth" in the near future, evidence of progress to see this fiber tested here. Let us hope that it is the beginning industry. The planter of this ramie field "hank" of the fiber. It has been prepared treatment. Its delicacy and strength is comparable nothing but the finest and best of silk, its not excelled by any other fiber and the white as snow. Ramie prepared in the way was manipulated costs about 10 cents a degumming requiring peculiar chemical treatment manipulation by hand. The proprietors of farm claim that they have a process of separation that will reduce the cost 1 cent a pound. As it is not a promotion the experimenters are putting their own the enterprise, we know that they have ability to prepare the fiber at this cost. there is no question of the success of here, for the plants already grown at Moneta unusual proportions.

Ramie is the plant known to botanists as Bohemia nivea. Under good cultivation the stalks grow to six or eight feet in height, and a strong clump will produce from 60 to 80 shoots, which average in diameter as large as an ordinary lead pencil. The stalks are clothed with large acuminate leaves of a warm, green color and silvery beneath. The fiber forms in the bark surrounding the woody portion. The plant produces from two to four annual crops, according to the climate in which it is grown. One planting will last for several years. For a hundred years the cultivation of ramie has been blocked in western countries by the cost of cleansing the fiber; for scores of years it has been a contest between the ingenuity of man in inventing machinery that will do the work cheaply and well, and the natural resistance of ramie to treatment. So far the resistant qualities of the plant has kept from the market one of the finest fibers in the world for delicate and durable fabrics. Only about 2 per cent. of the green stalks is fiber when properly degummed. Flax, which is treated so easily, yields from 15 to 25 per cent. of clean fiber. It may be seen from this that only the great value of the ramie tissue would justify culture even where labor is cheap, unless perfect methods of machine manipulation have been discovered, which is averred by the late cultivators. As to the possibilities of ramie in manufacture, there seems to be no limit. In the Far East stuff goods for men's wear, upholstery, curtains, laces and embroideries, plushes and velvets, stockings, underclothing, table damask, napkins, handkerchiefs, shirtings, sheetings, sail duck, carpets, cordage, fishing nets, and yarns and threads are of the various uses. It is the most perfect fiber in the world for making articles requiring strength to resist wear and tear of washing and exposure to weather.

Choosing Fertilizers.

FIRST determine whether your soil needs a fertilizer high in nitrogen, phosphorus or potash, then the needs of the particular crop in this respect, then the form which is best suited. The last depends on the habits and growing season of the crop. Considering the general crops in classes, it may be broadly said that in fertilizer requirements the grasses and cereals, with the exception of corn, are much alike. They have extensive root systems and long periods of growth and can get their nourishment from relatively insoluble materials. For this reason the cheaper sources may well be used on this class. On the other hand, they make a rapid development of leaf and stem just before maturity, and for this reason nitrogen in the form of the quickly available nitrate of soda, applied at the right time will result in an increased crop.

Clovers, alfalfa, peas, beans, and vetches form another class having similar requirements. They are able to draw a large part of their nitrogen supply from the air, and to a greater extent if this element is poorly supplied in the soil. Therefore it is economy in fertilizing these crops to cut the nitrogen down to a small per cent. Moreover, this class feeds very highly on the mineral constituents, particularly potash and lime. The best practice with this class is to use from 1 to 2 per cent. nitrogen, 6 to 8 per cent. phosphoric acid, and 10 per cent. potash.

Potatoes, turnips, beets, and such root and their crops form another similar class. They are unable to make much use of the slowly soluble constituents, and so require, for their full development, liberal quantities of all in readily soluble form. Beets respond readily to nitrogen, turnips require plenty of soluble phosphates, and both Irish and sweet potatoes need liberal applications of potash. They need complete fertilizers, but these favored elements should be present in relatively greater amounts. Nitrogen forces leaf development, and is of the greatest importance in trucking and market gardening, to promote tenderness and succulence.—[Farming.

Lettuce as a Forcing Crop.

ONE of the most satisfactory crops to grow under glass is lettuce, and is the most uniformly profitable of any of the forced vegetables. It requires less heat than tomatoes or cucumbers, and usually less skill is required to grow a good crop. The only type which can be successfully grown in the West, and which, in fact, is the only one the market demands, is the loose-leafed non-heading sorts like Grand Rapids. The heading varieties are especially influenced by the character of the soil.

The first sowings of lettuce should be made about September 1 if a crop is wanted in November, as from seven to ten weeks are required to mature a crop. The seed is sown in flats, or if many plants are grown, on a specially prepared bench. The plants are picked off into other flats or benches when large enough to handle, and set three inches apart. When the leaves touch they are again transplanted so that they stand six inches apart.

The soil should be made by mixing one part rotted manure, one part sand to three parts soil. The greater the amount of clay the more sand should be used since under the repeated waterings such soils become compact and the lettuce becomes tough and of poor quality. The best lettuce is thin and brittle with a yellowish green color and free from green fly.

The night temperature should be 40 to 45 degrees, and the day temperature not above 65 degrees. The ventilation must be carefully looked after in winter, that in dull weather the temperature is kept low so that the sun will not burn the tips of the new growth on the leaves. The plant requires all the light possible.—[Exchange.

February Work.

NOW is the golden time of all the year for gardening, and every day should be counted lost on which no garden work is accomplished. Unless unlooked-for and unusually heavy, unbroken rain falls all dormant plant life will begin to respond to the genial warmth of spring and the rapidly-increasing power of the sun will stimulate them into growths all but marvelous.

There is scarcely any question but plant life has received all needed moisture during the past two months, but with returning activities more moisture and a constant fresh supply will be needed. See that plants now springing into seasonal growth have the soil loosened about them so that it will receive and hold the moisture; also keep up proper cultivation, not alone to conserve the moisture, but to destroy all weed seeds as soon as they sprout.

Lawns may now be fertilized, likewise roses and all real hardy plants. Do not, however, bother with bananas, cannas, elephant ears, callas and plants of this class, for they are unresponsive for some time yet, and the soil being overfull of moisture, the fertilizer will be washed away before the time when the plants can use it. More than that, we may have frosts which will farther damage or even kill some of these tropical foliage plants that have little or no bulb or corm below the surface.

Get rid of all rubbish, beds of dry leaves and such stuff by burning. Garden pests, both insects and fungous diseases, are wintered over in rubbish and may now be effectually destroyed. If left to hatch out and multiply, they may soon increase a hundredfold and prove serious menace to some pet crop of flowers—"a stitch in time saves nine," and "an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," are good maxims for the gardener to keep in mind.—[California Cultivator.

Soil Preparation.

TOO much attention cannot be given to the preparation of garden soils. The writer has experimented along this line for a number of years, and has never tried a crop that did not respond nobly and satisfactorily to deep turning and loosening of the soil.

Many people, in early spring, where sowing lettuce and radish seeds are heard to say, "Oh, my soil is light and friable, and such seeds just grow and bring good results by just raking them into the surface without spading or plowing."

Two years ago the writer was gardening in the lightest and most friable soil to be found, soil that never did and could not pack hard and cement-like. This soil had grown mixed garden crops the previous year, and had been freely cultivated and was in fair condition.

Two plats were selected and sown to the same seeds, three sorts of lettuce and three sorts of radishes. One bed was disturbed only to the depth of about two inches and the other was double-spaded, that is, a furrow across the bed was spaded and the bottom of this furrow was spaded up. No fertilizer was used except a little sown on top of each bed, and this was extremely light.

The crops from the deep-spaded beds were little short of phenomenal. Never before, in nearly twenty years' experience, did the writer ever grow such satisfactory crops of the two esculents above noted. Next year four beds were so treated, spaded at four different depths, and results were in accordance with the depth of the seed bed. The value of deep stirring of the soil is beyond question, but we have occasionally to try some experiments like the above, in order to see what the profit over ordinary soil scratching.

After planting, soil tillage is just as necessary if we are not situated to irrigate easily and cheaply when desirable, in order to conserve the soil moisture. It is also advisable to keep the soil well aërated, more especially while the plants are young and the root system undergoing its most rapid developent. After a time, when the fruiting or maturing stage arrives, the roots harden up, cease their activities somewhat, and it little matters about air and water supply.—[California Cultivator.

Ornamental Ricinus.

SOME time ago attention was called to the desirability of ornamental varieties of the castor bean for quick shade, shelter and beauty, This plant is now popular in eastern gardens, but here it should be more sought for as it will live for years in this climate under favorable conditions. One variety has a glossy, black stem, another purple, bronzy leaves, another stems and fruit of blood-red color and a new variety has various colored leaves of enormous size. All of the varieties are enormous growers, and some of them will reach fifteen or twenty feet the first season. Any good seedsman will furnish the seeds at about 15 cents per ounce. In the American trade the black-stemmed is listed as R. cambodgiensis; the bronzy purple as R. gibsoni; the red-fruited and stemmed as R. sanguiensis and the variegated mammoth kind as R. zanzibariensis. They are noble plants for use in grouping or for flower bed centers.

WHAT IT'S COME TO.

As she tiptoed into the bedroom, her husband raised his head from the pillow sleepily.

"Mrs. Jay was here to see you," he murmured. "She said she'd call again some other evening."

"And what did you tell her, John?" the wife asked, as she laid her money and latch key on the bureau.

"Oh," he answered, "I just gave her the address of your club."

Sawbones at Sacramento.

As there are a number of important questions affecting the practice of medicine before the State Legislature, now in session at Sacramento, a glance at these questions, and at the four schools of medicine recognized in California, will not be inappropriate or uninteresting.

The California State Board of Medical Examiners contains nine members. Of these, five are allopaths and two eclectics. The osteopaths—who, in this State, are split into two opposing camps, but have agreed on a bill—have a board of their own, which board, by the way, was recently declared by a Los Angeles judge to be exercising unconstitutional powers, a decision that may involve the "regular" board, also.

The allopaths, or "regulars"—a name which members of the drugging school arrogate to themselves—have always bitterly opposed any letting down of the bars, which is quite natural. We find the same thing in the case of all other vested interests. You can't expect Mr. Rockefeller to look with pleasure, or even equanimity, on the establishment of a rival oil company, and even a barber fails to exhibit signs of pleasure and delight when another barber shop is established in the same block. Every concession obtained from the "regulars" has been extracted by force, like the pulling of a champagne cork. They were forced to admit the homeopaths, because the homeopaths grew too strong. Then, for the same reason, they were forced to admit the eclectics. The osteopaths have forced recognition in almost all the States in the Union, and now the "naturopaths" are knocking for admission, in California.

At Sacramento, this season, it is a sort of three-sided fight. A number of reputable allopathic physicians, who recently came to California from other States, are up in arms, and have hired a lawyer to force the State board to recognize them, and permit them to practice. They claim that the California board constitutes a medical trust, that in no State of the Union is the treatment of physicians from the outside so arrogant and tyrannical, that the State board deliberately prevents competent and worthy practitioners from obtaining a license, so as to lessen competition, although the board never declines to receive and retain the $20 fee required of every applicant; that among other methods adopted to prevent applicants from obtaining licenses is the propounding of "catch" questions, which not a single member of the board could answer unless he had previously informed himself. In other words, that the State Board of Medical Examiners of California is a closer and more tyrannical union than any labor union, because a labor union will usually hand over a card to a member from another State, who pays the necessary fees.

A bill has been introduced to give the three schools—allopaths, eclectics and homeopaths—equal representation on the boards, also to have the board appointed by the Governor, instead of the three State medical associations, also—and this, of course, is where the big kick comes from the "trust"—to admit to practice in California, without examination, any applicant who shall present a certificate issued by the medical examining board of any other State or Territory in the United States, provided that the legal requirements of such board shall have been, at the time of the issuance of the certificate, in no degree less than the requirements of the California board at the date of the certificate.

The following item was recently published in the Medical Herald, Philadelphia:

"Realizing that old practitioners are placed at a great disadvantage in taking examinations before the State examining boards, and feeling that a lifetime spent in the honorable practice of medicine should stand for something in qualifying an applicant, even though he may not be able to make the percentage attained by those just out of school, the Missouri State Board of Health has wisely adopted the following resolution:

"'Resolved, that after all papers are impartially graded, not recognizing the individual, but considering only the worth of the papers, that five points credit be given for every five years' creditable practice since graduating from a reputable medical college, and one point for each succeeding year's honorable practice thereafter.'"

It would be a good thing, and a proper thing, if the California State Board would adopt such a resolution. Evidently, they will not, however, until they are forced to do so.

As stated, the "regulars" have hogged to themselves a majority in the State board, so that a minority has little to say. For this reason, the regulars must be held responsible both for the good and bad in medical practice in California. These men make a great pretense of acting for the protection of the dear people. Fudge! You can scarcely pick up any newspaper in the State of California in which are not found a number of advertisements of quack professors of medicine, containing statements that are obviously lies, and holding out impossible promises to those who are so unfortunate as to be sick, especially to men who suffer from venereal diseases. As is well known, a great majority of these fellows are scoundrels, who make no pretense of curing, as long as a patient has money. Then if their patients try to break away, they may even go so far as to threaten to disclose their private troubles where it would do harm. Many have been driven by these fiends in human form to insanity, or suicide. Yet note this. Every one of these men has in his office an "M. D." diploma. Otherwise he would not be permitted to practice for a day. If the proprietor of the outfit is not himself a physician, he hires some broken-down M. D. to pose as such, somewhat after the same fashion as the French newspapers keep an editor to serve jail sentences—only, in this case, the man doesn't go to jail, where he belongs. The editor has said "every one." This is practically true, for you find very few of these advertising quacks who are homeopaths, or eclectics, or osteopaths. They are nearly all "regulars." What a hideous farce.

Yet, while permitting these mercenary frauds to reap a rich harvest, under the protection of the State board, this same board is ever ready to jump upon, and prosecute, and persecute, any worthy man, who gives good advice in regard to the natural treatment of disease and expects pay for it. Note that last point, will you? It is another straw that shows how much these benevolent political doctors are anxious for the safety of the dear people. You may cut a man's liver out, in California, if he consents, and as long as you don't charge for it nothing will be done to you, but should you give a man advice as to how to eat that he may become healthy and strong, and charge him $2, you will be promptly arrested and fined $100. Looks like anxiety for the dear people, doesn't it?

When asked by the editor why the State Medical Board does not put these fellows out of business, a Los Angeles physician declared, first, that it was impossible to touch them, so long as they had a diploma. What a screaming farce, then, is this State Medical Board business. Of what earthly use is it if it cannot draw the line at such rogues, against whose unethical practices any quantity of evidence could easily be obtained? Secondly, the physician declared that they had not the money to prosecute these men. What nonsense! The editor is not a millionaire, but he will cheerfully chip in $10 toward a fund to furnish the means for such prosecution, and he knows of many others who would contribute thereto. The board could, however, surely make public its opinion of these advertising assassins. It is, however, a case of a diploma covering a multitude of sins. You may kill as many people as you like, in the "regular" fashion, but you must not cure them "irregularly." And this in the opening years of the twentieth century, in what we regard as the most enlightened country of the world. "It is to laugh." Or rather, perhaps we should say "It is to weep."

It is true that the newspapers of the country are not by any means guiltless in this respect. Let us hope that before long the great papers of the country may agree to decline to publish the lying announcements of these scoundrels, who ruin people physically, mentally, morally and financially, taking the last dollar from the slender hoard of a widow under promises of cures that they know they cannot effect. At the same time the fact that newspapers publish these announcements does not by any means absolve the State Medical Boards from their duty in the premises.

Of the four schools now recognized in California—one of them still grudgingly recognized—the "regulars," of course, believe in giving poisonous drugs for every kind of an ailment, such drugs changing from time to time, as enterprising German manufacturers get out new combinations of poisons, like new brands of cigars. It should be added, however, that there may be found among the "regulars" quite a sprinkling of intelligent men who have abandoned the drug superstition, either in whole or in part. Their ranks are constantly increasing as they find that the public is beginning to demand rational treatment, and will no longer obediently swallow any mysterious poison that is handed out by a man because he happens to have the right to place "M. D." after his name. The "regulars" are also beginning to "take a little stock in" hydropathy, and massage, and suggestion, and a few other natural means of aiding nature, that have been used by ignorant "laymen" for a century or more. Of course, they try to make out these things are "something different," and above all, that they must "only be taken by advice of a physician." Still, it is a good thing to see that they are beginning to get a little light.

The homeopaths give their drugs in such exceedingly minute doses that they might properly be classed among the non-druggers, and included among the suggestionists. It is said, however, that of late years they have begun to increase the quantity of their drugs. If so they are moving backward. Otherwise, if you insist on taking drugs of some kind, by all means try the homeopathic kind, for if they don't help you, they at least will do you very little harm.

The eclectics, of whom we don't hear much in this part of the country, believe—or are supposed to believe—in the giving of vegetable extracts. Many good people have an idea that if you don't take minerals into your system you are all right. As a fact, however, some of the deadliest poisons we know are of vegetable origin. The eclectics will hold their national convention in Los Angeles this year.

The osteopaths, as stated, have a separate board of their own. The osteopaths—like the chiropractics, who practice a somewhat more severe development of osteopathy—like many other pioneers in new fields, are apt to go somewhat too far, in attributing every possible ill political examining boards, in deciding so vital a question as 'Who shall be allowed to practice medicine in any place?'

"The only way to elevate the standard of service in any line is to enlighten the general public, that they may judge for themselves of the qualifications of those they employ."

In addition to the fight being made on the shutting out of "regulars" from other States, and the naturopathic bill, the osteopaths are at the capital asking for favors, including the right to obtain their fair share of corpses for dissection.

There has been incorporated in this bill a provision which enables any man, from anywhere, to take the practical examination from the osteopathic board of examiners, whether he holds a diploma from an osteopathic college or not, thus creating the "open shop" in medicine, as compared with the "closed shop" of the regulars. The liberal-minded osteopathic physicians who caused this clause to be inserted in their bill say they believe a man is entitled to a reasonable personal examination without having to show a diploma, which is rather doubtful evidence of a man's qualifications. As Burt Estes Howard says: "A diploma is an evidence of having been vaccinated with education, but it is no sign that it 'took.'"

Then there is, in an educational measure, a provision for the abolition of the compulsory vaccination law in California. This proposition has found a number of warm supporters, including the heads of the public schools in Los Angeles and San Diego. This bill was defeated in the Assembly on the 7th, but notice of reconsideration was given.

It may be seen, therefore, that the present session of the California Legislature is fraught with much interest to those who are interested in the care of the body, or in keeping people from caring for their bodies, as they see fit. Whatever the outcome of this fight may be, the fact remains that the people of this country have had their eyes at least partially opened, and will not much longer submit to the dictation of a medical trust. This is a bad year for trusts, "anyhow."

"Womens Suffers."

THE following communication comes from a woman correspondent, who is evidently only on bare speaking terms with the English language

"I am a Reader to the Los Angeles Times. I find some good suggestions on your article (care of the body) I am a Womens suffers for sie Headache. complicated with neuralgies since I was little girl. Some time I hade 2 or 3 spell in short laps of time. They are very painfull a take all strength I gave in the month. I suppose those headache have some time last to do to make my hair falling rapidly. I will be very much oblige if you will writte some time in the columns to the magazine care of the body to help me. I don't drink no tea, only one cup coffee morning and oblige

"I hade little spell catarrh in the nose fro cool. hade that sometine to do with my headache."

Unfortunately, there are very many who, like this correspondent are "womens suffers," from such causes. Even were it not for the rule that no personal advice is given in these columns, it would be impossible to advise intelligently in such a case without further knowledge of the errors that have produced these conditions. Speaking generally, so far as diet is concerned, the editor would advise the correspondent to avoid all greases, gravies, pastries, cakes and rich food, also coffee and sugar, to eat two meals a day, chewing thoroughly, and eating the food dry, and to eat freely of fresh fruit in season, and salads. This, combined with plenty of fresh air, will go a long way toward restoring health that has been injured by errors in diet.

The attention of correspondents is once more drawn to the statement at the head of this department: "The Times does not undertake to answer inquiries on hygienic subjects that are of merely personally interest, or to give advice on individual cases."

Come to California.

WHEN one reads the newspaper accounts of weather they have been "enjoying" east of the mountains, during the past few weeks, one can only wonder, not that so many are coming this way, but that any one who can manage to leave with a whole skin is willing to stay there. Come to California! There's plenty of room for "you'se."

Diet for Growing Boys.

A CORRESPONDENT asks what the editor would feed growing boys of 14 to 17 years of age. Just the same stuff as to grown boys, except that they need more of it, to allow for the growth, as well as for the expenditure of force, and waste of tissue.

Koch's Costly Blunder.

THE British royal commission on tuberculosis has just issued a report which sets forth that man is liable to infection by bovine tuberculosis and that cow's milk containing tubercular bacilli is responsible for a majority of the cases of such infection. The report is considered to be of the greatest importance as demonstrating conclusively that the theory of Prof. Robert Koch of Berlin, announced in 1900, was based upon insufficiently interpreted observation.

In view of the fact that, quite recently, Koch's statement was hailed throughout the medical world as a grand discovery, and Koch's tuberculin was sold and used in vast quantities—a preparation that is now admitted to have done much harm—may it not be just possible that some of the other now loudly vaunted scientific practices of the medical fraternity are based upon an equally flimsy foundation?

Of course, the editor, as a mere layman, would not dare to make such an assertion. If a few years ago he

The Cost of Living.

THIS prosperity, of which we read so much, is all very well, for those who share in it. There is, however, a large class of people to whom prosperity means privation, and sometimes absolute suffering. The class referred to includes those persons drawing fixed salaries, who find that the price of all necessities has risen during the past couple of years from 25 to 50 per cent., or even more, and that consequently their salaries are practically a third less than they were a few years ago. The mechanic has his wages raised and so keeps even, but the man with a fixed salary "gets it in the neck." You can't expect him to enthuse much over national prosperity.

For such people the question of the cost of food is an exceedingly important one. Fortunately, it happens that the most valuable foods are the cheapest. Notwithstanding that nuts and fruit, like everything else, have greatly increased in price, a fruitarian may maintain perfect physical and mental health and strength on a diet that costs not more than $1 a week, or $5 a week for a family of five. Thus it will be seen that the food question has its economic as well as its hygienic side.

* * *

Power of Suggestion.

AT last they seem to have found a way to stop the epidemic of disease that has been afflicting Chicago. The following dispatch from that city was recently published:

"To nearly a million Catholics in the Chicago diocese the power of St. Blas to ward off diseases of the throat will be this morning more apparent than ever before, for the observance of St. Blas Day, when thousands of Catholics thronged the churches to have the good saint's blessing evoked on their throats, was made notable by a decrease by over one-half of the new cases of contagious ills reported to the health department."

Perhaps you think this is false. Not at all. It is not only probable, but quite reasonable. It is another instance of the power of suggestion—of the mind over the body. By the prevailing unreasonable scare in Chicago, and the reading of hysterical articles in the papers, these people had been suggested into the idea that they were going to have scarlet fever, or diphtheria, or some other disease that was prevalent. Those among them who belong to the Catholic church, and believe in its doctrines, were then suggested in another direction, by receiving, as they believed, the blessing of a saint. Similar effects are constantly produced by other forms of suggestion such as fervent prayer, which is the suggestion of strong desire, "faith cure," carrying a potato in the pocket, wearing an iron ring, or the administration of a "placebo" by a doctor, who tells you that the sugar pill or colored water has great medicinal virtues. It is indeed, difficult to understand how any intelligent person can deny the immense power of the mind over the body, a power which all intelligent physicians begin to recognize. A few days ago a woman in an American city lay groaning and writhing in agony. She believed she had swallowed her false teeth, and was only relieved when they were dug out of an ash pan.

Cults and Cranks.

A CHICAGO dispatch quotes some "free love" votaries as saying there are more followers of the cult in Los Angeles than in any other part of the country. Sure! Los Angeles has more cults—and cranks—than any other city in the world, regardless of population. Show us anything we don't excel in.

Hoted Invalids.

A CORRESPONDENT, writing from the Hotel del Coronado, asks about a diet for patients suffering from "chronic interstitial nephritis, arterio-scelerosis, and unstable heart, with occasional pulmonary oedema."

The editor would say that a patient who has such a combination must be a—well, suppose we say "very acquisitive." Also, very patient

Maybe there is some connection between this combination and the big dining-room of the Coronado Hotel. For several years the editor lived at a hotel in Switzerland where the mid-day table d'hote lasted an hour and a half, and every man jack of the regular boarders was a dyspeptic. Try a fast, and then a simple, meatless two-meal dietary. As Abernethy said: "Live ou sixpence a day, and earn it." Remember, also, once more, that there is no dietetic specific for any particular disease any more than a drug specific. A rational diet is good for all ailments.

Smoke and Smelters.

ON a recent afternoon, when the editor rode downtown from the northwestern part of the city, he noticed an immense pall of black smoke hanging over the section north and northeast of the plaza. The pall, or cloud, was apparently half a mile long and half as wide. On approaching nearer it was seen to emanate from the tall chimney of the gas works, east of the plaza, which belched forth an immense mass of velvety black smoke, causing it to look like pictures of Vesuvius in eruption.

Of course, as Los Angeles grows in size, and becomes more and more of a manufacturing city, we must expect to have a certain amount of smoke, and noise, and dirt, but all these nuisances should be reduced to a minimum. There are smoke-consuming devices, which not only protect the public, but also save the smokers a large amount of fuel that is now wasted. When the Owens River enterprise is completed, giving us an abundance of cheap electrical power, we may, perhaps, be able to do away with smoky chimneys altogether. Before then, however, unless some check is imposed, Los Angeles is sure to look more like Pittsburgh than the pueblo as we have hitherto known it.

Another thing. There is renewed talk of establishing a smelter in or near Los Angeles. A correspondent of The Times recently suggested that it would be well to go slow with this enterprise. In Salt Lake there was long litigation, until the smelting plants were built far from human habitation. The correspondent says that nothing more deleterious to plant life can be thought of than a smelter. He points to Butte, Mont., a barren, bleak and dreary place, also to the forests about the smelter in Shasta county, where he says every tree and shrub for miles around is blighted.

On the other hand, it is claimed that smelter smoke is now disposed of through a system that removes the fumes. We should satisfy ourselves on this point.

Farcical Fasts.

HERE is one of the regulations issued by the good Bishop Conaty, of Los Angeles, in accordance with the rules of the Roman Catholic church, for the observance of the forty days' "fast" of Lent, beginning February 13:

"It is forbidden to use flesh meat and fish at the same meal during Lent, even on Sundays."

How many poor devils, even in this rich and prosperous country, would be glad to "fast" this way every blessed day of the year.

It wasn't thus that Jesus fasted for forty days and nights in the wilderness.

It reminds the editor of an old gentleman who traveled over a hundred miles to ask: "What shall I eat when I'm fasting?"

Cane Sugar a Menace to Health.

THE magazine "What to Eat," whose editor probably knows more about hotels than hygiene, published, in its February number, an article headed: "Taste for Sweets an Index of Wholesomeness." That depends. A craving for sweet fruits, containing grape sugar, is natural and wholesome. A craving for concentrated cane sugar is unnatural and harmful. In the article referred to, the editor of What to Eat says:

"Nothing could be said in greater praise of a people than that they have a taste for sweets. It shows a wholesome, vigorous, healthful condition—an appetite not jaded from excessive indulgence. The child whose appetite has not become polluted or calloused from false relishes, smarting sauces and burning drinks, and dissipation, loves sweets; so does the girl of bright eyes and untainted youth, as is evinced by her fondness for ice creams and desserts; the young athlete among men loves sweets, nearly as well as does the child."

The writer goes on to point to other countries, where they prefer things that are sour and bitter, and tells how much better we are off, adding:

"So let's rejoice in the fact that America and England eat twice the amount of sweets of any other nation in the world."

How about the fact that dyspepsia, which is comparatively rare in the countries referred to, is so common in America as to be the rule rather than the exception, and has been called the "national disease?" How about the fact that no other country in the world maintains so many dentists, per capita?

So far from rejoicing at the immense amount of cane sugar consumed in this country, the editor believes the fact should be sincerely deplored. He believes that the great consumption of cane sugar in various forms, is the unrecognized cause of a large proportion of the diseases that afflict the American people. In the case of many people, about all they need to do to recover their health is to abandon the use of cane sugar. This is specially true when the sugar is consumed with starch, or milk, causing easy fermentation, and acidity. Cane sugar does not produce sweetness, but acidity. Sub-acid fruits, on the other hand, have an alkaline reaction.

The editor sincerely believes that cane sugar does more harm to the people of this country than tea, coffee, beer and light wines combined.

Otto Carqué contributes to the "Care of the Body" the following interesting article on this subject:

"It should be borne in mind that the various forms of sugar, as we find them in their natural state in fruits, stems and roots, where they are organized by nature during the process of growth and intimately associated with other nourishing ingredients, are far better adapted for nutrition than the manufactured products of commerce which are chemically isolated food principles and never apt to fully supply the needs of the body.

"The reason for the injurious effects of manufactured sugar and glucose is that they are not complete foods. They are deficient in those organic salts which are necessary for the building up of the nerves, tissues and bones and neutralizing the acidity of the blood. Without the presence of the salts of sodium, calcium, magnesium and iron the process of digestion and assimilation is incomplete. No doubt the extensive use of artificial sweets in the various food products which are now found in the market, is responsible for a very large number of diseases, such as dyspepsia, diabetes, etc. This is but

In Ancient Syracuse.

GREAT MEMORIES CHALLENGED BY PRESENT FASCINATIONS.

From London Daily News.

YOU who still abide in an island of fog and cold, and debate uneasily concerning the House of Lords: I wish I could bring before you this beautiful and shining land, to confront all irrelevant things with the radiance of a southern shore.

The sun marches daily across a blue cloudless sky. The sea stretches beneath, of such hues and dyes as might adorn the chambers of Paradise. Syracuse stands under the great arch of heaven, with the Great and Little Harbors encompassing the little white town, and the land sloping gently away toward the hills.

These large and quiet spaces and all the crumbling walls are redolent of great memories. You are treading one of the sacred scenes of human affairs.

You may wander over these immense uplands, where extend splendid cities, whose names are like a song—Achradina, Neapolis, Tyche, Epipolae, Ortygia. You may endeavor to construct some picture of the white and golden Syracuse, which was once the wonder of the world. You may rest upon the white steps of the Greek Theater, cut in the hillside, looking out everlastingly over the great harbor and the quiet shores beyod. You may examine in the little museum the salvage of the dead centuries—marbles, broken statues, tombs, and coins and rings.

You may journey in a stout boat driven by three rowers up the Anapus, and through the great marshes along a stream bordered with high banks of feathery papyrus, till you find yourself suddenly in the deep, clear pool of the Fountain of Cyane, encircled by the solemn hills.

You may descend in the little garden of the Capuchins at San Giovanni from an entrance fragrant with purple stocks and climbing geranium into a vast city of the dead; catacombs which extend for unmeasured miles beneath the once populous town, adorned with palms and peacocks, and rude crosses; a labyrinth of tombs. You may see a city which here remains today enduring, while the city above them has crumbled into the barren limestone rock, now lonely and all silent under the wide sky.

Or you may turn in weariness from the oppression of the enormous past to the little sleepy port which still has the courage to call itself by the great name of Syracuse. You may move through its high, narrow streets, glancing in the caverns where the people live, with the chickens passing in and out the empty windows, and the large beds, and the women sewing in the doorways, and the little pictures of the Madonna in the corner, with the lamp burning before them. You may examine on the quay the loading of a vessel for England with tubs of oranges and sweet lemons, or the unloading of a great ship from New York, with the endless bags of grain which are destined to be converted into macaroni. You may watch the youth of Syracuse playing pitch-and-toss or ninepins in the open street; or, seated in the little piazza facing the Mediterranean, gather round you a little crowd of Sicilian schoolboys, shy and interested, who will read the Italian of your pocket Dante; and reveal, as everywhere outside the devastations of the casual tourist, the courtesy and charm of the children of Italy.

For here, as in all the south, the splendor of great memories is always challenged by the fascination of present things.

Here fell the Athenian empire. In these quiet waters, and along this level land between the mountains and the sea, was consummated one of the mournfullest tragedies of all time. Every item of that dolorous history can be traced today upon a land where nothing changes but the passing nations in their rise and fall.

Here is the great harbor, where the Athenian fleet was stationed, across whose entrance the Syracusians drew the great boom, and closed them in in like rats in a trap. Here on a remote autumn day was fought the great naval encounter which settled the fate of Greece; her hundred great ships grappling in its waters, while the armies from the opposite banks raised their cries of encouragement and alarm.

And here in that evening the empire of Athens had become a dream.

Beyond is the defile up which retreated the land forces of the invader. On the left is the little river into which they threw themselves, maddened with thirst. Here they surrendered, and the generals died.

And in the most piteous of all these historic places—here in the gardens of the Hotel Politi are the great Latomia—the quarries into which were flung the thousands of prisoners. In such plight the flower of the youth of Athens perished miserably, like wild beasts, of heat and pestilence, hunger, and cold; while the women of Syracuse from above mocked their sufferings.

The sadness of that calamitous story seems still to cling round these astonishing ruins, as the moonlight flood their dim depths, and throws great shadows into their recesses. The lament of the historian sounds suddenly near over the gulf of centuries: "And of all Greek events which occurred concerning the war, it turned out that this was the greatest and, as I think, of all Greek events which we know in story; both the most brilliant for those who conquered, and most disastrous for those who perished. For they were defeated at all points and altogether; they perished with an utter destruction. It was very few out of very many that got back home. Thus," concludes Thucydides, "was the Sicilian expedition."

Nature at Pompeii is Natura Maligna: warring against human things, suddenly and intolerably destroying populous cities in one ignoble calamity. Nature at Syracuse is Natura Benigna, softly removing all the evidence of the horrid work of man. The waters of the great harbor have washed away all traces of that bloody quarrel. The huge open prisons, sweetened with climbing plants, cactus and red pomegranate, with oranges growing in them "like golden lamps in a green night," are changed into a kind of fairy land. She has planted the stone pine and the olive in every crevice of these ruined places, and covered the desolate limestone hills with a carpet of bright flowers.

Today Achradina at sundown is all radiant with asphodel and pink campion and narcissus and the sweet-scented purple lilies. Below three brown-colored Capuchin friars are moving down the white road. A little girl in a blue frock is leading a white goat; and a procession over the hills, shepherd boys followed by a long line of goats and the little lambs and sheep, with their tinkling bells, is passing slowly homeward. Beyond is the blue line of sea, with Etna in the dim distance, as serene and indifferent today as yesterday, to the fret and fever of the little life of man.

C. F. G. MASTERMAN.

MARK'S UNSWEETENED 'PRENTICE DAYS.

We got but little variety in the way of food at that kitchen table, and there wasn't enough of it, anyway. So we apprentices [on the Hannibal Courier, owned by Mr. S.] used to keep alive by arts of our own—that is to say, we crept into the cellar nearly every night, by a private entrance, which we had discovered, and we robbed the cellar of potatoes and onions and such things, and carried them downtown to the printing office, where we slept on pallets on the floor, and cooked them at the stove and had very good times.

As I have indicated, Mr. S.'s economies were of a pretty close and rigid kind. By and by, when we apprentices were promoted from the basement to the ground floor and allowed to sit at the family table, along with the one journeyman, Harry H., the economies continued. Mrs. S. was a bride. She had attained to that distinction very recently, after waiting a good part of a lifetime for it, and she was the right woman in the right place, according to the economics of the place, for she did not trust the sugar bowl to us, but sweetened our coffee herself. That is, she went through the motions. She didn't really sweeten it. She seemed to put one heaping teaspoonful of brown sugar into each cup, but, according to Steve, that was a deceit. He said she dipped the spoon in the coffee first to make the sugar stick, and then scooped the sugar out of the bowl with the spoon upside down, so that the effect to the eye was a heaped-up spoon, whereas the sugar on it was nothing but a layer. This all seems perfectly true to me, and yet that thing would be so difficult to perform that I suppose it really didn't happen, but was one of Steve's lies.—[Mark Twain, in the North American Review.

QUEER ANGLING.

"The little carp over the mantel was caught with a mirror. My line had a mirror behind the bait. When a fish approached, his own reflection made him think that another fish was about to snatch the bait from him, and he bit greedily. That is the philosophy of the mirror method of angling, and undoubtedly, with a mirror, you can catch twice as many fish as without one. But the method is not sportsmanlike.

"The fine trout above the hole in the carpet I caught with a hammer. What? Yes, a hammer. That is the Georgia way. The Georgians fish with hammers. They wade up and down a stream, and whack with a stout sledge every big stone they pass. Then they turn over the stone, and find, as like as not, a stunned trout underneath."

"I wore a woolen mask when I caught that fish," said the angler, pointing to a mounted specimen above the sideboard, "and the thermometer registered 12 degrees below zero at the time. It was on Lake Michigan.

"On the lakes the summer fishing will aggregate 130,000,000 pounds a season. There's winter fishing, too, when men in wind masks sit over little holes in the thick ice and, at a polar temperature, watch their tie-ups. They don't catch much, but what they do catch they get 7 or 8 cents a pound for, and thus it is possible for these winter fishermen to earn $12 a day. I'd have earned $17 the day I went out, if I had sold my fish.

HIS BUSINESS.

The lady in black pointed toward the sky.

"My husband," she sighed, "is up there. But he is looking down. Perhaps he sees all that we do."

"How long has he been dead, ma'am?" we inquired gently.

With a frown she answered:

"Dead? He isn't dead. He's an aëronaut."
